Rental prices rocket

A RECENT report places Marbella as one of the most expensive holiday rental destinations in Spain, with prices soaring to an average of €1,100 per week this summer.

Independent research company Tecnitasa has analysed the rental prices of properties along the Costa del Sol and found that to enjoy a week on the Spanish coast will cost an average of €729, a €65 jump from last year and 30 per cent more than in 2014.

In Malaga Province, prices soar to €1,300 in Puerto Banus although apartments can be found from €450 on the seafront of the capital.

Ibiza, Sotogrande, Barcelona and Gerona have similarly expensive rental prices, all costing more than €1,100 per week.

As Spain's tourism industry grows stronger so will prices, with a 10 per cent annual hike now standard across much of the country.

Homeless man filmed before dying

Deadly 'joke'

By Matt Ford

Two Finns held over the death of a homeless Briton sleeping rough near Malaga Airport are behind bars as the search for a fourth suspect continues.

The two men - extradited to Spain under a European Arrest Warrant - will remain behind bars until the trial ends into the mysterious circumstances of the death of alcoholic Steven Allford on a bench outside the airport railway station in October.

He was found with his trousers pulled down, his genitals resting inside an empty tuna can, and with slices of ham on his exposed buttocks plus plastic ties on his wrists and ankles.

Mr Allford had been drinking and choked to death, but a judge from Malaga's Instructional Court concluded that the ties may have contributed by stopping him from moving.

During the initial hearing, the two Finnish men repeatedly claimed that the stunt "was just a joke," and that they only wanted to make fun of the victim, with one recording it on his mobile before uploading the video to Facebook.

MALAGA AIRPORT: Homeless man was found on a bench.

It was this footage, which was quickly removed from the social network, that led to detectives identifying four men involved and proving that Mr Allford was alive as he lay face down while being mocked.

One of the Finns was tracked to a prison in his homeland, where he was being held for a separate offence, while the other was picked up at his home.

They join 58-year-old Irishman James O'Byrne who in February was arrested as he slept in a tent in Algeciras, Cadiz, having earlier told investigators that he had only seen the incident from afar, and that he "hoped they would find the culprit."

O'Byrne and an Englishman who remain at large despite a European Arrest Warrant being issued, were both featured on the video.

Load of rubbish

MALAGA beaches were awash with 28 tons of litter last Sunday after thousands of revellers took to the sands to celebrate San Juan, leaving 86.66 per cent more rubbish than in 2016.

Road rage

THE court of San Roque has summoned the driver accused of ramming a family vehicle 16 times to trial after police received strong criticism for releasing him last week.

Soccer aid

POLICE arrested two cleaners who allegedly stole € 6,700 raised by a local football team at a Marbella charity function, with detectives recovering half of the missing cash after a two week probe.

Summer sales set to sizzle

THE summer sales have arrived in Spain and with them come incredible bargains as retailers aim to clear their shelves.

Traditionally the season starts on July 1 and run throughout the summer until late August. However, since the Spanish government has given retail outlets more autonomy to choose when they start and end their sales, there is now some regional variation. Madrid for example will always start a week early whilst other places will continue their sales until the end of September.

Brits travelling abroad for the sales might be slightly disappointed as a less favourable exchange rate than such big bargains. For everyone living in Spain however it's a great time to buy as retailers slash prices hugely.

The season is often broken into a few different stages. Retailers will start with small discounts of around 20 per cent, and then later as most popular items disappear the price will start to fall until the end of the season when items can go for a 70 per cent discount.

Be careful when showing up at the end of the season, though, as the unbeatable discounts are there because often only the unpopular clothes remain so expect odd sizes and unusual clothes or colours.

For those who prefer a more relaxing experience, online shopping is a genuine option, with websites often displaying similar reductions to those found in shops.

A significant boost to the economy is likely, with 44 per cent of Spanish consumers planning to make purchases in the season and employment in the industry increasing by 30 per cent during these months.

JULY 4: American Independence Day.

Happy fourth of July!

ONE of the biggest events in the US calendar will take place on Tuesday July 4 when Americans celebrate the anniversary of the declaration of independence from Great Britain.

This leaves those wanting to celebrate from Spain with a problem however, as the day is a holiday in the US but naturally not here and so they are left with no choice but to celebrate on the closest weekend or Tuesday evening.

Fortunately for US expatriates in Spain the holiday is easily transferrable and is normally celebrated with pool parties, BBQs and fireworks, all of which are popular past times among the Spanish.

Some larger organisations get involved including The American Society of Barcelona which will this year be holding a fiesta this Saturday with live music and food.

The US embassy in Madrid occasionally puts on special events as in 2015 when they transformed the Conde Duque cultural centre in Madrid into a Broadway stage, while local American Associations all tend to hold a special lunch.

State of emergency

LOCAL POLICE have arrested a drunk driver in Malaga Province after he forced several vehicles and an ambulance off the road on the A-7077 in the Guadalhorce valley. The man was caught in the northern town of Alora where Local Police were carrying out traffic checks. They had noticed the Volkswagen Golf speeding towards the town, followed closely by a visibly angered driver.

Blazing row

MALAGA Council has come under fire following the emergency services' failure to meet response times after five wildfires broke out within an hour across the capital last Monday. In the face of the criticism, security councillor Mario Cortes assured that Malaga emergency services have "all available means" ready in the event of a fire.

Fatal smash

A MULTI-CAR pileup on the A-7 in Torremolinos left at least one dead and six injured yesterday (Wednesday). Witnesses say one car was lifted into the air after a lorry crashed into the back of it. Initial reports said the accident occurred where a slip road merges onto the motorway heading towards Marbella.

Full throttle

A MAN had to be wrestled to the ground after trying to strangle a bus driver in Marbella. The allegedly mentally ill man apparently tried to disable his victim in order to crash the moving vehicle, which was heading towards the Costa del Sol Hospital as passengers leapt to the driver's aid.

Party poopers clamp down

TORREMOLINOS Council has banned beach bars from playing loud music in a bid to calm enraged locals.

It comes as the City Council warned that new bars and restaurants, mostly in the Los Alamos neighbourhood, cannot charge entry fees, install lighting equipment or host any activities "that disturb the normal enjoyment of the common uses of the specified area."

Deputy Mayor Maribel Tocon has alleged that some of the chiringuitos have become "authentic discos" without having the necessary operating licences. Her statement came following the temporary closure of the unlicensed Kokun Ocean Club, one of Los Alamos' most popular chiringuitos, after police had received tens of noise complaints from the venue in 2016.

The council suggest that the owners could face up to €30,000 worth of fines.

Business owners have demanded that the council solve the "administrative limbo" within which they have been operating for more than a decade.

SPANISH FACTS OF LIFE... 18

Every July, thousands of amateur daredevils flock to Pamplona, Navarre, to dash through the city streets chased by a herd of raging bulls in one of the most controversial festivals in Spain, and this year's party is close at hoof, taking place from July 6-14.

Feeling horny

CLAD in white shirts with red scarf and sash, more than 1,000 adrenaline-seekers from all over the world take part in the encierros, bull runs which take place at 8am every morning during the festival.

Each includes six bulls of the toro bravo fighting breed, which can weigh 625 kilos, and three to six steers that help keep the animals together as they career through the cobble streets, covering the 850-metre course in just two-four minutes.

The city's bull ring marks the finish, where most of the bulls are later killed during controversial afternoon bullfights.

Entry is free-of-charge and anyone over the age of 18 can take part with no need to register.

A load of bull

THE bull runs form part of the Fiestas de Sanfermin, or Sanfermines, which honour Navarre's co-patron saint.

The festival first became famous outside Spain after being immortalised in Ernest Hemingway's 1926 novel The Sun Also Rises, after which the number of foreign visitors snowballed.

Despite its popularity San Fermin is not without its critics and has attracted fierce criticism from animal rights campaigners in particular, who claim the bulls are traumatised and tortured before and after the runs.

INJURIES: Are common at the festival.

Gore blimey!

INJURIES are common at the festival, with dozens of runners injured every year, while 15 people have died since records began in 1924.

In 2009 27-year-old Spaniard Daniel Romero was killed after being gored in the neck, while in 2016 seven people, including six foreigners, were seriously wounded during a single run.

Hundreds are also hurt during regular bottlenecks at certain points along the course, the most notorious being the entrance to the bull ring and 'Dead Man's Corner.'

where they were holed up in a hotel with bags of stolen cash and goods.

Coach trip

A BOY who is believed to be of Moroccan nationality has travelled 143 miles clinging to the underside of a bus in a bid to reach Europe, before being found in Sevilla.

Emergency services tweeted footage of the boy, blackened with dirt after the trip, being led away by police.

€3m phone scam

NATIONAL POLICE, in cooperation with Romanian authorities, have arrested 57 people, several in Malaga, in connection with a mobile phone scam worth an estimated €3 million. The crime network, comprised of 13 different nationalities, acquired more than 2,000 high-end mobiles by posing as legitimate handset owners.

What a gas

TWO men who pretended to be gas, water and electricity checkers then stole money from elderly Costa del Sol residents, including British expatriates, have been held by National Police in Marbella. The fraudsters targeted vulnerable homeowners and charged them between €200 and €400 for their 'service.'

Wow factor

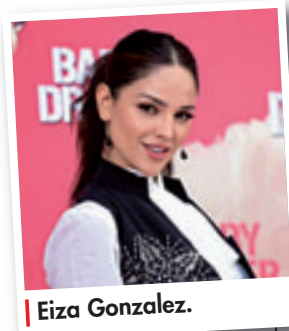

AMERICAN actress Alexandria Daddario's latest movie project, a reboot of 1990s lifeguard series Baywatch, may have flopped at the box office, but the 31-year-old is refusing to keep a low profile with an eye-popping appearance on the cover of men's magazine GQ Spain.

SHE was recently beaten by Italian rival Francesca Schiavone in the last 32 of the Mallorca Open. But rising tennis star Eugenie Bouchard, 23, chose the ideal way to get over the loss as she headed to the beach for a well-deserved tanning session and some cooling drinks.

WAYNE ROONEY: Partied in Ibiza with wife Coleen.

Roo's booze cruise

HIS glittering Manchester United career appears to be petering out amid rumours of a summer transfer, but former England captain Wayne Rooney, 31, showed he still has a lust for life as he partied in Ibiza.

After swigging cans of chilled beer on a luxury yacht with stunning wife and mum-of-three Coleen, 31, plus football pals Darren Fletcher, Danny Welbeck, Phil Jones and Alex Bruce, the striker hooked up with a gaggle of celebrities at the Blue Marlin Beach Club.

Both Wayne and Coleen sported painful-looking sunburn after their aquatic adventure, but they continued to soak up the rays while knocking back mixed drinks and chatting to Gossip Girl star Ed Westwick and Real Housewives of Cheshire's Tanya Bardsley.

As he prepares to head back to the UK, the goalscoring legend is likely to leave the Red Devils before the new season starts, and ex-England boss Sven-Goran Eriksson insists that China would be an ideal destination.

"I haven't spoken to Rooney for a long time, so I don't know what he is thinking, but if he went to China I think he would have a positive experience," said the Swedish coach, who was until recently in charge of Chinese second-division outfit Shenzhen.

"He has a young family but there are international schools in the big cities and I know for sure he would have every help possible to make him settle. He would be made very welcome."

RELAXATION:
An athletic shot was posted on Instagram.

AFTER spending a few days in the south of France with ex-husband Chris Martin and children Apple and Moses, Hollywood star Gwyneth Paltrow arrived in Marbella.

The Coldplay frontman returned to the UK for an appearance at Glastonbury, but 44-year-old Gwyneth who has announced that she will give up acting to concentrate on her internet business Goop enjoyed a few days on the beach with her children.

She appeared relaxed after slipping into a tiny black bikini before frolicking in the waves, and later posted an athletic shot to Instagram during a visit to Conil de la Frontera in Cadiz.

ANTONIO BANDERAS has returned to the Costa del Sol for the first time since abandoning the Astoria project

It comes as the Hollywood heavyweight and Malaga native is to accept a prize from the city's performing arts conservatoire (ESAEM).

Earlier this year Banderas partnered with the city council to convert the old Astoria cinema into a cultural and leisure complex. He pledged to donate €250,000 a year to support the centre, but withdrew after the council over-commercialised the project and lost sight of its original purpose.

After being asked if he would rejoin the initiative, moments before going onstage to receive recognition for his contributions to performing arts, he said "I stand by my original decision, when a decision is made, it is made.

"That does not mean that I won't do anything in Malaga in the future, it just means that the Astoria project is a no," he continued, adding that "if I am to do something, it will be done from the private sector as it's less toxic than the public sector with all their complications."

Upon taking the award at the ESAEM gala, Banderas said "the important thing is not the prize; the important thing is what people here at the school are doing. I see young energy, it's exactly what our city needs."

Citizen justice backfires

POLICE arrested two men who assaulted their prisoners as they tried to escort them to their patrol car.

As reported in the Euro Weekly News (issue 1667), officers had intervened in a mass brawl at Los Alamos nightclub in Torremolinos when even more trouble flared.

Two brothers were blamed by a crowd of up to 50 people for the violence, which resulted in multiples injuries, including a cracked jaw.

The mob rounded on the pair when police arrived, broke up the fight and arrested the brothers. But as they tried to take them to the car, two men broke through and began assaulting the detainees.

After reviewing video footage both men, Spanish nationals aged 31 and 37, were apprehended and now face a variety of charges, including assault and obstruction of justice.

A RECENT study has shown that residents on the Costa del Sol are two times more likely to develop skin cancer compared to the rest of Spain.

The presence of melanoma, the most aggressive type of skin cancer, is much higher on the Costa del Sol than in any other part of the country. The report shows that in Malaga Province there are 17 cases per 100,000 inhabitants, almost double the 9.6 national average.

Melanoma Spain and Roche Spain have launched a prevention campaign entitled 'Your skin imports' after reporting that the tumour rates increased 50 per cent between 2007 and 2014.

Maria Godrid, patient and representative of Melanoma Spain, said: "The key to reducing the occurrence of melanoma is prevention, as up to 90 per cent of skin cancer cases could have been prevented by adopting correct protective habits."

Alongside their campaigns, the research groups are stressing the importance of early diagnosis through awareness.

OUR VIEW

London faces tragedy again

THE past week has been a terrible one for London with the death of at least 79 people in the Grenfell Tower fire. Add to this the terror attack on Muslims mowed down after prayers and death seems closer and more random than ever.

It was perhaps sadly inevitable that there would be an attack on a Muslim target by a white van driver and this is what appears to have happened in Finsbury Park leaving one person dead and at least eight badly injured.

Those affected by the fire seem to have some considerable reason to criticise their council for spending so much money on the refurbishment of the block to apparently make it appear more attractive to visitors and wealthy residents whilst ignoring safety aspects such as internal sprinkler systems.

An enquiry will take place into the reasons for the speed in which the building became an inferno and will possibly apportion blame but enquiries take a long time and if it proves to be partially the fault of the Kensington Council, its officers will almost certainly be protected from prosecution.

The government has not fared well following the conflagration and despite offering a £5 million (€5.7 million) fund to assist sufferers it has been suggested that the money has not been forthcoming nor has alternative local housing.

Off the rails

FIREFIGHTERS rescued an Irishman in Marbella who had trapped his leg between two metal railings.

In the early hours of the morning, 061 received a call from the victim requesting assistance in cutting him free from the fence.

According to emergency services, when firefighters arrived at the scene they created a scaffold to raise the man whilst cutting the iron bars.

He was then taken to hospital with a section of the fence still attached to his leg where he awaits surgery.

Donkey work!

Tourist steeds to wear rubber shoes

NEW SHOES: Rubber soles for Mijas' working horses and donkeys.

By Matthew Elliot

DONKEYS and horses used to keep Mijas' photo-friendly tourist taxi industry afloat will now wear rubber shoes instead of traditional iron. The decision was announced by Transport councillor Nuria Rodriguez late last week.

The decision came after construction workers noted that the pueblo's famous cobblestones were being gradually worn down by the solemn clunking of heels. Donkey taxis and horse-drawn carriages have proven a major, if controversial, attraction for decades.

To stop the practice ultimately destroying Mijas' roads, the council will fund the new rubber-soled shoes. Rodriguez claims they are killing two birds with one stone and also making life easier and more comfortable for the animals.

"With rubber shoes we can preserve the image of the town and benefit the horses," she told the press. Coachmen tried different materials and styles before settling on rubber.

Rodriguez has been on the back foot in Mijas lately, forced to make concessions to upset animal rights defenders and residents shocked at some of the treatment endured by the donkeys in particular.

A video surfaced last year showing one coachman remorselessly beating a donkey which had collapsed due to thirst. Protests regularly take place in the pueblo against the practice.

TOLL MOTORWAY: The prices have risen for the summer.

AP-7 takes its toll

SUMMER price rises on the Costa del Sol's AP-7 toll motorway have sparked outrage as fees rise above €7 between Fuengirola and Marbella.

The limited-access highway runs in two parts along the Mediterranean coast of Spain. The second 96km long section passes through Torremolinos, Benalmadena and Fuengirola connecting Malaga to Cadiz.

The PSOE opposition party have criticised that during summer months the motorway sees a 65 per cent increase in traffic without lowering the concession. Rodriguez called for the Diputacion of Malaga to "lead and become involved" in the issue.

MPs Eva Rodriguez and Jose Antonio Gonzalez have urged the Malaga's provincial council to apply the law, explaining that current legislation requires that "if traffic rises, the rates go down accordingly.

"The rates are not adapting to the model outlined by the law," they continued, adding that "the company should not be allowed to continue exploiting users of the road, while blatantly defying the council.

"It is an unjust situation that affects the locals in the surrounding areas," Gonzalez added.

The party members stressed that the purpose of the proposal is to make the motorway available to all.

New hope for bridge victim

THE 16-year-old who plummeted tens of metres into the Tajo de Ronda gorge in Ronda has awoken from his coma.

As reported in the Euro Weekly News (issue 1668) the youngster was celebrating the end of exams with his classmates when he fell from Paseo de Blas Infante near the historic town's famous bullring.

Emergency services took over two hours to perform the complex rescue, and later transferred the teenager to Hospital Carlos de Haya in Málaga after he sustained several fractures, spinal injuries and severe head trauma.

After 11 days in a coma he has now woken up.

Mayor of his hometown Cañete la Real, Pepi Jurado said: "In truth we can say that this miracle has filled us with hope, both the boy's family and townspeople."

The mayor continued, saying that "in all the years I've been in the town hall, we've never been through anything quite like this; the town is devastated."

However, the victim is still in the Intensive Care Unit (ICU) as he remains in a serious condition.

Heart-break goes on for Leo the Lion

THE heart-breaking story of cancer fighter Leo the Lion's fight for a normal childhood has taken a tragic new twist.

A desolate Karen, mother of the brave four-year-old who has spent almost all of his life fighting a rare form of brain cancer, yesterday (Wednesday) revealed that doctors say his tumour has returned and is once again growing although they are not yet sure of its size.

In addition in the last four weeks, he has lost between 1-1.5 kilos, a further indication that his cancer has returned.

A fund launched late last year - and taken up by the Euro Weekly News with subsequent widespread publicity reaching hundreds of thousands of people - raised enough money to send him to the United States for cutting edge proton-beam therapy.

This funding, in part thanks to the amazing generosity of EWN readers, enabled little Leo, who lives in Almeria, to under-go potentially life-saving treatment in Oklahoma.

But after new hope since his return to Spain in May that little Leo could win his fight for a normal life like other children, the reality is that doctors now fear the worst.

And another sad twist is that the bank in charge of the fundraising account say that the money can only be used for treatment, meaning Karen and sister Sofia will be unable to make his remaining time as memorable as they had hoped, although the family is not giving up.

In a message mum Karen said: "Leo is the happiest little boy ever, he still lightens up any room with his smile, he amuses everyone with his wonderful sense of humour, he lights up our lives and I really do not know what we will do without him."

Nobu opens first restaurant in Spain - Marbella

Nobu Restaurant & Lounge, the first Nobu to open in Spain, is set to launch on June 15 at Puente Romano, Marbella.

The new restaurant will introduce Nobu's world-renowned New Style cuisine to the resort's discerning guests. Inventive style, known as Nobu-San style, has joined Japanese cooking and Peruvian flavours.

The Nobu menu will offer a mouth-watering array of signature dishes including Black Cod Miso, Yellowtail Sashimi with Jalapeño and Tiradito, as well as speciality plates inspired by Marbella itself.

Nobu is known for his playful cuisine and creativity as well as keeping his regular guests intrigued by introducing them to new tastes and flavours.

Nobu-San enjoys sharing his recipes and once humorously stated: "They can copy the recipes, but they cannot copy the heart that I put into each recipe."

Drawing on inspiration from the ingredients themselves, Nobu has created a stunning menu filled with incredible dishes, each delivered with beautiful presentation, a feast for all the senses.

Nobu's signature cocktails, crafted by master mixologists, will be served alongside its Bar Menu in the Nobu Lounge. It has a chic and refined design that is set to have an electric atmosphere adjacent to the restaurant and overlooking Puente Romano's famous 'La Plaza.'

Designed by StudioPCH Malibu, Nobu Restaurant & Lounge Marbella will balance comfortable simplicity with natural materials and textures, consistent with the recently refurbished resort's contemporary aesthetic.

Nobu Marbella will serve dinner every day from 7.30pm - 1am. Nobu Lounge will offer a Bar Menu from 7.30pm and Nobu Bar will serve cocktails accompanied by music from live DJs until 4am on Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays.

No more twinkle?

MARBELLA Council and Starlite event organisers have yet to draw up a new agreement after the festival's venue permit expired.

The Nagueles quarry, a 40,000sqm protected area in the Sierra Blanca, is under the jurisdiction of the Junta de Andalucía. On July 6, 1992 the Junta temporarily granted it to Marbella City Council to use as an auditorium for 25 years.

The council then signed an agreement with event organisers in 2012 to use the quarry at an estimated annual cost of €7,000. Although after other payments for licences and guarantees, the figure is alleged to be around €140,000 a year.

The new agreement is waiting for the Junta to extend Marbella's lease for the quarry and the closure of a grievance filed against festival organisers by Marbella's town planning.

The complaint submitted by the planning department consists of the illegal construction of two walls and a pavement in the quarry. However, the case is expected to close after a recent inspection committee saw that the altered area had been demolished.

Although, the most pressing matter discussed during negotiations is the licence fee. When Starlite first came to Marbella, the government saw it as an opportunity to boost interest in the city. Allegedly, after taking into account the touristic appeal of the project, it was decided the event organisers should be charged what Marbella paid to the Junta.

Now, after five years of the event, the Starlite festival no longer needs a council subsidy. Reportedly, the council intends to raise the fee to an annual €100,000.

With many variables left in play, the festival's future remains insecure.

A breath of fresh air

MALAGA CITY: Only 130 areas were flagged as danger zones.

DANIEL CARO, director of the Urban Cloud Company, has announced that visitors and residents in Malaga can breathe good quality air in 95 per cent of the city.

In a recent study conducted by Malaga Council and Urban Cloud, a team of 40 voluntary cyclists collected air samples across the capital. The report, presented by Environmental councillor Raul Jimenez, was carried out across 2,355 areas in the province. Of these, more than half (1,405) tested for low pollution, 820 tested for moderate pollution, and only 130 were flagged as danger zones.

Despite being a city with significant motor traffic, the study shows that the presence of carbon dioxide remains well below the levels in Madrid, Sevilla and Barcelona.

The 130 zones showing evidence of high levels of pollution will be subject to a second round of testing, according to Jimenez. The next stage will use more sensitive equipment to carry out an in-depth analysis of the pollutants and, if necessary, devise counteractive solutions.

The full analysis can be found at <https://urbanclouds.city/maps/map-interactivo-teselas-malaga>

Future of Motor City in the citizens' hands

THE Social Council of Mijas will be given the final say whether the contentious Motor City karting and sports car racing project continues or not despite the plans having been in place since 2013.

Town mayor Juan Carlos Maldonado announced last Tuesday that the decision on whether the project will continue will be given to locals of Mijas after it has been alleged that residents of La Cala, close to the proposed site, were not consulted.

The announcement was met with derision by members of the opposition People's Party (Pp), who promptly walked out of the plenary session.

The project was first given the go ahead in 2013 by the PP without considering the people who would be affected by such a large scale construction project to create a noisy and busy tourist attraction.

The plans for Motor City would occupy a space close to 200,000 square metres and cost around €4,000,000. The key benefit of the attraction is its ability to generate jobs and vitalise the area.

However, the mayor has stated that the decision reached by the Social Council, a body which aims to increase local participation in socioeconomic areas, will be respected so the future of the project is not guaranteed. The decision is likely to be reached in August.

The local government has commissioned a report which will assess the economic damage of cancelling the project after investors have already had the go ahead and made plans for the project. The €50,000 given to investors as a guarantee will be kept and the loss of earnings may have to be covered which could be as high as €200,000.

NEW CAMPAIGN:
Aimed at those who fail to pick up their rubbish.

Love where you live

BENALMADENA Council has launched an innovative new environmental awareness campaign aimed at those who fail to pick up their rubbish.

A section of beach has been 'littered' with giant cigarette ends, sticking plasters and other items which will be moved to other areas over the course of the summer to remind sun-worshippers to use litter bins and containers.

"We wanted to do something both striking and innovative for residents and tourists to be aware of how important it is to care for the environment," said Encarnacion Cortes, Port Tourism and Beaches councillor.

It comes as town halls up and down the Costa del Sol were left shocked by the amount of rubbish left behind by revellers during the recent San Juan celebrations.

Faster Wi-Fi to be trialled

MARBELLA Council intends to introduce Wi-Fi hotspots around the city following a somewhat unsuccessful pilot project last year.

The concept is to ensure that tourists are able to use Wi-Fi in the most popular areas in Marbella and as last year's experiment was popular in principle but criticised for being slow, the council have found a new supplier.

Initially it is expected that there will be 30 access points centred on tourist hot spots such as the Paseo Maritimo in Marbella and the Paseo Maritimo and boulevard in San Pedro Alcantara.

Assuming that this limited roll out is successful then it is intended that the supply will be extended to incorporate 200 locations throughout the city limits to include Marbella Old Town and a lot of San Pedro.

One way of extending this concept further is via updated street lighting and is based on experiences gained from other cities such as Madrid and Santander.

With this initiative, the council wants Marbella to be labelled 'the intelligent city.'

Police imposter steals two vehicles

NATIONAL POLICE have arrested a 46-year-old man in Marbella for stealing two high-end vehicles while posing as an undercover officer.

Investigations began when a resident reported that a supposed Local Police officer had impounded his off-road vehicle without reason. A week later, another woman reported her SUV had been taken outside the station.

According to police sources the accused chose the victim based on the car they were driving, approached them while displaying a police badge and asked for their licence and registration details.

He gained access to the woman's vehicle by instructing her to accompany him to the station. Upon arrival the alleged car thief asked her to wait while he parked the car, and then stole the vehicle leaving the victim stranded outside police headquarters. Police were able to identify the suspect after locating one of the vehicles in La Linea de la Concepcion.

BENALMADENA Council has begun the preparation of its first equality plan, which aims to eliminate the presence of gender discrimination in the workplace in order to "provide equal access to the labour market," said Equality councillor Irene Diaz.

Tax area

ALTHOUGH in principle agreement was given several months ago for a special tax area for La Linea, no terms have yet been agreed. The Spanish government continues to consider how this should go forward.

OVER 1,200 Saharawi children are to be welcomed by Andalusian families this summer as eight refugee planes land at Malaga airport.

The association began in 1997 with a unanimous agreement between Andalusia's eight provinces to provide aid to the Saharawi people.

Morocco had claimed ownership of the western desert lands in 1976 following the withdrawal of Spain from the area once called the Spanish Sahara. After the United Nations refused to recognise Morocco's claim on the area, a civil war broke out between the Saharawi Arab Democratic Republic (SADR) and Morocco.

Since 1991, although there has been a cease-fire between the two nations, the conflict has made the Saharawi people refugees in their own lands.

The children participate in the 'Holidays in Peace 2017' programme organised by non-profit agency Fandas-Sahara as a means to keep them out of the desert heat - which reaches 55 degrees - and to improve their quality of sanitary and nutritional life.

A total of 1,277 children between the ages of eight and 13 have been welcomed from Algeria to spend their holidays in Spain after Malaga Council approved the initiative.

Human touch!

SUPPORTIVE: Malaga Football Club donated a player's shirt to be auctioned.

THE mayor of Alhaurin de la Torre, Joaquin Villanova, welcomed a group of young aid workers before they set sail for Senegal.

Five of the seven represent the Eo Eo Association, which is an international charity focused on helping the disadvantaged, who visited Villanova to raise awareness of their mission.

The group will be educating and helping villagers throughout North Africa on their journey, with a particular focus on children in need. The president of Eo Eo, Daniel Vaga, has confirmed that the amount needed to meet travel, logistic and accommodation costs will be met over the next couple of days, as the mayor has promised a sizeable donation.

The project has attracted strong support, and after the mayor's 'emotional goodbye' Malaga Football Club donated a player's shirt to be auctioned, and 60 strips to be taken to Senegal.

2,500 athletes flock to Malaga for Games

THE World Transplant Games Federation's (WTGF) 21st competition is underway in Malaga and will continue until Sunday July 2 after the city won its bid to host the games.

The event sees more than 2,500 athletes from 55 countries compete to raise awareness of organ donation. The participants are aged between four and 80 and have all had life-saving transplants.

The celebration commenced at the city bullring on Sunday with a parade of the participating nations and a tribute to Pablo Ruez, who recently passed away while leading a successful campaign for bone marrow donations.

Over the course of the week organisers have promised a variety of sporting events, from table tennis to 30k cycling competitions, alongside cultural events that offer athletes a sneak peak at Andalusian history.

Malaga officials celebrate hosting the games with WTGF president Chris Thomas.

Chris Thomas, president of the WTGF, emphasised in his opening speech that athletes "have not come here for medals, but to have a good time, to live in the moment and celebrate life itself."

He continued to congratulate the patients and donors who attended the event "for their effort and ability to overcome adversity," and announced that "organ donation is the gift of life."

Roads to close for the summer

RESIDENTS and merchants in Mijas have struck a deal to semi-pedestrianise the streets of the town in a bid to increase safety and tourism.

"We wanted to listen to residents to reach a joint solution between all the parties involved," said Mayor Juan Carlos Maldonado.

"The proposal is to provide solutions, not to create more problems, so we wanted to involve civil society, locals, in decision making at all times," he continued.

The original proposal came from Local Police who had asked that the streets be closed from 12pm-12am during summer due to the hazard vehicles presented during peak hours. However after consultation meetings led by Maldonado, it was agreed the time limit was excessive.

The mayor has emphasised it is essential that the City Council provide maximum protection to both citizens and visitors in these crowded areas "and in the same way, to gain quality in our tourism offer."

The semi-pedestrianisation is now operational until September between the hours of 6pm-12pm on Calle Malaga, Calle Carril and Avenida del Compas.

Surfing life

Mayor Mario Jimenez celebrates the paddling success with the five women.

FIVE cancer survivors paddle surfed 6.5 miles from Estepona to La Duquesa, Manilva, in a bid to raise awareness for cancer.

The group of women wanted to prove to other cancer patients and survivors that positivity is instrumental to aid recovery.

“Sometimes force does not leave the arms or the body, because the mind is the most powerful muscle we will ever have,” explained one of the women, Susana Languarda, after they finished an hour ahead of schedule.

“Sometimes, when you have to face important and difficult things in life, you tend to change your priorities and your point of view about everyday things,” said another of the women, Fuengirola pharmacist Carmen Diaz.

“You have to find a positive, even in having cancer, and for me that positive thing has been to learn how to value people who have been with me in the worst moment and enjoy every single minute of living,” she maintained.

Mayor of Manilva Mario Jimenez waited alongside officials at the finish line in La Duquesa to receive the women. After their arrival, the blue flag was raised, awarded this year for upholding the highest environmental standards and clean waters.

In addition to demonstrating life after cancer, the women have contributed sponsor donations to the Spanish Association Against Cancer and women’s charity ZONTA Malaga.

Copper Heeler brings relief from arthritis

MANY people have suffered with arthritis over the years, finding no long-term solutions, turning to strong medication to try and ease the pain, and thus putting up with a lesser quality of life. Malcolm Landsman, who had studied magnetic and copper therapy for years, realised he may have hit on the solution to easing the joint pain that so many people experience.

Copper Heelers are a simple accessory placed inside the heel of the shoe that gives arthritis sufferers incredible results within weeks.

This works by means of replacing the copper in the body that arthritis sufferers lack. We all need certain metal elements in order to thrive and one of those key elements is copper, it is an essential part of the minerals within the body. There are 25,000 sweat glands in the foot alone, and so this is a prime area to absorb copper and utilise its healing properties.

Copper also prevents inflammation around the joints, so there is a feeling of well-being all round. Malcolm has been marketing the Copper Heelers in Spain for more than five years now, and he has satisfied customers spreading the word about their change of life since using them. One lady from Las Siesta wrote to Malcolm only last week to say: "I have suffered for 10 years with the agony of arthritis, but since I have bought the Copper Heelers and worn them, my arthritis has improved in only five days!"

This miracle insole has brought joy to many who have been restricted with movement in the past.

Find us at Benidorm Market on Wednesday, Camposol (Alley Palais) on Friday, Playa Flamenca Market on Saturday, Zoco Market (near Benijofar) on Sunday.

For more information on the Copper Heelers, please visit the website at www.copperheeler.es or call Malcolm on 966 763 770.

Adapted surfing provides therapy

THE Centre for Attention to Children's Diversity (CADI) has paired with Balu's Adapted Surfing Association (BASA) to provide surfing lessons to children with special needs in Marbella.

Every Saturday morning, at 9.30am, children with learning disabilities arrive at Cabopino beach with their parents and carers to partake in an hour and a half of boundary-pushing fun.

The day begins with a warm-up session on the sand, tailored to the needs of each individual, focusing particularly on balance. After donning their neoprene wetsuits, they follow their canine guide Balu into the water.

Each of the participants take a surf board into the sea, accompanied by the golden retriever at all times "acting as an example by giving the children more confidence and even climbing onto their surfboards," explains Maria Ronisch, head of the non-profit association BASA.

"This exciting water sport, as well as contact with animals, obtains excellent results," said Ronisch, maintaining that "it can improve aspects such as motor skills, interpersonal relationships, self-perception and self-esteem."

The weekly event sees children with autistic spectrum disorder (ASD), muscular paralysis and other less common impediments.

"Adapted surfing is an instrument of integration and improvement," said Ronisch, "physical exercise has been shown to have a positive impact, such as strengthening self-esteem, increasing sense of control, improved self-confidence and mental functioning."

Karina Milici, president of CADI, stated that the activity helps children "find balance in the face of sensory problems, giving way to a better understanding of breathing, balance and eventually their emotions."

The organisers of the event are now looking to host a second slot due to a growing demand for the service.

Laid to waste

MARBELLA has announced a €1 million plan to remodel the sewage network along the shores after violent storms have caused frequent spillages.

The public water company Acosol has prepared a proposal to remove the sewer pipeline from the breakwater at the beach of Lindavista. The draft looks to modify 11 wells and 650 metres of pipelines due to continual discharges of waste into the sea.

After gaining approval from the neighbouring administrations Acosol aims to begin work between the El Chopo stream and the Avenida del Mar Mediterraneo in Marbella.

“We have a good agreement with the administrations involved (Ministry of Environment, Junta de Andalucía and Marbella Town Hall) to carry out this work,” DRAFT PLAN: Will modify 650 metres of pipelines.

said Acosol CEO Manuel Cardeña, but recognised that “no formal agreements have been carried out yet.”

Cardeña stated that for this reason, the council of Marbella must make the private land available “to tender the works that we propose, since we only have until the end of the year to use the budgeted €1 million.”

However, before the Junta de Andalucía can authorise the work, the company must obtain an archaeological report certifying that La Basílica de Vaga del Mar, one of the largest roman burial sites in Spain, will not be at risk while repairs are carried out.

Acosol have called for an acceleration of the project “due to the rupturing of a manifold which breaks frequently due to the force of the sea.”

The last incident occurred on February 22, when a pipeline ruptured causing waste to be discharged into Puerto Banus.

SWEETS in a Spanish market stall.

By Ben Harris

AFTER 2016's successful inaugural Mercado De Levante, a chic market in Sotogrande, it will be returning on July 1 and running until the end of August.

Last year's event saw a wave of good food, parties, markets and events flood into the Marina de Sotogrande and start a festival which is likely to become an ongoing tradition.

During the market period there will be food trucks stationed around the Marina every day between 5.30pm and midnight except on Fridays and Sundays when they will be open from 10pm till midnight.

The trucks serve a variety of different high quality food using local ingredients including salads, sushi, seafood, burgers and a variety of different tapas dishes in line with the vibrant Mediterranean tradition. In classic Sotogrande style Champagne and cocktails are also available.

There will also be night markets on Wednesday and Thursday from 7pm until midnight and a Sunday market from 10am until 3pm.

Stylish striped tents will sell clothes, food, antique items and a whole array of interesting items from the local area.

Making a splash for ALS awareness

INTERNATIONALLY renowned swimmer Jaime Caballero is preparing for a 90-kilometre swim to raise awareness for the degenerative disease ALS.

It will be a round trip with Sotogrande being his start and finish point and Marbella, 45km away, being the half way mark.

ALS is a muscular degenerative disease which slowly paralyses those affected; Stephen Hawking is a well-known sufferer.

Caballero wants to raise awareness for a charity he co-founded called Siempre Adelante (Always Ahead) which aims to highlight the need for more research and investment to understand the disease and find ways to make sufferers lives easier.

The journey to Marbella is expected to take between 12 and 16 hours and it is yet to be confirmed if the swimmer will stop here and resume the following day or almost immediately commence the return journey.

The benefit of taking a break half way is firstly that he will not have to deal with the jellyfish populations which come further inland at night and he has a chance to increase public participation in Marbella.

Throughout the journey he is likely to counter hardships like wind, currents and sea animals. These are unlikely to stop him however as the swimmer in the past has crossed the Channel and the Lake of Geneva which is a 22-hour journey.

The swim will go ahead in the first week of August and Caballero will be accompanied by a doctor, a reference pilot as well as family and friends.

TIME OUT: The group enjoyed five days of fun.

Fundación Blas Mendez Ponce/Facebook

Journey to the sea

A GROUP of young people suffering from cancer have been given the opportunity to visit Sotogrande and Campo de Gibraltar for five days of fun.

The trip was organised by the Foundation Blas Mendez Ponce based in Madrid, a group whose aim is to organise cultural, leisure and nature trips for children receiving cancer treatment.

Whilst in Sotogrande the children had the opportunity to sail and have rides on jet skis as well as take part in other outdoor pursuits. Lunch at Cafeteria Ke overlooking the harbour was part of the experience everyone could enjoy.

These trips aim to improve the lives of the children by taking them out of the hospital, which is often very difficult to arrange, to promote well-being and socialisation.

Making this possible is a diverse group of doctors, nurses, psychologists, social workers, activity co-ordinators, parents and many volunteers.

€3.1 million beach boost

BEACH DAMAGE: Violent winds battered the coast.

ACTION to improve beaches in the Sotogrande area has been ongoing over the last weeks as part of wider government plans to promote beach improvement in preparation for the busy summer months.

A total of €4.5 million of funding has been provided to initiate emergency works to restore and repair the Andalusian coastline. Of this money €3.1 million went to beaches around Cadiz Province. The extra funding was necessary after violent winds battered the coast over winter and early spring.

In Sotogrande the money was mostly used in order to remove the sediment build up blocking the mouth of the Guadiaro River and fix some damaged facilities.

Armed Forces Day

THIRTY-NINE members and guests of the Coin Branch of the Royal British Legion commemorated Armed Forces day on June 24 with a wonderful lunch at Parilla de Pepe in Coin.

The entire group gathered together at 1.30pm on a sweltering afternoon in Parilla de Pepe's dining room - fortunately the air-conditioning was on. Poppy Appeal Officer, Paul Pritchard, had arranged a big screen to show various parades from around the UK and segments from various Royal Tournaments through the years to provide an authentic Armed Forces Day atmosphere in rural Coin.

Russell, the Armed Forces quizmaster of the day, tested members' brainpower with a challenging themed quiz that covered all three Services as well as a selection of near-impossible dingbats.

Thanks to generous donations from David and Eve Simpson, the raffle was a major success and altogether, almost €200 was collected for the 2017 Poppy Appeal.

At the end of the meal, Chairman of the Branch, Jo Taylor, took the opportunity to thank everyone for coming along to pay tribute to all our active duty servicemen around the world and she wished them safe wherever they were.

Opening of new community centre

OPEN DAY: More of a social community than a church.

ON Saturday a new community centre held its first open day to welcome those who wished to take advantage of the facility and to thank those who made it possible.

“We are a community, open to anyone, and we welcome non-believers to check us out, sort of try before you buy, and even if you are not wanting a relationship with Christ, we are happy to have a relationship with you,” John says with sincerity, “God loves you, so how can we not love you?”

John Harper, the community organiser, claims that Living Waters is more of a social community than a church, but they believe in the power of prayer. “We look forward to seeing God heal people, and our message is “God heals, we help,” says John.

Living Waters is open daily from Monday to Friday, with a visitor’s day this Saturday (July 1) and a traditional worship service on a Sunday at 11am.

The fellowship is situated in the former Ark Christian Fellowship premises, on the upper level of the Las Rampas complex in Fuengirola.

La Cala de Mijas Lions Legacy Project

PRESIDENT, Paul Butler, welcomed all to this Legacy Presentation.

This being the Centenary year for the Lions international, it was decided La Cala Lions would help as many young people in La Cala as possible by giving prizes to the students who had contributed the most to their school year, not necessarily academically.

In October last year, The Lions invited Head Teachers of the two High Schools of La Cala, the IES La Cala and the IES Torre Almenara, to choose one student from each class, who had contributed most to the life of their school during the academic year.

Each prize winner received a plaque, hand made, by an organisation called Encina Laura in Alhaurin de La Torre which provides Daycare, Education and skill training to a group of 18 severely disabled young people (whom the Lions also support) and a prize of €100 per student.

Speeches were given by: Marilo Castillo, Headmaster of IES Torre Almenara and Alberto

PRIZE WINNERS: Received a hand made plaque.

Bermudez Fernandez, Headmaster of IES La Cala.

A final speech was given by Councillor Laura Moreno Marin, who stepped in for the mayor, Señor Maldonado who, unfortunately, could not make the presentation.

Student Jack Barry gave Spanish/English translations.

The prizewinners were:

IES La Cala : 1 de ESO Da Sofia Sepulveda. 2 de ESO Da Aisyah Ibrahim. 3 de ESO Da Sandra Cabello Reyes. 4 de ESO

D Dimitar Angelov Atanasov.

IES Torre Almenara : 1 ESO Da Olivia Soenen Ferrer. 2 ESO Da Ana Sola Gregorio. 3 ESO D Alvaro Sanchez Dominguez. 4 ESO Da Linda Maiquiui Lopez.

During the past year, the La Cala Lions have raised thousands of pounds that have been donated: £30,000 (€34,000) to local schools and youth organisations.

Five schools in La Cala have benefited from the purchase of sports equipment, robotics equipment, tablet computers for special needs unit, air-conditioning units, playground shade cover, books, an intercom system and a Special Advisor to help with a group of autistic school children.

300,000 Banco Popular shareholders are to sue for their lost investment

BACK IN 1993 the London-based IBCA rating company, later absorbed by Fitch Ratings Inc, hailed Banco Popular as the most profitable bank in the world, for a fifth time in a row.

And just over a year ago, the bank issued 2.5 billion euros worth of new shares, subscribed by both consumers and institutions investors.

Fast forward 24 years from the heyday of the bank and it is worth exactly one euro, to the dismay and horror of hundreds of thousands of shareholders who have lost everything, literally overnight, victims of a bank that suffered terminally from the uncontrolled lending that financed the previous construction bubble.

Santander Bank was ordered by the Single Resolution Board (SRB) - an independent agency set up by the European Commission in 2015 and charged with winding down banks - to take over Popular for a symbolic price, one euro, a rescue that has been free from cost for Spanish taxpayers.

But the terms of the takeover of Popular are likely to be challenged in Court; whilst shareholders dub the EU-sponsored operation "expropriation," "confiscation" or "daylight robbery," several peripheral law firms (larger firms are always on banks' payrolls) are lining up to grab a piece of the impending litigation cake.

For its part, the largest Spanish consumer group - OCU - sent a letter to the Bank of Spain and the Ministry of Economy demanding that Popular's 300,000 retail investors should have claims heard quickly, rather than the years that it normally takes to resolve.

And on the firing line Santander Bank, universal successor of the disappeared bank and the Spanish authorities, allegedly responsible of a gross supervisory failure to warn the public of this disaster.

After a 20 year relationship with the EWN Media Group, advertising in the Costa Blanca editions of the EuroWeekly News & the RTN newspaper in the Alicante area, I started to advertise with the Costa Del Sol editions 2 months after I opened my fish and chip restaurant in La Cala de Mijas, The Wright Plaice.

It had an immediate and dramatic effect on my business.

The day the advert came out it tripled my business, and has had a lasting effect thus far. I cannot recommend EuroWeekly News & RTN enough, and my only regret was not advertising much sooner.

Here's to another 20 years collaboration, thanks EWN.

Age in Spain - helping Brits in Spain

INFORMATION and crisis support for English-speaking people

Age in Spain is the new name for the older people's charity which provides a national information and casework service in Spain for English-speaking people and their families. Age in Spain specialises in helping people to plan for retirement in Spain and with managing later life change and crisis.

Previously known as ACASA (Age Concern Acción Social y Asistencial), Age in Spain has been helping British people in Spain for over 20 years. "We want to reach out to more English-speaking people who live in or plan to retire to Spain", founder Judy Arnold-Boakes MBE explained. "Many people plan their retirement in Spain without addressing the possibility that they might lose independence through ill-health or isolation.

"When things go wrong, our casework service provides intensive support, including financial help from UK charities where available. But, the more we can help people avert crisis through realistic planning, the better so, we are developing our information service too". Age in Spain works alongside Age Concern España and other organisations which help English speaking people in Spain.

The Age in Spain website www.ageinSpain.org explains how to get help and how to volunteer. Donnella Quian, the Casework Manager, is currently looking for more caseworkers in all areas.

The Infoline phone number is +34 971 934 085 (10am till 2pm weekdays).

Age in Spain is also inviting other welfare organisations in Spain to promote their organisation by registering their contact details on the website and by using this link bit.ly/AiSRegister.

Judy Arnold-Boakes urges anyone who is having difficulty managing to get in touch. "The sooner people get in touch, the easier it is to prevent a crisis. With the right information and support, people can retain their independence longer and make informed decisions about their future in Spain."

About Age in Spain

Age in Spain is a registered Spanish charity which provides information and support to English-speaking people in Spain and their families. Founded by British expatriates with direct experience of dealing with the changes and challenges of living in Spain, it helps people make informed later life decisions through independent, accessible information and support.

Age in Spain provides:

An Information Service on aspects of life and living in Spain to help people plan ahead

Easy to read Information Guides on common issues

A Casework Service to help people who are losing their independence or who are at crisis point.

Age in Spain's Casework service is provided by trained volunteers, led by Casework Manager, Donnella Quian. It makes an independent assessment of the client's situation and works with Spanish and UK organisations to bring the maximum benefit to people who need help. It acts as an agent for over 20 UK charities that can give grants to British people in Spain. Its UK partners are Age UK, the Soldiers' Charity, the RAF Benevolent Fund and Seafarers UK.

18 arrested for royalty fraud

By John Smith

AFTER a long investigation, 18 people are to appear in court over an alleged multi-million euro music royalty scam.

The General Society of Authors and Publishers (SGAE) collects royalty fees on behalf of composers and musicians when their works are broadcast in Spain.

There are fees charged for recorded music played in bars, clubs, restaurants and other public places as well as when broadcast on radio and TV.

It is alleged that a number of high ranking members of the SGAE claimed is the amount estimated by the prosecutor to have been earned from fraud in 'The Wheel' case.

€100 million

that they had made significant changes to certain pieces of music, thus putting them into a non-royalty category and then supplying the original pieces, labelled as adapted, for use by TV stations to play during the night.

Those involved also registered the musical pieces through their own publishing companies and collected royalties through the SGAE, often, it is claimed, charging excessive amounts for the use of the pieces thanks to the suspected collusion of certain TV producers.

According to the presiding magistrate in this case which is known as 'The Wheel,' the co-founders of Eurodelta Music, Manuel Carrasco and Fernando Bermúdez were heavily involved in this fraud and along with Rafael Tena have been granted bail of €100,000 each after being charged with corruption and belonging to a criminal organisation.

Officers of the SGAE have stated that they have done all in their power to assist the police and tax agency investigation.

Keeping cool costs money

THE hot weather has brought a breath of fresh air to companies selling fans and air-conditioning units as well as larger bills for consumers from the energy companies.

With temperatures around Spain staying high for an extended period of time, people have been rushing to purchase methods of keeping cool.

For those who are too impatient to wait for the installation of air conditioning units, low noise free standing fans have been particularly popular but online retailer Amazon has revealed that sales of air conditioning units have shot up compared to the same time last year.

Quote of the Week

"It would be a mistake if the CETA agreement was not finally approved by Spain," according to Mariano Rajoy on learning that the PSOE would not vote in favour of the Canada EU Trade Agreement.

More fuel, leading to more deceit

IT is easier to obtain motor fuel than ever before but there are fears that fraud is costing the Spanish government approximately €540 million each year.

The number of petrol stations in Spain continues to increase with a high proportion of the new openings coming from discount operators offering cheaper fuel, but there appears to be reluctance by some operators to properly report IVA collected.

According to the Association of Petroleum Operators (AOP) there are now, for the first time, more than 11,000 service stations across Spain although the three largest brands, Repsol, Cepsa and BP continue to dominate the market.

Many of the new stations offer a discount of up to 15c when compared to the better known brands but make their savings by cutting back sharply on staff, not offering any shopping or bathroom facilities and purchasing their fuel from different sources.

» BUSINESS EXTRA

Cheaper broadband

CHEAP broadband and mobile contracts form competitors have led to Telefonica losing 51,000 customers in the past four months. This compares with increases for its three largest competitors and the most successful Mas Movil gained almost 100,000 new customers.

Bank strength

THE US Federal Reserve undertakes an annual review of major banks and has announced in advance that two Spanish banks Santander and BBVA are fine. Other banks around the world are being reviewed for capital reserves but these two are safe.

Banco Popular

THERE is a possibility that should shareholders in Banco Popular sue Santander for their losses following the €1 takeover that Brussels may have to pay. EU regulations suggest as it was involved in promoting the sale, it will be responsible for losses.

Bah Humbug is not so real

THE concept of an elderly Scrooge is common in fiction but not so accurate in real life!

Research suggests that the elderly are actually more generous than the young even when they are likely to receive nothing in return.

In a study undertaken by the University of Singapore, it is concluded that age may release different chemicals into the brain which increase feelings of trust in others, especially if their generosity assists the community.

NEW SELF-EMPLOYED RULES TO BE VOTED ON IN CORTES

Social Security costs reductions

IN order to encourage the self-employed to work legally, the Spanish government plans to increase the period of reduced monthly fees of €50 to one year.

This is a special reduction in the rate to be paid to register with the social security department for new self-employed workers, even if the start-up goes on to employ staff.

This is possibly the most important of the concessions being offered to encourage new business start-ups and also those who are working cash in hand to consider registering for the benefits which include medical treatment and pensions.

Additional proposals include women who return to work after giving birth will be able to take advantage of the reduced rate for 12 months and those who employ family members (provided they have not sacked employees in the same position) will be able to extend employment benefits subject to certain requirements.

There will be discounts for those who are out of work for any period of time and also the ability to continue work after retirement age and receive part pension and part salary.

In the event that any person is late in paying their contribution, the 'surcharge' will be reduced for the first month that the payment is overdue and anyone injured whilst travelling to or from work will also be covered by social security.

There will be a €12 per day tax offset for food purchased from a restaurant or café during a weekday if the individual is away from home on business and those who work at home will be able to claim 20 per cent of utility costs including telephone.

As is often the case with Spanish legal matters, there are a number of rules and regulations that have to be met, but generally speaking this is a proposal likely to make life easier and less expensive for the self-employed.

Estimates suggest that there are between 3.2 and 3.6 million people working for themselves in Spain but there is a very large additional number who haven't registered, don't pay tax and don't contribute to social security.

It is possible that this new proposal which still has to be voted into law may encourage some of those working but not reporting their income to take advantage of the reduction in cost and increased benefits to register themselves officially.

Spain wants to reduce taxes

IN an interview with the magazine Values published by accountants KPMG, Mariano Rajoy has announced that he intends to reduce taxes and review electricity charges.

He was speaking to the magazine as part of its 10th anniversary celebration and spent some time congratulating his government on all that it had achieved to strengthen the economy and to reduce unemployment.

The promise to reduce taxation came with a proviso which was that it could only be done if target deficit figures were reached and this would be known by 2019.

As far as energy is concerned, he pledged to do all that he could to progressively reduce prices although he made no mention of the matter of private solar powered energy which has been problematic for the government in the past.

SOLD AT THE REQUEST OF THE EUROPEAN CENTRAL BANK

Two more banks taken over for just €1

THE European Central Bank warned the Italian government that two of its banks were close to bankruptcy and gave permission for their sale for €1.

Like Banco Popular in Spain, Banca Popolare di Vicenza and Veneto Banca in Italy have been sold to a stronger bank for €1 but there is a considerable difference in the way that private shareholders and investors will be treated.

In the case of the Spanish takeover, Santander are expected to be responsible for the shortfall in accounts of some €7 billion and are not expecting to pay any compensation for losses to shareholders, although they may be sued in a combined action.

The Italian arrangement is completely different as the Italian government has not only agreed to pass only the good parts of the two banks to Intesa Sanpaolo Group but is immediately injecting €5.2 billion into the operation to protect assets and jobs.

In addition however it has put a further €12 billion to one side and retained the bad part of the businesses to cover the likely call from shareholders for compensation and to cover investor's deposits as well as bad debts which might be encountered by Intesa.

According to a statement from the Italian Minister of the Economy and Finance Pier Carlo Padoan, there was no alternative than to undertake this 'bail out' as the alternation could have seen a removal of funds from those and other banks and a possible panic and worsening of the economy in Italy.

It is generally understood that the Italian banking sector has a serious problem with potential bad debt which may total €350 billion in all and represents a little more than 30 per cent of the Eurozone's total bad debt.

When comparing Spanish and Italian banks, one thing that becomes immediately obvious is that many of the plethora of small regional 'building societies' which existed prior to the financial crisis have been amalgamated into larger banks and in many cases have become much stronger.

This was not of course the case with Bankia which was formed from such a group but arguably, its problems were caused by bad management, coupled with reckless abuse by individuals who are currently on trial.

Banks are in the money

SPANISH banks had a very good first quarter with profits of €3.465 billion, an increase of 17 per cent over the same period last year.

Whilst income has improved in all operating areas, as the economy continues to recover, losses caused by bad debt have also dropped by a significant amount to 5.5 per cent.

According to the report issued by the Spanish Banking Association (AEB) much of the increase is due to improved efficiency leading to greater margins as well as an increase in the value of fees.

Another aspect which has helped is the sale of assets by certain of the banks but in some cases, operating costs have increased and those banks affected will need to consider remedial action.

TOO MANY TOUTS CONTROL TICKETS

Musicians want to protect fans

MANY people in Spain feel that it is totally wrong that 'ticket tout' obtain large numbers of concert tickets and sell them at inflated prices.

In fact it is illegal for tickets to be sold on the streets at higher prices, but owners of websites appear to be protected from the threat of prosecution because the 1982 law didn't envisage the power of the internet.

The Anti-Rebellion Alliance, spearheaded by singer and musician Alejandro Sanz wants to see the law changed to take into account sale through websites and to set a maximum price for any ticket offered for sale by a third party.

One of the problems is that these 'internet tout' speculate on purchasing large numbers so tickets for concerts which they believe will be popular and the artists want to see their fans pay the correct price to see their favourite performers.

Profits for the re-sellers can be greater than those earned by the promoter and artists, but the problem has been partially resolved by legislation in Britain and France so the Alliance wants Spain to follow suit.

The Spanish easily adapt to US living

WITH a percentage of young Spaniards considering moving to the USA in order to start their careers many young Americans believe that money buys happiness.

According to a recent Mintel report, a high proportion of those interviewed and aged between 23 and 40 believe that earning money to secure their future is more important than having a good time.

When they do have free time, they are less interested in owning goods than their parents, preferring to be involved in activities, experiences or travelling.

Fifty-one per cent of this group, known as Millennials believe that they understand and can manage their finances well and think their future looks quite healthy.

Interestingly, the report highlights the fact that this group, more than most other generations, wants to have money available for emergencies and also many want to pay utility and credit card bills as quickly as possible.

All are technology aware and a high percentage are happy to use online and mobile banking facilities as they believe that this is a quick and efficient means of dealing with finances.

Losing mental capacity whilst living abroad

by Stone King

Charlotte Macdonald

Contact me at international@stoneking.co.uk

MANY UK expatriates living in Spain own properties in the UK and have pensions and investments in the UK. They rely on their UK assets to maintain their lifestyles (and those of their families) in Spain. If they can no longer manage their affairs in the UK due to a loss of mental capacity, it can cause many difficulties.

“ You can choose a person or people, who you trust, to act for you when you are no longer able.

The best way to avoid the legal and practical difficulties that can occur with the loss of mental capacity is to plan for it in advance by drawing up a document called a 'Lasting Power of Attorney' ('LPA').

An LPA must be made while you have full mental capacity.

What is an LPA?

An LPA is a legal document that enables you to appoint one or more attorneys to act for you when you are no longer able to act for yourself.

Your attorney can be a professional, such as a solicitor or a family member or friend.

There are two types of LPA: 'Health and Welfare' or 'Property and Financial Affairs'

An LPA must be made while you have full mental capacity. It is therefore important to make one while you are in good health.

Why should you get an LPA?

You can choose a person or people, who you trust, to act for you when you are no longer able.

If you lose your mental capacity and do not have an LPA, then your family (or the authorities) will have no choice but to make an application to the Court of Protection to appoint a 'deputy' to look after your affairs, which can be time consuming and costly.

Will my LPA be recognised in Spain?

Unfortunately there is no international type of LPA which is guaranteed to work in both the UK and Spain.

The advice we give to our clients at Stone King, is that if you have assets in both Spain and the UK, your only safe option is to appoint attorneys in both jurisdictions.

Will do anything to gain power

LEAPY LEE SAYS IT OTHERS THINK IT

SOME people just never seem to be satisfied. Personally, I thought the recent evacuation of the Camberley high rise apartments was perfectly reasonable and justified.

However unlikely a fire of the Grenfell devastation would have occurred quite so soon (if at all) it was nevertheless a possibility. To hear the moaning and whinging of those evacuated, you would have thought they would have preferred to chance an agonising death than be disturbed 'at that time of the night!'

Well I think Georgia Gould, the Camden councillor who made the decision, was very decisive and extremely articulate in her explanation for the evacuation and had tried a number of alternatives that didn't come to fruition. She simply wasn't prepared to take the risk, however unlikely, of seeing more people perish. Good for her.

CORBYN: Everywhere at the moment.

Have you noticed the sting has also gone out of the left unashamedly trying to turn the whole tragedy into a political incident?

Well I think the reasons come clear in the following text kindly submitted to me by David from the UK. 1. The block of flats was not run by the council, but by the Kensington and Chelsea Tenant Management Organisation which comprises of eight tenants, four councillors and three independent members. Emma Coad elected Labour MP was on this board who are being accused of not listening to tenants. 2. Labour holds the seat the block is situated in. 3. Labour run the London council who manage the underfunded London fire service. (Sadiq Khan produced a report saying the fire service didn't need more funding!) 4. The decision to change contractors during the refurbishment was made by the KTCMO. As was the decision not to spend 138k on sprinklers. 5. KTCMO was formed under the 'right to manage' legislation passed when Labour were in power in 2002. No wonder the Cor-bynites have changed tack and shifted to only blaming the government for not handling the aftermath well enough. Typical.

Couldn't believe Corbyn, who seems to be everywhere at the moment, actually turned up at Glas-tonbury. Blatantly pontificating like some 1960's Guru, he used this opportunity to try and bend the minds of even more youngsters, who have no idea what life would be like should he and his Marxist party ever to come to power.

His final puffed up 'message' to Donald Trump to 'build bridges not walls,' was pure 'flower power' jargon, Utopian rhetoric that finally petered out when the 60's flower children came of age and began to see sense. Unfortunately the kids lapped it up. No wonder the left want the voting age lowered to 16. It's the same ploy used by Blair and Brown, who let in floods of immigrants purely to obtain their votes.

Labour will do anything to gain power. They have no morals, shame or scruples when it comes to using the gullible to mark an X against their party. I would almost like to see them get in, just to be able to tell these misguided youngsters when the whole country falls apart, 'I told you so.' On second thoughts, perhaps not. Lies, damned lies & alternative facts in elections & referendums

WHO do you trust? Politicians? Bankers? The police? Trust is now at an all time low - for many, mainly due to those at the top who have let the rest of us down. Indeed, it was once suggested all UK MPs should attend 'honesty' classes. And that's the truth, honestly!

I mean, did you believe 'promises' made during the EU Referendum campaign? For example: 'Two thirds of UK manufacturing jobs depend on demand from Europe' (Alan Johnson). Wrong! Or: 'The EU costs the UK £350+ million every week, nearly £20 billion annually' (Vote Leave campaign). Wrong!

Or, during the recent election? Corbyn's financial 'promises' categorically refuted by the Conservatives as Labour's 'magic money tree.'

But let he who is without sin cast the first stone. After all, haven't most of us been occasionally economical with the truth? 'Nice outfit' tends to go down better than 'you look a bit podgy in that.' Or: 'That's weird. You were definitely on the guest list!' Or: 'I've had a few problems with my email. Must be the server!'

According to one study, 60 per cent of Brits lie at least once during a 10-minute conversation. Another found that 25 per cent lie about their days off simply to impress others.

And politicians? They've raised lying to Olympic standards. Remember Bill Clinton's: 'I did not have sexual relations with that woman.' Plus all Trump's, err, 'alternative facts?'

Just why and how people lie - and the impact this has on others - is a subject that's always fascinated me and inspired all my novels (all profits, as you know, to Costa del Sol Cudeca cancer charity).

Psychologists claim we lie to compensate for the gaps between who we are and who we want to be and between what we have and what we want to have. Telling a white lie not to offend and paying a false compliment to give pleasure are both natural deceptions adopted at an early age.

Winston Churchill, however, blatantly ignored these social 'rules.' When he met Labour MP Bessie Braddock who accused him of being plastered, he retorted: "Madam, you are ugly. In the morning, I shall be sober." Nuff said.

THURSDAY THOUGHTS

By Brian Eagleson, Mojacar

Doesn't make sense

With apologies to the wonderful Mike Senker. He's not the ONLY Grumpy Old Man!

Why do UK broadcasters have such a problem with the expat telly audience? Why do they keep switching us off? Now that Sky's disappeared yet again with only a few rubbish channels left behind what's it all about?

Anyone with a bit of technical knowledge will be aware that our UK telly comes from a satellite (or two) up in space hovering over the equator. So how come it hovers instead of zooming round and round with our telly dishes having to track it across the sky like Jordrell Bank? Well, that's 'cos its orbit speed is the same as the Earth's rotation. So it stays in (roughly) the same place every day and your dish doesn't need to move. Clever, eh?

But wait a minute. If it's over the equator it must be nearer to Spain than the UK 'cos the UK's further north than Spain. So how come the UK gets perfect reception on all channels while we just get rubbish? Well, that's because it's like a spotlight aimed at the UK with Spain on the fringe of the beam and also due to something called encryption. Y'see, for some unknown reason the UK broadcasters don't want to let anybody outside the UK watch their programmes so they encrypt them with secret codes and now they're even more secret than they used to be and they keep changing all the time. Clever, eh? Hmm. Not so sure. Might be stupid.

After all, if you pay a fortune to launch a satellite into space wouldn't a bigger audience make more money for your business than a smaller one? More adverts reaching more people? The broadcasters don't seem to think so. Has anybody asked the advertisers though? Doesn't make sense to me. But then, does anything?

Spain still the most popular choice

WHILE the UK is now in the process of leaving the European Union, a new piece of research suggests that British people are still interested in buying abroad, particularly in Spain.

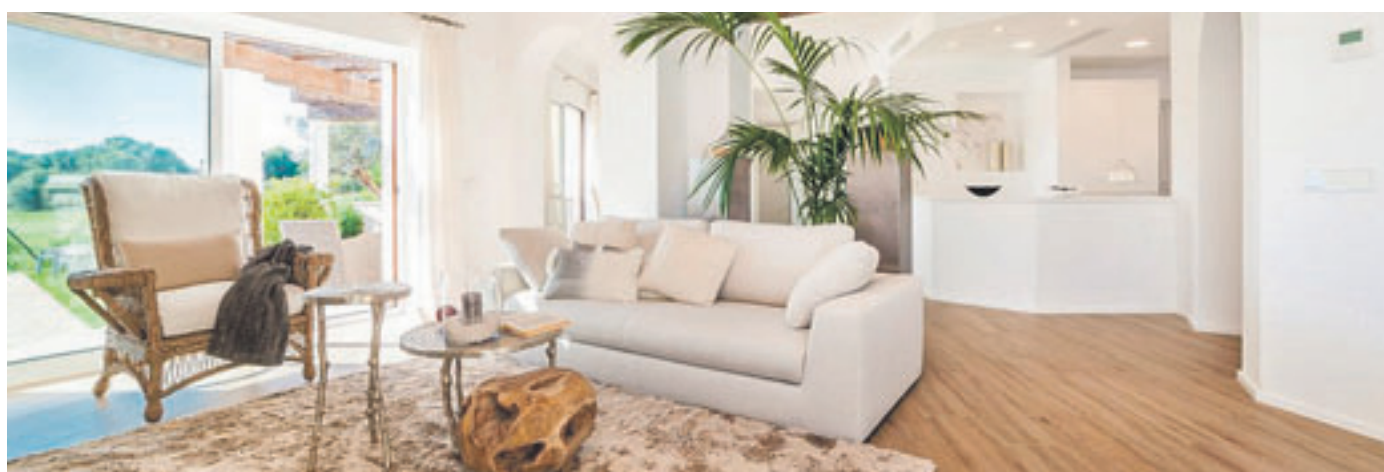

Brexit is not putting off those who want a dream home in countries like France, Spain and Italy which have always been popular with British buyers, according to a survey from legal firm Spanish Legal Reclaims.

Some 55 per cent of those who are considering buying a home abroad say Brexit will have no impact on their decision to buy. In fact, 10 per cent of those surveyed said they were actually more likely to buy in Europe now that Britain has decided to leave the EU.

Spain remains the most popular choice for Brits looking to buy abroad, with 45 per cent saying it was their first choice, followed by 37 per cent putting France first and 20 per cent putting Italy as the top of their wish list.

"It's not surprising to hear that Spain remains the favourite destination for British people who want to buy property in Europe. It continues to deliver on lifestyle, property prices and climate," said chief executive Luis Cuervo.

The firm has also found that it is possible for British buyers who found their dream of having a home in Spain blighted by disappearing developers to get their money back as a Spanish Supreme Court ruling in December 2015 means that those who bought a property off-plan that wasn't delivered on time by a developer that has since gone bankrupt can make a claim.

As a result of the ruling, buyers in this position can reclaim their money back from the bank who was meant to safeguard their deposit and Cuervo pointed out that it could affect British buyers who are hundreds of thousands of pounds out of pocket.

He reckons that 130,000 British buyers are eligible to claim a total of £5.3 billion and the firm is currently working with clients to help them reclaim money they are owed from off-plan Spanish property.

One of the successful claimants is Janet Jalil from North West London who bought a holiday home for €200,000 in Marbella with her husband in 2002 which they were then planning to use as a retirement home.

'When we flew to Spain to see the property for ourselves, we quickly found out that it wasn't built. Our lawyer let me know about the change in the law and, after a year-long legal process we are now expecting to get all of our original deposit back plus interest,' she said.

Some dodgy side effects!

Mike Senker

In my opinion

Views of a Grumpy Old Man

DO you remember Model 720 - the innocent enquiry that the Spanish tax office made telling everyone they had to declare all worldwide assets valued at over €50,000 or be fined?

We were told it wasn't for any real reason - nobody was ever going to do anything with it. They were just gathering information. Well I have to inform you that surprise, surprise it was absolute lies. Am I shocked? Of course not. Am I peed off? Well, yes I am because I thought if everyone did the right thing, played the game and did the declaration that would be the end of it.

But this week we got a letter from the Spanish tax office telling us that we had underpaid our tax in 2012 which is a load of cobblers. We had paid the tax in the UK for the rental on the property there that we owned and paid the tax here on our rental properties here. The difference is not a fortune and we have given it to our accountant to sort out. His was 'just pay it.' Mine is 'why?' Why should we once again get mugged off? Let me know if you hear of others with this problem.

I was on TRE Viewpoint show talking about the terrible fire that killed all those innocent people recently. I read today that 34 high rise flats in 17 local authority areas have failed fire cladding safety tests. All in the name of 'savings.' It's disgusting and I hope those responsible go to prison!

Mrs S gave up smoking a few months ago but now has started again. So I thought I'd look at some of the things that could help. Vaping is out, as are patches and that gum stuff. Then I saw an advert on US TV for a product called Chantix. I thought to myself 'that looks like a fantastic product.' I'll try and get her some of that. Then, just as the ad was finishing the voice came up and started to reel off the possible side effects.

Here are a few. Abnormal dreams, chronic trouble sleeping, gas, head pain, incomplete or infrequent bowel movements, throwing up, angina, trouble breathing, acute infection of the nose, throat or sinus, drowsiness, dry mouth, excessive sweating, intense abdominal pain, low energy, abnormal heart rhythm, behaving with excessive cheerfulness, delusions, depression, diabetes, giant hives, thought of suicide, paranoia, psychosis, thoughts of hurting or killing others, muscle pain, nosebleeds, ringing in the ears, sensation of spinning - and, as I said this is just SOME of the side effects! What is this stuff? Pass me a ciggy quick! How on earth can you sell a product that can do so much damage? If you get a chance have a look at some American adverts and see how you can die taking something that supposedly helps you stop dying of your original illness!

LEGALLY SPEAKING

A breath test for passengers?

AS part of a new series, we answer some common driving questions, kindly provided by members of the Guardia Civil based in Torrevieja, Costa Blanca, who set up the N332 website and Facebook page to help break down barriers.

BREATHALYSER TEST: Law changes.

A RECENT story has been circulating on the internet over changes to the law which will come into force in July, stating that a second person in a vehicle must pass an alcohol breathalyser test not just the driver.

The article stated 'A new measure proposed by the Directorate General of Traffic (DGT) will also force drivers and those accompanying the driver, to blow in the BAC test. The new measure will be launched July 1 in order that this summer we can have safer roads in our country and so that at least one of the companions can count as an alternative driver.'

However, the N332 Traffico team, said the message may have been lost in translation and the actual proposal is in the event of a driver being stopped and failing an alcohol test, a passenger, or the next appointed driver, must prove their sobriety and pass a breathalyser test as well as having all the appropriate documentation and qualifications to drive, in order for the group in the vehicle to continue their journey.

If none can do so, then the vehicle and its occupants, will not be going anywhere.

If a group of people are in a vehicle, only the driver is legally required to remain below the maximum permitted alcohol limit, although the passengers, however much they have consumed, are still required to act in a safe and appropriate manner in the vehicle, although they cannot be called upon to take over the role of the driver.

For more news and articles visit www.n332.es or search N332 on Facebook.

Can they restrict the pool?

Q. On our community we have owners who owe thousands of euros in fees.

Some have let their properties out for years and are not paying.

Perhaps they are not paying tax to the Hacienda either. These tenants and owners use the pool and gardens.

We are told that a law was passed in 2013 to allow communities to stop these debtors using the community facilities, so my questions are:

a) Can you tell me the wording of this law and its reference?

b) How far can we go to enforce the law? We hope to get some payment if the owners think they will lose their tenants and revenue.

c) How do we report these owners to the Hacienda?

A. First, I advise you to instruct a lawyer. At your AGM you must authorise the President to do this and to proceed legally against the debtors. The law you mention is Ley 8/2013,

David Searl

You and the Law in Spain

but it does not specifically authorise the restriction of the swimming pool. Some communities have now enclosed and locked the pool area and issue keys to the paying owners. Yes, you can report the possible tax dodgers. Let your lawyer do this.

Stewart

I AM beyond excited about the new Wonder Woman movie!

Ever since I first saw Lynda Carter striding across the screen in her California Tan tights, wielding her lasso of truth, I've been a super-fan.

After years of reading the comic books, my favourite superhero has finally been brought to the big screen in the form of real-life Wonder Woman, Gal Gadot.

Born in 1985, her beauty led to her being crowned

Miss Israel at age 18.

At 20, Gadot enlisted as a soldier in the Israeli Defence Forces serving as a combat trainer.

In preparation for her role in Batman V Superman: Dawn of Justice (the first outing for Wonder Woman), Gadot was trained in swordsmanship, kung fu kickboxing, capoeira and Brazilian jiu-jitsu.

As a mother of two young daughters, she takes her role-model status very seriously.

She was born to play this part and I can't wait to see her interpretation of my favourite feminist.

I am so happy to see a strong, powerful woman take the lead for a change. It's part of what drew me to and made me fall in love with Wonder Woman in the first place.

Growing up, I didn't find fairy-tales very inspirational.

The female leads spent most of their stories either sleeping or trying their best to bag a Prince (in one extreme case, the 'heroine' indulges in some breaking and entering with a side-line in porridge theft!)

The year I was born (1975), Margaret Thatcher became leader of the Conservative party and just four years later, became the first female Prime Minister of the UK.

At the time, I imagine I was more interested in the Muppets and grew up taking it for granted that a woman was the leader of the country. Whatever you thought of her, Mrs Thatcher was unique and had a huge influence, shaping the world we live in today.

The UK now has another female PM (although by the time we go to print, who knows!) as well as a female First Minister in Scotland, (my particular favourite) Nicola Sturgeon.

All over the world, women are leading their countries with last year seeing the US just a whisker away from their first female President.

Women are increasingly working in areas traditionally dominated by men. We are redefining ourselves as more than just our gender. But that doesn't mean men and women have equal rights and opportunities and we can hang up our feminist spurs.

There is still a gender pay gap and the glass ceiling is yet to be smashed completely.

The stereotype of a feminist as a man-hating, hirsute, embittered cat parent is outdated and inaccurate.

Thankfully, a new generation of self-proclaimed feminists such as Daniel Radcliff and even Prince Harry are redefining the term.

Hopefully, one day men and women will all have equal rights and opportunities and we can thank the real-life Wonder Women who paved the way.

Off Plan Property Deposit Refunds could help you

IT is a major decision when anyone decides to purchase a new property in Spain and in the majority of cases all goes well.

After the financial crises from 2008 onwards however, a surprisingly large number of building companies were unable to complete projects for which they had received substantial deposits or full payment and it was a heart-breaking time for those who lost large amounts of money.

Whilst for several years it appeared as if the money was lost forever, it might just be possible to be able to recover some or all of it.

In a number of circumstances, it is perfectly possible to obtain a refund of what you have lost thanks to a ruling by the Spanish government and the involvement of a knowledgeable group of lawyers and advisors.

A very well-informed real estate agent, Sheldon Grossmith found himself in exactly this situation but not only did he have a good idea of the law, he also knew a very astute and successful lawyer who actually helped him recover his funds.

Now, through his company Off Plan Property Deposit Refunds which is based in Estepona, Sheldon and his Spanish associate will do their best to assist expatriates and Spaniards to recover their funds, even if, as is often the case, they were lost 10 years ago.

The concept is very simple, although recovery can take some time, as banks with whom the original deposit was lodged could well be responsible in law for the refund of the monies lost, provided that they didn't insist that monies lodged were covered by bank guarantees, separate insurance policies or in escrow accounts which many didn't.

Almost none of the money lost was ever in a 'safe haven' and this is where OPP can assist.

Sheldon still remembers how sick and upset he felt when he thought that he had lost such a large sum and wants to help others recover what in some cases could be their entire life savings.

To be fair, he isn't totally altruistic as he will make a charge for putting this together, but this will be on a no win, no fee basis!

Those who have suffered such a loss are invited to get in touch with him and send him a copy of the original purchase contract and proof of payment (as well as where it was paid to).

A decision as to whether there is a viable case to prosecute can be made very quickly and if the decision is positive then it is intended that there will be a three-way agreement, signed between the person losing the money, OPP and the lawyer who will undertake the case.

Once an agreement to proceed is reached, it is likely to take between 12 and 18 months to obtain a final court ruling and in the event of the Judge making an award to the person whose money has been taken, there will be a 15 per cent charge (plus IVA) from OPP and the lawyers will keep any interest that has been awarded by the court.

Should the case be unsuccessful however, then no costs are charged to the client.

Off Plan Property Deposit Refunds was formed at the beginning of 2016 and as a regular advertiser in Euro Weekly News has received a number of enquiries from those who lost money and is currently actively pursuing more than 30 cases.

So if you want to find out more, visit www.off-planpropertydepositrefunds.com or call Sheldon on 642 740 708.

Marbella, is always at your service

Marbella Moments

by Nicole King

IT came up in conversation recently that a mutual friend had offended the staff at a local restaurant by snapping his fingers to attract the waiter's attention.

Now this is something I think of as 'old school'; something that my dad used to do all the time. My dad however would have already given the Maître d' a £50 tip whilst shaking hands with him upon entering the door. My dad believed that by tipping the waiters as he walked in would leave no doubt that there would be a nice tip at the end too. This he hoped would ensure excellent service because the waiters wouldn't be worrying or wondering all through the meal if the tip would be good or not. If not for this he probably wouldn't have got away with snapping his fingers at them either.

In today's world the word service (the action of helping or doing work for someone) is no longer synonymous with the word servant, a word used less and less over the last 200 years due to its negative connotations.

Providing service does not mean that the person has to be servile, but it should mean that as clients, we be civil at all times, showing gratitude that someone else is dedicating themselves to our comfort. If we don't, maybe our comfort will not be their priority and who knows what they could drop in your soup?

I really empathised with my local Spanish friends when I first moved to Marbella in the 80's. Nearing the summer months the waiters would start complaining about the imminent onslaught of the 'Madrileños,' those from Spain's capital city who, in their opinion, saved up all year to come to Marbella just to pose and presume to be something they're not, talking down to the waiters to feel superior themselves.

People make this mistake all the time, thinking perhaps that waiters, civil servants, receptionists or secretaries are not important, not worthy of our time or respect, but it's these very people on the first rung of the ladder that are all powerful. It's uncanny, but it's these people who are actually in a position to spike your food, put your call through to the boss, or not, or put your file to the bottom of the pile, over and over and over again, if they don't like you.

I was a very lucky child and was privileged to grow up with all luxuries money could buy, but I understood at an early age that money does not make you a good person; in fact that is something money truly cannot buy.

Over the years I've come to appreciate that it's the things that money can't buy that I value most and want from and for my life and those around me: love, health, happiness and to help others, in any way I can. Selfish really as the rewards are infinite, but that's why it feels so good to be of service, and why Marbella is always at yours.

Betting company fined

■ LOTTOLAND the Gibraltar-based online lottery operator has been fined £150,000 by the UK Gambling Commission for what is described as 'advertising failings.' The company is accused of not making it clear that any money spent with them is a bet on the outcome of their chosen lottery draw and does not represent the purchase of a lottery entry.

Continued support

■ BRITISH Foreign Secretary Boris Johnson has stated in Parliament the sovereignty of Gibraltar is and will be inviolate. When questioned further by the Labour opposition, he went on to say the government intended to protect the economic interests of the people of Gibraltar to ensure free cross border movement which was also important for the local Spanish economy.

Brussels exhibit

■ THE Deputy Chief Minister Dr Joseph Garcia opened an exhibition about Gibraltar in the European Parliament building. Present were a number of MEPs and Robin Walker, the UK's Parliamentary Under Secretary of State for Exiting the EU who heard Dr Garcia explain the history of the Rock and the suggestion that Spain was attempting to impose 'apartheid.'

The economy is now healthier than ever

THE 2017/2018 budget has now been announced together with a 'State of the Nation' review of the previous year.

Chief Minister Fabian Picardo made much of the achievements of the Labour-Liberal coalition government which over a period of years has seen a movement to increase budget surpluses with the latest being £75.8 million, the largest in Gibraltar's history.

All of this has been achieved against a background of uncertainty because of the Brexit vote and the fact that government has invested more money than ever in local development and assistance for the poorest in the community.

Pensions and the minimum wage are to increase in line with inflation with some minor increase in income tax free earnings.

■ The Chief Minister.

Recognising that Gibraltar benefits from the sale of high value goods especially for export, a number of items including handbags and jewellery have had their import duties reduced and in the case of gold bullion and vintage cars scrapped altogether.

There was some bad news for those who smoke shisha pipes as the import duty was to increase to £15 per kilo for the tobacco and diesel fuel duty will increase by 3p per litre for standard diesel and 1p per litre for the premium brand.

In order to further help the environment, the duty on plastic carrier bags will double from 5p to 10p to encourage regular re-use of carrier bags.

The forecast for the coming year is encouraging with cash surpluses expected although the government says it will continue to act prudently.

■ Cloud below the Rock.

Strange cloud appears

THERE was an unusual weather phenomenon in Gibraltar a few days ago with a cloud appearing below the summit of the Rock.

Drivers entering Gibraltar from La Linea de la Concepcion had to drive through the cloud (which was natural and not smoke) before going across the border.

The Rock is often obscured by clouds but this type of occurrence is quite rare.

La Sala Gibraltar

THERE are two good reasons to visit La Sala Gibraltar especially if you enjoy good food and the smooth sound of Sinatra.

Martin Joseph one of the best Frank Sinatra tribute acts on the coast will be performing this Saturday night. If you can't make it on Saturday then every week day from 12pm to 4pm there is the 3S promotion in the Sapphire Bar where you can choose two dishes from a selection of Soup, Salad and Sandwich for £10. Visit www.LaSalaGibraltar.com or call +350 200 16870.

Christian Hook receives Freedom of the City

SUCCESSFUL artist Christian Hook was finally presented with the Freedom of the City of Gibraltar following a promise made by the Chief Minister in 2015.

The ceremony took place upon the cruise ship Queen Victoria, one of the smaller but most luxurious of the Cunard Line vessels.

Mayor Kaiane Aldorino Lopez made the ceremonial presentation of the scroll bestowing the Freedom of the City upon the artist who has work hanging in a number of UK galleries and was the 2014 winner of the Sky TV Portrait Artist of the Year competition.

In addition, he was presented with the Gibraltar Medallion of Honour which is bestowed by parliament on behalf of the people of Gibraltar.

Both the mayor and Chief Minister said how well-deserved this honour was, as he had done so much to promote Gibraltar internationally in the art world and through his many TV appearances.

The presentation was held on board the Queen Victoria to coincide with his collection which is being exhibited on board and he was due to present lectures to passengers before it left port bound for Mallorca.

The artist explained that this was one of his proudest moments and it was confirmed that he is only the 14th individual to ever be granted the Freedom of the City alongside another 14 organisations or regiments.

Also attending the presentation was Governor, Lt General Ed Davis together with Cunard representatives and friends and family of the artist.

Affordable destinations

THERE are several affordable destinations to explore in Spain, which may take you away from the Costas.

However, the benefits of trying something different, allows another perspective, including, buying different local crafts and pottery, capturing spectacular views and getting to see something that's off the beaten track.

The five places listed, all offer a variety of things to see and do and there should be something for all tastes.

Ferrol (La Coruña).

1. El Hierro (Santa Cruz de Tenerife)

If you're interested in an island holiday, El Hierro is a good place to start. Unesco declared it a Biosphere Reserve in 2000. It's a natural paradise that will allow you to get away from the rat race and enjoy the sparkling sea, beach, volcanic lands and forests.

2. Ferrol (La Coruña)

This Galician city is located north of La Coruña and used to be one of the great naval military bases of Spain. Wander round the fishing port and explore its history and cultural heritage. Relax on the beaches and enjoy typical Galician food. Ferrol is only 50km from La Coruña, so it's not far to reach the Galician capital.

3. Antequera (Malaga)

Antequera is a municipality in Malaga Province and the largest in Andalucia. It has considerable architectural heritage, composed of religious buildings, archaeological sites, several palaces, squares and viewpoints. It also has the Caminito del Rey. (The King's Little Pathway), which is a famous passage constructed in the walls of the Gaitanes.

4. Vinaroz

Vinaroz, the capital of Baix Maestrat is an unspoilt and affordable place to go in the summer with family, with the added bonus of tranquility. It is located in eastern Spain and is in the province of Castellon, so it is part of the Valencian community. It has an appealing promenade, a fishing harbour, an old town and lots of activities.

5. Talavera de la Reina (Toledo)

Talavera de la Reina, the main town in Toledo Province, offers a mix of architectural wonders and has been famous for its ceramics for centuries. Its monuments boast the Santa Catalina Bridge, the Archiepiscopal Palace (Baroque in style) and the Mudejar Church of Santiago that has Gothic influences.

YOUR STARS FOR NEXT 7 DAYS

AQUARIUS (January 21 - February 19)

Putting all of your eggs in one basket is rarely to be advised. It should particularly be avoided this week. For the sake of speed and ease it will be tempting to take short cuts and make decisions that are bland. These will, of their nature, not be of the 'good' or 'great' categories. You are capable of better.

LEO (July 24 - August 23)

With high energy you are seeking to get as much done as possible in a small amount of time. Rather than go at it 'hammer and tongs', it could be easier. Let someone help you out. They will find it satisfying and so you will both be happy.

PISCES (February 20 - March 20)

How you feel about someone will change dramatically during the week. This will surprise you. Thinking about it logically, though, you have been missing the point for some time. Someone who you always thought of as a friend turns out to be much more. How you deal with this is very much an individual thing.

VIRGO (August 24 - September 23)

You are freer than you imagine. Your imagination is letting you down a bit at the moment. Not for some time have opportunities been throwing themselves at you like this. The question is not if you should take up an offer but rather which one you should choose.

LIBRA (September 24 - October 23)

Give others the benefit of the doubt and your infinite patience this week. Situations will change from minute to minute. It would be a waste of energy to take anything at facevalue. Time is often the first thing to solve many problems. As with health, given a few days simple things will sort themselves out.

ARIES (March 21 - April 20)

With your engine revving and the road ahead clear, a sense of great freedom is with you. There are those for whom this week is a chance to really make headway. For some, though, it is an irksome task. The difference is that some of you are taking a negative attitude. Make sure that yours is positive and you will have a chance to make real progress

SCORPIO (October 24 - November 22)

Although you are only too aware that you are capable of great good when you put your mind to it, it would be wise to bide your time this week. You may not realise that you are expending too much energy until your weary head hits the pillow.

TAURUS (April 21 - May 21)

Wanting to put things right with someone close is a good instinct to have.

It would certainly give you peace of mind. Indeed, this should be a quiet and peaceful week and one that is long overdue. Being successful in business is only one part of success. The light is dawning that what you have always wanted has changed.

Be kind to your body. Some things that are taken for granted should not be so. This can lead to neglect. In neither home nor business is this recommended.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)

Someone very special could come into your life. You must, however, be at the ball to meet the prince.

This opportunity for happiness is not going to jump up and bite you. A phone call could be the start of it all. Accept invitations and get out and about. Be aware of what is going on so that you can be in the right place at the right time.

SAGITARIUS (November 23 - December 21)

It may seem that everyone wants your attention at the moment. There are times when you would like nothing more than to go away and clear your mind. This is not only possible but essential. You need some quiet moments. Even a day away can renew your spirits and energy.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)

What is the reason that you are being held back? Are you sure that you are, in reality, being held back at all? These are not trick questions. Being honest with your answers this week will lift a cloud from your horizon. Perhaps you are seeing ghosts when there are only shadows.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 20)

So strong have been the practical considerations of late that you have been in a bad position. You need to live more for the 'now' and less for the 'tomorrow'. Of course, life should be a mixture of both but sometimes it all gets a bit jumbled. Getting a few hours peace and quiet on your own may be all that you need. Getting enough sleep is also important in this situation.

BOOKS

My Turn: An Autobiography

By Norman Wisdom (Memoirs written with William Hall)

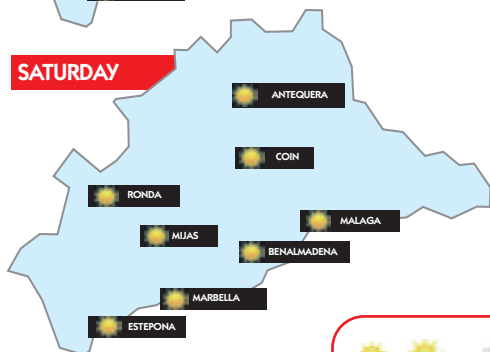

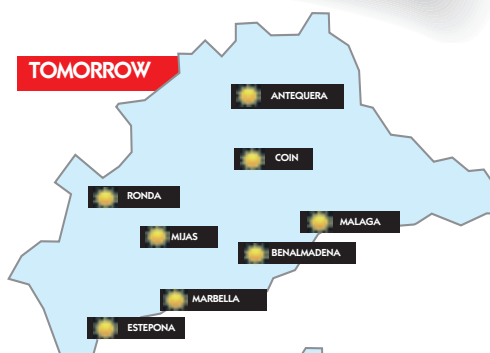

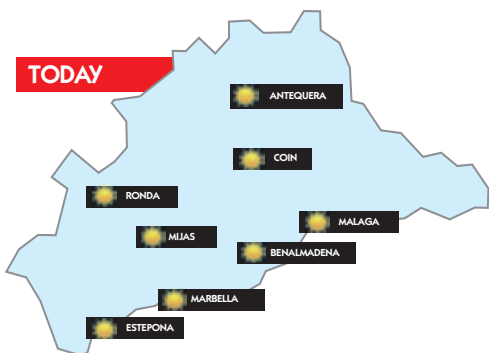

NORMAN WISDOM'S childhood years could be compared to that of a Dickens novel. He and his brother were forced to sleep on the streets of London, after his violent father had driven his mother away and they were left to fend for themselves. The book is a rags-to-riches tale, where his hardships, tragedies and triumphs are mentioned.

It starts from his days, working in Scarborough during the summer, his army days in India to his well-loved character, Norman Pitkin. He rose to fame, not only in England, but went on to become a worldwide star. He was brushing shoulders with Hollywood stars like Laurel & Hardy, Bob Hope and Marilyn Monroe as well as British stars like Bruce Forsyth, Gracie Fields and Vera Lynn in the 50's and 60's.

Directed by: Niki Caro
 Starring: Jessica Chastain, Johan Heldenbergh, Michael McElhatton, Daniel Bruhl, Iddo Goldberg, Anna Rust, Brian Caspe and Goran Kostic.

This is a story based on real-life, where a working wife and mother becomes a hero to hundreds of people during the Second World War. In 1939 Poland, Antonina Zabinska (portrayed by Jessica Chastain) and her husband, Dr Jan Zabinska (Johan Heldenburgh) have the Warsaw Zoo flourishing under his stewardship and her care. Then the Germans invade their country and they are shocked and forced to report to the Reich's newly appointed chief zoologist, Lutz Heck (Daniel Bruhl). They gather courage to fight back and to make plans to save the lives of people in the Ghetto.

Come on, you know it makes sense

SIR,

The one single factor that separates EU citizens from the British are the identity cards used instead of passports.

An ID card has always been opposed by successive British governments, but it is time to face reality and accept that the advantages far outweigh the inconvenience. These have to be carried at all times and not only provide proof of the holder's identity but are an essential tool to enable police forces, health and administrative departments or stores to be able to carry out instant identity checks. They make life easier for everyone.

In the post Brexit era I firmly believe in the introduction of an EU identity card for British citizens, which would grant everybody legally entitled to obtain one, the same rights as all other EU citizens. This would replace the European Health Insurance Card which will become obsolete after Brexit. This might be seen as a means to carry out the greatest survey of the population since the Domesday Book but it would also identify all those who

Cycling menace

AS a North American cyclist spending part of the year in southern Spain, I was not very surprised to read about your 'Road Rage Alarm' article in your issue no 1666. And as it reminded me of what I recently read about the Spanish police being worried about the increasing number of run-over cyclists, I thought I'd drop you a line.

Changing times

LIFE will never be the same again.

When I first experienced a mobile phone that included a camera, I failed to identify with its need.

Turn the clock forward a few years and in recent weeks my wife and I have had some repairs done to winter storm damage caused to our villa, with an insurance claim covering the costs.

In total three different workmen were involved; a plasterer, then a painter, and finally an electrician.

Each took a photograph on completing his work... using his mobile... presumably for company files. And the insurance accessor who called before approving the work also took a photo, with his mobile, of the damage caused.

Technology has really made modern-life more convenient, and to a degree I accept the changes and improvements, even though at 70+ some are hard to totally grasp!

SPOT on! We just witnessed a true masterclass in how to lose an election - and one that was supposed to be a certain win. There was too much 'I' and not enough 'we' in the Conservative campaign. She seemed to forget that...

LOVED the clip of Trump barging his way to the front at the NATO photo call. To me that totally typifies just what sort of a person he is. The last time I saw posturing like that by a world leader was in old grainy clips of Mussolini, Il Duce himself. That's the man who Leapy Lee drools over. Where's the wall Trump? Dear Leapy

OUR neighbour, who has a flat in Spain, has given us a copy of your brilliant article in Euro Weekly News. You are so right in condemning Tony Blair. After all, as you say, he was responsible for so many deaths in the Middle East and possibly indirectly responsible for the rise of Daesh and Al Qaeda.

I have always wondered why he was so starry-eyed about George Bush and the two of them together made a really appalling combination! Then, there's his awful money-grubbing wife!

What does your birth month say about your health?

RESEARCHERS from the University of Alicante say they believe that your birth month could be related to what illnesses and diseases may afflict you.

The scientists carried out the study on 30,000 people and mapped birth months to 27 chronic diseases to see if it made a difference to long-term health, and said they found there was a significant impact for some conditions. For example men who were born in September were almost three times more likely to suffer thyroid problems than those born in January.

Their study follows one from Columbia University researchers who found similar results in a study they conducted in 2015.

So what does your birth month potentially tell you about your health and what ailments could you be more prone to?

January

Men; constipation, stomach ulcer and low back pain while for women, they are more likely to suffer from migraine, menopause problems and heart attack.

February

Men; thyroid problems, heart conditions and osteoarthritis. Women; osteoarthritis, thyroid problems and blood clots.

March

April

BIRTH MONTH: There was found to be a significant impact for some conditions.

Jellyfish stings part 2

SPECIALIST: Doctor Luis Perez Belmonte.

Are jellyfish stings dangerous?

In general, although irritating and sometimes painful, jellyfish stings do not tend to cause serious reactions. In some cases, mostly in children and the elderly, there can be extreme reactions that can cause people to die.

How can you tell you've been stung?

The area stung tends to become very itchy, followed by intense pain in the area affected. After a few minutes skin will appear red which can in some cases lead to infections, and ulcers.

Is there any aftercare treatment?

You have to keep the affected area clean and cool for several days after being stung to avoid infections. As long as there are no major reactions, the effects of the sting should only last a few days.

Do treatment myths, such as urinating on the sting, work?

No, urinating on the affected area is unlikely to help. In fact, pouring vinegar over the sting is more helpful as it is proven to help prevent further nematocyst discharge. It does not however, provide pain relief.

Fresh water also worsens symptoms, so make sure to use salt water to relieve pain, but only once the tentacles have been removed using tweezers. DO NOT scrape them off, as this can push parts of the tentacle further into the skin, causing more pain.

Soaking the affected area in hot water also helps reduce pain and inflammation. If there are any severe symptoms, or if a large or sensitive area of the body has been stung, such as the face or genitals, call emergency services for treatment.

Pain that doesn't get better

By Estelle Mitchell

www.thebodyworksclic.com

I'VE written a few times now about nerve pain and how it confuses treatment. The problems with nerve pain are:

1. Identifying it
2. Finding the root cause

And this is why you can be having the best tennis/golfers elbow treatment, the best carpal tunnel treatment, the best knee and leg pain treatment with no effect. Because it's actually a problem with the nerve supplying that area not that area itself. The pain comes from somewhere else.

So how do we find that critical 'somewhere else'?

Finding the root cause of pain

So, if the pain isn't coming from where you feel it how do we find it?

1. A thorough clinical, physical assessment - checking not just the painful area but also the areas that can refer pain. This takes a while!

2. Talking to you! I've listed before various symptoms which give critical clues that the pain is related to nerves not the location - it jumps/moves, tingling, pins and needles, sharp or searing (for more information see my previous articles on my blog - www.TheBodyworksClinic.com/blog)

NERVE PAIN: Confusing.

Now a key tool in all of this is a system called Dermatomes.

So what's a Dermatome?

A dermatome is an area of skin that is mainly supplied by a single spinal nerve. There are 30 in total, one for each squishy disc between the bony discs of the spine.

And they follow a general pattern. So if all your pain keeps jumping about in a specific area, or you get tingling or pins and needles across a certain part, breathing difficulties, loss of sensation or a feeling of cold in a particular body part, even a rash, we check to see if these correspond to a dermatome. Then we can use that to identify the nerve affected and check the spine.

So they are an amazingly useful diagnostic tool to identify the root cause of those difficult to treat nerve pain issues. Because if we treat the root cause the symptoms go away.

For more information on nerve pain, using Thermal Imaging and dermatomes to diagnose issues please check out our blog - www.TheBodyworksClinic.com/blog or call us on 952 883 151.

Nature photos in the open air

WITH the heatwave that has hit much of Spain many people are trying to cool down and a new display by Brazilian Sebastião Salgado might help.

Many of his photographs which have are on display in the Plaza de la Constitución in Malaga by the Obra Social La Caixa show scenes of the British Antarctic Territory as well as snow scenes in the United States.

This gifted photographer spent the last four decades travelling the world and photographing nature in black and white and this exhibition entitled Genesis which is available to view until July 19 includes 38 images taken during 32 journeys to every continent.

Enamoured by the call of nature, the photographer and his wife set up the Instituto Terra in 1998 to try to restore some of the damaged fauna in a devastated area of Brazil.

Everyone loves a good barbecue

BONO BEACH in Marbella is reintroducing last year's very successful Barbecue Night every Thursday, starting tonight with guest performer Janet Jaye from the UK.

Sitting by the sea, relaxing and enjoying the cool breezes whilst sipping a very welcome cocktail and sensing the enticing aroma of barbecued meat and fish is an attractive option, especially when you are in the exceptional surroundings of Bono Beach.

The chefs at this superb beach bar and club have looked to South America in order to select the style and form of the tastiest barbecues and in Argentina, the barbecue is as much a work of art as a means of cooking a meal.

At Bono Beach they believe in this concept but have added their own special touches in order to incorporate a hint of eastern quality by way of starters including delicious Indonesian satay chicken.

Main courses will be heavy on steak and ribs but there will also be some fine lobster as well as much more including fish, chicken and a vegetarian option supported by grilled corn on the cob, coleslaw and potatoes.

Every Thursday there will be a great live artist, many of whom are also playing on other nights at Puerto Banus nightclub JoysLive and customers will be encouraged to enjoy the music as well as everything else that Bono Beach has to offer.

Visit www.bonobeachmarbella.com to view the entire menu, to see who is playing each week and to make your reservation which is strongly recommended based on last year's success.

Alternatively call 952 839 236 to confirm your reservation directly.

The very talented Janet Jaye appearing tonight.

In step in San Pedro

DANCE of all types is very popular in San Pedro Alcántara with regular performances from youth groups in particular in the amphitheatre on the Boulevard.

The Elena Benítez Pavilion in San Pedro is going to welcome the Sunny Dance Festival, one of the most important recreational dance events in Spain, on Saturday and Sunday.

Both the San Pedro Council and the organiser of the festival Vicente Masegosa believe that this will be a most enjoyable event which will attract large numbers of participants to the town with an estimate of more than 1,000 dancers plus families.

Although this is the sixth Sunny Dance Festival, it is the first time that it has been held in San Pedro and the organiser has praised the council for the positive support that it has given.

Saturday will see an afternoon start at 4.30pm which is aimed at professional dancers who are invited to attend a master class organised by Yanis Marshall, reputed to be one of the best dancers in the world, and Zec Lutiana another dancer who has a first class reputation.

On Sunday, the doors will open from 10am to 2pm and then 7.30pm to 11pm with different categories ranging from baby (four to seven years), children (eight to 11 years), cadet (12 to 14 years), youth (15 to 17 years) and then adults with no age limit.

Participants can dance individually, as a couple, or in the mega crew format for groups of more than 21 dancers and there will be performances from a number of academies and dance groups from the area including Maribel Urbano, Muévete, 8 to 10 and Isla Rose.

Bonanza Bar is back with a Grand Opening Party

THERE has been much talk on social media about the reopening of the Bonanza Bar which has always been something of a legend in Benalmadena.

The official Grand Opening Party takes place this Saturday starting at 8pm and all are welcome to enjoy a glass of cava and canapés whilst enjoying some great sounds, both from resident compere and DJ Chris King and two tremendous live acts all free of charge.

Many will fondly remember that John Springate has been a regular performer at the venue and he returns to present his Glam Rock Revue. Not so many people will perhaps realise that he was a long standing member of The Glitter Band which had numerous hits both supporting Gary Glitter and in their own right.

John was the bass player and singer until 1980 when he left to concentrate on song writing and production but has since reformed the band with original drummer Pete Phipps, but for this performance he will be featuring songs from various artists such as Mud, Sweet and T Rex as well as his own Glitter Band.

Also on the bill will be the popular and talented Legends of Motown who expertly deliver a range of the most popular songs from the Motor Town (Motown) Detroit as so many incredible artists were signed by legendary record company owner Berry Gordy.

Over the years, he discovered a number of the greatest soul artists of all time including the Supremes, Marvin Gaye, the Temptations, Jimmy Ruffin, the Contours, the Four Tops, Gladys Knight & the Pips, the Commodores, Martha and the Vandellas, Stevie Wonder and the Jackson 5, many of whom will be represented on Saturday night.

Entertainment will be assured every night at the Bonanza Bar but it is also open from 10am until late Tuesday to Sunday with an outside terrace with food available, but the owners stress that despite the entertainment and the great surroundings, prices for drinks are the same as in a normal bar.

Special arrangements have been made to take care of disabled guests and in this extremely hot weather the air-conditioning will be especially welcome.

If you remember the Bonanza Bar - named after Bonanza Square in which it is situated - from before or just want to try out this new addition to the Benalmadena leisure scene then the Grand Opening Party promises to be a great night out with some exceptional entertainment.

World music in Malaga

TWO quite different African musicians will be appearing at the Teatro Cervantes in Malaga in the first week of July.

The Festival Terral highlights traditional music from different parts of the world and the full list of participants can be viewed at www.teatrocervantes.com. Salif Keita, known as the 'Golden Voice of Africa' was born in Mali in 1949 to a royal family but due to his albinism - considered to be a sign of extreme bad luck - was disowned by his family and then upset them again by becoming a musician.

In order to find the fame and acceptance that he wanted, he moved first to the Ivory Coast and then to Europe where he educated a generation interested in World Music to the combination of West African rhythms, soul and rock music.

With 20 albums released and now considered one of the very best African performers and singers, he brings his voice and six-piece band to Malaga on Monday July 3 at 8.30pm with tickets costing from €14 to €42.

“ Festival Terral highlights music from different parts of the world.

In contrast, Rachid Taha who was born in Algeria but lives in France is described as a bit of a punk combining rock, electronic music and traditional rai to produce a sound that crosses barriers between Algeria and France.

In the early days he bumped into punk band the Clash and gave them a tape of his music and heard nothing back from them, although he suggests that their song Rock the Casbah showed that they had listened to his music.

Since that time, he has worked with members of the Clash and played his translated version Rock El Casbah with numerous western performers.

It won't be a gentle night at 8.30pm on Friday July 7 but with tickets costing from €11 to €32 it should be one worth remembering as he sings with his five-piece band.

Hacked off to Nick

THOSE REGULAR READERS will recall, I have been following the case of Gordon Ramsay's father-in-law Chris Hutcheson. He has been sentenced to six months in prison after admitting conspiracy to hack the chef's computer systems after he was sacked from his role as chief executive of Gordon Ramsay Holdings.

Hutcheson Snr, 69, and his sons, Adam Hutcheson, 47, and Chris Hutcheson Jr, 37, admitted a scheme to hack into Gordon Ramsay Holdings (GRHL) between October 23, 2010 and March 31, 2011. The two sons were given four-month jail terms, suspended for two years.

GOOD FOOD, GOOD WINE AND GOOD FRIENDS WITH
GARRY WAITE

It brings to an end a long, bitter quarrel where the whole of Ramsay's wife Tana's family were under investigation. Fortunately it has come to an end as The Gordon Ramsay Group has announced a return to profit for the first time since 2012, driven by 'strong trading' across its 14 London restaurants, according to audited results for the year ending August 31, 2016. The 31-strong group reported profit after tax of £739,000, up from £2m loss the previous year, and revenue up 3.2 per cent to £51.9m.

However I don't get the feeling that the family will be gathering for Christmas lunch any time soon.

A hen's egg is quite simply a work of art - a masterpiece of design and construction with, it has to be said, brilliant packaging.

It's in the bag

WHICH TYPE OF PLASTIC CAUSES THE MOST PROBLEMS?

MUCH IS MADE about plastic bags and the charges made by supermarkets and other retail outlets. I have never quite understood why such a fuss is made solely about plastic bags. A far greater quantity of plastic is used for packaging. Just about everything in a supermarket comes with a polystyrene type base - covered in plastic film. Other items come packed in sealed plastic bags such as bacon, ham, smoked salmon and the like. Not to mention the small plastic bags for your vegetables and fruit! What happens to all this?

But that's nothing compared to things purchased in a hardware store. Rigid plastic packaging that are lethal to open. The same applies in auto accessory shops and toy stores. And don't let us forget plastic water bottles, oil bottles and even in garages with all the oils, liquids etc all in hard plastic containers. All in all, far greater amounts, than plastic bags. So unless there is a levy to the manufacturers on these containers, then the plastic bag seems to be the only plastic for which there is a charge. There is a difference between the types of plastic of course. The rigid stuff (water bottles, containers etc) can be recycled - hence the reason for our yellow bins.

So what happens to the two cent charge in Spain or the 5p charge in the UK. In the UK the amount of plastic bag usage has gone down by 85 per cent since the introduction of the charge which is pretty impressive. But the UK government made £18 million from this, because 1p of the 5p goes to the chancellor the supermarkets, they then give some of the rest of the 4p to charities. Some as much as the whole 4p and others, a measly 1p. Which charities you may ask? I would like to think it was for cleaning up beaches and oceans!

Here in Spain the charge is two cents. But that is all going to change next year when every retailer will be obliged to charge a minimum of five cents up to an eye watering 30 cents for a bag.

Oh, and what happens to the hard plastic when it is recycled? It goes in to making rigid packaging... funny old world!

Why don't all supermarkets use brown bags like the United States. Destructible, burnable and free of charge!!

Speaking of Nicks!

PLANS TO TRANSFORM two wings of Bodmin Jail in Cornwall into a 63-bedroom hotel have been unanimously approved by Cornwall Council.

Twelve architects submitted proposals earlier this year to redevelop the Grade II-listed jail into a hotel, alongside a visitor experience, teaching and learning resource, and a venue for private hire.

The £30m project could start development in October, with the site scheduled to be completed in 2019. A hotel operator is yet to be named.

Chris Wilkes, the manager of Bodmin Jail, said "We're absolutely delighted to have achieved this unanimous decision. It's great news for the jail, for its owners and for not just Bodmin itself but for the whole county."

BODMIN NICK - SOON TO BE A PLACE YOU MAY WANT TO STAY!

"Sorry darling, won't be home this evening, I've been detained overnight!!"

Going, Going, Gong

MANY HOSPITALITY NAMES were among the Queen's Birthday Honours List. Throughout the industry, hoteliers, restaurateurs, company directors were awarded a mixture of MBEs and CBEs including a sprinkling of well-known Indian restaurateurs and chefs, especially north of the border. But perhaps better known names to our readers will be that of Delia Smith and Sir Terrence Conran. The latter came to prominence as a designer in the 60's with the iconic Habitat brand. A passionate foodie and wine connoisseur he soon branched out into the restaurant business.

Conran founded Conran Restaurants in 1991 with Joel Kissin before the business (now D&D London) was sold in 2006 to David Loewi and Des Gunewardena as part of a management buy-out. Conran still owns Bibendum in London, which earlier this year was relaunched with Both were awarded Companions of Honour; she, for services to cookery but Conran for design.

ON THAT NOTE I will bid farewell until next week and should aspiring restaurateurs need some help or advice, please do contact me. A toast to Good Food, Good Wine and Good Friends.

GLOBELINK INTERNATIONAL

WOULD your hand luggage pass the test for a trip-savvy, seasoned traveller?

As millions of us grab passports and head for our holidays, it is a timely reminder that literally hundreds of thousands of baggage items go missing every year. Usually it's because your luggage is checked onto the wrong plane. Fortunately the airline generally get it back to you within 48 hours. However, what do you do in the meantime?

Our advice is to be 'ever-ready' when you travel and pack smart when it comes to your hand-luggage. It will avoid no end of stress if your luggage does decide to go on a trip of its own.

Here are our Top 10 Essentials to carry in your hand luggage:

1. Travel documents and valuables

Carry essentials in an easily accessible separate compartment, or folder. Include passport/visa, boarding pass, reservations, all relevant contact numbers, cash, cards and valuables (including spectacles). Don't keep all cash/cards in one place and ideally split it between you and any travel companion for added security.

2. Prescribed Medication

Carry enough medication for at least two days in case your luggage is delayed. It's a good idea to carry the prescription too. Note that you're allowed to carry essential medicines of more than 100ml in your hand luggage, as long as you have supporting documentation from your doctor, or a copy of the prescription.

3. First aid kit

Pain killers, indigestion tablets, anti-diarrhea, travel sickness tablets, allergy medication, anti-bacteria gel, plasters, small disinfectant cream etc. You can fit these into a small clear plastic travel/toiletry bag.

4. Toiletries

Basics, including travel toothbrush, toothpaste, soap, razor. Save space with travel-size items and keep within carrier regulations with liquids no more than 100ml. Add anything else that's essential to you such as make-up that you really can't live without (you may not be able to buy your preferred brand locally, or it could cost three times the price).

5. A spare set of clothes

Trust me, this will save you no end of hassle if your luggage is delayed. Chose light and compact items. It's amazing how small you can fold/roll cotton shorts/trousers and a t-shirt.

6. Snacks

It pays to take some food and it saves you paying top prices at the airport. Chewing gum is especially useful as it helps with ear popping and is an instant breath freshener.

7. Mobile phone / tablet

Helps stay connected and occupied during the journey. Don't forget earphones.

8. Portable Charger and Adaptor

It's well worth carrying these compact items as it could be a real pain sourcing replacements while you're away.

9. Pen and paper

Always handy and often overlooked in this digital age!

10. Travel Insurance

We would say that wouldn't we? Travel Insurance is a must and comes into its own if your luggage is delayed. Most Comprehensive Travel Insurance policies cover baggage delay, and Globelink is no exception. Your baggage is usually considered 'delayed' if you don't have it after 12 hours. Baggage Delay cover provides a monetary sum to purchase essential items until your luggage turns up, like clothing, medication, and toiletries. Always get confirmation of the delay from your carrier and keep receipts for purchases.

Capers - A Mediterranean wonder

GRAEME TYRRELL

FEW plants have the wondrous qualities of the Caper plant (Capparis spinosa). To ornamental gardeners it is sometimes called the Flinders Rose.

The Caper's white petalled flowers with contrasting sprays of long violet stamens and just a single stigma are sweetly and delicately scented which gives them a unique appeal. Butterflies love caper flowers so they are a good way to attract butterflies to your garden.

But they are not usually grown just for the beauty of their flowers. They are mainly grown to provide the traditional Mediterranean delicacies of caper buds, caper leaves and caper berries.

These are not the only advantage for the Mediterranean gardener who wants to enjoy their time in the garden without too much fuss. The capers are one of the best adapted plants to grow in the Mediterranean climate.

Once established they are about as hardy as a plant can be. They only grow to a maximum one metre high and spread to two metres. They will survive the long hot summers without needing supplementary watering at all. They need minimal pruning as they usually die back in winter, so they just might need clipping back to the stump in winter.

Many of my neighbours just cultivate over the capers in their fields with their tractors but the caper plants return again the next spring. The caper's deep root system makes them almost indestructible so you might only need to be sure that where you plant them they can stay.

Capers will also survive in the poorest of soils so any additional soil improvement is to help them thrive rather than survive. They can sometimes be seen growing in rock crevices and stone walls to demonstrate their strength as a plant.

They will grow in full sun to partial shade. Traditionally in some almond-growing regions they are planted between the well-spaced out almond trees where the sheep are used to keep down the grass and weeds.

Sheep don't usually bother the capers much as capers have spines to deter the sheep. If you grow them in a domestic garden you can find spineless varieties that make harvesting and caring for the plants much less painful.

The caper buds are the best known part of the plant. They are commonly served along with olives and pickles in Spain. They are also an ingredient in tartar sauce.

Contrary to most fruits or berries, the smaller the bud the greater it is valued, so harvesting the newly formed buds when less than the size of a pea gives the best quality. Early morning before sunlight is on the plant is the best time to harvest.

The caper berry is the matured seed after flowering, so the flower buds that are too big to harvest can be left so you enjoy the flower and can later reap the berry. The berry is more commonly used in Greek dishes (Mezze) as are the leaves.

Caper plants are a great way to appreciate the wonders of Mediterranean gardening.

Robot takeover

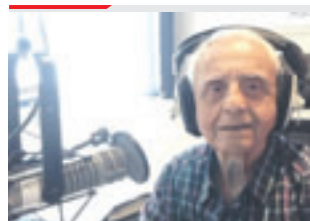

THE advances made in the last few years in household robotics have been unprecedented and nowadays there is a whole army of smart machines ready to help with your least favourite chores.

Very useful for the less able and the lazy alike, these devices can save hours of time that could be sent in the Spanish sun.

The unrealistic 1950s visions of humanoid metallic robots taking all our unpleasant jobs in their stride haven't quite come true but the modern robot is built with functionality in mind and often looks similar to its human operated predecessors.

The smart vacuum cleaner is the most affordable and useful every day robot and they often come with a range of different settings. Although lacking in power it can systematically clean the floor or use fitted cameras to plot the best route around your rooms.

PUPPY-PROOFING your home protects your possessions from damage and your new pet from unexpected harm. With a little forethought and effort, you can make your house a safe habitat for your new friend while keeping your sanity and maintaining the relationship. Consider these steps.

How should I prepare my home for our new puppy?

Take the following measures:

Keep all poisonous or hazardous items out of your puppy's reach. This includes cleansers, gardening products, insect sprays, medications and any other harmful items. Puppies can be quite persistent; make sure yours can't get to anything by jumping or nosing open a cabinet door.

Do your best to make electrical and phone cords inaccessible.

Research your plants. Many common household plants are hazardous to dogs. Make sure harmful plants are out of reach and that leaves won't fall where your puppy can reach them.

Make sure your puppy can't access any dangerous areas. Consider everywhere your puppy can reach. Can he fit through railings on the stairs or on a deck and possibly fall? If so, you may need to cover the openings with chicken wire until he's larger.

How can I protect our possessions?

Eager, active pups don't have a concept of how expensive your household objects

The Rainbow Bridge poem

THE real Rainbow Bridge is near Lake Powell, Arizona, and is a sacred Indian stone bridge.

The legend says:

Just this side of heaven is a place called Rainbow Bridge. When an animal dies that has been especially close to someone here, that pet goes to Rainbow Bridge.

There are meadows and hills for all of our special friends so they can run and play together. There is plenty of food, water and sunshine, and our friends are warm and comfortable. All of the animals who had been ill or old are restored to health and vigor; those who were hurt or maimed are made whole and strong again, just as we remember them in our dreams of days and times gone by. The animals are happy and content, except for one small thing: they each miss someone very special to them, who had to be left behind.

They all run and play together, but the day comes when one suddenly stops and looks into the distance. Her bright eyes are intent; her eager body quivers. Suddenly she begins to run from the group, flying over the green grass, her legs carrying her faster and faster.

You have been spotted, and when you and your special friend finally meet, you cling together in joyous reunion, never to be parted again. The happy kisses rain upon your face, your hands again caress the beloved head, and you look once more into the trusting eyes of your pet, so long gone from your life but never absent from your heart.

Then you cross the Rainbow Bridge together....

are. Prevent accidents by:

Removing expensive rugs and throws until your puppy is older and house trained.

Moving waste bins, toilet paper rolls, tissue boxes, etc, that are within reach.

Keeping children's toys out of reach or in chests with latches.

What puppy supplies should I have on hand?

Prepare for puppy with the following:

A safe and comfortable place for your puppy to sleep

A crate/den/playpen for when you are out

Puppy food, dishes and toys

Cleaning supplies for those inevitable accidents

Collar, leash and pooper scooper

Plan ahead and be prepared for your puppy's homecoming to make the first days with your new companion less stressful and more enjoyable. Let the puppy sleep in your bedroom for the first week in his secured box and gradually move him to another room.

Because you won't need to worry about your possessions, you can focus on getting to know him.

Reptiles for beginners

REPTILES can make excellent pets but can be expensive and difficult to care for.

Some reptiles can be unsuitable for novices as they have very specific dietary and environmental needs, not to mention some can grow to an unmanageable size.

There are however, some reptiles that are suitable for beginners, but they still require a significant investment in their equipment up front.

Thorough research before deciding on one of these pets and getting your enclosure set up before bringing your new pet home is essential.

The Iguana is not a great

Do you get this look?

IF every year you find your dog's look more intense as they see you pack your bags and suitcases, book a house-sitter to come and step into your shoes before you go away.

Many people find dealing with the pets' long faces very hard. They often just know you are planning a trip and their urges to 'come play with me' get more regular and more intense. Holiday planning can be stressful enough without worrying that your dog is going to miss you, and perhaps miss their home if you are sending them away too.

DAISY knows when we're planning a trip.

It's time to take action to minimise your stress levels and actually enjoy your time off. Why not leave your pets at home this year in the safe hands of a pet-sitter. At HouseSit-Match we'll do our best to help you find a suitable match, a house and pet-sitter who can take care of pets and home to your instructions.

What's more the house-sitter will care for your property and pets for free! That's because what we offer is an exchange of services, the sitters offer you their experiences and presence to keep your home secure and your pets safe and well cared for, in exchange you offer free accommodation!

Annie from Malaga recently called us to thank us for the help we offered her as a Premium Member. We helped her meet up with Rod and Hazel a retired couple who recently house-sat for her while she went on a holiday with family. She was delighted and really happy to meet them.

"They were lovely, they kept the animals safe and happy, I returned to a bright pet family and a clean home and pool. They were wonderful!"

Do you need a house or pet-sitter? Get in touch. House-sitting can be a win-win for both parties, free house and pet-sitting, and the experienced and checked sitters get free accommodation! Register as either house-sitter or homeowner now with a 50 per cent off introductory offer using coupon code SPECIAL50. To find a house or pet-sitter go to www.HousesitMatch.com or call Lamia on 00 44 (0) 777 214 2742.

Corn snakes and Ball pythons are usually easy to care for and docile so make an ideal choice. However, Ball pythons have a reputation for refusing to eat so a feeding demonstration may be required.

Turtles are another option but it can be very challenging to meet the housing and environmental needs of most turtles (aquatic turtles and tortoises).

Eastern Box turtles live in varied climates so they are quite adaptable. They are omnivores so eat both plants and insects.

Unmet expectations and poor advice about reptile care can result in a bad experience for the owner and can ultimately be fatal for the reptile, so make sure you do your research before bringing your new pet home.

CHARITIES

ACE CHARITY "El Refugio" in La Cala de Mijas is a registered charity. We have on average 275 dogs in our care and we receive no help from the Town Hall or the Andalusian government. We desperately need foster homes and adoptants for our many dogs, especially the small ones and puppies who do not do well in a big shelter. We are grateful for any help offered, including donations of food and blankets. Visiting times are from 13.00 to 15.00 and you can always turn up or make an appointment by calling Denise on 669 018 736. Our website is www.ace-charity.org where you can view all the dogs in our care. (93320)

NEW XC-60: SUV will showcase Polestar's performance credentials.

Leaving the nest

POLESTAR is set to become a stand-alone brand under the wider Volvo umbrella. The Swedish firm is putting its weight behind the technology as it hopes to create a rival to Mercedes' AMG or BMW's M brands.

At present, Polestar is mainly an add-on power pack option for Volvo drivers wanting to crank up the performance levels on their cars. There are engine optimisation options for certain turbocharged models and a few Polestar dominated limited edition models such as the S60 and V60.

That all changes with the decision to make Polestar a "truly differentiated stand-alone brand within the Volvo Car Group" in the words of president Hakan Samuelsson. Polestar will be given ample marketing and engineering freedom to distinguish itself from classic Volvo styles and expectations.

Polestar, in its new incarnation, will specialise in hybrid and electric high-performance vehicles combining serious power with smooth green energy. Samuelsson envisions a near future where Polestar is a major player in a hugely competitive electric marketplace.

Earlier this month, Volvo announced that some 100,000 cars have now undergone Polestar powertrain enhancements. In just a few days, the heavily hyped XC-60 SUV goes on sale and is expected to showcase the latest in Polestar performance technology.

Plan B for British cars

BRITISH cars are getting more British than ever, just as manufacturers warn a 'hard-Brexit' would be disastrous for the industry. The next two years of negotiations will be crucial but the biggest fear is widespread uncertainty spooking much-needed investment.

The good news is, recent efforts to make the UK's car industry more independent seem to have made a difference. The Automotive Council has revealed that 44 per cent of parts for British cars are now sourced from within the country, the highest level in years, up from 36 per cent five years ago.

Production has shot up under the new laser-sharp focus on building British. The number of British built cars has risen by 72 per cent in under a decade while profits in the industry have skyrocketed.

But, the progress faces derailment if the Brexit talks flounder and UK-EU trade relations revert to World Trade Organisation (WTO) rules. Chief executive of the Society of Motor Manufacturers and Traders (SMMT), Mike Hawes, said "no deal is simply not an option."

He urged the government to work on a Plan B in case talks collapse and substantial tariffs emerge, all but blocking the trade of parts and materials from the UK to continental Europe and vice-versa.

"Our sector needs a unique, comprehensive and bespoke EU trade agreement," he said, arguing that it was in everyone's interests for the motoring industry to remain within the EU's single market, regardless of where Britain's wider economy eventually ends up.

A fall back to WTO rules could seriously hamper the UK's booming exports to Europe and force British drivers to fork out thousands more for cars built overseas.

Motoring correspondent Ian Giles reports on the latest news from the Andalusia Classic Car Club, the most successful such society in the area and probably in Spain with over 600 members.

Classic Car Club of Andalusia

All change at the last minute

It's just like someone has thrown the switch..." was the comment of one CCCA member, referring to the way the weather had suddenly just changed, without warning, into that of a typical mid-summer hot Andalusia day. This was the weather for the day of the Club's monthly classic car run held in June.

It was indeed as if someone had thrown the switch and turned up the heat to high-summer levels.

The June CCCA run had originally meant to start from Venta Peligrino, just off the Ojen road above the La Cañada shopping centre. The restaurant suddenly decided to take their annual vacation instead, leaving the Club needing a new start venue. Luckily, another Venta, Venta Barranco, which was only 150 meters further along the same road, saved the day and turned out to be eminently suitable for the Club's needs. Very friendly people who really enjoyed having the CCCA there and provided very good food - especially their full cooked breakfast. Yummy!

In fact, organiser Ian Giles had had to prepare a complete new route at the last minute as the restaurant picked for the lunch had changed their minds about how much they could offer lunch for, and upped the price considerably. Needless to say, that was not acceptable, and so another restaurant was chosen necessitating a complete new route!

A wonderful collection of 40-plus classic cars had gathered at the start, which was not only very enjoyable for the participants but also for the many spectators that stopped just to have a look at and appreciate these beauties. Spanish people are always so wonderfully enthusiastic when it comes to seeing these classics. It's always a pleasure to show them the cars!

Several new members turned out to sample their first-ever CCCA classic car run and some seemed a little nervous when presented with the Tulip Roadbook for the first time. However, this style of navigation is really easy and all were more than happy by the time they made it to the finish. Not one crew got lost!

More drama unfolded as the cars left Ojen, heading for Coin, as the road was closed due to a horrendous car and truck crash that required the helicopter ambulance to land on the main road to rescue trapped drivers. The road quickly reopened and the route was then unaffected.

The route by-passed Coin and took the new section of A-355 road, cutting out Villafranco del Guadalhorce, and heading for the A-357 to Zalea.

Here the route stopped for its first break of the day at the ever popular Bar La Herradura where coffee, much-needed cold beers, and tapas were enjoyed by all.

After the break, cars headed for Casarabonela and then Alozaina. A very beautiful and enjoyable part of this run before by-passing Tolox and then Coin again.

Another essential pit-stop was arranged on the Ma3303 at Barranco Blanco, between Coin and Alhaurin, this time to take on supplies of chilled Cava, essential to the well-being of the average classic car nut!

The last section of the route came down from Alhaurin through Puerto Vaca and down towards La Cala where a first class lunch was enjoyed at the excellent Venta Jinete. It must be said that Venta Jinete have always provided thoroughly excellent food and service and is very popular with CCCA members.

All cars made it safely to the finish and it must be said that breakdowns are a very rare thing on these monthly classic car runs, which is testament to the love and care lavished on these cars by their enthusiastic owners.

The next CCCA classic car run is on Saturday, July 8.

The Jaguar Enthusiasts Club

NOT only the CCCA are busy with classic car events but the JEC (Jaguar Enthusiasts Club) are also putting on monthly car runs in a similar style to that of CCCA but for Jaguars of all ages. The cars, that is, not necessarily the owners!

Last Saturday morning the JEC gathered at the Hotel Tamisa Golf to start their run which went to El Refugio near Marbella and then finished with lunch at Sheriffs Bar, on the beach just past La Cala. A number of CCCA members participated as they were already staying at the Tamisa Golf Hotel and were recovering from the CCCA Summer Ball which took place there the night before! A few hazy hangovers were reported by some but all had thoroughly enjoyed this traditional, annual event. Food and wines were excellent with near 100 people enjoying all that and especially the entertainment from one of the very best performers on the coast, Johnny G, who kept everyone rocking, rolling and up dancing the night away!

The next CCCA classic car runs will happen in July and August, but will be shorter than usual to try to combat the heat, especially for the bulk of the Club's classic cars that don't have the luxury of air conditioning!

In September, the Club celebrates its 9th 'birthday' and there will be a celebration party night at Treetops Restaurante in El Chaparral on Tuesday the 5th. The classic car run then on Saturday the 9th will also finish with a huge party at Avanto Beach Club near La Cala. The amazing rock-n-roll band, the Memphis Trio, will be performing live on the decking there overlooking the beach which should provide a memorable day out.

That's it from me for now, I'll be back in two weeks time. Enjoy the photos on this page.

It's Surrey versus Nottinghamshire in the Royal London 50-over Cup final at Lords on Saturday. Lewis Hamilton was battered, bumped, hampered and crushed by 'Mad Max' German Sebastian Vettel in last Sunday's hectic Azerbaijan Grand Prix. Daniel Ricciardo (Red Bull) won the race with Valtteri Bottas (Mercedes) second and 18 year-old Lance Stroll (Williams) third. Vettel, who finished 4th in Sunday's Bacu race now leads the driver's championship by 14 points from Hamilton (5th).

Young starters

THE Premiership was introduced 25 years ago and owing to the large number of young footballers joining the respective Academies at most of the top clubs, England introduced U16, U17, U18, U19, U20 and U21 teams - to cater for all age groups.

Prior to 1992, England schoolboy, U18 (youth team), U21, 'B' and full international sides, and some years prior to that there were schoolboy, youth and U23 squads.

There are competitions worldwide for each of these age groups... and therefore it gives youngsters a great opportunity to gain experience by performing in all countries and playing against totally different and unknown opponents.

Some of course hit it off immediately... as they set foot on the road to stardom.

Many of the current England squad including Dele Alli, Ross Barkley, Ryan Bertrand, Eric Dier, Harry Kane, Adam Lallana, Raheem Sterling, Daniel Sturridge, Theo Walcott and Kyle Walker all won caps at lower levels.

CURRENT SQUAD: Alli, Lallana and Sterling.
