Intoxicated manslaughter suspect had previous drink-driving ban

Killer's secret

DEVASTATING SCENE: At the accident site.

As the alcohol and drugs-fuelled driver who mowed down a group of cyclists in Oliva awaits her sentence it has emerged that she should not have been behind the wheel in the first place.

Mavi SC, 28, was handed a four-year ban for drink driving in 2013 and had not yet taken a 're-education' course, a legal requirement, meaning had she been stopped by police before the collision her car would have been impounded.

Happy 692nd birthday!

AN emotionally-charged evening to celebrate the day Benidorm came into existence took place in the Amphitheatre Oscar Espla, last Sunday.

The performance was a re-enactment of the signing of the Poblament Charter on May 8, 1325 when Benidorm received its city status from Admiral Bernat de Sarrià, granting privileges as a Christian municipality.

Pasqual Alimana, creator of the event 25 years ago, spoke to the audience about how The Carta de Poblament Group was set up to celebrate Benidorm's birthday each year on May 8.

Sound of silence for the summer

CALPE Town Hall has made changes to its noise-pollution laws to guarantee peace for residents and tourists during the high season.

The ordinance already regulates the use of heavy machinery during the summer season, however changes will prohibit all construction/building works throughout the municipality between August 1 and August 31.

After August, between September 1 and September 15, all construction/building works throughout the municipality, whether public or private, should be carried out between 9.00am and 2.00pm and again between 5.00pm and 8.00pm, allowing for afternoon siestas.

Works of public interest - required for reasons of necessity or safety - will be exempt from the regulations.

The ordinance provides clarification on the different activities causing noise-pollution as well as advice on how to minimise their effects.

The council appeals to all Calpe residents to familiarise themselves with the ordinance to allow the high season to pass with as little discomfort as possible.

Putrid pool filled in

THE city of Denia has completed its work to cure stagnant water in the most affected area of the beach of Marineta Cassiana, next to the southern breakwater.

The work done sees the area where the water was stagnant elevated in height after some 700 tonnes of sand were deposited.

The sand deposited in the Marineta Cassiana comes from the surplus accumulated in the port area, which had arrived from the Cagarritar beach during the storms.

The barrier erected on the beach throughout the winter to curb the regression of the coast helped to retain sand in the area, however the storms of December last year and January this year caused the submerged sand bar to emerge, occluding sand-algae which, due to lack of oxygen, caused bad odours and gas.

SPANISH FACTS OF LIFE... 12

SPAIN SO CHEESY! Spaniards love their local cheeses as much as their nationally produced wines, with a Denomination of Origin upholding quality nationwide of some leading brands.

Cheesy cheer

AROUND 100 different varieties of cheese are produced in various regions of Spain ranging from fresh to cured and some fermented to blue.

The key characteristic of each is the type of milk used with currently 13 cheeses with Denominations of Origin - or DO - across the country.

Dependent on the area, time of year, climate and tradition, cheese is produced with milk from cows, goats or sheep, and some products include a mixture.

Each cheese also differs due to varying ageing or curing production processes, with these frequently decades old and identifying with local history and tradition.

Flavours normally fall within three

LOCAL CHEESES:
Produced from cows, goats or sheep.

categories: light, medium or strong, with the latter typically produced with a long curing process and from sheep's milk or a blend.

The Spanish frequently eat cheese daily, and as a general rule, cheese from cows' milk comes from the north in inland areas from Cantabria and the Basque Country to Castilla-Leon, Castilla La Mancha, Aragon and Extremadura.

The Mediterranean coast from Catalonia to Andalusia is mainly famed locally for goats-milk cheese, while the Canary and Balearic Islands are largely known for goats' cheese.

Majestic Manchego

MANCHEGO is the most famous Spanish cheese, wholly made from the ewe's milk of the Manchega breed of sheep. It is firm and aged from two months to two years.

Protected under the DO classification schemes of both Spain as well as the European Union, it is named after the La Mancha Province where it is produced and which was the home of Don Quixote.

Mild with a taste of salty nuts, it was originally produced to barter at market and to provide a durable food for Spanish shepherds.

that she ignored a stop sign.

The 17-year-old girl, who suffered a broken leg and collarbone, is recovering in hospital.

"But it looks to me as though the police were at fault," the woman told local media.

She added that the two officers in the patrol car appeared to be 'distracted' when the accident occurred. The mother claimed that the person in the passenger seat was using a mobile at the time and the driver was watching some youths through the window.

Grassy knoll

A DUTCH resident was arrested in Orcheta after police found 15 kilos of marijuana and 176 plants at his home.

The garage, 'built like a bunker' according to police, was used as a greenhouse equipped with thermostats, ventilation, heating and an irrigation system.

Most of the dried leaves were already packaged and police also found plants growing in three of the villa's rooms.

As well as drugs charges, the arrested man is also accused of defrauding Iberdrola by consuming €29,000 worth of electricity via an illegal connection to the public grid.

Baby abused

A COUPLE has been sentenced to five and a half years in prison for abusing their three-month old baby.

The parents would 'habitually mistreat' their child and broke several bones on numerous occasions.

The Torrellano couple have been prohibited from seeing or communicating with their child for seven and a half years and have been ordered to pay €2,670 in compensation.

DIY roadpainter tracked down

POLICE have identified the Aspe resident who painted a zebra crossing on a busy road after an accident involving a child.

A 10-year-old was left with a broken arm and leg after he was run over on leaving the local football stadium, crossing the road at a point with inadequate pavements and poor visibility.

The pedestrian crossing appeared the following morning and was used for some days by locals who were unaware that it was not genuine.

Despite its apparent usefulness, the improvised crossing could endanger those using it, the Local Police explained, as there were no signs warning drivers of its presence. It has now been removed although bollards have been placed in front of the stadium exit.

This was a provisional measure and there are plans to install a pedestrian crossing and improve pavements in the area adjoining the football stadium.

Bitter pill to swallow

CATALONIA has introduced a controversial sugar tax on a range of soft drinks including some of the world's most famous brands.

Already tagged a 'soda tax,' it could raise as much as €41 million a year for the regional government's coffers, despite an insistence the aim was to improve public health by reducing sugar consumption according to World Health Organisation recommendations.

The tax hike depends on the amount of sugar in a drink, and customers will have to pay more for products like energy drinks, fruit juices made from concentrate, chocolate drinks, sports, and cold tea and coffee drinks.

The central government has previously looked to introduce such a levy nationwide – it is already policy in France and Denmark – but has always backtracked.

USA, USA, USA

MANY students aim to work abroad after finishing studying, and 70 per cent of those graduates look to the USA.

A study by a prestigious Barcelona university found more than half preferred to work overseas, with just 46.6 per cent wanting to find a job in Spain.

From a poll of 500 it was discovered only 8.56 per cent wanted to work in Britain and 6.6 per cent in Germany.

Donkey work

VANDALS poured yellow paint onto a donkey's back and released it from its enclosure, with its young, in La Pereda de Llanes, in Spain's Asturias region.

They sneaked into the enclosure and poured several litres of plastic paint on the back of four-year-old donkey, Marina, before destroying the enclosure allowing the animal and its two offspring,

Postcard from Merida

The Temple of Diana. |

A UNESCO World Heritage Site since 1993, Merida is renowned for its Roman architecture and was built as a stylised provincial capital of Rome, centre of an empire.

Founded in 25BC, with the name Emerita Augusta, it has some of the most well-preserved archaeological remains in Spain and was once the most important city in Roman Iberia.

The city was founded by the Emperor Augustus and his discharged soldiers were employed to protect a pass and bridge over the river Guadiana; the Puente Romana is still used by pedestrians and is the longest of all existing Roman bridges.

Merida remains the capital of Extremadura. Historically its strategic importance was one end of the Silver Way – the Via de la Plata – the route between the gold mines of Asturica Augusta and Rome.

Visitors can explore Roman reservoirs still in use, the aqueduct, the Circus Maximus – one of the best examples in the world – and villas with precious mosaics. The Forum includes the Temple of Diana and the theatre is still used to stage Greco-Roman classics or modern plays set in ancient times.

After the Romans, Merida was important to the Visigoths and by the sixth Century was dominated by bishops as the capital of Hispania and the occupation of the Moors meant the ancient buildings were re-used or expanded but maintained their splendour.

Guía and Guadalupe, to wander free.

The donkeys' owner was alerted by neighbours of what had happened and searched the area until he located the animals. The crime was reported at the offices of the Guardia Civil who are investigating.

Buds of May

THOUSANDS of people arrived in Madrid's historic Puerta del Sol square on May Day to attend a rally against corruption.

The demonstration vented its anger against the ruling Partido Popular; after the PP found itself embroiled in a new bribery scandal involving a former regional president of Madrid.

Following a series of accusations against political parties, unions, and companies, corruption has become a main concern for Spaniards after the country's ongoing unemployment woes.

Free Press

WORLD Press Freedom Day has prompted calls for journalists in Spain to be free of the 'pressures and threats' of political parties.

The Madrid Press Association accuses politicians of trying to undermine the work of the press and calls for the right of the media to comment on events without being bullied.

It has also demanded the repeal of the so-called 'gag law' to allow free speech to be protected to the same standards as under international law.

Crowning glory

A NEW book is attempting to restore the tarnished reputation of King Carlos I following the 'errors' leading to his abdication in 2014.

King of Democracy looks at how during his reign the royal was not a mere spectator but helped bring Spain democracy and economic prosperity.

Two killed in road accident

Three Guardia Civil roadside tests were being carried out in the area on Sunday morning but she avoided all of them before ploughing into the riders, instantly killing Eduardo Monfort Gasent, 28, and 50-year-old Luis Alberto Contreras.

Andres Contreras, the son of Luis Alberto, Scotsman Scott Gordon and Jose Antonio Albi, were also seriously injured and remain fighting for their lives in hospital.

The accident occurred at kilometre 206 of the N-332 between Oliva and Denia, and the six cyclists were all from the Llebeig de Javea Athletics Club.

A helicopter was dispatched and it is believed one of the men had to be revived at the scene after going into cardiac arrest before being airlifted to hospital.

The driver was arrested at the scene after testing four times over the legal alcohol limit, and it was later confirmed that she had also taken cocaine.

She faces two counts of involuntary manslaughter, along with three of injury, and remains in custody pending conclusion of the trial.

In a statement to the press, former Llebeig de Javea Athletics Club president Julio Almazan said the driver was on the wrong side of the road when she careered into the cyclists.

He said: "We're all still in a state of shock. I've been told the driver hit the members of our club head-on after crossing into their lane, and she tested positive for cocaine as well as failing a drink-drive test."

The only member of the group who escaped serious injury is Jaime Escortell, the current club president.

Spring break for Imogen

FORMER Big Brother star Imogen Thomas has been soaking up the Spanish sunshine this week.

The 34-year-old paraded a series of skimpy bikinis from her own Chasing Summer range, posting a series of saucy shots on Instagram before hitting the beach.

The mother-of-two was pictured with youngest daughter Siera as she made a splash in front of the waiting paparazzi.

Having debuted a tiny yellow bikini, she followed it up with equally miniscule blue and teal numbers, also rocking a one-piece before slipping into a revealing sarong.

The curvaceous reality star was crowned Miss Wales in 2003 before shooting to fame as a Big Brother contestant in 2006, but is now making waves as a swimwear designer.

COUNCILS across the Valencia region have expressed concerns that damages caused during the winter storms have increased the risk of wildfires spreading quickly, with fallen trees and branches littering certain areas.

The regional council has said that it expects the clean-up operation to take at least two years, despite earlier promises that thousands of hectares would be cleared before the summer.

Hotspur's hot stuff

TOTTENHAM stars Dele Alli, Kieran Trippier and Michael Vorm were spotted soaking up the Spanish sun as they hit party island Ibiza this week.

England heart-throb Alli,

21, was snapped frolicking in the waves with his lingerie model girlfriend Ruby Mae, 22, who caught the eye in a microscopic Calvin Klein bikini as her other half exposed his toned physique.

The players jetted out of London just hours after losing a crucial Premier League match to West Ham, which appears to have all but ended Spurs' chances of the title this year.

But this appeared far from their minds as they tucked into sushi and cool drinks while chilling on their loungers.

Prince Philip retires

TO some a bit like marmite, love him or hate him, the often controversial Duke of Edinburgh has decided to take retirement from Royal Duties.

There was a huge flurry of interest in the Royal Household when an almost unheard of call for all members of staff to attend a special meeting which included video conferences was announced.

In the end it was simply to confirm that shortly after his 96th birthday, Prince Philip, would retire from public functions and his diary would be cleared with effect from August 2017.

Recently, a number of duties previously undertaken by the Queen who is now 91 were handed over to the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge and after 65 years of service, that Queen Elizabeth and her Consort want to scale down their activities.

This doesn't mean that we have seen the last of the sometimes amusing, sometimes grumpy and sometimes embarrassing Prince but he will simply turn up to events and functions that take his fancy rather than make advance commitments to attend.

When you are married to one of the richest women in the world, you can be fairly certain that medical support will be of the highest quality but at 96, time is not on his side and he wants a bit of a rest.

Now we want to hear your views.

Will Eurovision Brit face Brexit backlash?

THE 62nd edition of the world's longest running annual singing contest will take place this Saturday in Kiev, Ukraine, but Britain's entry is not the bookies' favourite.

Ahead of the spectacle, bookmakers Ladbrokes have reported that the UK are looking fairly friendless, with the odds on them taking home the title being bigger than ever before at 50/1.

The bookmakers have even taken several bets on UK entrant Lucie Jones receiving nil points at odds of 14/1.

Nicola McGeady of Ladbrokes told TellyMix: "Punters are preparing for a Brexit backlash from voters judging by the lack of support coming in for Lucie Jones. Usually we are knocked over with patriotic support, but for the first time ever, punters aren't getting behind the UK."

BBC Eurovision host Graham Norton previously admitted he didn't rate Lucie's chances at Eurovision 2017.

He told the Daily Star newspaper: "I'm just not sure it will happen for us this year. I mean, I could be wrong as Germany have won, Austria have won. So, I suppose people who never win, win."

"On the night, anything can happen. I'm just not sure it will for us, though."

Celebrities across Europe are preparing for the showdown.

Enrique Iglesias has shirked Spain in favour of Montenegro's Slavko Kalezic.

Enrique is no stranger to Eurovision. His dad Julio Iglesias represented Spain in 1970 but only finished in fourth place, and Enrique himself was the interval act at the first Eurovision Dance Contest.

Meanwhile, Russia's 2009

winner Dima Bilan is backing 17-year-old Bulgarian superstar Kristian Kostov. He mentored Kristian on the children's version of The Voice Russia and the pair performed an incredible duet together.

Hope may not be lost for Lucie Jones as former One Direction singer Liam Payne cheers her on. Liam's girlfriend Cheryl was Lucie's mentor on The X Factor in 2009 and they're getting behind the UK's Eurovision entrant.

Eurovision 2017 will air on Saturday on BBC One from 8pm.

Prank wasn't desecration

A 16-YEAR-OLD girl was responsible for inverting crosses in Santa Faz monastery and defacing the urn containing its venerated relic.

Her handiwork was discovered when the locked doors to the church were opened, ready for the morning service. Seven of the small crosses marking the Stations of the Cross had been inverted and 666 was scratched into the armoured glass protecting the relic.

A prayer book was missing as well as a diary listing services although neither are of value, diocesan sources revealed.

Footage from CCTV cameras confirmed that the perpetrator remained in the church overnight, as a young woman was seen entering shortly before the doors were shut. Once inside she turned the security cameras to the wall and slipped out unnoticed the following morning when the doors were unlocked.

Police soon traced the girl who had also sent the chaplain a text message in the early hours of the morning, telling him: 'Satan is doing something inside the church.'

The case was referred to the Juvenile Public Prosecution Service and the girl could be charged with committing an offence against religious beliefs.

According to tradition the scrap of linen guarded inside a bulletproof urn was part of the cloth used by St Veronica to wipe Christ's face. And as they have done for the last 536 years, thousands of Alicantinos and visitors recently walked the eight-kilometres between the city and monastery on the second Thursday after Easter.

RALLYING ROUND: The mayors requested that the EMAUS debt be written off.

Official support for EMAUS Association

THE mayors of Benissa, Alfaz del Pi, Altea, Polop, Rellou and Vergel met with the Ministry of Employment and Social Security last Thursday to request that the debt owed by the EMAUS Association is written off.

The EMAUS Association is a non-profit association that currently serves over 100 children under the protection of the Generalitat Valenciana, women victims of gender violence and people with functional diversity. In addition, the Emaus Association also manages a senior centre which houses over 70 elderly residents.

As previously reported in the Euro Weekly News, it has however amassed millions of euros of debt and may be forced to close.

The mayors signed a petition addressed to the Minister, Fatima Banez and attended the rally held by EMAUS employees later that day.

LAST winter's storms played havoc with Alicante Province's secondary roads, which afterwards required extensive repairs.

These are the responsibility of either the Alicante Province Diputacion, which fulfils functions similar to a county council, or the regional government. Both bodies are currently repairing roads in the triangle formed by the inland mountain towns of Planes, Beni-

Storm damage still disrupting roads arres and Benimarfull.

Emergency work was carried out immediately after the storms, clearing away the fallen trees, rocks and boulders that were blocking the roads. All had sections affected by landslips and subsidence caused by high winds, torrential rain and blizzards in December and January.

For months the roads have had only one usable lane open to traffic, producing considerable inconvenience by obliging residents and visitors to make lengthy detours.

Now that extensive repairs are underway they are bringing even greater chaos for the heavy lorries and agricultural vehicles using the roads during the cherry campaign.

Most affected at present is the road between Muro and Pego but specifically the section between Planes and Benimarfull where a landslip destroyed half of the road. This must now be shored up by a retaining wall which has entailed closing the entire road during construction.

Dog-owner hits back at accuser

THE Teulada-Moraira resident who allegedly maltreated his dogs retaliated by lodging a formal complaint against his accuser.

The Pluto animal protection society recently reported him to the Guardia Civil, Teulada-Moraira Town Hall and a Denia court for keeping his dogs 'imprisoned' in kennels and cages in filthy conditions.

The dogs' owner, who has now accused Pluto of breaking and entering, supplied the name of the association's spokeswoman who allegedly entered his property and freed two dogs.

The photos she presented to the Guardia Civil could only have been taken from the inside and this was done without his consent, the owner said. He also pointed out that the house and its land are surrounded by a 1.5-metre wall that has two gates, one that closes with a metal barrier and another that is padlocked.

EXTENSION: Intended to create a larger protection area for posidonia.

Plenty of fish in sea

CAMPELLO and Villajoyosa are progressing with their joint plans for extending Campello's existing marine reserve as far as La Vila.

Mayors and councillors from both towns as well as representatives from their fishing guilds met for the second time in Villajoyosa to discuss creating a Fishing Marine Reserve. The initiative is also backed by the Institute of Coastal Ecology.

Extending the reserve is intended to create a larger protection area for the underwater meadows of posidonia or Neptune grass that support the Mediterranean's marine diversity.

This in turn would guarantee a sustainable future for the fishing industry in Campello and Villajoyosa while protecting the environment and providing another tourism asset. Catches should increase in quantity and quality with the presence of larger fish and species like grouper.

Fishing would be barred in some zones but allowed in others during specified times of the year, using only traditional driftnets.

By encouraging the presence of more fish, catches in zones immediately adjoining the protected area would also increase, the Campello representatives pointed out.

The next step involves hearing the opinions of Villajoyosa's fishing sector and learning whether or not it wishes to go ahead.

In the pink

THE beautiful Mirador in Benidorm Pueblo Antigo will be rose coloured again at the end of the month for the annual Pink Weekend.

The event was set up by the city's gay, lesbian and transgender community to fill the long gap between the highly successful Gay Pride weeks each year.

Last year's Pink Weekend proved hugely popular with local residents and tourists alike, some of whom planned their holidays around the dates.

ROXIE CORAZON:
One of the presenters at Pink Weekend.

The three nights of entertainment take place on the viewpoint separating the Levante and Poniente beaches of the town, with many local artists, tribute acts, drag queens and DJs performing on stage.

Those attending the festival are encouraged to wear pink outfits as outrageous as they like.

Pink Weekend takes place from Thursday May 25 to Saturday 27, with full details available from their Facebook page www.facebook.com/benidorm-pink-weekend.

THE ACTORS from the Diocese of Orihuela & Alicante performing Ama2 Hasta la Eternidad.

Boy meets girl musical

A MUSICAL performance of 'Ama2 Hasta la Eternidad,' a love story focusing on two star-crossed youngsters, who meet and fall in love, will take place in Benidorm on Saturday May 13.

The musical, organised by the Diocese of Orihuela-Alicante in collaboration with Benidorm Department of Social Welfare and Caritas, will be held in the Julio Inglesias Auditorio in Parc L'Aguiera at 9.30pm.

The usual tribulations of a boy meets girl relationship come to life in song during the show, running parallel to the experience of a young martyr from Alicante, Blessed Francesc Castelló, who helps the couple seal their love, following the breakdown of his own affair.

The cast of the musical includes over 60 young people from throughout the diocese of Orihuela-Alicante.

Fr Jesus Rosillo, spokesman for the Diocese, speaking to Spanish media said: "I want to extend huge thanks to everyone who made this concert possible."

He confirmed proceeds from ticket sales will go towards 'social work' within the Alicante region.

Tickets, costing €10.00 can be purchased from tourist offices and sales booths across the city, including the ticket office in Plaza Triangular.

BARRANCO DEL INFIERNO: Inhospitable but a draw for hikers

AN Alicante Fire Consortium helicopter rescued a 33-year-old from Alfaz who was injured while hiking in the Barranco del Infierno.

He slipped and fell while on the path that leads from Felix to the notorious Hell's Ravine with his girlfriend, sources revealed afterwards.

Suspecting that he had broken his leg in two places, the couple contacted the 112 emergency services number who mobilised the Fire Consortium helicopter.

Given the severity of the Alfasino's injury, a paramedic was included in the crew along with three mountain rescue experts.

Once the climber was sedated and the leg stabilised, he was winched up to the helicopter in a stretcher and flown to the Denia fire station where he was transferred to an ambulance and driven to the local hospital.

Consortium sources said later that the Alfaz resident had left the path to get a closer view of a dried-up cascade and had probably slipped on the mossy stones there.

REINTRODUCED: There is a thriving colony of vultures on Mariola.

Vultures won't go hungry

ALCOY City Hall is now feeding the colony of vultures on Sierra Mariola.

In the past Fapas-Alcoy supplied carrion for the birds but said recently that it could no longer do so, having failed to reach an agreement with city hall. The local association is a branch of a non-profit making organisation based in the north of Spain that protects vultures and wild animals.

Fapas is responsible for Projecte Canyet, the programme that reintroduced vultures in the area at the end of the 90's. "Thanks to this project there are now more than 100 fully-established birds. The results have been very positive," a spokesman said.

"Unfortunately Fapas is in a difficult situation owing to a lack of material and human resources," he added. "Much to our regret we shall stop taking food up to the colony in the Sant Cristofol quarries."

Unless the Administrations stepped in and adopted the necessary measures, this could impact negatively on the vultures and endanger their medium term future, Fapas warned.

In reponse, Jordi Martinez, Alcoy's Culture councillor, said that a town hall employee had been leaving offal and dead animals on Mariola for some time now and was responsible for the area's upkeep.

City hall was working to ensure that the project continued both with the daily work involved, subsidies and other activities. "And we shall continue working," Martinez emphasised.

Changes to the UK domicile regime and other reforms have unexpectedly been put on hold in the lead up to the snap General Election in June. The UK government removed these clauses from the 2017 Finance Bill on 25th April – 19 days after they were scheduled to start.

The key clauses affecting British expatriates in Spain that have been removed include:

Deemed domicile rules for inheritance tax, income tax and capital gains tax – This includes the 15 out of 20 years deemed domicile rule as well as the formerly resident domicile rule. The 17 out of 20 years in the UK rule remains in place for now.

Protection of overseas trusts – Affecting those with a UK domicile of origin who returned to the UK after acquiring a domicile of choice elsewhere and settling a trust, the trust would no longer be excluded property while the settlor is resident in the UK, and so would become liable to inheritance tax. Since this is on hold, such trusts remain excluded property for now.

Various UK reforms on hold, including domicile changes

By Brett Hanson, Partner,
Blevins Franks

April 2018, this is now on hold.

Money Purchase Annual Allowance – The amount that people who are already drawing their pension can put back into their pension tax free was due to be cut from £10,000 to £4,000.

£1,500 pension advice allowance – The ability to withdraw up to £1,500 from a pension fund tax free to pay for advice will now not be applied.

What happens next?

A new government could either keep the changes and implement them in a future finance bill, or revise or scrap some of the reforms. The next finance bill should be issued later this fiscal year, especially bearing in mind some of the clauses were supposed to have taken effect from 6th April 2017, or in 2018 or beyond.

The Financial Secretary stated that, if re-elected, the government will legislate at the earliest opportunity for the dropped reforms, but did not confirm a timetable.

QROPS transfer charge goes ahead

One reform to survive the cull was the surprise new 25% levy on transferring UK pension funds to Qualifying Recognised Overseas Pension Scheme (QROPS), announced in the spring budget. This tax remains in place.

It only applies to transfers taking place from 9th March 2017 onwards. And you escape liability if both you and your QROPS are in the European Economic Area (including Gibraltar for this purpose) or you are both in the same country. So if you live in Spain and are transferring to a QROPS in say, Malta or Gibraltar, you are not affected.

Liability lingers for five years for transfers from 9th March 2017, so if you relocate outside the EEA during that time you risk taxation.

If you were going to be affected by any of these reforms, particularly the domicile ones, keep in touch with your wealth management adviser to remain up to date. Domicile is a complex enough issue, without the uncertainty caused by putting the reforms on hold. Getting domicile planning wrong could easily result in larger tax bills, so specialist advice is essential.

Tax rates, scope and reliefs may change. Any statements concerning taxation are based upon our understanding of current taxation laws and practices which are subject to change. Tax information has been summarised; an individual is advised to seek personalised advice.

Keep up to date on the financial issues that may affect you on the Blevins Franks news page at www.blevinsfranks.com.

“Could Brexit affect pension transfers out of the UK?
Should I take action now?”

Talk to the people who know.

The UK has already begun to tax transfers to QROPS. There are exclusions, such as where the individual and QROPS are in the European Economic Area, but who knows what will happen once the UK has left the EU? If you are considering moving your pension overseas, it may be better to do so now, under known rules, than wait and see what happens. Blevins Franks specialise in cross-border wealth management and can provide personalised, regulated advice on all your pension options, including QROPS.

Meet mum and dad

MEET AND GREET: Host families shared their experiences.

HOST families for Spanish youngsters arriving on the Costa Blanca this summer to learn English met up on Sunday to share experiences.

A paella lunch was organised by Inglaterra En Casa in Jalon to enable new families to meet older hands and get an idea how to become the 'parents' for between 70 and 90 children during a summer school.

Organiser Debra Miller said the summer school was based at the Manuel Bru Primary School with host families looking after the students from Oliva to Villajoyosa.

"We need 35 to 40 families every summer; thanks to Brexit it's quite a challenge because so many people have gone home or people are working and it's quite difficult to host and work," she said.

The students are aged from seven and eight to 18, the majority aged from 10 to 14 and they stay 12 or 26 nights.

"They speak English all the time; it becomes a little bit of England in the sunshine and it's absolutely wonderful if you don't speak any Spanish."

Debra remains on call round the clock during the summer school to deal with any emergency but she added most of the hosts and their young charges enjoyed the experience without any problems.

POSTBOX: Somewhere to leave a message.

THE Visitors' Book and the postbox where it is kept are back on Ponoig.

La Nucia's Scout Troop recently repaired and restored the box that had been dented and damaged by vandals. Now climbers and hikers who reach the top of one of the Marina Baja's most emblematic mountains can once again sign the Llibre del Ponoig.

The 1,180-metre mountain has never had an official geodesic marker at its highest point although back in the 90's the Centro Excursionista de Alicante set up a copper marker there.

They also left a book with blank pages so that climbers who reached the top could record the feat and leave a written comment.

In 2008 the Scouts found the book, wrapped in a plastic bag and stored inside a battered biscuit tin. Later that year the book was stolen so the troop replaced it, putting it inside a metal postbox to keep it safe. Since then they have climbed Ponoig each year to replace the book which disappears regularly.

The scouts also make sure that the postbox is in good condition and can protect the book from the wind, rain and snow that pound Ponoig each winter.

WHAT DO PENSION FREEDOMS REALLY MEAN FOR EXPATS LIVING IN SPAIN?

By Sam Kelly, Managing Partner, Chorus Financial.

In 2006, the UK introduced pensions legislation that has allowed 100,000s of Expats to take control of their pension funds, gain earlier access, consolidate multiple pensions into a single scheme and substantially increase inheritance for their spouse or children.

Jane, an example client, is 53, lives in Spain with her husband and has 2 adult children in the UK. She built up benefits in a Final Salary Pension Scheme. Her scheme Normal Retirement Date is 65, and her annual pension will be £8,500 per year on her 65th birthday. If Jane were to pass away, her husband would be entitled to a 50% spouse's pension with nothing going to her children.

Pension Freedoms allow Jane to leave her existing scheme and transfer to an HMRC recognised pension. Before March 9th 2017, we may have recommended an overseas scheme called a QROPS, but following the UK Spring budget, it is now more likely that we would recommend a UK based, FCA regulated pension plan called a SIPP. If you have specific questions as to why this advice has recently changed you can contact me directly.

Having sent in an enquiry through Chorus, Jane has now been offered a transfer value of £238,000 to leave her Final Salary Pension. Jane can access this £238,000 flexibly from her 55th birthday rather than waiting to 65 and can leave her husband and children the full pot of money, rather than a small spouse's pension and nothing for her children.

Chorus Financial offer pension solutions from some of the biggest financial institutions in The World including FTSE 100 companies like Old Mutual and The Prudential, with the option to have a UK based, FCA regulated pension.

To discover what options are available to you, contact me today for a free, no obligation, Pension Review, by calling 664 398 702 or emailing s.kelly@chorusfinancial.es.

SOME 300 of the 500 publicly-owned Valencian Community properties occupied by squatters are located within Alicante Province.

To help solve this problem and allow families to rent these properties and occupy them legally, the Generalitat's Infrastructure Organisation (EIGE) began a round of talks for mayors and town hall officials from Alicante Province municipalities.

The talks set out to explain the procedures

Generalitat takes stance on squats and conditions for regularising apartments and homes illegally occupied before 2015.

They also detail the steps that families should take to legalise their own situation, always taking into account that having rights also entailed assuming responsibilities.

The first EIGE talk was held recently in Torrevieja and others will follow in towns and cities along the coast and inland.

After taking over in 2015, the regional government found that its predecessors' lack of housing policies had prompted a rise in squatters, explained EIGE director general Helena Beunza.

Cooperation and direct participation from the town halls were indispensable, she added, as they had first-hand knowledge of the realities and circumstances of their local population.

The talks are "fundamental" to the regional government's commitment to managing social housing, Beunza stressed.

"Informing, clarifying, clearing up doubts and delivering efficient guidelines will allow us both to fulfil our obligations and comply with the law," she said.

One way to catch a tiger mosquito

SAN JUAN Town Hall has a secret weapon to combat tiger mosquitoes.

The Environment department is encouraging house martins to colonise the town by installing 30 nesting boxes in public buildings throughout the town.

House martins eat up to 1,000 insects a day and by protecting and encouraging them, the town hall hopes they can help to control mosquitoes and particularly the tiger mosquitoes that plague the town.

The nesting boxes continue the initiative that the Environment department started last year by installing drip irrigation in some areas to produce muddy patches that would encourage the birds to build nests nearby.

The project continues this year in Rajoletes, Lo Romero, Belucha, the Courthouses, Lo Pagan park and beneath the Miguel Hernandez walkway.

The town hall has also launched an awareness campaign, warning that house martins' nests are protected and should not be destroyed.

There will also be talks at local schools which will explain to pupils the birds' special features and the need to preserve the town's wildlife.

Dogs had their day

BARC, the Busot Animal Rescue Concern recently held its annual fundraising Wet Nose Day.

The event in Busot's Parque de los Patos centred on a Fun Dog Show and first Adoption Fair. Everyone attending, including over 100 well-behaved dogs, had a great time, they agreed afterwards.

Eleven local dog and cat rescue organisations were invited to attend and a special Adoption Parade showcased dogs up for adoption.

The Fun Dog Show held 15 classes in all, highlighting Vera who won the Best Rescue Dog section.

When Vera was found she had a deformed leg due to abuse and was unable to walk properly. Rescued, rehabilitated and rehomed by BARC supporters, she can now walk albeit with extensive coaching from her new family.

There were attractions for the whole family, including a bouncy castle, face-painting, a bar, barbecue and market place.

Horse and pony rides were available from EQUI-TACC, the horse and pony rescue and therapy foundation that is also based in Busot. A record number of over 400 attended but having made it a free family day, there were fears that the money raised would fall short of expectations. At the time of writing this had reached €1,000 and still counting.

Organiser John Mead said that contacts with other rescue organisations were made and strengthened and that four of 10 potential adoptions were BARC dogs.

COSTABLANCA LAWYERS · CONVEYANCING · TAX ADVISORS

IT WILL COME AS NO SURPRISE THAT IN SPAIN, LIKE ANYWHERE ELSE IN THE WORLD WE ARE OBLIGED TO PAY TAXES... HOWEVER WHAT TAXES NEED TO BE PAID, BY WHOM, AND WHEN?

RESIDENTS and the tax return

If you are resident in Spain for 183 days or more, you are considered a Spanish Tax resident. As such, you are required to submit an annual Spanish resident tax return know as a “Declaración de la Renta” as long as you comply with certain levels of income. The cut-off point is 11,200€ which applies to income from employment and pensions as long as have not been monthly taxed in Spain (including those from overseas). In any case a return becomes obligatory in certain circumstances however low your earnings.

- If you have a claim for double taxation.
- If you are due a refund.
- If you have made pension contributions.
- If you are claiming deductions for cost of buying your main residence.
- If you have capital gains or income above certain limits.

Remember that it may be in your interest to make a tax return when your earnings are low, for example if you have worked for only part of the year and may therefore be due a rebate. Also there are advantages of being fiscally resident in Spain specially when applying the Inheritance Taxes.

When is it due? NOW until the 30th of June 2017 (for the year 2016)

NON RESIDENTS income tax liability

Non-residents are liable for tax on any income arising in Spain, such as a money deposit with a Spanish bank, a property in Spain, or income derived of any business in Spain. Should you fail to pay this tax, you will be charged and penalised by the Spanish Tax Agency if you try to sell your property.

When is it due? NOW until 31st December 2017 (for the year 2016)

We would like to offer you, as a client of Pellicer & Heredia, a consultation on the subject of taxes in Spain, ensuring that you have your tax affairs in order. Please contact us on 965 480 737 or email info@pellicerheredia.com so we can help you.

New success: Bank P and C Bank asked to pay back money lost by our client, on her purchase at Valle de Calpe (from Gardema)

THE Appeal Court of Alicante (Section 8), in its judgement 222/17, of April 11, 2017, asked that Bank P and C Bank pay back money lost by Mrs G, client of our firm, in her purchase of an off-plan property in the urbanisation, Valle de Calpe, developed by Gardema Developments SL, which was never handed over to her.

In today's article, we want to reiterate to everyone who bought an off-plan property in Spain and have never received it, either because it was never finished, or had disappeared or was in an insolvency process; that it is possible to claim for the return of the deposit and money lost, from the developer.

The developer received the money in their bank account but had failed to make sure that the money and deposits were paid and secured by means of a bank guarantee or insurance policy, as required by law 57/68 and the LOE.

Also, it is possible to claim against the bank or insurance company who granted a general bank guarantee or insurance policy, to guarantee the money paid by the off-plan purchaser, even if they did not hand them over, in the names of each buyer, declared the Spanish Supreme Court on several occasions.

Thus, Mrs G paid €65,000 for the purchase of a property in the urbanisation, Valle de Calpe, to the promoter Gardema Developments SL. This promoter had the account with C Bank and received the money from our client in that account. Also, we are able to prove to the court, that Bank P granted a general bank guarantee line, in favour of the purchasers of this complex.

Before starting the court process, we sent a request to C Bank, who received the money paid by our client; in order for them to confirm which company it was, that obliged to guarantee the money paid, but they didn't even answer.

We also sent a request before claiming, to Bank P, asking them to confirm that they did grant a bank guarantee line, and they didn't answer, although in court it was proven that they did.

Finally, the Appeal Province Court of Alicante, on the said Court Decision, accepted in full our appeal, and revoked the court decision granted by the first instance court, and declared that both banks are responsible to refund to my client the money paid by her.

One bank because they granted a general bank guarantee for the buyers on this complex, and the other bank because they received the money in their bank account without knowing and asking if the guarantees required by the law were granted by the developer.

Therefore, if you have lost your money on the purchase of a property in the urbanisation Valle de Calpe from the developer Gardema, or any others, let us help you, we are experts, contact us.

Bringing EU closer to home

ALTEA'S Citizens' Participation department is now collaborating with the Europe Direct office in Alicante City.

Beatriz Gonzalez, the councillor who heads the Altea department, together with Paloma Verdu, responsible for the town hall's European Projects (OPE), recently met Europe Direct officials to learn more about this EU office and introduce Altea's OPE to EU institutions.

Europe Direct is an information network that functions across Europe, designed to answer citizens' needs concerning the EU. Its information channels answer questions that range from general queries on protecting the population from terrorism to creating employment.

Other questions are more specific and include queries on how to participate in the Erasmus student exchange scheme or requests for information on work practice in EU countries.

The recent Alicante City meeting focused on improving the attention and services linked to Europe that Altea's OPE can offer the local population, Gonzalez explained.

The local OPE also aimed to provide Altea residents with the necessary means and information that would help to bring the EU closer to them, she added.

Finestrat town hall

FINESTRAT: Strategic position encourages the big chains.

More people back in work

EIGHTY-TWO people in Finestrat have found work since the beginning of the year.

According to figures from the Public Employment Service (SEPE) the town had 341 jobless last April, compared with 423 in January.

"These are heartening figures," said Finestrat's mayor Juan Francisco Perez, who also heads the town hall's Employment department. "They are equally heartening if we compare them with last year, because even during difficult months like February unemployment in Finestrat has continued to fall.

"The town's strategic position and good communications with the rest of the province have encouraged multinationals like Media Markt, Leroy Merlin and Conforma - plus others soon to be announced - to open here," Perez pointed out.

But other factors also contributed to the reduction in unemployment, as the town hall backs private enterprise and deals rapidly with red tape while providing legal security.

"Our aim is to see unemployment reduced each year," Perez said.

Supermarket sweep

TWO lucky Euro Weekly News readers went on a trolley dash around a cash and carry, filling their shopping trolleys with free goodies after winning a competition in the newspaper.

Carole Cork, of La Nucia, and Geoff Guyver, who lives in Alfas del Pi, had two minutes to push their trolleys around the wide aisles of the Ex-Pats Cash and Carry in Villajoyosa; picking up as many items as they could along the way before their time was up.

The two winners, who were both supported by their partners, completed their dash separately, to avoid crashing into each other as they rushed around the store.

Gary Clayton, owner of the Ex-Pats Cash and Carry, first explained the rules of the competition and gave some useful tips, along with his staff who had stayed behind after the store closed to help.

The prize winners could go anywhere they wanted, but were not allowed to pick up more than one of the same item, or any of the multi item cases.

First to have her turn was Carole, who set off at a fast pace, cheered on by her husband, whose only request was a tub of Brylcreem which she duly collected.

Afterwards Carole, who had spent a lot of time in the frozen aisles, was happy with her half-full trolley, but regretted she never made it to the cheese.

Next up was Geoff, an Ex-Pats regular, who was working to a plan. He said: "We've got 15 guests coming to stay over the next few months, so I'm going for the frozen stuff," he said.

At the end of his time, he too was happy with his haul, just a little disappointed he'd forgotten where the Chicken Kievs were located.

Both winners said, despite having an earlier scout around, the two minutes went very quickly as the store is so big.

Owner Gary agreed, adding: "People don't realise how big the store is. We must walk around six or seven miles in a day's work."

Church gets skipping

SEVEN 'skippers' from Albir's Church of England congregation turned back the clock to take part in a 'skip-a-thon' fundraiser.

For two hours there was at least one person skipping and encouraging passers-by to join in, raising almost €100 for church funds.

Church warden Elaine Mitchell said: "We had fun especially as some of us had not skipped for around 60 years. There were seven 'skippers' either with individual ropes or joining in one long rope. It was hard on the limbs but we all lived to tell the tale. It was worth the effort and we did have a laugh too."

A Holy Communion service is held in Albir every Sunday at 9.45am, in the Norwegian Seaman's Church, Carrer Mart. Every Thursday at 11am there is Holy Communion at the Forum Mare Nostrum, Alfaz del Pi. The second Thursday of the month is a healing service, and on the last Thursday there is an open discussion 'Faith, Questions and Doubts' at 10am before the regular service.

For more information call Elaine on 966 864 962 or 636 164 467.

Pets In Spain welcomes its new patron

GRANT HARROLD, 'the Royal butler,' is a member of the Royal household of Their Royal Highnesses The Prince of Wales and The Duchess of Cornwall and has just become the new patron of Pets In Spain.

Known as Britain's official etiquette expert he is the personal aide to HRH Princess Katarina (Prince William's cousin). He has also featured on many TV series as a commentator, broadcaster and presenter for TV and radio.

A Pets In Spain spokesperson said today "We are thrilled Grant Harrold is supporting us and is now our patron. His protocols and high standards of service reflect our approach to animal rescue and rehoming. He is the ideal person to help us raise our profile and attain more support."

Pets In Spain receives no government funding and there is no RSPCA in Spain. A dedicated multinational team of volunteers rescue, rehabilitate and rehome animals themselves and provide help and assistance to others. They also, via their collaborating veterinary clinics, underwrite vital veterinary treatment for animals rescued by members of the public.

The charity also funds a feral cat TNR (trap, neuter and release) programme, animal welfare awareness and publicity campaigns in different languages. In addition, they promote the beneficial and therapeutic effects animals can have on people, and manage a dog blood donor register.

Grant Harrold announced his patronage for Pets In Spain on his website <https://www.theroyalbutler.co.uk/charities>.

The charity is seeking donations to expand its animal rescue and welfare campaigns. You can donate by direct bank transfer using the following details:

Bigger benefits with bigger 'padron'

CASH from the Municipal Cooperation Fund will be used for improvements to Albir. "The council has several proposals in mind that range from street repairs to restoring public buildings," said Alfaz mayor Vicente Arques.

Alfaz can expect €196,548 from the fund, which is a Generalitat initiative with input from the Diputacion councils in the Valencia and Castellon provinces. Alicante's Diputacion declined to join the project, meaning that municipalities here can access only half the funds available in Valencia or Castellon.

The Municipal Cooperation Fund was created to compensate for underfunding from the national government in Madrid. It sets out to boost towns' autonomy regarding investments and expenditure, as the Fund allows them to make their own decisions on spending the money.

ALBIR: More residents than meet the eye.

Allocations are based on the registered population, Arques said, prompting him to emphasise the importance of a 'padron' that reflects the municipality's true size.

The town recently launched a campaign aimed at Alfaz's foreign residents, urging them to register on the 'padron' which will also increase funding from Madrid.

"A significant proportion of Alfaz's population is not reflected in the census," the mayor continued. "That means the town hall has to provide services with a lower budget that does not correspond to the real number of inhabitants."

Bloody marvellous!

THERE was a 'spectacular' increase in blood donors for Alfaz's 2017 Donation Marathon.

This year saw 71 donations and 17 donors who had never given blood before, announced Alfaz's Health councillor Marisa Cortes.

The Alicante Transfusions Centre had anticipated a maximum of 60 donors but 86 people turned up instead. Seventy-one of these were able to give blood after medical staff, following established procedures, ruled out 15 potential donors.

What set this year's Marathon apart from previous editions was the call for potential bone marrow donors, which was answered by 13 people.

"The Transfusions Centre has stressed that anyone can do this at any time," Cortes explained. "They only need to mention this when donating blood," she said. "It is a very simple process that consists of extracting a phial for later analysis and inclusion on REDMO, the bone marrow data base. Donors will then be contacted if they can provide a match for a patient needing treatment."

Cortes thanked all those who took part as well as the 20 people who arrived towards the end of the session and were unable to donate as the Transfusions Centre staff were having to cope with an unexpectedly high number of donors.

Flak for mobile providers

CONSUMERS in Alfaz and Albir complained more about telephone companies than any other service.

The town hall's Municipal Consumer Attention Office (OMIC) answered 2,982 enquiries of all types last year and processed 137 claims, announced Dolores Albero, councillor responsible for Consumer Matters.

Of 382 queries prompted by local consumers' telephone problems, the OMIC office made 36 claims.

"Most snags arose from poor service and practically all involved mobile service providers," Albero said.

Alfaz's OMIC also followed up 14 of 150 complaints about electricity companies and six of 120 complaints about banks last year.

More water for marsh

By Linda Hall

WORK has begun on raising the Senillar marsh's water levels and install sluices to regulate its flow to the sea.

This is being carried out under the supervision of the same Valencia University team which has been studying the Moraira marsh, its water supply and characteristics since October last year.

Despite the current low levels the experts have said that this has not had any significant impact on the marsh water's pH levels or conductivity.

The Senillar marsh has one of the Marina Alta's most valuable ecosystems and it has been officially protected by the regional government as a wildlife reserve since 2014.

Funding for summer school programme

THE Department of Education of the City of Jávea will run a summer school programme, d'Estiu, throughout July and August.

The programme is open to all children born between 2005 and 2013 and provides a range of socio-educational activities to be enjoyed.

The Department of Social Services has confirmed it will offer funding to support families who would like their children to attend the programme.

There will be a set of criteria to be met to qualify for the funding and preference will be given to those families who, for example, have work commitments throughout the school holidays – in order to reduce childcare costs.

Applications for the funding opened this week on Monday and will close on Friday May 19.

For more information and/or to collect an application form, head to the second floor of the Centro Social between 9am and 2pm Monday to Friday.

Completed applications should be submitted to the Oficina de Atención al Ciudadano between 8.15am and 2pm Monday to Friday.

Association tunes in

MEMBERS of the Javea-based Anglo-Spanish Association enjoyed an outing to neighbouring Gata de Gorgos and a guided tour of the Joan Cashimira Guitar Factory.

The party met at the Restaurant Arrels to enjoy lunch, before walking to the factory to see the various stages of guitar-making.

Members were told the quality of the guitar is largely dependent on the type of wood used, with rosewood considered especially suitable for the purpose.

At the end of the visit, Secretary Jenny Bond decided to buy a guitar; which maker Antonio expertly tuned for her.

The Anglo-Spanish Association, based in Javea, is always happy to receive new members. For more information please contact anglospansec@gmail.com.

Fire prevention

JAVEA residents are being trained in fire prevention and how to protect their property in a series of lectures by specialists.

The talks are being given to people who live in the areas seen as having 'the greatest risk' of a forest fire.

The Ermita d'el Popul hosted the first of the lectures on Tuesday and residents received practical and theoretical training from specialists of Medi XXI GSA, the team drafting Javea Town Hall's fire prevention plan.

Wednesday saw the team move to the fire station on Balcon Al Mar. On Thursday May 18, residents of Pinosol can gather at Pinosol Park and on Thursday May 25, people are asked to meet at Calle Azores; both final training sessions start at 10am and there is an English translation available.

A council spokesman said: "The aim of these days is to involve neighbours in prevention and provide them with the information necessary to be part of the solution and not the problem if there is a forest fire.

"These conferences consist of a theoretical and a practical part and they will show possible real situations. In addition everyone taking part will be able to present their concerns and experiences over the problem of forest fires in the area, and will receive a guide containing the most practical advice and instructions."

Talking turtles

SCUBA diver Tim Watmuff will explain the importance of marine conservation and his love of sea turtles at the U3A Vall del Pop general meeting on Thursday June 1.

Tim has been a diver for 25 years and as a result he has become enchanted by all things marine. Despite diving across the world, he had only seen turtles in the wild about six times; so when the opportunity arose to volunteer to support the Kosgoda Sea Turtle Conservation Project in Southern Sri Lanka, he leapt at the opportunity.

He checked into the Turtle project as one of six volunteers, ranging in age from 18 to 30-years-old and from as far afield as Australia, England, Germany, Norway and Wales.

Across the road from his accommodation were the tanks containing turtles from two-days-old to five-years-old. The project has two objectives: to increase the number of hatchlings that successfully reach the sea, and to educate the local population about the turtles and the dangers they face.

Tim will talk about the project and what 'volunteering' involved. His aim is to make the members fall in love with the sea creatures, as he has, so that they will support the conservation programme in Sri Lanka, and elsewhere in the world.

For further information visit the website <http://u3avallpop.com>. The U3A is all about enjoyment and learning.

U3A Vall del Pop members generally meet on the first Thursday of each month at the Centre Polivalent in Murla.

Dancers' delight

HELP of Denia and Marina Alta has organised a Danzathon to raise funds for a hospice care room.

Dancers can look forward to joining in with Zumba, Spanish dance, salsa, modern jazz, Bollywood and tap session.

For those who prefer just to watch, there will be side stalls selling sports and dance wear, health products and beauty items. There will also be a drinks and snack bar.

The event, in Ondara has been organised by Candida Wright, HELP President, a charity which is entirely run by volunteers.

Candida said: "I thought a Danzathon would be different from the usual fundraisers, and at the same time show people that fitness and fun can go together.

"In the past people have run Zumbathons, but with this they have eight hours of non-stop different types of dance fitness, including fit step ballroom, which I am really looking forward to."

The event, being held at the El Prado Centre next to the bull ring in Ondara on Saturday May 13, from 11am until 8pm, is open to all ages and costs €5 for the whole day.

Montgo Choral concert for Go

MONTGO CHORALE would love to welcome you to see Gordon Lawson direct the choir for the last time on Sunday May 28 at 7pm in the Santa Cruz church in Pedreguer.

'Music oozes out of him like melting butter from a toasted crumpet' wrote one of his friends. 'Knock that music out of him' said his parents to his housemaster at Rydal School.

His mother said while waiting for his father's train to arrive from Glasgow, Gordon would sing in perfect time and tune to the porters at Grantown-on-Spey station. In 1937 the family moved to a larger property in Lenzie, near Glasgow, which allowed a piano to be installed although early piano lessons halted abruptly when they had to move to North Wales.

Gordon attended Rydal School from 1943 until 1950 before achieving a minor scholarship to St John's Cambridge in 1950. Staff at Rydal and Cambridge had an enormous influence on the aspiring musician.

Gordon left university in 1954 with two degrees, the second of which awarded him a starred first in composition.

For two years he was barren of music while he completed his National Service.

In 1956 Gordon became assistant director of music at Ellesmere College in Shropshire before moving to Malvern College where he learned what was needed to become director of music.

MONTGO CHORALE: Has flourished under Gordon's directorship.

Five years later he relocated to Brighton College where he was head of music until 1987. During this time he also wrote for the college and became an examiner for the Associated Board of the Royal Schools of Music, travelling throughout the UK and also to Malaysia and Hong Kong until retiring in 1996.

From 1991 until 2002 he was an organist and choir-master in two East Sussex churches where he devoted much more time to composition, a discipline in which he is still very active. He also had the honour of winning a 'Songs of Praise' hymn competition, along with Bishop Timothy Dudley Smith who provided the text.

In 2002 Gordon moved permanently to Spain and soon became organist in L'Erimtia del Popul, the director of the English choir and then the first director of Coral Classica Javiense. He then directed the German Choir and after leaving Javea choir in 2007 he founded Montgo Chorale.

It has flourished under his directorship and is now a highly-respected musical body in the area. It has also raised a considerable amount of money over the years for local charities.

In handing over the Montgo Chorale baton in May one chapter closes while another opens and Gordon's dream is to devote time to have some of his chamber music performed.

Tickets for Gordon's final performance cost €12 and are available from Humpty Dumpty, Javea, Hostal Loreto, Denia or at the door. For reservations contact Jan Dewland on 965 770 973 or email dewlandjan@hotmail.com.

Jan will take on the directorship of Montgo Chorale and looks forward to seeing supporters of the choir in December for their usual Carol concert.

British artist Banksy reveals his Brexit view

BREXIT PAGE

By John Smith

IT is often difficult to attribute a painting by an anonymous artist, but it appears that a new piece on Brexit is by Banksy.

The artwork has appeared on the side of a building in Dover, near to the ferry terminal and opposite Calais, until recently the home of 'refugees' anxious to get to the UK for a new life.

This enormous mural shows a worker on top of a ladder chipping away one of the stars on the European Union flag.

Following the recent opening of his 'Walled Off Hotel' in Bethlehem and other murals, Banksy, whose real identity is known by just a few people, is one of Britain's most prolific and popular living artists.

Brexit overshadowed by General Election

TO a great extent, Brexit news has taken a back seat to General Election news as the various parties prepare to launch their manifestos.

What is clear is that the Conservatives appear to enjoy a significant lead in the somewhat tarnished opinion polls but that both Labour and the Tories are united in the decision to push Brexit through, if either party is elected to govern.

Only the Liberal Democrats of the 'main' parties who would have to make a comeback akin to David against Goliath want to see a second referendum on the Brexit decision and whilst the SNP are quite determined that they want Scotland to remain in the EU, it appears that their talk of a second independence referendum might just help the Scottish Conservatives.

The French Presidential election could have had a major effect on the British General Election as if Marine Le Pen had become president, there could well have been a new 'Exiteer' but the success of Emmanuel Macron, leader of La République En Marche (Republic on the Move) could help the Conservatives almost unintentionally.

He will be anxious to see whether at the upcoming parliamentary elections, his party can gain any seats but he is already talking about closing down British customs and immigration posts in Calais and making Britain cope with asylum seekers in Dover.

In such a scenario and perhaps because Theresa May has called, once again, for the reduction of migrants to the tens of thousands annually, the British public might consider her to be stronger in the face of a new 'invasion' than Jeremy Corbyn.

Child snatcher

■ A DEPUTY headmistress at a Moscow high school threatened to call social services to the home of any student who attended the 'extremist' marches of top Putin critic Alexei Navalny. Tatyana Ageeva told students that only adults could attend protests and warned minors would be 'seized from their families.'

Deadly delivery

■ A RUSSIAN man was arrested at Amsterdam airport with poisonous and live snakes, frogs, and lizards in his luggage. He was heading to Moscow via Amsterdam after a trip to Brazil. Among the haul were 26 vipers and 10 frogs, each species separated in plastic buckets.

Air nightmare

■ AN Aeroflot flight from Moscow to Bangkok suffered severe turbulence, seriously injuring 27 people. Some suffered broken bones when the Boeing 777 experienced a dramatic change in air pressure 40 minutes before landing in Thailand. Many passengers weren't strapped in and flew out of their seats.

RUSSIAN COFFEE: Most expensive in the world.

Luxury latte

■ STARBUCKS is more expensive in Russia than anywhere else in the world. In US dollars it costs $4.50 (255 rubles) for a tall latte in Moscow, compared to $2.25 in the US, or $2.88 in the UK. Adjusted for local wages it would be like Americans paying $12.50.

Spain is a popular holiday destination for Muslims

By John Smith

RESEARCH on the preferred destinations for Muslim travellers has shown that Spain has jumped in popularity considerably.

The 2017 MasterCard-CrescentRating Global Muslim Travel Index (GMTI) published in Jakarta, Indonesia shows that Spain is now the ninth most popular non-Islamic country for Muslim visitors out of the 130 which were reviewed.

Only Britain and France within Europe are more popular destinations which is explained in part by their relatively large Muslim populations, although the top two were Singapore and Thailand and unsurprisingly the USA has dropped into 10th position following the presidential election.

This particular market sector which sees increasing numbers of young affluent Muslims exploring the world is forecast as continuing to grow and travellers will be attracted to destinations which adapt to the needs of the Muslim tourist.

The GMTI is the most comprehensive research available on one of the fastest growing tourism sectors in the world, which represents 10 per cent of the entire travel economy.

Factors considered when producing the rating included Muslim air connectivity, visa restrictions, suitability as a family holiday destination, ease of communication, the level of services and facilities any destination provides, accommodation options, marketing initiatives and the availability of special food such as Halal meat.

La Zagaleta expands

THE owners of luxury urbanisation La Zagaleta are about to expand following their purchase of the Valderrama II estate near to Sotogrande.

Once approval for the work is received from the local council, plans exist for the construction of a luxury hotel, a new golf course and up to 200 new homes.

Work budgeted at €200 million is hoped to start by 2020 and the company plans to build the development on an American style with long roads and no fences.

Each property will cost between €3 million and €5 million and will be aimed at the Cadiz and Gibraltar market with off-plan purchase.

Oil reservoir over fault line scrapped

PROJECT CASTOR: Platform is to be dismantled.

AFTER commissioning a report from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Harvard University, the Spanish government has decided to scrap Project Castor.

This is a pipeline and reservoir for natural gas off the coast of Castellon which happens to be situated over the Amposta fault line and is believed to have caused 500 small earthquakes before it was closed in 2013.

The concept of using a depleted oil cavity in the Mediterranean appeared sensible when it was first mooted in 2007, but Spanish Energy Minister Álvaro Nadal has now confirmed it would be against all sensible advice to re-open the reservoir.

It will be dismantled in due course but as the area is currently stable, time is not of the essence although the government has already compensated construction company ACS to the tune of €1.2 billion and more may follow.

Directors resign

THREE non-executive directors of Spanish telecoms company Telefonica have tendered their resignations from the board. César Alierta, former president of the company, Pablo Isla president of Inditex, owner of Zara and Gonzalo Hinojosa former president Cortefiel have severed their ties on an amicable basis in order to allow new directors to become part of the telecoms industry giant.

Shocking idea

THE Directorate General of the Guardia Civil has revealed a committee has been set up to investigate the financial viability of obtaining tasers. There are a number of different models on the market and unions representing officers have demanded the Guardia Civil should follow Mossos d'Esquadra in Catalonia which uses tasers.

Review of Spanish budget

DESPITE the fact that the first two votes in the Spanish Parliament were tied, the proposed budget will now move forward for further review.

A number of parties on the left wanted to see the budget defeated but with a straight tie after more than one vote, it became possible for the budget to move forward, although the final vote required before the end of May will require a majority for one side or the other.

Property help for young and elderly

IN an effort to assist those who have found it difficult to find affordable accommodation, the Spanish Minister of Development has unveiled the 2018 plan.

Iñigo de la Serna has made it clear that the government is dedicated to helping those that need it the most, namely the young, the elderly and those who have been evicted.

In the case of those aged under 35, the state will make up to €10,800 available to anyone with a salary of less than €22,365.42 so that they can purchase a property, but the maximum of the grant will not exceed 20 per cent of the purchase price.

Provided that recipients earn less than €1,597.53 per month (which is three times the average monthly rent) then financial aid will be made available to assist in the rental of a property.

So for this group, if they are not purchasing, the government recognises that rental prices are increasing dramatically, especially in certain areas of Spain and will aid those renting a property and pay 50 per cent of the cost of rent which does not exceed €900 per month for three years.

GOVERNMENT PLAN: Will help those that need it most afford a new home.

For those aged 65 with income also less than €1,597.53 per month and a net worth of less than €100,000, they will receive a similar amount to cover rent up to €900 per month for three years or if the property is owned, there will be a contribution of up to €200 to help with maintenance and utility bills.

There will be cash assistance to companies building apartments to house low income families and the ministry will also help those who have lost their properties or been evicted from rental accommodation by taking properties held in the Sareb 'property bank' and renting them out at heavily subsidised prices.

With this plan to run from 2018 to 2020, the government expects to spend €321 million a year in overall support and assistance.

Spanish banks to be questioned over movement of funds for HSBC

ALTHOUGH British-based high street bank HSBC came through the banking crisis relatively unscathed, it has been accused of a number of irregularities over the years.

Having been fined billions of dollars by the US authorities and also shelling out to the British government, it is now under investigation in France and Spain.

“The various bankers will be questioned about their knowledge and involvement.”

The Spanish High Court has ruled that seven current and former employees of Banco Santander and three from BNP Paribas Spain must be questioned over allegations of collusion in moving funds for HSBC to an account in Switzerland.

According to the judge who made the decision, the transfers estimated at €74 million were made in a manner which protected HSBC customers from national tax authorities and as such could be considered money laundering once the whole trail is unravelled.

WHISTLE BLOWER: Hervé Falciani behind the microphone.

This current investigation started as long ago as 2008 when a self-proclaimed whistle blower Hervé Falciani leaked details of large numbers of customers who had accounts with HSBC's private bank in Switzerland and details were sent to tax authorities in a number of different countries.

The Swiss responded by sentencing the French citizen 'in absentia' to five years imprisonment for industrial espionage.

The various bankers will be questioned about their knowledge and involvement in this matter by way of assistance to the French investigation which is concentrating on the period between 2005 and 2010.

Should any evidence of wrongdoing emerge concerning the Spanish banks involved, a decision will then have to be made as to whether the courts will need to consider further action to establish if any Spanish laws have been broken.

Another bank will transfer staff to Frankfurt

ONE of Britain's largest banks Standard Chartered has confirmed that it will be moving several hundred jobs to Frankfurt in advance of Brexit.

This announcement follows one from US financial giant JP Morgan, which employs about 16,000 people in Britain, which is also planning to move hundreds of jobs from London to Frankfurt, Luxembourg and Dublin.

Although considered a UK bank, Standard Chartered which recently appointed former Deputy Governor of the Bank of Spain and Director of the International Monetary Fund Jose Vinals as Chairman only receives about 5 per cent of its income from the UK market.

Although it currently intends to keep its headquarters in London, its interests in Asia and Europe mean that it cannot afford to chance any banking restrictions following Brexit.

Airbnb still under review

FOLLOWING the example of the Barcelona City Council, Madrid is investigating ways of 'policing' untaxed property rentals.

Although there are a number of property portals which offer short term rentals in Madrid and other large cities in Spain, American company Airbnb is the most prolific and successful in the market place.

As previously reported, Barcelona has tried to levy significant fines of the company which has successfully appealed against them, but it has also offered a compromise whereby it will not accept multi-property lets from professional landlords.

The main bone of contention appears to be the fact that significant amounts of local tax may be evaded if short term lettings are made through these portals.

Barcelona star Neymar is to be charged with fraud

By John Smith

FOOTBALL finance just can't keep out of the news and it has been confirmed that Barcelona star Neymar will be charged with fraud and corruption.

Like so many South American superstars, the Brazilian's parents are involved in his management as well as day-to-day financial affairs and his father at least will also be charged.

The reason for the prosecution centres on Neymar's transfer from Santos in 2013 with his transfer fee being declared at €17 million, when it was once suggested that the actual fee was €57 million. However the court now suggests the real fee was nearer €25 million.

Following the example of a number of other players, Neymar had a deal with a third party group, in this case the Brazilian investment company DIS which was entitled to 40 per cent of any transfer fee.

“The Brazilian's parents are involved in his management.”

They received €6.8 million but the court believes that they were 'short changed' by €3.5 million which is the reason for the charges which also include Barcelona president Josep Maria Bartomeu and his predecessor Sandro Rosell, who it is suggested were aware of the deception.

Originally in 2016, a Spanish court ruled that the matter should be subject to a civil action but has now been persuaded by the prosecutor that the player and his father were aware of an allegedly fraudulent arrangement between Barcelona and Santos to defraud DIS.

Prosecutors are calling for a two-year prison sentence and €10 million fine for Neymar whilst DIS want to see five years and at the very least a suspension of his right to play in Spain for the period of any sentence, even if a suspended one.

The Barcelona club has already paid a €5.5 million fine in order to settle a different case with similar circumstances, but these accusations still continue to arise and there is a separate investigation taking place in Brazil.

Production on the up, unemployment down

INTERNATIONAL analysts Markit have released the results of their April survey which shows that Spanish manufacturing is speeding up.

To go with this news is an announcement from the Ministry of Employment and Social Security which says that unemployment in Spain fell by 129,281 in April which is a record.

Whilst encouragingly, unemployment amongst those under 25 has dropped, the percentage of young unemployed is still at a high level.

Following some poor figures recently, Andalucia has been one of the leading areas for the fall in the unemployed with its drop exceeding the combined drops of Barcelona and Madrid

They honestly haven't got a clue

LEAPY LEE SAYS IT
OTHERS THINK IT

PERSONALLY I think the voting age should be raised to 21. It's not that I consider the young lacking in intelligence, or am ignorant of the view, that if your old enough to die for your country you should at least have a say in who runs it.

The fact is they lack experience; they simply haven't been around long enough. An 18-year-old today wasn't even born when the last Labour government was first elected, and were still children when they lost power.

They have no idea what it is like for adults to exist under the depressing, inept incompetence of a left wing government. They have never experienced the sight of the fat cat bully boys of the unions, tanned and fresh from their Marbella villa holidays, emerging from Downing Street and announcing that half the nation would be on strike, if the 'workers' weren't given what they (the unions) demanded.

YOUNG ADULTS: They simply haven't been around long enough.

Of times when 'everybody out' issued from the employees of one vital institution after another, until the whole country staggered from one crisis to the next and employers were blamed for everything from the price of soap to the shortage of cat litter.

They have no knowledge of a country, run by a party who bribes its constituents by creating whole cultures of benefit scroungers, and to pay for these free handouts, taxes those with any initiative to create jobs and wealth to such a degree that they leave the country in droves.

Labour is, and always has been, a party that has no idea how to actually create resources and always uses the wealth, painstakingly earned by previous governments to create the illusion that they are a successful organisation, by pouring investments into popular schemes that will ingratiate them to their constituents.

When there are no longer any previous legacies to lay claim to, they borrow, beg and steal (Brown stole the country's gold reserves and sold it for a pittance!) until finally there is nothing left and they are finally voted out, leaving the incoming party to once again pick up the pieces.

Margaret Thatcher summed up this bunch of incompetent con artists perfectly, when she stated that the Labour party are fine, until they run out of other people's money. Thank the Lord for Corbyn and the likes of Diane Abbott. They are the true face of the left, and not in fact the false faces of Tony Blair and his henchmen of yore.

So, to all the young voters, who believe that the 'all men are equal, tax the rich and ban the bomb' tirade that issues from the left is the answer to what ails us, I suggest you all think again. I'm not saying it's going to be plain sailing. But at least with Theresa May we have a chance. And be honest, do you really want Diane Abbott to be in control of the nation's police force? Ha!

Welcome home Leo the Lion

TEAM EWN: Jackie and Matt hand over a gift.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY: Sofia celebrated her 9th.

HOMECOMING: Many people attended the party.

By Matt Ford

BRAVE cancer battler Leo Bermeja is back in Almeria after undergoing six weeks of ground-breaking proton beam therapy in the United States, and the Euro Weekly News was on hand to join the celebrations at his homecoming party.

A sizeable group of friends, family members and supporters gathered at the Laguna restaurant in Las Marinas, Vera, to welcome him back from his six weeks of treatment in Oklahoma and wish a belated happy birthday to big sister Sofia, who recently turned nine.

Among the many gifts on display was a framed copy of one of the first double-page spreads that we ran as part of our ongoing Leo the Lion campaign.

Leo, mum Karen and Sofia were all in high spirits despite suffering from jetlag, having only travelled to Spain from Canada three days beforehand and losing some luggage along the way.

Karen kindly agreed to an exclusive chat with us, during which she explained what will happen next as four-year-old Leo's fight against a rare form of brain cancer continues.

"We're still catching up to be honest," she laughed. "Over the next two weeks I'm planning to let Leo chill a bit and get over the jetlag.

"After that we'll see how he is about starting at the special needs school in Vera again, then once we've got the clear scan over with we're thinking about hyperbaric oxygen therapy, which they have in Malaga."

She went on to explain how this type of treatment exposes the patient to high oxygen concentrations, which can help stimulate the growth of new brain cells before the delayed effect of the proton therapy kicks in.

Due to a lack of knowledge about the type of cancer he has, Leo must also undergo a brain scan every six weeks for the next two years before any definitive evaluation can be made, and he also needs an intensive rehab programme.

"The fundraising doesn't stop since we don't know the cost," says Karen. "They've recommended he needs a walker which costs about €4,000, for example, and he hasn't had any benefits from the Spanish government yet, which won't be backdated when they finally come through."

Overall though, Karen remains incredibly upbeat despite the family's ordeal, and she was keen to express her gratitude to EWN readers and others who have helped Leo's cause.

"Thank you to everyone who has supported us from day one, there are no words to describe it and it is overwhelming how Leo has touched so many people's hearts.

"It is crazy how people who don't know him feel like they love him and relate to him.

"Even if the worst happens to Leo at least he's done that, at least he's given hope to others."

At least Leo has given hope to others."

Can you wash your hands?

Mike Senker
In my opinion

Views of a Grumpy Old Man

I STOPPED to fill my car with petrol and I use a garage where the attendant does it for you. So I was sitting in my car and he started to fill my tank. At the same time my phone rang so I answered it. The attendant was at the back of the car but standing on the other side.

On the forecourt was his mate who waved at me and signalled, by using his thumb and little finger and placing it to his ear, and then changing it to give me the wiggly 'no don't do that' finger gesture. This, in normal circumstances is fine, except this guy had a lit ciggy in his other hand! I mean, it's bad enough that they have these signs saying don't use your phone in a garage when there has never been a reported incident of it blowing the place up, but to tell me not to use my phone whilst he has a lit ciggy is just nuts.

Talking of signs, here are a few others that set me off. When I was in the UK a little while ago there was a sign in the gent's toilet which said 'now wash your hands.' That's fine but it then went on to show you, by the use of diagrams, how to wash them. Yup a sign showing you how to wash your hands. Now, I'm not the sharpest tool in the box, but I don't think there is anybody in the living civilised world, over the age of four, that doesn't know how to wash their hands. You stick them under the tap, turn the water on, add soap, rub them together then rinse and dry.

The even crazier part is that some idiot somewhere has spent money on producing these dumbass signs and got paid to do it!

How about this one. At the entrance to the urbanisation where I live is a map that shows you how to get to all the different Phases of which there are five. It's a great idea because it's a big urbanisation and there is a one way system just to confuse you even further. However, there is just one problem. The map has been printed upside down so anyone who looks at it for the first time has not got a hope in hell of finding how to get anywhere.

We told the town hall, who put it there, and two years later it's still there this upside down useless sign that cost a fortune to make. The last one for now is when you are driving down the road and all of a sudden, without any warning, there is the sign that says the road is closed and you can't go any further. How hard is it to put a sign at the top of the road and at other entrances that the road is closed ahead? So now you have to find a way to turn around, usually in a confined space and then find another way to complete your journey.

What signs have you seen? Let me know. mikesenker@gmail.com

With HiFX international money transfers, there's no fees, no fuss

IF you need to send money abroad - perhaps to transfer a mortgage or pension, or just to make a one-off payment - your first instinct might be to turn to your bank. Many people will assume that this is the easiest method, or that their bank will offer them the best deal, but this might not be the best option for you.

At HiFX, we're dedicated to saving you time and money, whatever the reason for your international money transfer. Every month, we use an independent company to check all the UK high street banks and building societies to make sure our rate is better. We can help you save money in two ways:

1. Absolutely no transfer fees

With HiFX, you'll pay no transfer fees whatsoever, regardless of the amount you are transferring.

Opening an account is free, plus we don't charge fees for receiving money or any other transfer fees on foreign exchange transactions. There are no monthly charges either.

£10,000 will get you		Additional Fees
HiFX	€11,507	No Fees
Lloyds	€11,235	£9.50
NatWest	€11,216	£30
HSBC	€11,173	£4
Barclays	€11,162	£15

These exchange rates were obtained online at 9.45am on Wednesday 29th March 2017 based on sending an international money transfer of £10,000 in £s as quickly as possible.

EXCHANGE RATES: You can get a quote at any time using our online system.

Please note that this does not include the cost of you transferring funds to HiFX or any charges incurred where the funds are being sent in a different currency to the destination bank account.

2. Bank-beating exchange rates

To get an idea of how much you could save, we compared the rates and fees for transferring £10,000 into Euros using the main UK high street banks:

With a HiFX account, you can get a quote at any time using our online system, which will make it clear to you exactly what exchange rate you will be getting. When you see a rate you are comfortable with, you can make a transfer online 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

To find out more about how HiFX could save you time and money, please contact our team of friendly experts: spain@hifx.co.uk. You can also call our Costa del Sol office on 951 203 986 or our Costa Blanca office on 966 764 934.

Double trouble ahead for Rajoy

Cassandra Nash
A weekly look

- and not entirely impartial reaction - to the Spanish political scene

OF course Pablo Iglesias and Podemos want a vote of no confidence in Mariano Rajoy and his party.

Proving how reasonable he was, Iglesias emphasised that he would raise no problems regarding an alternative candidate put forward by either the PSOE socialists or the 'C's,' the centrists.

"The candidate isn't important," he said, which is why he was so magnanimous. If the candidate were that important he would never have offered.

For Iglesias, putting the PSOE on the spot with primaries coming up is as important as ousting Rajoy.

By shunning the motion, he can imply they are shoring up the PP as they did by abstaining to allow Rajoy to form a government.

That could goad enough of the membership into backing Pedro Sanchez as the next PSOE secretary general.

Only the paid-

PABLO IGLESIAS:
Hopes to annihilate the PSOE.

up members – all 187,949 of them – are enamoured of Sanchez. Two general elections and two regional ballots demonstrated that Sanchez does not attract socialist voters.

That's why Iglesias, who hopes to annihilate the PSOE, wants him as secretary general.

Power play

WITH the possible exception of the former Spanish vice-president and Hacienda minister Rodrigo Rato, all of the disgraced PP politicians enriched not only themselves but also the party.

The latest in this long line of shysters, the erstwhile president of the Madrid Community Ignacio Gonzalez, used the Canal de Isabel II water utility to raise money for electoral campaigns.

If all power tends to corrupt and absolute power corrupts absolutely, wanting to gain or retain power obviously corrupts to the same extent.

In black and white

MARIANO RAJOY will always be haunted by the 'Stay strong' text message he sent to disgraced PP treasurer Luis Barcenas when the latter's dodgy bookkeeping emerged.

Likewise, Justice minister Rafael Catala will be dogged forever by his message to Ignacio Gonzalez: "Let's hope the mess gets sorted out."

Catala did some fast-talking to explain that he didn't mean Gonzalez's mess or the PP's mess or a mess of his own. He meant general mess.

What's written can't be unwritten and some text messages should never be sent in a country where "Think the worst and you'll always be right" is a favourite proverb.

Not today, thank you

CATALUÑA'S pro-independence president Carles Puigdemont cancelled this month's visit to Morocco.

No politician "at any level" would be available to receive him and his party, Puigdemont was told.

Catalan insiders say Morocco was responding to pressure from Spain and the US but it would be truer to say that no one outside Cataluña is that interested in Puigdemont. Or quite a few inside.

War of words over the EU's "plot" to sabotage Brexit

THERESA MAY'S searing attack on unelected Eurocrats for trying to sabotage both the general election and Brexit is unprecedented. She said she wanted to reach a Brexit deal, and for the EU to succeed: "But the events of the last few days have shown that whatever our wishes and however reasonable the positions of Europe's other leaders, there are some in Brussels who do not want these talks to succeed."

Not totally surprising you might think, given the hostile leaks and threats from that recent 'car crash' dinner. What's perhaps more surprising is that she's going flat out and calling on voters to tool her up to 'fight for Britain' against Brussels at such an early stage in this election and leading in the polls.

Much was made of alleged Russian interference in the US presidential election. There are parallels domestically, too, as the EU attempts to influence with whom in the UK it negotiates. It's clear from recent 'leaks' that the EU would rather not deal with Theresa May, and certainly not if she wins a commanding majority. They'd much prefer dealing with Corbyn or Farron, wouldn't you?

Basically, according to Iain Duncan Smith, former Conservative leader, the EU Commission "doesn't care if negotiations succeed, they're obsessed with the idea of the EU: it's where their money, jobs and power come from."

But surely all this will backfire on them. Already former hard-nosed Remainers as well as reluctant Leavers I know have switched sides and are now pro-Brexit. A number that will inevitably increase with time and more EU threats.

So, another day, another EU threat/leak - the dirty games of a rattled European Commission. My boots are worn out with quaking. Soon I'll be terrified of Timmy Farron.

Finally, it's interesting that all French politicians end speeches with 'Vive la République' and Americans with 'God bless America.' What's the British equivalent?

Well, with a stiff upper lip our politicians would probably say: 'Mind how you go,' 'What a lot of weather we're having,' 'Chin up' or 'Now, if you'll excuse me, I have a train to catch.'

YOUR STARS FOR 7 DAYS

GEMINI ♊ (May 22 - June 21)

A fleeting meeting stirs feelings that you thought were dead. This could be good if it reminds you of how life can be, or bad if it makes you think of missed opportunities. It is never too late to make a fresh start. Why not go on that painting holiday or stamp-collecting weekend? Pole dancing anyone?

CANCER ♋ (June 22 - July 23)

Someone really has rattled your tree, but try to refrain from throwing coconuts on their head. It is much more effective to be charming and get them confused.

LEO ♌ (July 24 - August 23)

Are you feeling that you have been dealt a rough hand? Consider this: there are some who are not dealt a hand at all. Many are missing those few cards that mean they are never really in with a chance. Instead of lurking on the shady side, walk out into the sun. You will soon see the bright side.

VIRGO ♍ (August 24 - September 23)

A chance remark opens a can of worms. Trying to get them back in could turn out to be very messy. We all open our mouth and put our foot in it sometime. However, over-reacting won't help. You will need help with something this week.

LIBRA ♎ (September 24 - October 23)

Someone who is usually quite the op-

TAURUS ♉ (April 21 - May 21)

Get out in the fresh air as much as possible and be kind to your body. You may have neglected yourself because you have been such a busy bee of late. What about a trip to the seaside or a walk in the hills? Maybe a trip to the local cocktail bar is more your style! Whatever puts a spring in your step will be good.

posite to you will surprise with an offer. Although you are naturally suspicious, give them the benefit of the doubt. Leopards do not change their spots but they are capable of behaving for the bigger good.

SCORPIO ♏ (October 24 - November 22)

An intimate meeting is less exciting than anticipated. This should not bother you because time could yet change that. You need to be in the right place at the right time, so don't give up hope, just have a little patience. A change of plans will be more beneficial than irksome, at least in the longer term.

SAGITTARIUS ♐ (November 23 - December 21)

While counting your pennies, also count your blessings. Money can be a big problem or merely an irritation but the lack of it must be kept in perspective. You are right to think twice about accepting something that seems to be for nothing.

CAPRICORN ♑ (December 22 - January 20)

The goat in you is keen to find pastures new. It isn't a nibble that is needed at the moment, but a feast. Accepting anything less would be a mistake because someone is watching your reaction to an offer. If you feel unsure of your worth, then ask a few trusted friends. It is so hard to see ourselves. Heed their words.

AQUARIUS ♒ (January 21 - February 19)

Don't allow an open-ended offer to muddle your mind. There is no need for an immediate decision and this may be too soon for a positive move. A sense of urgency may be put down to practical reasons when, in fact, it is no such thing. A feeling of insecurity is more likely to be the trigger to uncertainty.

PISCES ♓ (February 20 - March 20)

Are things going swimmingly? Good. Maybe you had forgotten how to have real fun. Remember when you were a child? Life was so simple. Relax and be that child again. If some old fogey accuses you of being silly, feel sorry for them.

ARIES ♈ (March 21 - April 20)

Awkward situations usually bring out the best in you and this week proves that. In the longer term, you will be grateful to those making things difficult now.

Sedition and treason

SIR,

'Sedition; actively promoting and advocating a movement to overthrow a legitimately constituted authority.'

Spain's prime minister Mariano Rajoy should have reacted immediately (almost four years ago!) in response to Catalan president Arthur Mas' call to separate from Spain to form an independent and sovereign 'nation' by imprisoning the rebel for treason.

Instead, Sr Rajoy simply repeats again and again that he won't allow the illegal and unconstitutional referendum to be held in the Catalan 'nation.'

And as Commander-in-Chief of the only legitimate 'Spanish Nation;' he should stop talking so much and act decisively to finally call a halt to this seemingly endless and harmful farce that is undermining the already downtrodden morale and confidence of Spanish citizens. Time to practice a bit of the old reliable 'actions speak louder than words.'

In the USA we had a Civil War that lasted four years (1861-1865) over 'sedition and treason,' but even then, at least nine of our 31 states were rebelling from the Union, and not just one; as is the present case today in the Catalonia Province.

Voting rights

WHAT a cheek! Long-term expats who abandoned their homeland for a Mediterranean lifestyle years ago want the right to vote on the UK's future.

OK, if that's what they want let them have a vote, subject to a satisfactory inspection of their tax affairs by HMRC and Hacienda. That should thin their ranks and lessen the cacophony of self-interested whingeing.

Causing a stink

“ DID you notice? The 'depuradora' in Benalmadena is again causing stink in the area around the Avenida Palmeras roundabout by the sea!

Every night they let the waste water run down and on its way towards the sea it causes a stink that cuts off your breath.

On Thursday April 19, with the wind so strong and the sea very rough, the whole waste got kind of churned up by the violent sea and then the stink like sewer was dispersed by the air even during the day time.

Does the town hall try to cover it up at the beginning of the tourist season? Has the money to fix it gone away? Please investigate and warn the people of the health risks over inhaling the polluted air!

Double standards

I MUST comment on two articles in your Mallorca paper, edition 1660. Firstly, Mike Senker's comments on bars having to put outside seating areas on decking.

In Puerto Pollensa, one very busy street for tourists, they followed these instructions last year. Now the council, who forced two bars and a Spanish bike hire business to put these in, have decided to withdraw use of the road.

So, firstly the council insist on decking, and less than a year later, insist that it's taken down. And never anyone to ask. Just shrugged shoulders.

Secondly, the transformation of Magaluf into a 'first class' resort. This has been going on for 30 years, since the Calvia area became the biggest money area in all of Spain.

The council took the money and thought that was it. But Magaluf is too big to fill up with your words, 'a more discerning guest.'

Don't bite the hand that feeds you springs to mind. I will say Mallorca has now become a more cosmopolitan up-market holiday isle, but it should be for all, because in most cases, the 'all' spend more money.

*R K Lutschan,
Puerto Pollensa, Mallorca*

» Britain and Europe at loggerheads over Brexit

WHERE is the base point, the EU accounts have never been given a clean audit certificate because of all the fraud and irregularities? Will Brussels use the same accounting techniques for Brexit negotiations they use in Greek debt calculations (and Spanish deficits)?

Drew Edgar

SHE is not confused in the slightest. She is fighting tooth and nail in the interests of the top richest 10 per cent of UK citizens. They provided all the information and news which caused poorer people to vote Brexit. The very rich own nearly all of the UK media. It's called brainwashing.

» Scientists called in to save Marbella's beaches

THE obvious answer is to put concrete pillars beneath the waves maybe a hundred metres offshore. This will break the force of the waves and save the sand on the beaches. Once again here in Marbella they are placing tons of sand on the beaches to repair that which has been washed away.

MY problem isn't so much with planes as it is with airports - so much less terrifying than your well-articulated issues with flying. I just get fed up with the incessant queues, indifferent officials, endless waiting around and needless delays.

» Stephen Fry blasphemy

FRY didn't specify any religion, but directed his remarks about 'God.' God doesn't belong to any religion, and the only person who could testify that God had been insulted or blasphemed would be God. I think this whole thing is ridiculous. If people have the freedom of speech to praise God, then others should have the freedom of speech to express their opinion about God.

I think if God could be contacted he would say: 'Lads, don't be acting like eejits. Let the Garda get on with their serious work to fight crime.' I think that God should be called as a witness if there is a trial, and to the best of my knowledge nobody has an address to contact God.

Need a doctor, nurse, or dentist?

WITH clinics in Benijofar and Alfaz del Pi, leading GP Practice Medicare, has been offering an alternative to the Spanish GP healthcare system for over 10 years.

Run in accordance with UK Department of Health guidelines, Medicare is led by a British London-trained GP. Dr Najma Hussain, Medicare's founding GP said: "We set up the clinics here because there was a real need amongst the British community for a GP who people felt comfortable with and who they could talk to. Whilst the Spanish system is very good, it is far easier to discuss health issues openly with someone who speaks your native language."

Bringing together the best medical professionals, Medicare offers GP care, nursing services, dentistry, osteopathy, psychotherapy, aesthetic treatments and cosmetic surgery.

Nursing Services

The full time Practice Nurse can help with all kinds of nursing care such as disease prevention and early diagnosis, (general health consultations and screening), well woman health checks (including smear tests), well man check health checks (including PSA blood test for prostate cancer), general blood testing and clinics for weight control, diabetes, sexual health and heart health plus the usual nursing services such as ear syringing, wound care and dressings.

Dental Services

Medicare Dental is popular with locals and patients from all over Europe, who find it offers quality treatments at affordable prices. Led by a British dentist, Medicare's fully-equipped dental clinic offers the most up-to-date techniques in both general and cosmetic dentistry. Whatever treatment you need to improve your smile, from whitening to fillings or implants, Medicare Dental offers the very best dental care, which will really give you something to smile about.

Thousands of expats on the Costa Blanca have over the years chosen the comfort and familiarity of Medicare, and for the many thousands of British expats registered with the practice, Medicare offers primary care, prescriptions, minor surgery (including removal of moles) and hospital referrals. Even more importantly, Medicare offers a membership scheme which makes using the practice very affordable, which means a visit to the GP may cost less than paying for a translator to accompany you to a Spanish doctor. But conversely, patients do not have to live in Spain to access Medicare GP services. Visitors, holidaymakers and residents are all encouraged and welcome.

Medicare always prides itself on positive feedback from its patients, so call Medicare on 966 860 258 to book in for one of your FREE consultations with either the dentist, osteopath (for your free spine alignment check) or with the doctor for your free mole check. ASTHMA:
The use of inhalers requires greater teaching.

WORLD ASTHMA DAY has been marked in Spain as experts say there are currently around 235 million asthma patients around the world.

According to the World Health Organisation, (WHO) asthma deaths will increase by almost 20 per cent in the next 10 years if no urgent action is taken. Asthma cannot be cured, but with proper diagnosis and treatment and patient education, it can be controlled and a good quality of life enjoyed. One of the main forms of treatment is through the use of an inhaler, however, reports say that only 9 per cent of asthma patients in Spain, use their inhaler correctly.

A specialist department at Barcelona's Hospital de la Santa Creu i Sant Pau, said inhaled therapy is recommended for asthma as it directly reaches the lungs, but many people do use the inhaler correctly and the medication does not reach the respiratory tract. The Respiratory Group of the Spanish Society of Family and Community Pharmacies, added that many patients also have more than one inhaler to use and often forget which one to use when.

They stress that the use of inhalers requires greater teaching and control by medical staff, both doctors, nurses and pharmacists, at the time of prescribing the device, to ensure it is correctly and effectively used.

Another frequent error is that the condition can have phases of stability, resulting in the patient deciding not to take their medication. However, this can lead to a long term worsening of the condition.

Asthma is one of the most prevalent chronic respiratory diseases in Spain, affecting around 5 per cent of adults and 8-10 per cent of children.

MASSAGE: Makes you feel good.

Mutual massage is good for both of you

GIVING a massage will not only make your partner feel good, but it will make you feel pretty good too.

That's according to researchers who got couples to spend 15 minutes giving their partner a massage two or three times a week. They found that couples who did this showed significant improvements in their well-being, stress and relationship satisfaction.

The study, which involved 38 couples, reports those who gave the massage felt around 9 per cent better overall, compared to 12 per cent for those who received the massage. It measured their mental well-being during a three-week course where they were taught massage skills and three weeks after it had finished.

Nine out of 10 couples in the study said they would recommend mutual massage.

Ask the Optician: The link between smoking and sight loss

Mike Stone, Store Director, Specsavers Opticas Calpe

MAY 31 is World No Tobacco Day and so in support of this important cause I wanted to explain the links between smoking and eyesight in the hope that it will help readers to take the decision to give up on World No Tobacco Day.

■ How can smoking affect my eyes? When you inhale a cigarette, approximately 4,000 chemicals such as nicotine, tar, arsenic and ammonia enter your bloodstream and travel throughout your body. Some of these substances cause blood vessels at the back of the eye to burst, damaging the macula and ultimately leading to loss of vision.

This is known as Age-related Macular Degeneration (AMD), the leading cause of severe vision loss for people over the age of 55 in the Western world. Smokers more than double their risk of developing AMD and according to the World Health Organisation the only established modifiable risk factor is smoking.

■ Can it cause any other complications with the eyes? Yes, as well as the early onset of AMD, smokers also have a higher likelihood of developing cataracts, a common cause of blindness and visual impairment. In addition, nicotine slowly poisons the optic nerve, causing impaired colour vision and smokers are more than twice as likely to experience dry eye syndrome. Smoking also increases your chance of getting diabetes, which can lead to blindness and is also linked to high blood pressure which is a risk factor for developing glaucoma.

■ What can I do? The first thing to do is to try to quit smoking, or at least significantly cut down, to reduce the risk of all of these health issues and many more. Then go to see your optician to check your eyes are healthy and your sight is good. If your optician spots signs of any health conditions, they will refer you to a medical professional for diagnosis and treatment.

There are five Specsavers Opticas on the Costa Blanca. Visit www.specsavers.es to find your nearest store and make an appointment for a free eye test.

Low Back Pain: Did you really try everything?

The bulk of our patient base consists of people with a long history of low back pain. People often suffer from these kinds of complaints for many years and are progressively getting worse. The majority of these patients already have done all kinds of scans, examinations and therapy and more than often have heard that they have to live with the complaint, that there is no identifiable cause or the pain is caused by "old age" and that they just must start exercising.

Finding the cause of low back pain is often difficult, but certainly not impossible. The cause of back pain is often searched on a local level, while the cause of this common complaint is often located in a completely different area of the body like the pelvis, knees and feet. Furthermore, the cause of low back pain is almost always caused by several components, including bad posture.

The usual methods used to diagnose the cause of low back pain are not sufficient. X-ray images and scans are used to diagnose a problem without even touching or examining the spine. On these recordings all the anatomical structures are clearly visible and also any defects therein. This does not mean that these abnormalities are the cause of the complaints. People without any back pain can have slipped discs, decreased intervertebral disc height and arthritis as well.

To give an example: 45% of all people who have undergone a hernia operation have the same symptoms after surgery as before. This is not just because the operation failed, but because the hernia was not the cause of the original complaint. Local low back pain which doesn't radiate into the leg is seldom caused by a herniated or slipped disc...

Extensive research of the SI joints (joints of the pelvis) and joints in the back (facet joints) notes that 80% of the examined persons had back pain due to the inflammatory changes present in these joints. Whenever there has been injected an anti-inflammatory drug into the CAUSE of the pain (the joints), the pain disappears. This means that 80% of the low back pains are caused by strain in these joints.

This method of diagnosis (which is NOT a treatment method) is unfortunately hardly ever used in regular hospitals. This is regrettable, especially since these two frequent inflammatory reactions do not show on any X-ray or scan... Clearly injecting these joints cannot be used as a therapy, because it only covers the pain, but doesn't treat the cause of the problem.

Our clinic is specialised in detecting the real cause of low back pain with special tests. Our diagnostic techniques are developed to examine the SI and back (facet) joints. Our main goal is not only to discover the inflamed joint, but to get to the cause of the problem which might be in a different part of the body.

These two types of low back pain which are the most common causes of low back pain can be very successfully treated in our clinic. Also when you have an ongoing problem for years and have been to every doctor!! Our approach is unique and very different!! You certainly do not have to live with these complaints.

LONELINESS:
Some men have felt lonely for years.

MEN could be lonelier than you think. A report has concluded that as many as 35 per cent of men in the UK feel lonely at least once a week, while 11 per cent admitted to feeling lonely most days.

The study was carried out by social media site Gransnet, which reported that the older generation are suffering from an 'epidemic of loneliness' with almost three-quarters describing themselves as lonely. Almost two in five said they could go for days without speaking to anyone and nearly half said they had felt lonely for years as the study authors warned that many, particularly pensioners, were suffering in silence with over 70 per cent saying their family would be shocked to learn they felt lonely.

Over 25 per cent of men aged 65 to 69 blamed retirement for their loneliness as they had lost that connection with going to work and being around colleagues, although the study found that 35 was the age when a man felt the loneliest.

Moving away from family and friends was also a main cause of loneliness in respondents, as well as going through a break up, being unemployed and the death of a family member.

Pain of sciatica

SPECIALIST: Doctor Luis Perez Belmonte.

1. What is sciatica and when does it usually occur?

Sciatica is simply pain felt in the lumbar area of the legs usually caused by a pinched nerve. Although it can happen at any age, it tends to be most common amongst the elderly due to arthritis in the spinal column. It can also appear after strenuous physical activities causing herniated discs.

2. What are the symptoms?

The main symptoms of sciatica are muscle cramps, back pains that can spread to the legs as well as difficulty in making certain movements, and in some cases being unable to move your legs.

3. What causes sciatica?

The main causes of sciatica are arthritis and herniated discs in the spine. They are most common amongst the elderly and the young after overexerting themselves lifting heavy loads, or bad posture when sitting, among other things.

4. How can it be treated?

Usually a course of anti-inflammatories, analgesics, muscle relaxants and rest are effective in managing the symptoms. Depending on the cause of a person's sciatica it may be necessary to have an operation, such as having herniated discs.

Physiotherapy is also very beneficial for sciatica sufferers.

5. Can you prevent having sciatica?

Certain exercises which strengthen muscles, avoiding bad postures, not overexerting when lifting and sitting correctly are all ways to minimise the chances of suffering from sciatica.

6. Is there a specific exercise which helps?

Any form of exercise which does not strain your back is helpful, as it strengthens your muscles and helps improve blood flow.

Generally swimming, yoga, pilates and other similar exercises are all very beneficial.

7. Is it hereditary?

In general it is not hereditary. Just because parents suffer from sciatica it does not mean their children will too.

Making access easy for the disabled

THE first electric car in Spain adapted for people with reduced mobility, has been created.

The Nissan eNV200 has been adapted thanks to the expertise of ILUNION Adaptación de Vehículos which belongs to the ONCE group of social enterprises and its Foundation.

ILUNION said the technical department of Nissan was instrumental in developing this first prototype as there are very strict protocols and guidelines to be followed on this type of vehicle.

The Nissan is a five-seater vehicle and has space for a person in a wheelchair.

ILUNION hopes that this could be a 'car of the future' for those with disabilities and opens the door to making electric taxis more accessible in city centres, making services more accessible for all and more environmentally friendly.

EXERCISE PILL: Would allow people to reap the benefits without doing a workout.

Pop a pill to replace using the treadmill

A PILL could soon give the effect you have had a workout, without you raising a finger.

Scientists say a chemical called PPAR α is linked to aerobic endurance. In tests with mice, the researchers used a small-molecule drug to activate PPAR α in the muscles of mice. It increased the fat burning in their muscles, similar to what happens during exercise, despite them being sedentary, and also increased endurance by up to 70 per cent. It is hoped these findings and their research could lead to an 'exercise pill' that would allow people to reap the benefits of a workout without actually doing one.

Mayor Cesar Sanchez announces the grant.

Boost for Moors and Christians

THE Moors and Christians Association in Calpe is to receive an additional grant of €15,000 as it prepared to celebrate its 40th anniversary.

One of the town's most important festivals, the extra money is in addition to the €45,000 budget set aside by the town hall.

Over the May holiday, the association presented the people appointed to hold the key posts for the coming year and Mayor Cesar Sanchez was able to announce the increase in the local authority support.

He explained the idea was to support Moors and Christians during its anniversary celebrations and also to shoot a promotional video of the fiestas; it is hoped to get the Calpe festival listed as an event of National Tourist Interest.

DENIA, as a member of the UNESCO Creative Cities Network, will participate in Bradford's Small World Film Festival throughout June.

The film festival is open to all members of the UNESCO Creative Cities Network and the theme of the 2017 edition is 'My City.'

Denia's audio-visual focuses on the famous Red 'Gamba' and shows how the art of gastronomy can be fused with music - two arts very rooted in the cultural tradition of the city.

The video will screen throughout June on a large outdoor screen, located in the city centre of Bradford, with a potential audience of 500,000 people.

The video will also screen throughout June at the University of Bradford.

Bradford is the world's first UNESCO City of Film. This permanent title bestows international recognition on Bradford as a world centre for film because of the city's rich film heritage, its inspirational movie locations and its many celebrations of the moving image through the city's film festivals, filmed related events and unique approach to learning about film and learning with film.

Participation in the Bradford Small

BRADFORD: Will host film festival.

World Film Festival sees the gastronomic and cultural values of Denia travelling to European and international scope, which, in the words of the city council, creates 'a very positive impact for the promotion of the city.'

The winning five films chosen by the jury will be screened at the UCCN 11th Annual Meeting to be held in Enghienles-Bains, France, from June 29 to July 2 2017.

The initial selection stage will take place on Saturday June 3 at the Centre Polivalent d'Activitats Socioculturals.

Following the initial selection stage, this year's final of the contest will take place between Friday June 16 and Sunday June 18 at the parc de l'Estacio and will also be broadcast live on the internet.

Anyone aged 18 and over is invited to participate in the contest - both solo contestants and duets/groups.

Each participant will perform two songs at the initial selection stage and will be required to take along their background music on CD. Of the two songs performed, at least one must be in Catalan or Spanish.

The judging panel will be made up of -

The Councillor for Fiesta, the Artistic Coordinator of the Oliva Song Festival 2016, at least one local musician, The Coach of Culture and the Secretary of the Committee on Socio-Information Services.

At the final, there will be four awards in total -

First prize: trophy and €400

Second prize: trophy and €250

Third prize: trophy and €150

Best local artist: trophy and €200

All participants in the final of the contest will also receive a diploma.

The Force is strong

THE Spanish garrison of the 501st Legion - nicknamed Darth Vader's Fist - are bad guys doing good things.

Members proved this recently with a visit to the Paediatric section of the Marina Baja hospital where they spent the afternoon with the young patients.

The 501st Legion are Star Wars fans who also contribute to the local community through their charity and volunteer work. The hospital visit mission led by an Imperial Stormtrooper and a Biker Scout was part of the 501st Legion's Star Wars Day celebrations.

This date was chosen for the phonetic similarity between 501ST LEGION: The Spanish garrison.

May 4 and 'May the force be with you' the troopers explained to the children.

The Legion members also visited other wards at the request of hospital staff and patients. "We all loved the visit," the Paediatrics coordinator said later. "Not just the children but the adults, too."

Frankenstein on the beach

ALTEA hosts this year's annual 'Com Sona l'ESO' concert tomorrow Friday, May 12 at 10pm.

The parking area that is also the Tuesday market site adjoining the River Algar has been turned into an open-air auditorium where 1,500 high school pupils and some of their teachers will sing, dance and make music.

This year participants, who are all at state schools in the Valencian Community, Balears and Cataluña, are premiering 'Frankenstein on the beach.' The spectacle, specially created for this occasion, touches on creativity, philosophy, fiction, art but above all on music and dance.

BEST VEHICLE: Thomas The Tank Engine winner of best banger in the rally.

Bangers breeze in

MORE than 40 custom vehicles travelling in convoy from the UK, brought the streets of Benidorm to a halt last Saturday afternoon when they arrived in the resort.

The 'Benidorm Bangers' covered the 1,600km since leaving the Ace Café in London on Tuesday lunchtime, to the Spanish resort in just over five days, raising money for their favoured charities on the way.

Organiser of the rally, now in its second year, Rob Scott, led the way in a bright yellow, converted van, with a propeller on its roof.

He customised the vehicle a couple of years ago, donating it as a fundraising tool to West Yorkshire Air Ambulance.

Since then, Rob has borrowed the van back from the charity on most weekends to visit charity fundraising events, raising around €45,000 in the process.

"West Yorkshire Air Ambulance is one of the most efficiently run charities in the UK," he said, "With over 14 pence in the pound going directly to the charity."

Rob, along with co-drivers and fellow organisers Mick (Sugar) Hammond and Jez Brambles all from Hunmanby, near Filey in Yorkshire collected around €3,500 on their journey down to Benidorm.

The convoy of 45, brightly coloured, wackily decorated cars, was accompanied into town by a police escort arranged by Angelo from The White Hart on Levante Beach, where their journey ended.

Throughout the trip south, members of the convoy were awarded points by Rob and Sugar, for performing various tasks, which usually involved making as much noise as possible to draw attention to themselves.

“ Thank you to all the people from the UK who have donated.

The organisers also awarded prizes for 'Best Vehicle' and the team who showed 'Best Spirit of the Event' plus other awards for fancy dress attire.

Best vehicle was won by a 'Thomas The Tank Engine' themed motor, which certainly drew the crowds for photos on Saturday afternoon.

The owner James Ritchie and his Bloo Toon Loons team raised around €3,500 in cash for Spina Bifida Hydrocephalus Scotland during the rally.

Prize for Spirit of the Event, went to brothers Dave and Steve Sutton and friend Frank Bailey, whose Volvo broke down outside Paris on Wednesday, needing €600 spending on a radiator repair.

Despite only being a short return journey from the channel tunnel, the boys waited around until Thursday afternoon, when the car was repaired, then drove 850km through the night non-stop to catch up with the rest of the convoy.

"It would have been far easier and cheaper for the lads to have gone back to the channel and home" Rob admitted, "But they stuck around, then drove like mad to catch us up, showing the true spirit of the event."

Another happy charity director at the rally on Saturday was Wayne Bellamy-Wright of 'Busy Bees Benidorm' who received donations of clothing, training shoes, toiletries, toys and many other items, which will go to help disadvantaged children at the Emaus Homes in our area.

"Each and every one of the cars brought us a box of stuff for the charity," said Wayne. "Some of them phoned ahead to ask us what we needed," he continued. "It's been amazing. We've got 50 times more stuff than last year and we've had to ask to borrow another car to get it home," he said.

"To say I'm overwhelmed would be the understatement of the century. Having been all day at the car rally I can't believe how much stuff they have donated. Thank you Rob, Scott and all the teams all the people from UK that have donated."

More money was raised later when the rally moved to Jokers Music Pub and final totals will be released soon.

After a few days rest the fundraising drivers will return to the UK, some with their vehicles, some without.

"We only lost one car on the way down, in France," said Rob, and we've arranged for a scrap car person to remove the vehicles not returning to the UK, we won't be dumping any of the cars in Benidorm.

"We will be back again next year in early May and hope to make it an even bigger event."

The Sunday Times Rich List - Just to make you Feel Good “Wealth is like sea-water; the more we drink, the thirstier we become; and the same is true of fame.

Arthur Schopenhauer

WITH
GARRY WAITE

THERE ARE NOW MORE BILLIONAIRES living in the UK than ever before despite fears over Brexit, the Sunday Times Rich List has revealed

This year's list found the richest 1,000 people and families have a record total wealth of £658 billion, a rise of 14 per cent on last year's £575 billion figure.

The wealthiest people in the UK are elderly brothers Sri and Gopi Hinduja, whose latest project is to convert the Old War Office in London into a luxury five-star hotel and 88 luxury apartments for the super-rich.

The pair first topped the list in 2014 and now have a fortune of £16.2 billion, made through investments spanning the oil and gas, automotive, IT, energy, media, banking, property and healthcare sectors.

They are now among 134 billionaires on the list - a record number in the UK and 14 more than last year's.

In today's world, being simply a millionaire no longer secures you a place on the Rich List, with a fund of £110 million now needed to get you a place in the top 1,000. Two decades ago people needed a fortune of only (sic) £15 million to make the cut.

Robert Watts, compiler of the rankings, said: "While many of us worried about the outcome of the EU referendum, many of the richest people just kept calm and carried on making billions."

Gopichand Hinduja, joint richest man, with his brother,
in the UK.

RELEASED THIS WEEK here are the top five:

1. Sri and Gopi Hinduja - £16.2 billion. The brothers live in a £300 million mansion overlooking St James's Park.

2. Len Blavatnik - £15.982 billion. The Ukraine-born investor owns Warner Music Group and lives in his home in Kensington Palace Gardens.

3. David and Simon Reuben - £14 billion. The brothers made their money in London property and internet. They bought a £70 million car park in Mayfair in 2015 which will be turned into a £500 million redevelopment.

4. Lakshmi Mittal and family - £13.229 billion. The world's top steelmaker is also a shareholder in QPR football club.

5. Alisher Usmanov - £11.791 billion. He owns a 30 per cent stake in Arsenal and made his money from mining and investment.

AND SPEAKING OF MILLIONS, regular readers may recall me mentioning about how in the 80's cities were closing banks down and entrepreneurs were converting them into restaurants and fashionable wine bars and brasseries. I commented that the practice had seemed to have faded. So it was with some interest that I read from London that the former Sir Edwin Lutyens-designed Midland Bank building on Poultry, just a minute's walk from the Bank of England, has been turned into a luxury hotel.

The Ned - the largest and most ambitious hotel to launch in London this year - is set to welcome its first guests.

The Ned - Large in Scale and Delivery.

A former Caterer named Hotelier of the Year 2015, Nick Jones is the man behind the enormous project. He never intended to open a hotel in the City of London. The capital's financial centre is not a typical location for an outpost of Soho House & Co, the company founded by Jones 22 years ago and renowned for attracting guests and members from the media and entertainment industries.

He was told about the availability of the building by the landlord of Little House, one of 18 members' clubs owned and operated by Soho House & Co worldwide. "I wasn't particularly keen to go along, but I didn't want to appear rude," he recalls. "The banking floor was jaw-droppingly beautiful," he said. "I clambered up on the roof, with its views over St Paul's, and immediately saw the huge potential the property offered as a hotel and collection of restaurants."

The hotel features 252 bedrooms, nine restaurants, two swimming pools - one on the rooftop and one in the basement - a spa, members' club and much more. The Ned is a beautiful, multifaceted beast, which required the help of a partner to create. After speaking to Ron Burkle, the American investor who acquired a 60 per cent stake in Soho House & Co in 2012, Jones met with Andrew Zabler, the founder and chief executive of Sydeff Group. Burkle is also the main financial backer of Sydeff Group, a company that has experience of grand renovation projects through the opening of six hotels in the US during the past five years.

"That was the start of our collaboration and it's been fantastic," enthuses Jones. "We love each other more than we did at the beginning, which is unusual when you're involved in a project of this scale."

While Soho House & Co has extensive experience of developing a variety of hospitality businesses - as well as the members' clubs (12 of which feature bedrooms and welcome non-members), it has also created 16 restaurant brands - nothing comes close to the scale of the Ned, which covers nearly 30,000 square metres.

Jones and his team made the most of the building, encouraging him to look to its banking heritage for design cues. Hence, much use has been made of the banking hall's original walnut-panelled counters, used by tellers, repurposed as bar counters and dividers between the different restaurants.

Once bustling with bank customers, the space will now buzz with some 850 restaurant customers at any one time. Meanwhile, in the basement, the bank vaults feature a lounge bar, containing more than 3,000 original stainless steel, engraved safety deposit boxes that once stored gold bullion deposits of £335m (£15b in today's money) and the two metre-wide doors have been retained.

Original in Design and in Fact - Entrance to the Vault bar at the Ned.

The £220 million investment is now in the hands of Gareth Banner, the managing director of the Ned, who was appointed from his former general manager role at the Renaissance St Pancras hotel, London, and is the person responsible for the hotel on a day-to-day basis, who explained the logistics. "We have a central production kitchen, which feeds into all the restaurants, and a specific kitchen for each restaurant," he says. "The restaurants will all be run independently with their own head chef, restaurant manager and team, while behind the scenes there will be a lot of shared services - such as purchasing."

Staffing the Ned with a team of 800 is what has kept Banner awake at night. The process, however, has been on track, with many individuals being recruited directly from Europe, despite the uncertainty of what Brexit will mean in the long-term with regard to employing staff from within the EU. Teams of recruiters have appointed in Rome and Barcelona through the offer of attractive packages, rather than wait for individuals to come to the UK and for the Ned to then compete with another 10 businesses for their services.

"It is a worry and a concern for everyone in our industry how the government is going to deal with the immigration situation," says Jones. "Over 75 per cent of the people who work for Soho House in the UK weren't born in this country. I'm sure the government will consider a way around it - they are going to have to."

Once again, the Hospitality Industry in the UK shows its concern for the future of employment of foreigners after Brexit. But for the time being the Ned will no doubt thrive in the competitive world of London hotels. It is still one of Europe's top destinations. The City has never been considered a leisure area especially in the evenings, up until about 10 years ago bars closed at 8.00pm. But with the dining experiences and entertainment on offer at this luxury hotel, it will surely be at the hub of the financial district. The old bank may well welcome more bankers as customers, than used to work there!

AMERICAN developer the Cordish Companies is continuing to insist that its proposed mega-project in Madrid go ahead. The Spanish capital had rejected Cordish's ambitious plan on the grounds that it would cost too much money.

Cordish has now offered to sweeten the deal, which would be among the biggest real estate developments in Spanish history. As well as a massive shopping complex with a cinema and hotels, they want to build a six hectare lagoon with an artificial beach where people can play volleyball and even surf and swim.

The government had been asked to contribute €340 million to the project, together with the €2.2 billion Cordish have at the ready. Madrid thought this figure excessive but, together with the new lagoon

Mega shopping back on track

MADRID COMPLEX: Would include a cinema, hotels, a six hectare lagoon and an artificial beach.

concept, Cordish has also said that all the city has to contribute is planning permission. They will do the rest.

The ball is now back in the city's court. There are fears that the project could take longer than expected and fill an appetite that doesn't exist in a huge city with its fair share of mega shopping centres.

But Cordish points out that this is no ordinary shopping centre. Like other hundred hectare estates planned for Valencia and the Costa del Sol it will feature luxury suites, a convention centre, sports centre, even museums and concert halls.

They estimate that nine million people would visit the centre each year, while the knock-on effects for Spain's booming construction industry would be enormous.

A demand for luxury

THREE villas on Campello's Muchavista beach in Alicante have been pulled down to make way for 10 luxury apartments.

Campello's General Development Plan (PGOU) drafted in 2011 originally intended to give planning permission for a hotel on the site. Instead, the PGOU was revoked last year by the Supreme Court on a technicality pointed out by a local business-owner who would have been adversely affected by it. For the time being at least, any future development will be in line with the 1986 PGOU.

Although the Supreme Court ruling put the brakes on the local construction sector last year and at the beginning of 2017, there is still a demand for frontline luxury properties. Three villas built last year above the l'Almadrava beach each sold for almost €1.8 million, sector sources said.

The new apartment building will have two 400-square metre apartments costing €1 million on each floor. The plans still have to go through as the developers were granted a permit only to demolish the three villas in the La Zofra neighbourhood. Although they now await planning permission some apartments have already been sold.

Going for gold

THE vast majority of foreigners who decide to buy a home in the Spanish sun choose second hand properties rather than new builds.

Latest breakdown figures show that 83.7 per cent of the homes bought by expats last year were second hand, meaning not only that they'd had more than one owner but also weren't built in the past year or two.

That meant that just 16.3 per cent of the 56,000 homes bought by foreigners were new builds. Oddly enough the statistics suggest that expats favour second hand homes more than Spanish nationals, 81.2 per cent of whom chose older properties.

But further breakdowns can be made between foreign nationalities. For instance the Irish, French and Italians overwhelmingly prefer second hand homes. Norwegians, Belgians and Swedish opt for new builds.

Alternatively Brits and Germans typically don't put too much currency on the age of the home. Rather they choose size, opting for homes with more than 100 square metres of space.

Regardless of whether the homes favoured are old or new, big or small, foreigners are continuing to buy Spanish in record numbers.

They bought almost 8,000 more homes last year than in 2015. That meant that 13.2 per cent of homes were bought by foreigners, a huge increase from the 4.2 per cent recorded in 2009.

Poppies are beautiful in full flower

By Graeme Tyrrell

THE spring flowers that grace the landscape at this time of year in areas where there has been good winter rain are a marvel to behold.

There is a plethora of colours and forms of flowers from tiny Scarlet Pimpernel to various types of the prominent Chrysanthemum family. An outstanding flower that catches the eye, especially when dominating a field, and that is very symbolic for many people is the poppy.

Poppies have a short lived flower but produce new ones consecutively to give the appearance of flowering for a long period during spring. The typically red common poppy is normally an annual plant of less than a metre in height but if you are cultivating poppies there is a wide range of different colours, sizes and forms available.

They make a great container plant to add colour to a balcony or terrace and in the garden they will brighten up an area where you visit frequently. I have the wild varieties coming up in my vegetable garden, but I let them stay and brighten up the garden during the establishment of the summer vegetable crops until the vegetables need more space.

The true poppies are Papaver species, of which there are over 70, but other families including the blue Meconopsis, plumed Macleaya and tree Romneya also have poppy as a common name.

As a cultivated plant the Iceland poppy is a favourite with many gardeners. It lasts for a couple of years so there is not the need to re-plant each year and the range of different coloured flowers is extensive.

The seed of poppies is very small and grows best when sprinkled on a cultivated soil surface or a potting mix with only a fine coating of mix to cover them or just press them into the soil in early winter and spring.

They sprout naturally in fields that have been cultivated or disturbed because they need to be near the surface and exposed to some light to germinate, so don't bury the seed. The association of the poppy with remembrance is that it grew so prolifically in areas of soil disturbance after military activities and burials in the natural soil.

They can be transplanted but do better grown from seed in their chosen spot. They grow very quickly, emerging one to two weeks from planting the seed, and can start flowering within weeks.

They don't need much care to grow other than to maintain moisture if they are grown in a good soil mix. A light liquid feed may help if they are not performing so well.

Grow them in a place with plenty of sunlight to maximise flowering and they will be a delight worth remembering.

A passion for the porcelain

IT seems that men are giving more consideration to cleaning the toilet. It makes sense that they should, as it is a regular port of call.

The days when men only managed to lift the toilet seat and never bothered putting it down may be over.

Things are changing, as researchers have discovered that men are taking more interest in the hygiene of their toilet and even buying products for cleaning, which is an amazing find. However, the report states that women are still taking most of the responsibility towards the cleaning of the 'throne.'

This new wave of interest may be due to there being so many products for cleaning the toilet that smell so wonderful, giving an incentive to take more of a part in this dreaded household duty. Awareness of germs is another reason, with people buying more disinfectants and advice for cleaning the toilet can be found so easily on social media.

TOILET CLEANING: How to keep your man interested in caring for the loo.

Keep the man in your life interested in caring for the loo, by making it a more welcoming place to be. If he likes to read on the loo, get him a bookshelf and he'll take pride in this very important area and invest in keeping it clean.

It is probably the only room in the house, where you can have complete privacy, so turn your visits into pleasurable ones with fresh clean aromas, patterned toilet paper and a squeaky clean loo.

The sanctuary of the bathroom

LIFE is very stressful these days and there seems to be nowhere to hide from the world outside, not even within your walls. There is one special place in the house that allows you to lock the door, so why not make the most of it, by turning this room into a Zen-like sanctuary, where you can begin to wind down in peaceful surroundings.

It is not difficult to create a private oasis and here are a few ideas to get some serenity back into your everyday life. The first idea is to put smooth stones in the sink and when the water flows over the stones, the splashing will sound like a water fountain.

The lighting should be soft and calming, so use candles positioned near a mirror, if they are unattended, use the flameless variety. If you have visitors, it would be interesting for them and yourself to have some artwork up on the walls. The focus will be drawn to the art and this will have the effect of relaxing you and your guests.

The smell of natural scents like jasmine and lavender, or incense cones can create a calming aroma. Decorate with fresh flowers or if the bathroom is well lit, add a fern, otherwise add a rubber plant, to emphasise the presence of nature.

To accessorise, add beautiful hand towels, presented in a basket and make sure to turn off the extractor fan if you need some peace and quiet!

Summer days in the shade

A Wisteria pergola at the botanical gardens in Malaga.

A sea pergola.

IN the summer, everyone loves to be outdoors and there's nothing better than sitting under a pergola, to take the edge off the heat of the sun.

The pergola is an extension of living space but can also be freestanding. The structure is based on posts and covered with a roof or arch, made of wood or metal.

Pergolas have been around for a long time and their original purpose was to provide protection from the sun. The origin of the word dates back to 1645-55 from the Italian Latin word, 'pergula,' which means protruding roof, arbour. Their beauty comes in their simplicity, a framework that's waiting to be dressed either with fabric, natural wood or live foliage.

The Ancient Egyptians used reeds or palm leaves and the Tuscans used grape vines on their pergolas. You could also use branches or bamboo; lattice panels that have a criss-crossed slat pattern, but don't give full protection; or fixed fabric in one piece or strips that are woven through and look very stylish. Other options are to use retractable canopies that are waterproof and have sun protection factor or to go for ultra luxury with pergola curtains that will give privacy and make you feel rather special.

The most beautiful pergolas are those decorated with climbing plants, which look and smell beautiful. The plants that can be used are the Chinese Trumpet vine; the Golden Hop, the Morning Glory; the common jasmine, climbing roses, 'Albertine'; Paul's Himalayan Musk, black grape, 'Brant' and Wisteria.

Some garden ideas for vertical walls

VERTICAL gardens are a very useful resource for those who would like to grow plants (or herbs, or vegetables) on their balconies or terraces while using as little space as possible.

There are various options to house your vertical garden, from expensive ready-made frames and planters to cheap or even free recycled ones you can make yourself.

Old wooden pallets can be fixed to the wall and plant pots incorporated, or for even less hassle screw old guttering to the wall and plant directly into it.

All sorts of bits of wood can be attached to the wall and various types of hooks used to hang plant pots from them.

For those who would rather not have their vertical garden right up against the wall, an old ladder is another good option that can be used.

Trauma in pets - part 3 - some guidelines

David THE Dogman

Please note that this article was written by Sara Reusche of Paws Abilities Dog Training in Rochester, Minnesota, United States.

IF your cat or dog has a history of trauma, whether suspected or confirmed, here are some guidelines to remember.

1. The cat or dog determines what's traumatising, not you. While you may not have thought that holding your pet down for a simple nail trim was that big a deal, your cat or dog may have a different opinion. Watch your dog's body language for signs of stress such as lip licking, yawning, slower or faster movement, freezing, and turning away so that you can intervene if a situation starts to go south.

2. Create safe places. One of the reasons to teach a dog to go to his or her mat is it is helpful for many dogs due to its clear structure of safety.

The mat is a positive place where treats, relaxation, and massage take place. Once the mat becomes a safe place, make sure to keep it that way. Do not allow anything bad happen to your dog on the mat. You can create other safe spaces as well - places in your dog's environment where only good things occur.

3. Give your cat and dog choices. One of the fastest ways to traumatise any mammal is to take away all of his or her choices. Create opportunities for your dog to make choices about his or her environment, schedule, and care as much as possible. Whether you let your dog decide which way to turn at the end of the block, wait for your dog to offer a foot for nail trimming, play with nose work, or give your dog several different beds to choose to sleep on. Cats decide where they are going to sleep.

4. Always try to end on a good note. Research has shown that people who have experienced identically unpleasant procedures created very different memories of those procedures depending on how traumatic the final moments of the procedure were.

For example, most dogs are concerned about having their feet handled. I file nails instead of clipping them because this is more comfortable for the dog and the dog is in control of how fast or slow nail trimming sessions go. Y our pet is also free to leave at any time if he gets too scared. At the end of every nail-trimming session, I practise simply touching the nail file to her toenails for less than a second, followed by a food reward. Because each session ends with these quick successes, they are more comfortable allowing us to handle their feet at the next session.

5. If your pet has a history of trauma, it's important to be aware of that past, but equally important to help your pet succeed in the present.

Last week's article was also written by Sara Reusche, but credit was not given due to an oversight.

Gizmo
Gizmo was born about the beginning of June 2016, and has been hand reared due to the fact that he was found in a rubbish bin. He is a real character, loves other cats and is fine with dogs. Gizmo loves playing and is quite talkative. He is short haired despite being fluffy when he was younger. Gizmo would make someone a fantastic companion. Call Alan/Bev if you would like to adopt this little fellow, or any of our other cats/dogs.

On the right path to a brand new car

AUTO MART is your professional and friendly car dealership in Benissa.

Established for the last two years, owner Matthew actually has more than 15 years in the car trade business in Spain before deciding to set up his own company, offering customers quality used vehicles.

British born Matthew has been in Spain since he was six-years-old so knows the language, system and industry inside out, meaning that the many expats looking at purchasing a new vehicle; whether that be a family car, work van or a simple run around for holidays, can rest assured Auto Mart have the skills and knowledge to make the process easy and straightforward, without any language problems.

They have a wide range of vehicles, with around 80 constantly in stock, including a good selection of automatic vehicles, from affordable cars costing a little over €2,000, to an amazing two-year-old Burstner Grand Panorama motorhome, complete with all the mod cons you would expect and want in a holiday home such as central heating, floor heating, solar power system and flat screen TVs. Of course, the added feature is that unlike your standard holiday home, with the Burstner Grand Panorama, if you fancy a change of scene, you can simply drive your luxury home to anywhere you wish.

Auto Mart offer a year's warranty on all vehicles and will carry out all the necessary paperwork and transfers and can help arrange financing. With all cars being serviced and with an up-to-date ITV before leaving the forecourt, your second-hand car will look and feel like a brand new car.

Selling a car privately in Spain can be a daunting experience for those new to Spain or unfamiliar with the process, but Auto Mart can make it easy and carry out the sale on your behalf, carrying out the ownership transfer for you or guide you through the paperwork. With the contract of sale signed, you will be paid in full on the spot for the price agreed or you can put it towards another vehicle in part exchange. They can also provide free online valuations by simply filling out your details via the www.automartbenissa.com website.

So check out Auto Mart and you could soon be driving off into the sunset with your new wheels.

Mobile phone signal shield

TROUBLE caused by mobile phones could soon be a thing of the past. Nissan claims to have developed new technology which acts as an electromagnetic shield blocking calls and any other notifications.

Drivers would simply drop their phone into the so-called Signal Shield sunk in the armrest and no longer have to worry about being distracted. Crucially for many people, especially those in business, they wouldn't have to switch their phones off altogether and risk losing critical messages.

All of the hundreds of various apps, from weather updates to email messages, would be blocked by the Signal Shield. Many drivers have reported feeling the urge to check their phone each time it buzzes, even when the vast majority of notifications are useless updates rather than important messages.

The sheer number of beeps and buzzes emitting from modern smart phones has led to a huge rise in the number of deaths and injuries on the roads caused by 'distractions.' It's no longer people chatting on the phone that is the deadliest, but those reaching for it.

The technology also fills a smart and selfish purpose. Users can virtually guarantee that they won't be caught or fined for using their phone.

Recent smart cameras wheeled out onto Spanish roads can check for phone usage, even seatbelt wearing. Police technology to catch offenders is quickly growing stronger.

ROAD TEST by Nick Fletcher

Mitsubishi Outlander 4

RAPID expansion of new SUV models has meant that one of the long established contenders in the class, the Mitsubishi Outlander, can sometimes be overlooked.

However, you miss the Outlander at your peril, for it provides a formidable package from a company noted for rugged build quality and excellent reliability. Latest versions have had a recent makeover, delivering smoother styling and equipment upgrades, with prices starting at €29,524 (£24,999).

Available as a five-seat plug-in petrol hybrid or a seven-seat 2.2 litre diesel, the Outlander is more roomy and more economical than some rivals. All versions have all-wheel-drive, and it also scores well for levels of standard equipment, with entry versions getting features such as cruise control, auto lights and wipers, dual-zone climate control and electronic parking brake.

My test model, in four trim and with automatic gearbox, was one of the top versions with a wealth of extra kit including premium sat-nav and audio system, 360-degree parking camera, heated steering wheel, rear cross-traffic alert, LED headlamps and daytime running lights, power tailgate, leather upholstery, electric sunroof and alloy wheels. It costs €39,562 (£33,499).

The Outlander has a tougher and more imposing exterior look than most rivals and underway, proves to have good r o a d manners, with well-weighted steering and a suspension set-up which nicely balances ride comfort with cornering poise.

The vehicle is a tad noisier at motorway speeds than some, much of it tyre noise, but in urban areas is quiet, agile and very car-like to drive.

The 147 hp diesel unit pulls strongly and has a nippy 0-100 kph time of 10.2 seconds in manual form, and 11.6 seconds as an automatic. Top speed is 190 kph (118 mph) and the fuel economy is 17.2 kpl (48.7 mpg). The Outlander is also very capable off-road, with a locking centre differential adding to its ability.

The cabin is well built and robustly finished with a quality look, though the overall design is rather plain and functional.

Five adults can be accommodated in comfort - the third-row seats are really just for children. The boot has 590 litres of space if the third row seats are not in use, and this can be boosted to 1,022 litres with the mid-row folded down.

Summing up, the Outlander comes across as a more serious, more capable SUV than some of its trendier rivals and while it has been around for quite a while, in latest revamped form it certainly deserves more attention.

OUTLANDER 4:
Can sometimes be overlooked.

Stats panel:

Model: Mitsubishi Outlander 4

Engine: 2.2 litre diesel

Transmission: automatic

Performance: 0-100 kph 11.6 seconds, top speed 190 kph (118 mph)

Economy: 17.2 kpl (48.7 mpg)

Emissions: 154 g/km

Model tested is UK-specification and equipment levels and prices may vary in other markets.

Tyre trouble

PORSCHE and BMW are battling for the hearts and minds of drivers with two strong extra offers attached to all new purchases.

From June 2017 all Porsches bought in the UK will come with sat nav and the Porsche Connect service.

That means, whether drivers like it or not, real time traffic info, online maps, and petrol station locators with fuel prices, will now be part of the Porsche package.

It's a timely move. Also in the UK driving tests are to make sat nav expertise an integral part of future exams.

BMW meanwhile is offering a different carrot. Whether you're in Spain or Germany, purchases of original BMW or MINI tyres will automatically come with a full three-year tyre insurance package.

All forms of damage will be covered and new tyres brought out at no extra cost.

Close finish in Spring Triples

WHAT a dramatic finish in both the Javaea Green Bowls Club Spring Triples final and in the Plate final, as both matches went into the last end at 7-7.

The competition, which was sponsored jointly by Select Villas of Moraira and Movers International, was run over two days with all teams playing in round robin leagues on day one and then on day two it was a knock-out format.

The Plate competition saw the Route Masters team of Peter Shaw, Keith Beaman and Alan Travers edge out the Scotch Eggs team of Pauline Bishop, Pauline Finn and Jim Fletcher on the final end and that needed the umpire to adjudicate over a tight measure.

Meanwhile the Spring Triples final was also decided on the final end, as the Lloyds Bankers team of Tony Lloyd, Ken Varney and Felicity Jenkins held just one shot to win 8-7 against the Wicks 'r' Us team of Alan Stephens, Tony Scott and Steve Lilley.

The club is pleased that Linda of Select Villas of Moraira was able to attend to present the prizes to the winning teams. Many of the members stayed to the end of the competition and enjoyed the bowling while basking in the sunshine.

EVENTS DIARY:

After Spurs' shock 1-0 defeat at West Ham last Friday Chelsea - having sent Middlesbrough down on Monday - will be crowned Premiership champions for the fifth time tomorrow night if they win at West Bromwich Albion (live on Sky Sport).

Other PL games this weekend include relegation battlers Crystal Palace against Hull... 4th placed Manchester City (recent 5-0 winners over Palace) v Leicester... Spurs (2nd) v Manchester United... Stoke v Arsenal (who ended Jose Mourinho's team's 25-match unbeaten run last Sunday)... and West Ham v Liverpool (3rd).

On Tuesday, Juventus (2-0 up) met Monaco in the second leg of their CL semi-final and last night Atletico (2-0 down) played Madrid rivals Real in their second leg encounter. Tonight it's Manchester United (leading 1-0) v Celta Vigo and Lyon (trailing 1-4) v Ajax in the Europa League semi-final second legs.

On Sunday, it's Blackpool v Luton and Carlisle v Exeter in the first legs of the FL2 play-off semi-finals while For-

Green Rovers play Tranmere Rovers in the National League play-off final at Wembley.

Also there are several Scottish League promotion/relegation play-offs (including Dundee United v Morton) and on Saturday Manchester City Ladies meet Birmingham Ladies in the women's FA Cup final.

Castleford (top) play Hull (2nd) tomorrow night in Rugby's Super League.

In golf, it's the Players' Championship at Sawgrass and the Portuguese Open (May 11-14).

The Spanish F1 Grand Prix takes place in Barcelona on Sunday.

Tomorrow, Rugby Union's European Challenge Cup final features Gloucester v Stade Français, followed on Saturday by Clermont Auvergne v Saracens in the Champions Cup final... both games at Murrayfield.

The triathlon World Series starts in Yokohama on Saturday.

The Mutua Open tennis championship is currently taking place in Madrid.

ROUND UP:

Barcelona (recent 4-1 winners over Villarreal) and Real Madrid (4-0 victors at Granada) are still level at the top of La Liga.

The winners of the first two classic horse races of 2017 were both trained by Aiden O'Brien... Winter (9-1) in the 1,000 Guineas and Churchill

(6-4 favourite) in the 2,000 Guineas. This was O'Brien's third Guineas double.

Three Spaniards stood on the podium at last Sunday's MotoGP in Jerez with Dani Pedrosa, Marc Marquez and Jorge Lorenzo finishing 1-2-3 on home soil.

Matt Neal, Colin Turkington, Gordon Shedden and Rob Colclard all won races at the BTCC meeting at Thruxton last weekend.

England beat Ireland by eight wickets (127-3/126) and by 85 runs (328-6/243) in cricket ODI's at Bristol and Lords.

In the Diamond Games, UK's Robbie Grabarz won silver in the high jump and Kenya's Eliud Kipchoge missed out by 22 seconds to break two hours for the marathon.

Novak Djokovic has sacked his entire coaching staff as he turns to 'shock therapy.'

Last weekend Blackburn Rovers were relegated to FL1 (they were last in the third tier in 1980)... Hartlepool United have lost their League status after 96 years' membership as Newport County survived, and Portsmouth won the FL2 championship on the last day of the season, ahead of Doncaster and Plymouth.

The FA has banned Manchester City from signing youth players.

Zlatan Ibrahimovic (Manchester United) is the world's richest footballer with a bank balance of £110m; Wayne Rooney is worth £93m while F1 driver Lewis Hamilton is the world's richest sportsman with £131m in his account.

And this is obscene - Manchester United have spent £1.16 billion on players in the Premiership era (1992-2017)... £528m in the last five years alone!

Chelsea's new £82m ground may not be ready until 2021, meaning they could play home games at Wembley (90,000 capacity), the London Stadium (66,000), Twickenham (82,000) or Reading's Madejski Stadium (24,182).

England World Cup winner Martin Peters has been diagnosed with Alzheimer's disease and Everton star Aaron Lennon has a mental health problem - so do 62 other footballers!
