Language plan to go ahead

Final straw

By Matt Ford

Vicent Marza has sparked new outrage among parents.

The Education councillor for the Valencian region apparently plans to push ahead with the controversial plurilingüismo plan to increase the amount of the Valenciana language spoken in schools despite strong opposition.

"He doesn't care," said Kristin Tennebø, a Norwegian mum of three who represents the Idiomas y Educacion campaign group.

It comes after the regional court of justice temporarily suspended the scheme at the beginning of June, while the national Education Ministry has also waded in, referring to it as "a source of discrimination in the exercise of the right to education."

Alicante Provincial Council has also offered its support and recently lodged an appeal with the regional authority.

FURY: Kristin (centre) and other parents want to stop the scheme.

Under the proposed new rules, the number of classes taught in Spanish will gradually be reduced, although there are three different levels - basic, intermediate and advanced - with schools required to choose one depending on their needs.

At basic level Spanish remains the standard language, at intermediate there is supposed to be an even split between Spanish and Valenciana, while at advanced the latter becomes the principle language.

As reported in the Euro Weekly

News issue 1663, outraged parents claim that not all schools have been given an option, with many having the advanced level "forced" onto them.

Flashed up

LIGHTNING caused a fire that consumed 5,000 square metres of Biar countryside and took the Villena and Tibi fire brigades, assisted by two firefighting planes, more than five hours to extinguish.

Under cover

STATE schools in the Valencian Community were barred from vetoing Islamic veils after the Education department said that choice of clothing was a question of freedom.

Think twice

NATIONAL POLICE officers arrested a 19-year-old Spanish man in Denia last week on suspicion of four counts of robbery in Gandia - he is alleged to have targeted elderly women by offering to carry their shopping.

Official State Visit underway Queens of hearts

By Matt Ford

QUEEN LETIZIA and Queen Elizabeth have been wowing fans during the official State Visit of the Spanish royals, which ends tomorrow (Friday).

The newest consort to a European monarch and the longest-serving British sovereign are clearly enjoying the first official trip by the Spanish Royals for over 30 years, which is taking place at the third time of asking after two earlier cancellations.

It comes as the glamorous ex-journalist and husband King Felipe VI prepare to visit Westminster Abbey accompanied by Prince Harry today, where they will lay a wreath at the Grave of the Unknown Warrior before touring the Abbey with the Dean.

The king will also be joined by Prince Andrew, Duke of York, at a meeting between Spanish and British business leaders, before enjoying dinner with Lord Mayor of the City of London, Andrew Parmley.

After tomorrow's official farewell by Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, Felipe and Letizia will visit researchers at the Francis Crick Institute, a biological research institute, before heading to Oxford University to view Spanish artefacts.

The regal couple arrived at Luton airport last Tuesday, where they were greeted by Lord-in-Waiting Viscount Brookeborough, before being collected from their hotel by Prince Charles and the Duchess of Cornwall yesterday morning.

This was followed by a Ceremonial Welcome with the Queen and Prince Phillip at Horse Guards Parade and private lunch at Buckingham Palace before tea at Clarence House, but the main event of the day was the glittering state gala dinner at which both the British and Spanish rulers made speeches.

The last State Visit by a Spanish monarch was that of King Juan Carlos and Queen Sofia in 1986.

Brexit top of agenda

BEYOND the glamour of the ceremonial events, King Felipe and Queen Letizia travelled to the UK with specific agendas.

In particular, reports in the Spanish media have highlighted the trip as an opportunity to lay the groundwork for bilateral relations between the two countries in the wake of Brexit.

There are reportedly three main themes that the royals hope to tackle during the course of the visit, with the futures of expatriates in both countries top of the list, closely followed by business and future relations.

It comes after British Ambassador to Spain, Simon Manley, confirmed prior to the visit that the UK's approach to talks will focus on education, trade and science.

WOWING FANS: Queen Letizia and Queen Elizabeth.

Change of tack

THE Generalitat agreed to revise the dues paid by yacht clubs and ports whose concessions have now expired. These cannot be definitively renewed until the regional government, which controls ports, harbours and marinas, introduces fresh legislation which initially included a steep price hike. However, the 11 clubs and two ports in the region's three provinces, can continue to operate by renewing their concession on a temporary basis after all submitted complaints.

Hit and run

A CYCLIST run over between Albal and Catarroja, Valencia, has launched an appeal to find the driver who caused the accident. He was hit when a car overtook him only 10 metres from the cycle lane that he was making for. Although he lay unconscious on the ground the motorist fled the scene instead of stopping to help.

Rolling stones

A COUPLE were evacuated from their Mascarat (Altea) home after a 75-square-metre section of the hillside above their villa slid down the embankment, enveloping the retaining wall of their garage. This was not the first incident of this kind in the area as owing to the nature of the soil instability is common, other Mascarat residents said.

Run rabbits

SAN VICENTE now has 80 fewer rabbits but this came at a cost. The town hall's Health department paid a specialist firm €2,100 to trap and remove the rabbits that have multiplied throughout the town in recent months. They also used muzzled ferrets to flush out the bunnies.

Home alone

FIREMEN rescued a 12-year-old boy seen clinging to the ledge of a first-floor balcony in La Cala de Finestrat.

Swimmer loses rag over red flag

A CAMPELLO man, aged 53, was arrested after confronting two Local Police officers on Carrer la Mar beach.

Earlier he had refused to leave the sea after lifeguards warned him that swimming was banned as the red flag was flying. Instead he remained in the water, clinging to a buoy as he mocked and insulted the lifeguards, shouting that he would not allow them to tell him what to do.

At one stage he removed his swimming trunks and put them on his head, witnesses said.

When he finally returned to the shore he tried unsuccessfully to evade two police officers who were waiting for him. Refusing to identify himself, and claiming he lived on Tabarca Island, he kicked, head-butted and tried to bite the policemen even after he was handcuffed.

He spent the night in the cells at Campello's Guardia Civil post and was brought up before a Alicante City judge the next day. The man had an alcohol problem, family members explained the next day: "When he drinks he loses his head."

SPANISH FACTS OF LIFE...20

Spain is the largest olive oil producer in the world, accounting for 44 per cent of the world's annual supply, and the country's love affair with the diminutive fruit shows no sign of decline despite new challenges.

Liquid gold

WITH an estimated 340 million olive trees, Spain produces around 1.2 million tonnes of olive oil per year, enough to fill 400 Olympic swimming pools.

About 45 per cent of the country's olive oil is produced in the Andalusian province of Jaen, where olive plantations occupy 590,000 hectares including 66 million trees.

These account for a fifth of the global olive oil supply, with the region producing more than the entire country of Italy, the world's second-largest manufacturer.

Olive trees are said to have been introduced to Spain by the Phoenicians almost 3,000 years ago, but it was the Romans who started large-scale production, with the Moors later introducing improved growing methods.

Fruity facts

- There are over 100 varieties of olive grown in Spain, but only 24 are regularly used to make oil.

- Olive trees live on average for 3-600 years, with some of the world's oldest examples found in Spain. One individual in Tarragona is said to be over 2,000 years old.

- Despite leading the global production ranking, Spain with 11.3 kilos is runner-up to Greece (12.8 kilos) in terms of per capita consumption.

- The Spanish word for oil, aceite, is derived from the Arabic word al-zait, which literally translates as 'olive juice.'

- There are four types of virgin olive oil, extra virgin, virgin, ordinary virgin and lampante, all of which differ in acidity with extra virgin, the highest grade, having the least.

Alerted by an alarmed neighbour but hindered by the layout of the street they instead used grillwork as an anchor and climbed up the wall.

Clean slate

ALTEA Town Hall was spared paying Altea Futura €4.7 million for the cancelled Puentes del Algar development. The Valencian Supreme Court reversed an Alicante judge's earlier ruling the town hall should pay Altea Futura for the cost of drafting plans and other overheads.

Who's his daddy

VALENCIA resident Javier Sanchez, 40, claims to have DNA

OLIVE OIL:
Over 100 varieties.

Pressing times

CLIMATE change and growing global demand are putting the squeeze on the industry, but the main threat to the future of Spanish olives may be microscopic.

Dry conditions ravaging the country severely impacted production in 2016, with global supplies down by 11 per cent, and this year's harvest - which takes place in October and November - is expected to be worse.

An even bigger threat may be the destructive bacterium Xylella fastidiosa, which has been described as 'olive ebola' after devastating around a million trees in Italy and appearing in Mallorca last year.

The plague was last month detected in mainland Spain for the first time after it was found to have infected almond trees in Guadalest, Alicante, sparking widespread fears.

proof that he is Julio Iglesias' secret son after a 20-year battle. Sanchez managed to come by a sample of Iglesia's DNA from rubbish put outside the singer's Miami home.

On the wire

DENIA firefighters rescued a telecommunications engineer from a telegraph pole in Javea last week.

Medics confirmed the engineer had suffered suspension trauma, which occurs when the human body is held upright without any movement for a period of time.

Theresa May vows crackdown on Brit holiday fraudsters - Fortunately I am sure that this only represents a small number of Brits and these types have always walked amongst us. It has been going on I am sure for years and it is all of us that pay in the end with higher fees and charges. Ted Millsom Guardia Civil officers save life of terrified Yorkshire terrier - How wonderful! See I told you the Guardia Civil had soft hearts. ♥ Elizabeth Saunders

Three men gored at San Fermin Bull Run in Pamplona - I think it's time this was banned!! Obviously people are going to get hurt. This is one tradition I just don't understand!! There are so many people, those bulls are being taunted. And they are scared stiff of course they are going to hurt anything that's in their way. It's very sad!! Dominique Thomas
Is it me? - Why on earth do people derive pleasure from this, I just don't get it, OK it's tradition here I understand that bit but the cruelty is despicable! Is it very wrong that I am not upset when these humans are injured even if it's serious. They have a choice, these magnificent animals aren't out for trouble but boy do they get it, they must be so bewildered. Sick sick people!!! Carol Silverlock

Spanish minister supports three-day weekends - I'm happy to have salary reduced for a three-day weekend. Work to live, not live to work after 40. Krishna de Gruchy

Baggage handler caught hurling suitcases in Ibiza - And they wonder why people object to putting laptops and cameras in the checked bags? Denise McNamara

Shirtless holidaymakers face fines in Marbella - When will the Spanish make up their minds do they want tourists or not. This subject is one of the most stupid I've heard. The British are not used to the heat in Spain so take their tops off to cool down.

What is the big deal do you expect tourists to walk about in a shirt and tie? Would some celebrity be arrested if they did it that? Wouldn't do much for getting the jet setters to keep coming back. They would be better concentrating on cleaning up the town around the Costa del Sol. Bobby-Ruth Johnston

Foreign police to patrol the streets of Madrid - Personally enjoy watching the Spanish police dealing with them. British police are far too soft. Not to mention the look of fear on them when they realise they are getting lifted and can't speak the language! It's always good for a giggle.

Shirtless tourists are set to face fines in Marbella.

TRIVIA FROM AROUND THE WORLD

Windsor Castle is the largest royal home in the world. It was built by William the Conqueror around AD 1080.

The Hundred Years' War between England and France over succession to the French throne, lasted from 1337 to 1453, so more accurately should be called the 116 Years' War.

The world's deepest postbox is 10 metres underwater in Susami Bay in Japan.

Did you know?

The Mayday call for help originates from the French word m'aidez, which means 'help me,' - and that is roughly pronounced, 'mayday.'

FOLLOWING union complaints, Elda Town Hall was ordered to remove security cameras from several offices.

The government's Work Inspection department upheld the CCOO union's claim that the CCTV cameras were installed without informing employees beforehand, as required by law.

"Quite by chance, three of those filmed were three CCOO delegates," the union pointed out.

Work Inspection rejected the town hall's claim that the cameras were installed to avoid theft or damage to computer equipment as the decision did not arise from a "serious, solid and corroborated suspicion."

The tribunal also made the point that there was a difference between installing cameras at entrances or exits to much-transited offices and rooms and "permanently and directly recording workers' faces."

The cameras have now been removed, the town hall's Human Resources department said, but continued to insist that they were not installed to spy on employees but to safeguard computer equipment.

25 new homes in Calpe - but only for the birds!

THE city of Calpe has installed 25 ceramic nest-houses on the roofs of selected properties in the old town as it aims to attract more birds to nest in the area and deter insects.

Local ceramist, Esteban Juarez, designed the nest-houses to replicate mills, towers and boats, with one of them even replicating the emblematic Muralla Roja de Bofill.

The properties have been specially selected for having Arab roof tile.

The goal is that sparrows and swallows will nest in the historic centre, forming part of the landscape and deterring insects.

Trinny Woodall.

THIS morning fashion expert Trinny Woodall is in Ronda, Malaga, for her nephew's wedding, and the 53-year-old star took to Instagram to post a sizzling video after first slipping into a microscopic black bikini.

The mum-of-two sent temperatures soaring as she explained the different ways she could tie her top while flaunting her toned body.

Chynese whispers

KEEPING UP WITH THE KARDASHIANS' producer Ryan Seacrest, 42, is lying low on holiday in the Basque Country and has refused to comment after 30-year-old Rob Kardashian whipped up a social media frenzy by posting a stream of nude photos of his ex-girlfriend Blac Chyna on Instagram while accusing her of having numerous affairs while the pair were together.

Loose woman

KATIE PRICE, formerly known as Jordan, sparked chaos at a Mallorca pool party after firing an air gun at men she fancied, made a series of smutty remarks and poured vodka down eager revellers' throats. The ex-glamour model, 39, who is known for her surgically-enhanced assets, had been drinking all day according to The Sun, with several partygoers describing their shock at her raucous antics.

Cris me quick

HE recently became dad to new-born twins conceived by a mystery surrogate mother.

But football mega star Cristiano Ronaldo is allegedly set to father another child before the year is out after rumours emerged that his 23-year-old girlfriend Georgina Rodriguez is pregnant.

And the glamorous pair set chins wagging this week after stepping aboard a luxury yacht, with the object of Cristiano's affection appearing to show off a growing baby bump as she paraded in a revealing string bikini.

The 32-year-old later took to Instagram, posting a snap including Georgina and one of his new arrivals apparently taken at his home.

And Jacqueline Jossa, 24, and Dan Osborne, 25, were all smiles after arriving in Spain for a sun-soaked family break.

The Eastenders actress posted a sizzling snap on her Instagram account as she posed by the pool with two-year-old daughter Ella after donning a neon pink bikini.

INCREDIBLE HUNK: Dan (centre).

NEWLY-WEDDED BLISS: Jacqueline and Ella.

She captioned the shot: "Me and my little beauty!! Such an amazing trip to my favourite little place!! Back to work, as a married woman. Reading the scripts are getting me excited! Let's do this! X."

New hubby and former TOWIE star Dan also joined the social media blitz as he shared a series of photos of the family, including one from his stag do beneath which he wrote: "The boys in Vegas for my stag!!"

The couple have been dating since 2013 and went public a year later after previously denying that they were in a relationship.

Their luxurious wedding venue was previously owned by Take That heartthrob Gary Barlow, who sold it for €8.1 million in 2006.

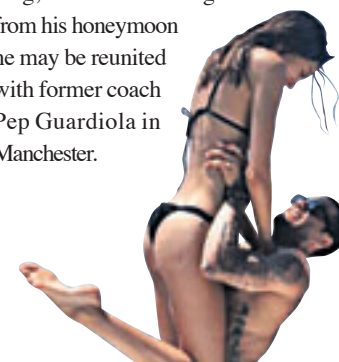

Alves on her mind

RUMOURS suggest he is torn between joining Paris St Germain or Manchester City.

But Brazilian superstar footballer Dani Alves, 34, showed he has already made the right choice in love after marrying Spanish model Joana Sanz in Ibiza.

The defender is currently a free agent after leaving Italian champions Juventus at the end of the season but his personal life appears far more stable, after his 23-year-old wife posted pictures of the intimate ceremony on social media.

It comes as Dani recently jetted to Argentina to attend friend and ex-teammate Lionel Messi's wedding, and after returning from his honeymoon he may be reunited with former coach Pep Guardiola in Manchester.

SUN-SOAKED: The pair were married in Ibiza.

Protesters demand animal rights Make it stop!

SIGN HERE: Sheila Agudo Barba signs two petitions - one for Denia to abolish the Bous a la Mar.

AROUND 100 protesters gathered at the La Glorieta roundabout at the top of Calle Marques de Campo in Denia last Sunday for a demonstration to raise awareness against the Bous a la Mar.

The demonstration, organised by ASOCIACION ERA called on Denia to end its widely condemned Bous a la Mar event and with it, the abuse and suffering of bulls.

One of the demonstration organisers, Zoe Gumm said:

“We’re here to raise awareness for the bulls - listen to our desperation. We cannot keep using bulls for our entertainment.

“Bous a la Mar starts from this very spot. This is the cage that the young bulls - taken from their natural environment - are locked inside. What you may think is a bull running after the participants is actually a bull running from what’s behind him. The bull is running out of fear like a normal animal. This is not something to be glorified.”

RAISING AWARENESS: Protestors waved almost 30 banners and signs and a re-enactment of the event was performed.

The Bous a la Mar was accused of two acts of animal cruelty last year and protestors said, “this will continue, every year Bous a la Mar gets more violent.”

Two bulls have drowned in previous years, not accounting for many other injuries suffered as the bulls run the risk of breaking their bones or having heart attacks due to the despair they experience.

THE SAME THING: Protestors hold a banner calling for equality for all animals.

Protesters urged Denia to become a leading city in the fight against animal cruelty, suggesting it follows in the footsteps of Torrevieja with its child-friendly, cruelty-free bull run.

“Denia is a beautiful and vibrant city with much music, gastronomy and art to be proud of - it doesn’t need to partake in bull torture.

“Thanks to thousands of activists across Spain the bull sports are dying, so Denia should jump off the bandwagon as soon as possible.”

Victoria Aroztegui said she was involved in the demonstration, “because the animals are not ours to do whatever we want with, they’re our earth partners and we’re taking advantage of innocent lives - this, sooner or later, will have consequences because all lives matter.”

BULL RUN: At the San Fermin festival.

On the run

RESIDENTS and visitors crowd the streets of Pamplona, Navarra, during one of the daily bull runs at the notorious San Fermin festival, which ends tomorrow (Friday).

OUR VIEW

Overloaded cars are so dangerous

EVERY summer, without fail, there are huge numbers of foreign registered cars driving from France, Germany and Italy en route to Algeciras and Tarifa to catch Morocco-bound ferries.

There is nothing wrong with migrants who want to return home to see their families and in fact they do spend money in Spain even if it is just on petrol, tolls and boat fares, but so many of them are dangerously overloaded.

Most people will have seen old cars, loaded to the gunnels with bodywork almost scraping against the tyres and everything including the kitchen sink tied awkwardly on top of the car or van.

It seems that the police of various forces turn a blind eye to the dangers of these potential death traps and only come out to divert traffic when they have an accident.

Only a few days ago, an estate car which was carrying a load almost as tall as the car was blown over due to high winds, blocking most of the A7 at Pueblo Nuevo de Guadiaro and although there appeared to be no injuries to the occupants, this must have been more by luck than judgement!

Whilst it may be a bureaucratic nightmare to stop these cars, something does need to be done, especially as drivers can be very tired after long journeys.

Now we want to hear your views.

RIP Miguel Perez Devesa

BENIDORM City Council decreed two days of official mourning earlier this week in memory of ex-mayor Miguel Perez Devesa, who died last Sunday.

Born in Benidorm, Miguel

Perez Devesa was mayor of the city from January 1974 until May 1977.

On Monday and Tuesday, the flags of the Consistory waved at half-mast and the funeral was held on Tuesday in the church of San Jaime and Santa Ana.

Benidorm mayor Toni Perez lamented the loss of Miguel Perez Devesa, and on behalf of the city sent his condolences to the family.

PENSIONERS: Keep the low season ticking over.

50 cents and in the red

THE Ministry of Labour and Social Affairs has agreed to increase the amount that hoteliers receive for Imerso clients.

The subsidised pensioners' holidays keep Costa Blanca hotels ticking over but they do not break even, say hoteliers who are pushing for a daily rate of €25 per person.

The ministry has now agreed to a 50-cent increase from a daily €21 to €21.50, meaning they will still run at a loss during the low season, the hotel owners maintained.

Meanwhile, Costa Blanca hotels are working out the basis for a new agreement with the ministry which should be ready by the end of the year. They intend to ask €25 per person per day while suggesting that Imerso places left vacant in other parts of Spain could be diverted to Alicante Province.

Costa Blanca resorts account for 80 per cent of the Valencian Community's 180,000 Imerso places but these fall short of demand, hoteliers claim.

The province's hotels also hope to persuade the government to revert to the annual €100 million that was allocated to the programme in 2007.

"I just couldn't understand why their financial advisor had recommended that fund!"

By Sam Kelly, Managing Partner, Chorus Financial

Just as we were expecting to be winding down for a long hot summer, Chorus has experienced an influx of people coming to see us to have their existing investments and pensions reviewed.

One such gentleman, we'll call him Mr Smith, had a feeling all was not right with his portfolio. Around 18 months ago, Mr Smith's advisor here in Spain had recommended he sell all the funds in his portfolio and buy a fantastic 'exclusive' fund his financial advisory's company now had access to. To gain access to such a special fund would cost Mr Smith 5%, but Mr Smith was assured it would be worth it.

18 months later and Mr Smith hadn't even covered that 5% entry charge, and despite strong markets his portfolio has gone down in value. So, what had happened?

One tool I use to research funds is a website called Trustnet. This is the World's largest independent analyst of funds, and always a good place to start if you want to do a little research yourself. This 'fantastic' fund Mr Smith had had his retirement pot put into was in fact number 295 out of 314 funds in that particular fund class... so in the worst 6% of funds available! Whilst the benchmark fund in that category had returned 45% over 5 years, this particular fund had only returned 14% over the same period. It also carried a risk factor around 20% higher than the average fund in this class, meaning the client had been taking 20% more risk to make less than a third of the returns. Even worse was that this fund was costing a whopping 2% a year, with the average fund cost in that category around 0.5%. I just couldn't understand why their financial advisor had recommended that fund!

After our meeting, I decided to call the Fund-house offering this fund to find out what possible reason Mr Smith's current advisor had for recommending such a fund. It turned out that all of the 5% entry fee had gone to Mr Smith's advisor, and that of the 2% annual fee, half was being paid as a hidden 'trail' to Mr Smith's advisor each year. This practice is illegal in the UK, but sadly still practised by the majority of firms out here in Spain.

I explained to Mr Smith that Chorus clients benefit from truly independent advice, and that when we choose funds for our clients we promise to never receive any fee from the fund provider. This means that our choice is based purely on the very best, most appropriate funds for our clients from thousands available worldwide, following extensive research, rather than one or two 'in-house' options that offer incentives to financial advisors.

If you are currently considering an investment, including a pension transfer or Spanish bond, or would like a second opinion on an existing investment or pension, please call me on 664 398 702 or email s.kelly@chorusfinancial.es.

British Benitachell resident in EUW appointment

MARGARET HALES, a British resident in Benitachell was recently appointed International President of the British Section of the European Union of Women (EUW).

The EUW was founded in Salzburg in 1953 by Austrian MP Dr Lola Solar, with the aim of enabling women to contribute to international debate and to stimulate interest in European affairs.

Today there are 17 countries in membership. The EUW has consultative status with the Council of Europe and Special Consultative Status with the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations (Ecosoc). It also contributes to the work of the European Parliament through the EPP Women's Section and national MEPs.

Through the EUW's six commissions, research work into issues of today and more importantly, tomorrow is carried out and the results fed into various national and international bodies.

The EUW works for the strengthening of peace on the basis of justice and the free cooperation of peoples.

The European Union of Women stands for the safeguarding of human dignity and freedom, the maintenance of Europe's outstanding cultural heritage and for social and economic progress while protecting the rights of the individual.

EUW maintains that these aims will only be realised by increasing the influence of women.

For many years the EUW's British Section has organised democracy training courses for women in Belarus, Bulgaria, Estonia, Lithuania, Macedonia, Poland and the Ukraine and organised member information visits to many European countries.

Margaret was congratulated by Benitachell councillor of Communication, Myra van 't Hoff, for her appointment.

Raking over the region's fires

INVESTIGATING a forest fire is more complex than unravelling a crime, according to the Guardia Civil's nature protection unit Seprona.

But establishing whether a fire is deliberate, the result of negligence or produced by natural causes is less complicated, officers said.

Figures from the Valencia region's Environment department provided by forest rangers and the Guardia Civil show that more than 2,000 fires - either deliberate or the result of negligence - destroyed 19,311 hectares of land between 2001 and 2015.

In 70 per cent of cases, no

reasons were found for the 1,400 fires that destroyed 14,000 hectares of land.

Of the remaining 600, firebugs with psychological problems were responsible for 174 fires that burnt more than 1,100 hectares of land.

Sixty-four fires that consumed another 500 hectares began when bonfires lit by growers and farmers got out of hand and spread to woodland and scrub.

On 61 occasions, land deliberately burnt by cattle farmers, shepherds and goatherds to regenerate pastures resulted in the loss of 273 hectares.

There were 38 cases of outright vandalism during this 14-year period and Environment figures show they destroyed 24 hectares.

Valencian Community hunters started 30 fires "to facilitate their activities" while 14 fires were started "in rejection of protected natural spaces," the Generalitat said.

Kirsty Maxwell's mother speaks out

THE mother of tragic Scot Kirsty Maxwell has spoken out for the first time since her daughter's unexplained death.

Kirsty's family flew to Benidorm after the 27-year-old's fall from a 10th floor balcony at the Payma Apartments on April 29.

Hundreds of posters and leaflets were distributed to those living in the area while the family also visited a variety of people and organisations including Victim Support.

Speaking for the first time to the Scottish press, Kirsty's mother Denise said the family are returning to Scotland with renewed hope but reiterated she will return to Spain if the case is not solved.

She said:

"We have been putting leaflets around the pubs.

"A lot of the people are Scottish and Spanish. They all know about it.

During their return to Benidorm, the family tried to find the person who took a photograph of her body lying next to a swimming pool.

Consultant David Swindle said: "It is a devastating thing for the family to see. This could be something that leads to more information that helps get the truth.

"We are not satisfied that the police have interviewed everyone that stayed in these apartments and that is a big issue."

Man dies on the beach

A SEVENTY-FIVE-YEAR-OLD man died after getting into difficulties while swimming in the sea off Benidorm's Poniente beach last Wednesday.

The incident occurred at around 7.30pm as bathers alerted a lifeguard to the man's predicament.

The lifeguard pulled the unconscious body ashore and immediately began to attempt to resuscitate the man, which continued after the emergency services arrived at the scene.

After attempts to revive the body for an hour failed, the man was pronounced dead at around 8.30pm.

He was a resident of Benidorm and whilst the autopsy results have not yet been released, the police revealed he may have drowned after suffering a heart attack whilst swimming.

EARLY WARNING: Radar station still plays a vital role.

Mountain village aims high

ALCOLEJA will take its plans for the disused Aitana air base to Brussels.

The mountain village adjoining the base hopes to turn the disused installation into a €10 million tourism and leisure complex.

Originally built as a US Air Force base and radar station in 1957, it was handed over to Spain in 1968.

Ever since the Spanish Air Force decided 11 years ago to staff only the radar installation, the town hall at Alcoleja (population 194) has pressured for the base to be put to public use.

Last year the Alicante Province Diputacion - similar to a county council - expressed support for the project and is prepared to assist Alcoleja's plans for restoring the base.

The village, backed by neighbouring towns and villages, intends to approach the European Union for help in executing plans drafted by the Alcoy campus of Valencia's Polytechnic University.

These envisage a 78-room hotel, a campsite and a mountain refuge, explained Alcoleja's mayor Francisco Fenollar.

The town hall will now apply for EU funds for which it needs local backing as the type of subsidy that Alcoleja is seeking are awarded in areas with a total population of more than 50,000 inhabitants.

Miss Grand Spain winner represents the Balearics

MARIANA RICO, a 16-year-old born in Venezuela and living in Malaga but competing as Miss Grand Balearics won the Miss Grand Spain 2017 title in Sevilla.

Miss Grand Malaga Anastasia Castillo, a model from Torremolinos had hoped to become the fourth representative of Malaga to win the title which has been contested for just the past five years, but sadly for her, she was not even in the final five.

The first runner up was Susana Sanchez from Sevilla, second runner up was Carolina Santos competing on behalf of Andalucia, whilst Paola Morales and Alba Lara representing Granada and Jaen respectively finished fourth and fifth.

There was considerable upset when the contestant from Pontevedra, Jessica Solleiro fell three metres from the stage in the preliminary round, but happily she is recovering without serious injury.

Mariana will be 17 when she travels to Vietnam in October to take part in the Miss Grand International finals and appears to have no worries about the long journey or leaving home for the competition.

1 Miss Balearic 2 Miss Sevilla 3 Miss Andalucía 4 Miss Granada 5 Miss Jaén.

Many companies are currently offering larger than usual transfer values on defined benefit pension schemes. Properly managed, pay-outs could provide a retirement income that well exceeds the original scheme annual payment.

You should however take regulated advice to see if this would be the right move for you. At Blevins Franks we get to know your unique situation before reviewing how every pension option would work for you, from a tax and financial security point of view.

On the buses

JULY 17 sees changes to Altea bus lines.

Number 28 buses will cover the Campomanes – Altea – Cap Blanc route until August 31, said Traffic councillor, Vicent Ripoll.

Buses will leave Campomanes every day at 10.10am, 11.10am, 12.10pm, 1.10pm, 2.10pm, 6.10pm, 7.10pm and 8.10pm.

On the return journey they leave Cap Blanc at 10.37am, 11.37am, 12.37pm, 1.37pm, 6.37pm and 7.37 pm.

Battle to save decaying mansion

JIJONA Town Hall and two cultural associations are locked in battle over Casa Geralda, an abandoned 19th-century mansion.

There are plans to demolish the dilapidated building near Jijona's Polideportivo sports complex and replace it with two paddle-tennis courts.

Empty for 30 years, Casa Geralda is structurally unsound and restoration would require an €852,000 rehabilitation.

“Although good-quality materials were used in some parts of the house, others were built less carefully,” the municipal architect said. Preparing the house for municipal use would involve a further €323,000, his report continued.

Pulling down the house and building the paddle courts would instead cost the town hall €260,000.

The Seixona Ancestral, aided by the Valencia-based Circulo por la Defensa y Difusion del Patrimonio Cultural, are fighting to save the house, which was registered in 1865 but probably built between 1800 and 1825.

At the request of the Circulo, the head of the History of Art department at Valencia University has now reported the case to the regional Ombudsman.

“The building has values that should afford it a degree of protection that prevents the planned demolition,” the University said.

It remains for the Ombudsman to release a statement and although this will be limited to a recommendation, Jijona Town Hall said it would take his opinion into account.

TRIPADVISOR announced the winners of its Travellers' Choice awards for Amusement Parks and Water Parks recently, with Aqualandia in Benidorm voted the second-best water park in Spain.

Award winners were determined using an algorithm that took into account the quantity and quality of reviews and ratings gathered over a 12-month period.

Two Benidorm attractions in TripAdvisor top 10

"The Travellers' Choice award-winning parks deliver thrill-filled excitement and splashy entertainment for those travellers seeking ideas for where to go for summer fun," said Brooke Ferencsik, senior director of communications for TripAdvisor.

With over 20 rides and areas, Aqualandia has something for everyone. Its website describes 'splashtastic excitement all the way – wet 'n' wild, with water thrills and fun for everyone'.

Aqualandia was pipped to the post by Siam Park, in Adeje and Aqua Natura, in Benidorm, also featured in the top ten at number nine:

Boots and flip-

THE Costa Blanca Mountain Walkers needed both their summer walking boots and flip-flops for an early evening walk from El Portet near Moraira.

Climbing up to the 'Pepper Pot' on the headland above the beach, they explored some other paths before returning to the beach for a swim, snorkel and picnic.

This was just one of the social events in the summer programme, details of which can be found on their website www.cbmwalkers.org.

The website also includes a wealth of information on mountain walking - of particular interest to those who may be new to this exhilarating pastime.

This friendly, international group hopes that you

Spain is breaking all the Records

As the Spanish news headlines tell us that 2017 is set to break all of the previous tourism records, it is a good time to reflect on why, and what is so good about Spain in 2017 that makes it possible.

The Travel & Tourism Competitiveness Index for 2017 produced for the World Economic Forum, shows us that for the second time in a row the tourism sector was ranked as the most competitive in the world. Spain received a top score of 5.4 out of 7 on its Competitiveness Index, over France and Germany, which ranked second and third respectively. The report pointed out Spain's good infrastructure, security and wealth of cultural and natural resources, a world class aviation infrastructure and a modern transport system. This is the reward for successive Spanish governments prioritising a solid transport and tourism infrastructure, created with strong policy support. Spain has been climbing the tourism competitiveness scale: In 2011 it ranked 8th; by 2013 it was 4th, and in 2015 it was awarded with the world title and won again in 2016, when 68 million people arrived and spent 52 billion Euros.

There is more; the baby boomers, the richest and best educated generation ever, are drawing the biggest pensions, and leaving the cold wet north for a new home in the sun. Fibre optic broadband is covering Spain in a highly competitive telecoms environment, at a time when working from home allows more people to choose their ideal location. In a virtuous circle a percentage of visitors decide to become residents, and an increasing number of visitors results in more residents. We are seeing a new age of growth in Spain where 50 years of vision, planning, and work meet the need of an age when holiday and residential tourism are at their most popular.

At Pellicer & Heredia we can help you become a Spanish resident and assist you in all your legal needs while living in Spain, offering you and your family peace of mind, so that you can get on with enjoying your life in the sunshine.

U3A Vall del Pop coffee and chat morning

ON Friday, July 7 over 30 members of the U3A Vall del Pop group met for a 'Coffee and Chat Morning,' at Bar Mossett in Jalon.

The Vall del Pop association went into recess for the summer after the last General Meeting in early June, but you would think that everyone had not seen each other for months.

Lots of chat and laughter were only interrupted when coffee and apple pie - with lashings of cream - arrived, which got everyone in the right spirit. The event finished with a raffle, raising €50 for Jalon Valley Help.

The event was very successful and the final comment of the day was, "when are we doing this again?"

U3A would like to thank the organisers with special thanks to Bar Mossett for excellent apple pie and cream.

Just after the last member left, the heavens opened and a surprising sum-

Inheriting assets in Spain? Wincham Legal & Estate Agent team can ease the stress by selling your Spanish property out of probate

Mark Roach Company Director,
Spanish Tax Consultant

Wincham International have become one of the primary Estate Agents on the Costa Blanca.

We pride ourselves by providing a professional, friendly, and informative property service and since 1994 have been helping clients all over Spain, purchase, own, sell and inherit Spanish property. Our extensive experience along with our unrivalled Spanish knowledge and broad range of industry contacts ensures that Wincham are the number one choice!!

In many cases whether it is spouse to spouse inheritance, or passing down the family line, beneficiaries may wish to sell inherited Spanish properties. In order to complete a Spanish property sale following the death of an owner the succession process must be completed first.

Dealing with the loss of a loved one is a stressful time, so when you are dealing with the deceased estate, you do not wish for any complications.

The Wincham International expert multilingual team of Spanish Lawyers and Tax advisers can help with the Spanish probate of assets in Spain by offering professional advice, support, and guide you through the process by which you obtain the rights to deal with a deceased person's Spanish assets.

There is only a 6 month period from the registered date of the passing of a loved one and our professional team can help with all assets at such a delicate time so as not to receive additional late fines.

Our team are familiar with Spain & UK documentation that may need to be presented to a Notary and have an Apostille by the Foreign & Commonwealth Office.

Wincham services include:-

- Making an application to the Madrid Registry for copies of Spanish Wills.
- Dealing with your Probate and assist with payment of Spanish Taxes for assets located on mainland Spain, the Canary Islands and the Balearic Islands.

- Producing Powers of Attorney.
- Investigate the reviewed value of property or land for latent Tax liabilities.
- Reviewing of death certificates & Wills
- Assisting with the application and registration of NIE numbers.
- Preparing the Inheritance Deed & Tax Declarations for the Beneficiaries.
- Full Spanish Legal & Tax Advice covering both Non Residents & Residents of Spain.
- Supply International support between our UK and Spanish Offices.

Wincham is made up of qualified Lawyers, Tax Consultants, Estate Agents, Chartered Accountants, Gestores (Qualified Legal assistants) and Economistas. Whatever your property requirements, Wincham are here to expertly and efficiently supply you with the best advice and service on all property matters in Spain.

Mortgage with a floor, expense or multicurrency clause? The new courts with exclusive competence

THE General Judiciary Council has approved, by an agreement on May 25, 2017, the specialisation of 54 courts (about one per province) to be responsible for dealing with court proceedings concerning floor clauses, mortgage expenses, delayed interest, multi-currency etc and clauses of loans and credits, guaranteed with a mortgage - that means mortgages where the borrower (client) is an individual and not a company.

Territorial competence: these courts will have exclusive jurisdiction to hear the affairs on the territory of the whole province, in relation to these clauses or general conditions. That is (for example for the province of Alicante) it will be only one court which must judge all court cases about floor clauses, mortgage expenses etc of the entire province.

Temporality: this exclusive competence, for the whole province, began in the month of June and will finish on December 31, 2017, although this period may be extended.

In the province of Alicante (municipalities of Denia, Javea, Jalon, Alicante, Elche, Calpe, Orihuela, Torre-vieja, etc), the competent court is, in the first instance, court number five-bis(?) of the city of Alicante.

Although the idea is to speed up the handling of these court matters, everything indicates that it is very possible that there will be an avalanche of thousands of court claims presented in front of these specialised courts, so it is very possible that they would be overcharged(?) and very important delays could take place...

What should be done by those affected by these types of clauses who are going to file a court claim?

It is very difficult to know what will happen, but there are two options:

1. Claim now before court number five of Alicante. This will mean that it will be a specialised court dealing with the case, but there may be a significant delay in the procedure and resolution of the court case.

2. Wait until January 2018, where it is foreseeable that it would be possible again to claim in front of the courts of your area (judicial party) - courts of Denia, Torrevieja etc - depending on the domicile of the plaintiff or claimant.

In any case, the problem is the uncertainty, because the truth is:

1. It is not known if the specialised court will work well or not, whether it will be fast or slow, whether its criteria would be more or less favourable to the consumers etc.

2. We also do not know if these specialised courts, as initially foreseen, will have exclusive jurisdiction only until December 31 or not, because it is possible that some people affected will decide to wait, but if the exclusive jurisdiction is extended beyond that date, the wait will not make any sense.

If you are in this situation, you need to consider this change of the court competence, and you will need to make a decision, contact us and we will help you.

The information provided in this article is not intended to be legal advice, but merely conveys general information related to legal issues.

Calpe 41 Club mourns its founder - Ian Ritchie

CALPE AND DISTRICT 41 CLUB was established in 2005, and formally chartered by the UK national association less than a year later.

It was the energy and determination of founder, Ian Ritchie, motivated by the founder of the original Costa Blanca 41 Club that made it happen. And now the club mourns Ian's passing, following his death in June.

Ian was a long-time member of the Round Table family, having first joined Hagley 851 Round Table, in 1972. He held the offices of Secretary and International Officer for much of his time. In this role, he was responsible for organising two or three home exchanges between Hagley Table and Sunne-Munkfors Round Table in Sweden.

If he was working in Sweden, he would often attend their meetings, having made friends with some of their members. In 1976 he took a party of over 40 Tablers, wives and children, to stay with Round Table families in Sunne-Munkfors. These exchanges promoted several personal friendships, which lasted over the years.

He and his wife, Carol moved to Spain in 1999, having had a holiday home here for several years previously.

There is little doubt that the thriving club in the Calpe area, would not be what it is today were it not for Ian's initiative and dogged leadership. He never wanted to take the chair, but served as secretary and membership officer, as well as the club's contact with the organisation worldwide.

For many, Ian was the club. We are enriched by his work, and by knowing him.

The 41 Club was established as a social forum for ex-members of the service organisation, Round Table. To find out more visit the website www.calpe41club.com and use the 'Contact Us' page to get in touch.

Sounds Familiar look for new cast members

HAVING finished their review show, 'Music Of The Night,' Sounds Familiar are looking towards their next production.

This time, the company will tackle the Gilbert and Sullivan classic 'The Pirates Of Penzance,' with a few new twists.

With a reputation for being slightly quirky, Sounds Familiar, under the direction of Philip Ashley, promise that this will be a fun-filled, slightly bawdy retelling of this quintessentially English show.

The story revolves around a group of hapless pirates, who are less than successful in their endeavours and the coming of age of Frederic, their apprentice, who leaves to find true love.

Add in the Major General and his daughters and the local constabulary and you have all the elements for a typical farce. The musical score has been re-worked to give the show a modern feel and with a few minor tweaks to the libretto, the show is fresh once again.

If you would like to be involved in this production, Sounds Familiar would love to see you. They rehearse on a Monday evening in Benissa from 7.15pm to 9.30pm.

Recycling to help Ian

BEFORE term ended Sharon Bell, a classroom assistant at Elian's British school in La Nucia, spoke to pupils about recycling.

She stressed the benefits of combining this with helping others and the children soon collected two huge sacks full of bottle tops.

These were then taken to the Local Police station in Benidorm, from where they will be sent to a recycling plant.

Cash raised from the sale of the bottle tops will go to Ian, a nine-year-old who lives in Sax in inland Alicante Province.

He has tuberous sclerosis, a rare multi-system genetic disease that has left him with many brain tumours, one of which is very large and needs operating. He also suffers from epilepsy, attention deficit-hyperactivity disorder and autism and does not speak.

RECYCLING: Sharon with pupils' bottle tops.

Ian's parents, helped by several groups in Sax and elsewhere, are now trying to raise sufficient funds to take him to the US for treatment and a life-changing operation.

A star-studded night

FILM FESTIVAL: Javier Mora and Julieta Serrano.

THE 29th edition of Alfaz Film Festival began with a gala evening and homage to Julieta Serrano and Javier Gutierrez.

The event was compered by Pepa Rus, the actress, humourist and singer and despite being Andalusia-born began the evening with an updated version of a 1920's song in Valenciano.

"For me, work is the best prize," Javier Gutierrez said on receiving his Faro de Plata trophy from actress-producer Iziar Bollain. Only 8 per cent of actors earned a decent living from the profession, Gutierrez lamented, as he dedicated the award to "all actors waiting for a phone call for their next role."

Julieta Serrano received her own Faro de Plata from actor Javier Mora who described her as "an example of love and humility" both on a personal and professional level.

"I have been in the profession for 60 years, so the Faro de Plata is the cherry on top of the cake," Serrano said, thanking Alfaz for the Festival. "It has become a seedbed for creativity," she declared.

Tall mugger was unforgettable

A MOROCCAN accused of violent muggings in Alfaz was arrested by Guardia Civil officers from Altea.

Some weeks ago the 27-year-old, who is almost 1.90 metres tall, allegedly robbed a Norwegian tourist of 72 in Alfaz, tearing a €24,000 watch from his wrist. The elderly man was dragged along the street, fracturing both shoulders as his assailant forcibly removed the watch.

Guardia Civil detectives linked the mugging to another in Alfaz when an attacker snatched a Spanish woman's handbag so violently that she was thrown to the ground.

The mugger was located and arrested in Altea where he was charged with two counts of robbery with violence and released while awaiting trial.

His two Alfaz victims unhesitatingly identified him from a photograph and more charges could follow if he is recognised by others subjected to similar robberies, Guardia Civil sources revealed.

Free classes running on the beach

DON'T forget the municipality is offering free classes on its beaches as part of its Healthy Teulada-Moraira campaign.

In its fifth year, the campaign offers classes on l' Ampolla, el Portet and Platgetes beaches, including Tai-Chi, pilates, swimming, aqua aerobics, circuit training and running.

The classes run Monday to Saturday - for more information check out www.turismo.teuladamoraira.com.

Teaming with Benitachell

TEULADA-MORAIRA mayor, Carlos Linares, Benitachell mayor, Josep Femenia and representatives from Hidraqua met last week to present the 2017 water consumption campaign.

The campaign - 'NO WATER, no life, no green, no blue' carries the message 'every drop counts' and features a poster designed by Valencian artist Luis Montolio.

Montolio is famous in Valencia for his many installations throughout the city.

Despite both the municipalities being in a much better position than previous years, both the mayors urge residents not to become careless, hence the launch of the 2017 water consumption campaign.

The campaign will be visible all throughout the high summer season on social media and digitally throughout the municipal centres.

BETTER TOGETHER: The mayors and Hidraqua representatives.

Flyers have been produced in four languages containing advice as to how to economise water consumption.

Thanks to the efforts of Teulada-Moraira, Benitachell and Hidraqua.

itachell and Hidrqua, residents received excellent quality water last year despite the forest fires and high occupancy.

“We need to invest in our resources and cannot wait for a miracle,” said Carlos Linares.

Throughout 2016, Hidraqua sent out more than 800 high water consumption warnings.

The consumption of detached properties outside the centres of Teulada and Moraira is almost three times as much as the consumption of the average property in the centres - 264m³/year versus 88m³/year.

This year’s campaign is also a reminder to residents to maintain irrigation systems and to plant native plants which resist the drought.

Rocio Martin, Operations Manager at Hidraqua reminds everyone throughout both the municipalities to call 900 101 270 if detecting a leak.

June sees occupancy rates up

MAYOR CARLOS LINARES published June’s municipal occupancy figures last week, which at 60.21 per cent, was 1 per cent higher than last year’s figures.

The most popular period in June was between 3 and 11 - as the Moors and Christians fiestas were celebrated.

The mayor is convinced these figures indicate the municipality will enjoy a busy high summer season.

International visitors came mainly from the UK, Belgium, France, Germany and Holland and national visitors came mainly from the Comunidad Valenciana and Madrid.

HAPPY FACE: The mayor was delighted with occupancy figures.

Hostels reported an occupancy of 75 per cent, hotels 71.5 per cent, holiday rentals 63.5 per cent and camping sites 31.3 per cent.

The tourist office was busy, with 1,342 visits from international tourists and 147 visits from national tourists.

An occupancy figure of 80 per cent is expected in July.

Mother sparks baby outrage

POLICE officers were called to the car park of Masymas in Javea on Monday afternoon as a woman left her baby alone in the car whilst she went shopping in the supermarket.

Officers arrived at the scene in two police cars as the temperature peaked over 30 degrees.

They had received reports from concerned shoppers in the car park and immediately broke into the car through one of the windows to free the baby.

Horrified residents took to local Facebook group Javea Connect to question what on earth the mother was thinking: "Thank you for calling the police!!!!!"

LEFT ALONG: While the mother went shopping.

"This is so terrible, surely no one can be so stupid! I wonder if she forgot she had the baby with her?"

The Canine Unit of the Local Police in Alicante recently denounced a person for allegedly committing a crime of animal abuse by leaving a dog locked in a vehicle in the heat.

Javea port: the craft market and the Moors and Christians

THIS coming week, the craft market in the port of Javea, will have to close for a few days to make room for the activities of the Moors and Christians celebrations.

On Saturday July 15 and from July 20-23, there will be fireworks, parades, re-enactments and more fireworks just where the summer fair is, so on those days you will look in vain for the craft stalls, but all other evenings, until September, they will be there for you to enjoy, on the sea front promenade at the end of the Avenida Jaime I.

For the fifth year running, Amata (the regional craft association) joins forces with the local shopkeepers to liven up the promenade along the sea front near Javea port with a craft fair.

Not the usual collection of stands offering cheap bracelets or clothes made by poor peasants in India or Peru, but good quality original craft work, lovingly and carefully made by real craftsmen and women living and working in Spain.

Amata has chosen the slogan 'Artesanía de Autor®' to describe the fairs it organises, which means that you can buy original work directly from the person who made that particular piece.

Jewellery is handmade.

Some of the craftsmen and women live in the area and others come - often with their family - to spend just a week or two by the sea.

That's why the stalls at the fair can vary from week to week but usually you will find stalls with leather bags, leather belts, original lamps from recycled material, rag dolls, wooden toys and puppets, jewellery from silver, copper, ceramics, macrame or dried orange peel, hand painted designer clothes and even some paintings and sculptures.

Many of the people on the stalls bring their tools and can add a name or a detail to a chosen item, or, if you can wait a few days, you can get them to make something to order.

Every Saturday, (but this week on Friday!) a potter is there with his wheel, to let children of all ages make their own bowl or cup. From time to time there is live music.

A visit to the market can be combined with a stroll to the port (with its fishing boats and fish market) and back along the promenade with its attractive bars and restaurants, shops and terraces, to enjoy the cool sea breezes.

Many on the stalls bring their tools.

If you like modern architecture, you can have a look at the Virgen de Loreto church, a concrete structure shaped like a ship!

The market is held every evening till September 6 (except for the days mentioned above) and is open from 7pm until midnight. For further details, ring 639 979 678 (Elvira speaks English)

Photos of what was on offer can be viewed at <http://www.amata.es/JaveaSum16.html>.

Freemasons, wives and guests enjoy the celebration.

Local Freemasons present Glyndebourne in Gata

ON Saturday June 24, in Gata de Gorgos, the gardens of Worshipful Brother Darrell Clayton and his lovely wife Sally, were again thrown open to hold another stunning Glyndebourne in Gata celebration.

This is now an annual event, organised by local Freemasons, modelled on the grand Glyndebourne event in England. It is a black tie, classical music event, held in Darrell and Sally's magnificent gardens.

Albeit on a slightly smaller scale, this classical concert was incredible and everyone in attendance enjoyed it enormously.

More than 130 Freemasons, their wives and guests attended and enjoyed a great evening, with exceptionally good weather.

Everyone brings food to create one gigantic picnic. The tables are decorated and the best wins a prize. This year, an element of fancy dress crept in with some guests dressing as Hawaiians and others as Romans. All had a great time!

The entertainment this year was even more varied than last. Starting at 7pm and continuing until 11pm, there was a non-stop feast of talented local entertainers. They comprised a tribute group, El Divo, a ladies choir, some dancing youngsters, a local tenor, Manuel Lazaro and also local mezzo-soprano, Gill Henry.

Held in the magnificent gardens.

A black tie, classical music event.

The finale saw Gill and Manuel united as duo 'Cantabile' and received a standing ovation. The level of talent for an event of this size was truly amazing and could have graced any stage in Europe.

All of the performers enjoyed rapturous applause and most guests are already looking forward to next year.

A grand charity raffle was held which raised the incredible sum of €1,800. This will be donated to local charities later in the year.

The Freemasons would like to thank Darrell and Sally and their trusty helpers, not only for allowing the use of their garden, but also for the weeks of hard work they put into making this event the huge success it was.

Should you wish to learn more about the work of Freemasons, or perhaps are interested in joining, please email: prensa@glpvalencia.com.

Dmitri Maradona

MARADONA: Could be made an honorary citizen.

MARADONA may become the latest foreign celebrity to become an honorary Russian citizen. The Argentine icon was in the country for the Confederations Cup and hinted at his desire to become a citizen. A role coaching the national team would then be on the cards, though not before the World Cup.

He said Britain's new aircraft carrier, the €7 billion HMS Queen Elizabeth would be the envy of Moscow. But Major-General Igor Konashenkov retorted that the shiny new vessel was merely a "convenient naval target."

Presidential pow wow

AFTER months of speculation over the Kremlin's role in last year's US presidential election, Vladimir Putin and Donald Trump finally met in person at the G20 summit in Hamburg. Though the countries are on the brink of a new cold war, many believe the leaders share similar goals.

Metro magic FOURTEEN new stations are planned to open on Moscow's iconic metro by Christmas. Three have already opened in the capital, each featuring unique architectural designs. The new Shelepikha station will see 13,000 people pass through every hour, while CSKA Moscow's stadium will also be connected.

Pilot pardon

A RUSSIAN pilot serving 20 years in an American prison has begged Donald Trump to let him return home. Konstantin Yaroshenko was snatched in Liberia six years ago and flown to the US on drug trafficking charges. His lawyers submitted an Independence Day request for a pardon to the White House.

Lethal storm

AT least two fatalities were recorded in the latest storms to hit Moscow. One of the victims was struck by lightning as meteorologists suggested the storm was the most powerful since 1923. It came just months after 18 people were killed when wild weather in May caused floods and felled trees.

Sitting duck

THE Russian army responded to a sly dig from British defence secretary Michael Fallon.

Heart friendly

MINISTERS have urged their countrymen to swap vodka and moonshine for wine. Agriculture chief Alexander Tkachyov said the state would provide financial incentives for the local wine industry to help boost the country's health. Vodka and other strong spirits were devastating populations, he said.

VINO: Wine may soon be back in fashion across Russia.

Unfair charges questioned

THE European Court of Justice has made a ruling which may assist travellers within the EU who are penalised for cancelling flights. In a response to a case brought by the German consumer union it has ruled that all airlines operating within the EU have to comply with general consumer rules for unfair terms and to publish clearly details of any cancellation charges on their internet sites.

Swiss invest €450m in Spain

A SWISS investment company has invested €450 million in commercial property in Spain and is now turning to residential builds.

Stoneweg considers that the Spanish market offers a particularly strong opportunity for investment and moved into the market in 2015.

Having raised €1.4 billion from investors around Europe, including Spain as well as the USA, the company believes that their clients are more than comfortable with investment in Spanish real estate.

Whilst initially focusing on commercial property, the fund is now expanding its residential portfolio, working in partnership with local builders and has some €300 million which it plans to invest in property hot spots such as Barcelona and Madrid.

The problem with those two cities is that land is becoming more and more scarce and therefore more expensive and although they have some €1 million plus individual properties under construction, they are now looking at other areas such as Costa Brava and even Malaga and Sevilla.

Not every project is high end and Stoneweg is more than happy to consider cheaper builds if there appears to be a market and potential profit for their properties.

They have currently committed €150 million on investment and building projects to be completed in 2017 and expect to continue building and selling residential properties and obtaining and leasing commercial properties in 2018.

Tax cuts agreed for low earners

THE cost of tax for 3.5 million Spaniards will drop thanks to a deal between the government and Ciudadanos. Those earning less than €14,000 a year will not pay any tax and there will be a cut in the rate for those earning up to €17,500. In addition, but not yet confirmed, there may be a further reduction for those earning up to €20,000. There will also be a payment of €1,200 to families looking after the disabled or very elderly.

Quote of the Week

It's the European Central Bank, as the single supervisor, and the SRB that executed all the decisions," said Spanish Economy Minister Luis de Guindos when questioned about lawsuits over the sale of Banco Popular.

Doors open for deal with Japanese

THE European Union and Japan have confirmed that they intend to enter into a free trade agreement.

EU Council President Donald Tusk and Japanese Prime Minister Shinzo Abe met the day before the beginning of the recent G20 summit to officially endorse the deal and this action sends a clear message to the increasingly protectionist USA.

Whilst it has been agreed in principle it still needs the approval of EU leaders and will take several months to negotiate.

This is yet another deal, along with the recent finalisation of the EU-Canada free trade arrangement, that the UK is likely to be excluded from after Brexit.

Depending on the final terms of the Brexit deal, the EU could find itself having trade relationships with nations half way across the world than with its neighbour and former partner.

» BUSINESS EXTRA

Rental growth

CAR rental in Spain could generate €1.6 billion of income during 2017, an increase of 6 per cent over the previous year. The number of companies renting cars and the number of tourists hiring them keep growing according to a report by DBK Informa.

More jobs

THE Spanish government will approve the recruitment of more than 20,000 in the public sector with the majority working in the Tax Authority and Social Services. Once this figure is reached there will also be 5,000 promotions which will need replacements.

Green bonds

SPAIN has climbed to sixth place in the world for the launch of 'green' investment bonds with Iberdrola the energy company being the main issuer. Investors are currently looking to place funds with socially aware companies.

Investors look to buy Spanish bridal boutiques

PRONOVIAS the Spanish bridal shop which has prestige branches around the world is likely to be purchased by four international investment funds for €300 million.

Founded in 1922 by a Turkish immigrant, the company grew over the years until it offers a wide range of special clothing including wedding dresses through 44 owned shops and 79 franchises.

Latest figures show a profit of €22 million, but the company is owned by recently divorced Alberto Ribera and it was known that he was looking for external investment, perhaps in order to make settlement on his former partner. One attraction to the sale is that company debts will also be taken over.

REVENUE FROM ICE CREAM TAKES SOME LICKING

As the sun shines sales rise

GLOBAL WARMING is helping to encourage the sale of different types of cold and refreshing desserts around the world.

There is evidence of the production of frozen desserts thousands of years ago with the Ancient Greeks and Romans adding flavours to ice brought down from the mountains, although the invention of the modern version is credited to China, with the concept brought to Europe by Marco Polo.

Despite the Chinese involvement, the market has until quite recently been led by the West according to a recent Mintel report but this is now changing with the huge populations of China, India and Indonesia seeing a major growth in consumption.

China is now the world's biggest ice cream market, with sales estimated at 4.3 billion litres in 2016, followed by the US (2.7 billion litres) and Japan (756 million litres) but by head, the biggest purchasers of ice cream are in Norway, Australia and Sweden.

Despite the fact that there seem to be increasing numbers of ice cream parlours opening across Spain, the Spanish are far less adventurous than many of their European cousins in wanting to try new, ethnic inspired flavours.

The production of unusual flavoured ice cream started in the Far East with such exotic flavours as Wasabi, Green Tea, Goat's Cheese and Avocado but moved rapidly to the USA and then Europe particularly Germany, Italy and Poland.

It's not just ice cream that is seeing a growth in popularity as anything iced or frozen, be it cream, sorbet, yoghurt, semifreddo or even gin and tonic lollies are becoming increasingly more popular in the East whilst the West is importing exotic ideas.

Kulfi is coming from India, moochi a frozen rice doughnut filled with ice cream from Japan, rolled ice from Thailand and even booza, a traditional type of ice cream from Syria and Lebanon which is very slow to melt.

Whilst some health conscious consumers are consciously reducing their ice cream intake, others are involved in the launch of Vegan versions which are seeing a considerable growth in sales as they manage to find entry into national outlets.

One thing that Spain seems determined to do, regardless of trends, is to keep its deep freezes within restaurants and to offer a whole range of frozen desserts to child and adult diners, with the added bonus that guests can still often take the clay containers home with them.

SPAIN WOULD BE WELL ADVISED TO FOLLOW A DUTCH IDEA

Green coins for a green plan

TURNING waste plastic into green money works in Amsterdam and an environmental organisation wants to see Spain follow suit.

The Dutch capital has a reputation for being one of the most environmentally friendly and alert capitals in Europe with a huge number of bicycles reducing pollution in the air and much being done to remove waste sensibly.

Appropriately named Wasted Lab has produced a series of green coins which it makes from the plastic handed in to it and in turn, it has negotiated with various stores and organisations around the city to accept the green coins in part payment for products, services or meals.

Anyone who wants to join in has to register with Wasted and receive special bags in which to place plastic of different types for recycling and the positive result is not only do those collectors bring their own plastic but they also pick up plastic in the streets in bins and by canals, increasing the amount that is recycled.

Those companies who accept the green coins are then able to use them to get Wasted to collect their rubbish and dispose of it and in the case of plastic, they will receive green coins as well.

The plastic collected by the Wasted company is used as the main source of material for their range of products. They specialise in the manufacture of recycled and recyclable building block, furniture, facilities for local market stalls and children's games.

So successful has this project been that the company reports that they continue to expand the number of outlets that accept the coins, have an ever-growing army of plastic collectors and the value of the coins is now common knowledge so that the coins themselves are likely to be digitised by the end of this year.

For countries like Spain who have been lagging behind in the recycling of waste generally and are not on course to comply with European Union directives this could be an ideal way of meeting the requirements at least in the case of plastic and making it worthwhile for individuals to take the trouble to become involved.

Collection of waste in Spain is very regular but in a large number of cases, quite indiscriminate with waste of different types simply being dumped together meaning that recycling is a haphazard and somewhat inefficient undertaking.

Butter shortage forecast

ONE of the largest producers of dairy products in Britain, Arla has warned that there could be a Europe wide shortage of butter in particular by the end of this year.

For a number of years, there was an excess of milk production which when coupled with EU subsidies led to the creation of butter mountains and milk lakes, but with a deliberate sharp reduction in milk yield, the pendulum has started to swing the other way.

Many countries are moving away from margarine and back to butter which means that manufacturers are stretched and although Spain tends not to rely on fresh cream, it is suggested that expatriates' mince pies and Christmas pudding may have to be served with custard rather than cream.

Santander additional share sale

IGNORING the fact that disgruntled former Banco Popular shareholders are working together to try to recover lost money, Santander has invited them to invest more.

All of those former shareholders are being given preferential treatment by way of a discounted price of 17.75 per cent in this new offering to cover the €7 billion needed to cover the acquired bank's estimated bad debts.

The management of Santander is confident that it will sell all of the new shares, but as is normal, has effectively insured itself against being left with shares at an estimated cost of €70 million.

Santander has also indicated that there will be positive trading contribution from Banco Popular of more than €30 million this year.

THE ROYAL FAMILIES CHAT WHILST BUSINESS CARRIES ON Spanish entrepreneurs visit UK

THE visit of the Spanish King and Queen to the UK was more than just a gesture of friendship between old allies but had economic reasons.

Britain is a major home for Spanish investment and travelling with the Royal Party will be a number of heads of Spanish companies who own large parts of British commerce and industry.

Those who will be participating include Ana Botín, president of Santander; José María Álvarez-Pallete, president of Telefónica; Ignacio Sánchez Galán, president of Iberdrola; Pablo Isla, president of Inditex; Rafael del Pino, president of Ferrovial and Josep Oliu, president of Sabadell.

When one considers that between them they own Santander UK, O2, Heathrow Airport, Zara UK and TSB Bank, their influence in the British economy is significant and they are clearly interested in the future of their investments in the run up to and post Brexit.

Whilst the King and Queen will be enjoying the pomp and ceremony of the first Spanish Official Visit in 31 years, the business owners will be discussing matters with local executives as well as diplomats and political heavyweights.

There was a very exclusive breakfast when the most important of the Spanish industrialists met with Dr Liam Fox, Minister for International Trade who was accompanied by his Spanish opposite number Marisa Poncela García.

This 'closed' meeting was followed by a larger address at the Mansion House where the 'great and good' from both countries had a chance to discuss possible future opportunities and there was a short address from King Felipe.

Whilst Spain and the UK are economically close, there was bound to be some jostling for position, especially as Spain would be happy to take over the role of hosting some of the European Union organisations currently headquartered in London.

The position of Gibraltar will almost certainly not be allowed to become a major point of public disagreement although it will be discussed in private as it does play an important financial role in the economy of the Campo.

The British Ambassador in Madrid had already been briefed to discuss the Catalan independence situation and to distance it from comparison with Scotland and it is probable that the British government will repeat this position during the visit.

The position of expatriates in both countries will be a major topic of conversation as will movement of money and people across borders following Britain's eventual resignation from the 28.

With British industrialists calling for a delay in leaving the Free Trade Agreement, it is also possible that the Spanish visitors will reinforce this suggestion.

Wheat price to increase

ALREADY the largest importer of wheat in the European Union, it appears that Spain will have to increase imports by 43 per cent this year.

The cause of this is the continuing dry weather which means that forecast production in Spain is down by 1.8 million tonnes.

Much of this requirement is to satisfy the need to feed Spain's huge livestock sector according to research organisation AgroInfomarket.

It isn't just wheat however which will affect the balance of payments as significant increases are expected in importation of both barley and corn, the latter now looking as if it will take over first place in the production of animal feed.

Losing mental capacity whilst living abroad

by Stone King

Charlotte Macdonald

Contact me at international@stoneking.co.uk

MANY UK expatriates living in Spain own properties in the UK and have pensions and investments in the UK. They rely on their UK assets to maintain their lifestyles (and those of their families) in Spain. If they can no longer manage their affairs in the UK due to a loss of mental capacity, it can cause many difficulties.

“ You can choose a person or people, who you trust, to act for you when you are no longer able.

The best way to avoid the legal and practical difficulties that can occur with the loss of mental capacity is to plan for it in advance by drawing up a document called a 'Lasting Power of Attorney' ('LPA').

An LPA must be made while you have full mental capacity.

What is an LPA?

An LPA is a legal document that enables you to appoint one or more attorneys to act for you when you are no longer able to act for yourself.

Your attorney can be a professional, such as a solicitor or a family member or friend.

There are two types of LPA: 'Health and Welfare' or 'Property and Financial Affairs'

An LPA must be made while you have full mental capacity. It is therefore important to make one while you are in good health.

Why should you get an LPA?

You can choose a person or people, who you trust, to act for you when you are no longer able.

If you lose your mental capacity and do not have an LPA, then your family (or the authorities) will have no choice but to make an application to the Court of Protection to appoint a 'deputy' to look after your affairs, which can be time consuming and costly.

Will my LPA be recognised in Spain?

Unfortunately there is no international type of LPA which is guaranteed to work in both the UK and Spain.

The advice we give to our clients at Stone King, is that if you have assets in both Spain and the UK, your only safe option is to appoint attorneys in both jurisdictions.

The people deserve a lot more

LEAPY LEE SAYS IT

HIGHLY predictable leftie reaction to the appointment of Sir Martin Moore-Bick as chief investigator of the Grenfell inquiry. 'He knows nothing about how these residents live their lives,' ranted one dissenter.

Er, just a minute, what on earth has that particular observation got to do with anything? This is an enquiry as to what, or whom was to blame for this tragedy; it has nothing whatsoever to do with how the residents lived. (Unless it transpires the fire was due to a bomb-making factory, as was recently reported on a number of social media sites!) 'We want an unbiased investigation' they ranted on. Ok, so what would make them happy one wonders?

An ethnic immigrant on welfare, living in council accommodation? Oh yeah, you're bound to get a completely unbiased result from that particular quarter. Sir Martin is a respected judge of some 20 years, his credentials are as long as your arm and utterly impeccable, including commercial law.

I know who I would prefer to investigate my claims and catastrophic losses and with all due respect it wouldn't be someone whose main criteria was 'knowing how these people live.' Let this extremely competent appointee get on with the job he has been assigned to. If, after a respectable time lapse, he and his committee appear to be dragging their feet, by all means kick their backsides into speedier action. Objections to his appointment will only drag the whole thing out even longer.

Surely the victims of this tragedy deserve a great deal more than that?

Corbyn continues on his unrelenting quest to show everyone he truly is a man of the people, particularly the gullible young. Not only did he spout off at Glastonbury, he now gives his opinion on who he thinks should win the brain numbing TV series of Love Island! The mind truly does boggle.

As a matter of interest, it has been assessed that his other, 'catch the young' ploy ie cancelling student loans, would cost something in the region of 100 billion pounds. Yet another example of his totally irresponsible Christmas present list. Don't get me wrong, I am seriously disillusioned with the Conservative party at the moment, but frankly the thought of Corbyn, Abbott and the union bullies taking over the country, is a far worse scenario.

Personally, I would like to see Farage in number 10. Who knows, in the event of another general election, (heaven forbid!) were he to run, I think he would be in with an extremely serious chance. He certainly talks with more sense than the whole of the rest put together, and at least he's not running scared, as the majority of our illustrious leaders appear to be!

Cassandra Nash

A weekly look

- and not entirely impartial reaction - to the Spanish political scene

CATALUÑA once had a nationalist but centre-right party. That was the defunct Convergència i Unió (CiU), which slowly foundered thanks to its co-founder, Cataluña's regional president Artur Mas.

He squandered an overall majority with a series of early elections, hoping each time to consolidate his position on independence.

Not only was Mas incapable of listening to the electorate's "thanks but no thanks" but he is no longer regional president although the secessionists forge ahead undeterred.

Meanwhile, up pops Units per Avançar, a new party formed by people close to Josep Antoni Duran Lleida, CIU's other co-founder who threw in the towel in 2016.

The party, nationalist but not separatist, is "a humanist and Christian Democrat party" and does not want the

Boring is the new exciting

October 1 referendum.

Spokesman Carlos Losada believes this will not solve Cataluña's problems and only bring more. Neither was the party worried about being "politically boring" according to Losada.

"Politics don't need to entertain people, they should solve problems," he said.

Unfortunately for their electorates, few politicians anywhere, especially those trying to make a name for themselves and above all the Catalan separatists, would agree.

Something nasty

THE Accounts Tribunal winkled out irregularities at Spain's official gazette, the Boletín Oficial de Estado (BOE).

Orders for paper were fractioned into smaller amounts so they did not have to be put out to tender and 80 per cent of €630,413 in bonuses for 420 employees went to six executives.

Puts a new slant "leaving no stone unturned" in the fight against corruption because every time another is lifted more sleaze and slime are found underneath.

Smart move

JUAN IGNACIO ZOIDO, Spain's Interior minister has banned all visitors' phones from his office, which must be left at the door. He does not want conversations recorded, Zoido explained, citing the problems this caused his predecessor Jorge Fernandez Diaz. Which suggests that he intends to be equally indiscreet and underhanded but without being found out.

Seen but not heard

PODEMOS supremo Pablo Iglesias criticised Felipe VI's failure to cite Spain's three greatest problems when he addressed parliament not long ago.

Felipe's speech came on the 40th anniversary of Spain's first post-Franco elections but Iglesias wanted to know why he ignored corruption, social inequality and Cataluña which he euphemistically glossed over as "plurinationalism."

But Felipe is allowed to stick his head in the sand and it's not his job to sort out these huge problems. Politicians are paid to do that, not the head of state.

ARTUR MAS: Incapable of listening.

Caesar's share

THE European Court of Justice rejected an appeal from a Getafe (Madrid) faith school which expected the local council to reimburse a €23,730 building permit for an extension.

The judges ruled that the 400-seat conference room was not destined exclusively for religious use and waiving the permit fee constituted 'prohibited State help.'

Spain's 1978 Constitution separated State and Church, a divorce that everyone accepts apart from the Church, which still doesn't pay

IBI rates.

If it did, the argument goes, it could not support the admirable Caritas. The charity receives a less than admirable 1 per cent of Church funds, begging the question of where the remaining 99 per cent goes.

Brexiters and Kippers may froth at the mouth all they want regarding the ECJ (which they routinely confuse with European Court of Human Rights) but the former has at least saved Getafe Town Hall €23,730.

For all your boating needs, go to the experts

IN the 28 years that Euronautica Calpe has been in the market, the company has built up an excellent name in the nautical world; one that stands for quality, trustworthiness and devotion.

Specialists in the boat sales and rentals as well as maintenance and mechanics, Euronautica are the experts you can trust in all areas relating to boating.

The company first started as a small family-run business in the fishing port of Calpe with a small store where they sold beach and fishing gear, and also offered boat rentals.

Soon their location became too small and after expanding twice, they now have a site of 13,550 square metres including an indoor space with a showroom, workshop and storage. There is also an outdoor space of more than 8,000 square metres which offers storage for 250 boats.

The Euronautica mechanics are well trained and regularly follow courses from Volvo Penta and Mercury. Their in-house professionals also carry out all paint and polyester work and as well as mechanical repairs can carry out standard services to from €110,450 to €97,000.

For those who perhaps just want to test the water, boat rentals can be arranged for you. Their fleet consists of aluminium centre console boats, a cabin boat (Larson 274) and small 15Hp outboard boats that don't require a licence.

The boats are in the Real Club Náutico Calpe and Puerto Luis Campomanes ready for use.

They come equipped with the required safety package and before going to sea, you will receive an introduction on how to use the boat and be informed about the sailing rules.

For more information, help and advice on anything from boat sales rentals, to mooring, boat transport, insurance and registration, visit the facilities on the N-332 at Km 169 in Calpe. The main office and showroom is open Monday to Friday from 9-1.30pm and from 4-7pm. The RCN Calpe office and the Luis Campomanes site is open the same hours.

Master craftsman repairs and restores your precious rugs

ORIENTAL CARPETS CALPE, or Orientteppichhaus Calpe, to give it its correct name, are your carpet and rug experts.

Based in Calpe's Calle Maestro Serrano, 5, this family-run business has been open since May this year. At the helm is Mr and Mrs Delvos who have been holidaying in Calpe for 20 years. After Mr Delvos suffered a heart attack at the beginning of the year, the couple decided to move from Germany to Spain to make the most of the slower pace and enjoy a quieter and less stressful life. However, still proud of their carpet services and expertise, they opened Oriental Carpets Calpe introducing their specialist skills to the Costa Blanca.

For three generations they have been working in the field with handmade oriental carpets and a good team has been created who know how to treat carpets, which goes beyond simply cleaning them. They wash them in a traditional way to prevent the loss of colours, mend and create new edges and fringes and repair all kinds of damages such as fire and water damage or moth holes.

They pride themselves on preserving the charm and value of an antique rug and have spent decades masterfully perfecting the craft.

They still have another shop in Germany where a further extensive team of specialists are on hand and so for very special and difficult rugs and carpets, such as silk rugs, Oriental Carpets will send the carpet to their specialists in Germany for treatment.

For the comfort and ease of clients, they offer a free home pick up and delivery service and also have a wide range of rugs in store for sale if you would rather have a complete new look than refresh and repair your existing piece. Ask in store about special offers, prices and promotions which are regularly available.

THE recent General Election, with its reports from all over the UK, brought home some memories of old haunts, especially of former, err, homes.

So, idly Google-Maps-Street-Viewing, I zoomed in on one home which was sold to a couple with small boys. Oh, look, I moan to myself, they've taken down my beautiful shutters (so difficult to fit), painted the front door red (was pristine white) and installed window boxes (definitely out of proportion). Plus some god-ugly goalposts for the kids in the garden...

Finally tearing myself away from No 21, I turn my attention to No 23 to check if that's also become a renovation project. New windows, new coat of paint, new driveway I note absentmindedly. About to turn away - already getting a bit bored - when something in No 23's rear garden catches my eye.

What's that pallid, lumpy mass beside one of the high walls dividing the properties? I zoom in even closer. And all's revealed. Taking advantage of the unexpectedly bright, sunny day of filming and unknowingly caught in its unforgiving glare are our neighbours, Jill and Johnnie. Lying protected by high walls from neighbours' prying eyes but not the camera's - in the buff!

Well, JJ, it could have been worse. Pity that poor bloke caught on camera being arrested, another coming out of a sex shop, the yobbo vomiting while his mate's relieving himself on a hedge and the couple caught ...well, you know.

Street View maps reveal all sorts of scenes of ordinary daily life depicting all sorts of people caught in all sorts of places they're not meant to be - images available to anyone, remember. But don't worry, JJ, you know your secret's safe with me. Lucky (for you) it hasn't gone on Instagram ... yet!

Finally, many thanks to all of you who purchased my crime thrillers (all profits, as you know, to Costa del Sol Cudeca cancer charity), following my piece here two weeks ago about why and how people lie - and the impact this has on others - a subject that's always fascinated me and inspired all my novels. And keep those donations going to Cudeca!

Nora Johnson's psychological/suspense crime thrillers 'No Way Back,' 'Landscape of Lies,' 'Retribution,' 'Soul Stealer,' 'The De Clerambault Code' (www.nora-johnson.net) available from Amazon in paperback/eBook (€0.99;£0.99) and iBookstore.

THURSDAY THOUGHTS

Angus Silvie, Axarquia

Serves to confuse

LIVING abroad when you don't speak the language very well presents plenty of challenges. When I first arrived in Spain I assumed that when they taught you to say 'hablo poco Espanol' to indicate you have a poor grasp of Spanish, it meant 'I have very little Spanish.' So without checking I took 'hablo' to mean 'I have' rather than 'I speak,' because it sounds more like 'have' doesn't it?

So into the shops I went, confidently asking the first shop keeper if she spoke cheese. I got a funny look but she worked out what I wanted so emboldened by my success I continued in this vein for a week or so, no doubt making a complete fool of myself every time, until I checked my translator and the awful truth dawned.

But spare a thought for the Spanish, trying to cater for Brits like me and helpfully translating some of their services into English despite on occasions having a similar lack of linguistic education. Their efforts are very welcome but often amusing and not always helpful when the result of their attempts serves only to confuse.

Restaurant menus have offered 'Toasts of Smoked,' 'Spaghetti Sailor's Blouse' and 'Fried Spawns,' and, in case that wasn't tempting enough, also suggested 'withered sausage,' 'wind of squids,' 'in a mess of shrimp' or 'weak rice.' I went to a Spanish zoo which advised 'Do Not Feed Fingers to the Animals' with a picture of a stick man about to be devoured by a huge crocodile head. Underneath it warned 'Forbidden Get the Body Over The Fence!' The sign was attached to an enclosure full of presumably ferocious flamingos.

I considered offering English proof-reading services for a small fee but then thought, no. These mis-translations and grammatical faux-pas offer amusement and entertainment. Let's keep them as they are!

Readers interested in submitting articles for this guest column should send articles of 3-400 words on topics felt to be of interest to the cosmopolitan EWN readership to editorial@euroweeklynews.com.

COOLASHADE: High quality shade sails, custom-designed and built for your requirements.

Stay cool with shade sails this summer

TEMPERATURES may be rising but you can still stay cool this summer thanks to Coolashade Shade Sails.

They are perfect for homes, public and social areas and around the workplace offering shade on patios, terraces and gardens providing attractive and effective shaded areas and UV protection over children's play areas, swimming pool or hot tubs, outdoor kitchen or dining areas and on terraces for bars and restaurants.

There may be similar products on the market but Coolashade are the specialists for the supply and installation of Shade Sails in Spain and manufacture their own range that is now available across Spain and Europe. The shade cloth material that Coolashade installs has been manufactured and developed in Australia for over 15 years and they are constructed from commercial 95 High Density Polyethylene (HDPE), that is manufactured solely for tensioned sun shade structures.

The material is then treated with UV stabilisers to give it a very long life in direct sunlight. They are also breathable with a cooling air flow system which means when you are underneath the shade sail you are not having heat radiated from above which is a big problem with many gazebos, vinyl structures, parasols, metal roofed buildings and awnings in Spain.

Coolashade can offer an on-site quotation to discuss your needs and can even provide 3D images to help you visualise how your shade sail will look. They can manufacture custom shade sails to practically any shape or size with a choice of 16 different colours available.

Using not only the best manufacturing techniques and highest quality materials, the Coolashade teams ensure your shade sail is securely and correctly fitted and all area designed to withstand high winds.

Their shade sails can be attached to existing buildings (subject to a survey), using the very latest epoxy resin chemical fixings and can also be attached to galvanised steel, stainless steel or timber posts and all footings for posts are engineered to give complete reassurance that the posts will not fail in any weather conditions.

Because a Coolashade Shade Sail is not a permanent structure, they can be easily removed when necessary with minimum tools and they also provide servicing of any existing shade structure that you may have.

So to find out more about enhancing your outdoor space whilst creating much-needed solar protection, call or arrange your on-site quote now.

The most ridiculous thing

Mike Senker

Views of a Grumpy Old Man

I AM always asked, 'How can you be so grumpy all the time?' And the answer is, 'I'm not.' I never wake up in a bad mood. I never wake up depressed. But, thanks to so many dumb ass things I'm presented with every day, it's hard to not get grumpy on a regular basis.

It's little things that set me off like the idiot that has parked on the pavement outside our apartment when there are parking spaces all over the place. Or the car that is double parked in the middle of the road because he can't be arsed to park a few yards down the road and WALK!!

Then of course there are the most ridiculous things that happen. Mrs S is the proud owner of a new phone. So we decided that it needed a new case so to protect it. Simple job right? Just go and buy one. Oh no. We were in Miramar shopping centre near us which must have 10 phone shops in there selling phones and accessories and we went to them all and couldn't find the type of cover she wanted. Our final stop was Carrefour which, by the way, is one of my favourite shops.

Low and behold - there it was - the perfect cover for her phone. All we needed to do was take it out of the box and double check it was sturdy enough to protect her means of communication which, by the way, cost more than my first car! Not only was the box sealed at both ends, it also had a thick white plastic band, the type you see round boxes sent for worldwide shipping.

I took it to the assistant who was tiddling about on his computer and asked him if he could open the box so I could see the case properly. 'No sorry, we aren't allowed to open the box.' 'Why?' I asked. 'Company policy,' came the reply. 'Are you nuts? How do I check it's what I want?' 'Well, there is a picture on the front.'

Then came the most incredibly stupid thing I've heard in ages. 'If it's not right you have 14 days to return it.' 'WHAT? I have to buy it, take it home, and open it, then if I don't like it I bring it back?' 'Well, you don't have to take it home. You can open it on the other side of the till after you have paid then return it.' So, should I buy scissors or a knife too so I can cut through the security band? By now I've lost it and am demanding to see a manager and the assistant then realises how stupid the conversation is and picking up scissors, cuts the band, opens the box, takes out the cover and I look at it and say, 'Fine, it's the one we want. Thank you.' He looks at me. I look at him and he says, 'I'm sorry, it's company policy and I know it's ridiculous.' At last common sense prevailed and the purchase was completed. So that's how I become grumpy! What makes you grumpy? email mikesenker@gmail.com

CAMPING LOS LLANOS is 'a place between the sun and the sea' and no-one could argue with that description.

This warm and welcoming campsite is just outside the bustle of the town of Denia itself and is a perfect spot for relaxing on the campsite or down by the beach which is just 200m away.

Set in a grove of pine trees, there are lovely shaded areas which means that even in the summer it is shady and remains at a pleasant temperature. Being so close to the beautiful Les Deveses beach, which in itself is a picture postcard spot, it also generates a cooling sea breeze during the summer months.

It all offers a pleasant and safe surrounding to enjoy your camping break and for those wanting to truly rest and relax, Camping Los Llanos has everything you could want on site with a large pool, kids' park, supermarket and bar/restaurant. There is a clean and spacious shower block, a paddling pool for the very little ones, car washing facilities and a bar-bbecue area. They have plots for your tent or motor home but in addition, bungalows, apartments and houses are all available for rent depending on how many of you there are and the level of accommodation that suits your needs.

But once your batteries are recharged, it also offers the perfect location to go and explore the local area with Denia, Javea, Gandia and Moraira all within easy driving distance. Benidorm can also be easily reached so for thrill seekers looking for a fun day out there are the theme parks of Terra Mitica and Aqualandia as well as Mundomar and Terra Natura. There is also the Montgo Mountain, the vineyards at the Jalon valley and many more places and sights to see and explore.

It continues to receive top reviews from customers and this one just about sums up the Los Llanos experience: "Los Llanos is wonderful! Two amazing weeks here, very quiet, five minutes to a beautiful beach. Staff were the best, very friendly. We really recommend this campsite, you'll feel at home!"

Unlike many campsites Los Llanos is open all year round. They are located on Partida Deveses, D72, Denia and there is still some summer availability left including a special deal for motorhomes towards the end of August, for just € 16.90 a day for two people. Call now to find out more or to book.

Summer Sunday shopping bonus

'SIR,
It is encouraging to see more shops - including some of the leading supermarkets - open on Sundays now that the summer tourist season is in full swing.

I noted in a report (EWN Issue 1670) that the Junta de Andalucia has given the green light to scores of shops in Marbella, Mijas, Torremolinos and surrounding areas to open, making life easier for me as a working mother who often finds Sunday the only day time is at hand.

Perhaps as Spain adjusts more to what is now normal in many other European countries, the restrictions at one time I presume introduced on religious grounds will eventually with time be totally lifted.

While it is nice to dream of family days at home on Sundays, life sadly rarely allows it nowadays.

Ruth Binns, Mijas

Dear Leapy

ALWAYS look forward to your col-

Lazy bin use - that stinks!

I WONDER if you can help with trying to educate people regarding the rubbish bins.

It is becoming increasingly annoying in our area (Los Reque-nas) Arboleas to find that people are filling the general bins with cardboard and loose garden rubbish.

Also they are putting glass bottles in the yellow rubbish bins which is for plastic. Broken garden furniture and other large pieces of unwanted articles are left at the side of the bins when the tip is only a few metres away. People are either ignorant about where to put their rubbish or are becoming lazy.

Perhaps if one of your journalists or reporters have some spare time, they could write a piece in your newspaper about recycling and basically what goes where. I am sure a lot of people would appreciate it after all most of us from the UK were used to recycling so really there is no excuse not to do it here in Spain.

Many thanks for listening to our rant.

Name and address withheld

umn and while I do not necessarily agree with your views you seem to have a balanced outlook. What concerns me is the popularity that Corbyn and co are seeming to receive. It is so obvious that he targets the gullible and then promises them the earth.

I personally am most disgusted that these people and some so-called celebrities are using awful events like Grenfell to either gain publicity or use as a platform to lie to us.

I cannot understand these despicable people who also seem to blame Theresa May on everything while conveniently forgetting that she was not doing a bad job at getting the UK out of the mess that Blair and Brown caused.

I fear that this leftist onslaught will bankrupt the UK unless the normally complacent majority wakes up and starts being, dare I say it, nationalistic.

Dog days contd

IN response to Brit Arenander letter in Euro Weekly News issue 1670 regarding a dead dog on the motorway between Los Gallardos and Mojacar, there are now six dogs on various places on this road in various states of decay. They have been either knocked down by cars or thrown out of moving vehicles. Some of these have been there for months. CAN SOMEONE CONTACT SOMEBODY TO REMOVE THEM?

NO WONDER THIS STRETCH OF ROAD IS CALLED DEAD DOG RUN. HOW CAN PEOPLE DO THIS???

*Trish Foster
Los Gallardos*

No flamenco

THE police in Nerja now take instruments away from people that play without permission, even if they are unaware of local laws. The best part is that when you want to claim your instrument back you need the receipt from when you bought it. Even locals who sit together playing guitar and singing as they always did can be fined up to €500.

So when you sit on a bench and practise, your instrument seems to be in danger... where is the spirit of summer?

Outrage as Costa del Sol toll road fees rise

GREEDY buggers, no wonder nobody uses the bloody thing. Then we end up with gridlock on the coast road every evening and morning. Pure corporate greed, we should launch a people's investigation into who exactly paid for it and whether the tolls levied in its years of operation have paid back any money borrowed or invested. No doubt they will just keep charging regardless.

Naimah Yianni

» Passengers and pilots (Nora Johnson)

TOO true! Worst ever flight for me was about 15 years ago - I can't recall the airline. We went through some really heavy washing-machine type turbulence after which the pilot, presumably tongue-in-cheek, informed us over the PA system: "Ladies and gentlemen, I'm pleased to announce that we have finally regained control of the aircraft."

» UK government plans to register EU citizens

PM May offered to resolve mutual right to remain last September but Merkel's creatures in EU Brussels refused her offer, unconscionable! "enormous amounts of paperwork ..." Says who? It doesn't seem to prevent the very large numbers applying yearly.

Comments from EWN online

The 'process' is intended to protect British subjects & our way of life & ensure applicants are fit & proper.

It's good enough for applicants from US, RSA, Australia, New Zealand, Canada etc.

» Foreign police to patrol the streets of Madrid

HEY ho are there really that many foreigners in Madrid that they need to bring in foreign police or is this a step towards a European police force and then a European army? Let's hope not.

Naimah Yianni

@Naimah Yianni - Why? what have you got to fear from greater international police co-operation? We have had Interpol for 94 years (Yes, since 1923) with no problems.

Alan Bowman

» Anti bull fighting protest in Pamplona

WELL done, this really needs to end. I don't think there is much sympathy any more for morons who get gored while tormenting these poor animals.

Naimah Yianni

» Prison for man who sexually assaulted baby in Alicante

TWO years to reflect on his disgusting behaviour and the shame he's brought upon his family.

I hope the baby grows up with no recollection of this vile event, sadly the baby's mother won't forget.

W

» Three men gored in Pamplona bull run

NEVER mind those idiots, they choose to do that. I feel horrified for those poor bulls that first get chased in the streets and after that die in the arena after being tortured for 20 minutes.

This is the 21 century, but it sure doesn't look like it! Shame on all people that attend this cruel 'fiesta.' I hope they pay their medical treatment out of their own pockets, otherwise our insurance will be more expensive.

YOUR STARS

FOR NEXT 7 DAYS

AQUARIUS
(January 21 - February 19)

You are in a romantic mood but something is missing from the picture. It is not that you are feeling the need of having more than one string to your bow, it is more that you are tired of using the same old arrows. So, what is out there to fire your imagination? Something really new will not miss the mark with you.

PISCES
(February 20 - March 20)

This is a brilliant week for money and business. Mars is influencing you to be more upfront and practical in your approach. You may feel changes coming on that you would rather deny. Burying your head in the sand is not an option. Take the bull by the horns and you could be surprised at your success.

ARIES
(March 21 - April 20)

You will see the lighter side of life this week when you discover that someone is holding a torch for you. You are flattered and vaguely interested. Your combination of intelligence and humour make you a delightful companion. Venus smiles on all your close relationships and you seem to be able to do no wrong.

TAURUS
(April 21 - May 21)

There is much to be tackled this week, but you are wary of making full-on decisions. Taking things one step at a time is the best policy because it gives you space to consider the options. There is a restlessness about you that is hard to pinpoint. Perhaps you are feeling positive but have to hold fire because of others. This is frustrating, but try to relax.

GEMINI
(May 22 - June 21)

Energy levels go up and down and you seek to ration yours by not going all-out physically. It is still possible to be quite dynamic while planning. Indeed, your clear vision impresses a colleague. If you are due for promotion then some good news is likely. Blow your own trumpet rather than wait for others to do it for you.

CANCER
(June 22 - July 23)

The changes affecting you for the past few weeks continue but you are now getting better at managing their direction. Someone wanting you to take a logical action should not be allowed to push you forward. When to act will be clear to you.

LEO
(July 24 - August 23)

Someone who has been unhelpful in the past suddenly steps forward. Could you have been wrong about them? Probably not. Keep a clear mind when with them. Saturn influences you to be more organised before a bout of indecision strikes.

VIRGO
(August 24 - September 23)

The influence of Venus and Jupiter brings you the influence and status that you deserve. It's not that you haven't worked towards it but now you start to see the benefits. There is an urge to improve your appearance and surroundings to fit in with the 'new you.'

LIBRA
(September 24 - October 23)

During the past few weeks you may have gained a different perspective on life. Your need for a close attachment and harmony in your life should not be underestimated or denied in the name of practicality.

SCORPIO
(October 24 - November 22)

To be truly happy you need to build on your partnerships. Keep these in balance and everything else will fall into place. Life has taught you some rather harsh lessons recently. The upshot of that is you now feel more in control and more secure.

SAGITARIUS
(November 23 - December 21)

There is an all-consuming need to see some reward for all your efforts. There will be those who will tell you that you need to push harder for success. Perhaps you need to be with more like-minded people. Certainly being with the wrong colleagues can bring your spirits down.

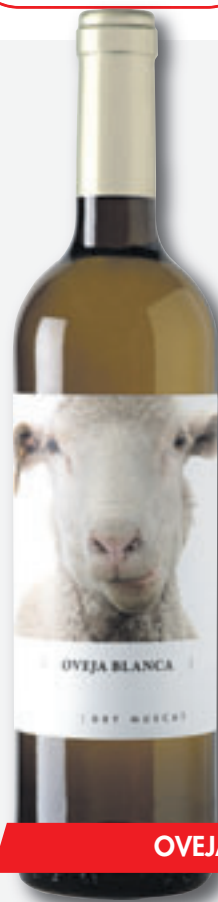

CAPRICORN
(December 22 - January 20)

When needed you are sure to be positive this week. On a project, 'striking while the iron is hot' springs to mind. There is much fun to hand but it must be 'work first' at the moment. Some opportunities do not come twice and you need to be aware of them when they present themselves. Spend some quality time with your loved ones.

Spanish wines to drink with a barbecue

OVEJA BLANCA: Intensely aromatic.

MOST OF us think of beer when deciding on a beverage to complement our summer barbecues. However, here in Spain, we are blessed with great wine so this year, why not try one (or all, it's a long summer!) of these with your steak and burgers.

1. Bodegas Fontana Oveja Blanca Muscat 2015

From Ucles' cool vineyards at 700-900 metres altitude. Pale, bright yellow and intensely aromatic with aromas reminiscent of lychees, grapefruit and rose petals. A great choice for kicking off your barbecue. Average price is €5. Alcohol content is 12-13 per cent.

2. Bodegas Fontana Oveja Tinta 2014

If red is your colour, this is another wine from the Ucles' vineyards. Dark, deep, purple-hued, ruby-red colour. Dry and medium-bodied with soft and juicy flavours of raspberries, red plums, liquorice and jam. An ideal accompaniment for grilled food. Average price is €5. Alcohol content is 13.5-15 per cent.

3. Raul Perez Vico 2012

Vico, produced by Raul Perez is a limited-production wine from the Bierzo region. Opaque purple in colour with flavours of black cherry and raspberry. This will shine best with dishes prepared with savoury spices and wild herbs. Average price is €32. Alcohol content is 13.5 per cent.

4. Wine Atlas Bobal 2014

5. Grupo Matarromera Bodegas Valdelosfrailes 2010

A red wine from Cigales produced by the Valdelosfrailes winery. Dark red and intense with a presence of raspberries and strawberries. This wine works great with barbecued ribs. Average price is €16. Alcohol content is 14.5-15 per cent.

Code Breaker

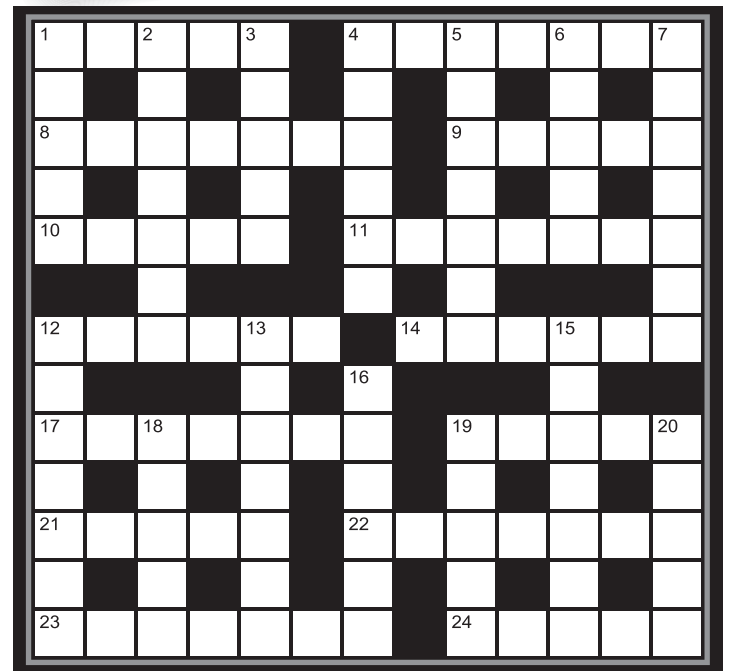

Each number in the Code Breaker grid represents a different letter of the alphabet. In this week's puzzle, 2 represents V and 15 represents T, so fill in V every time the figure 2 appears and T every time the figure 15 appears. Now, using your knowledge of the English language, work out which letters should go in the missing squares. As you discover the letters, fill in other squares with the same number in the main grid and the control grid.

BOOKS

By Miranda Emmerson

IN this sparkling debut novel, a disparate group of Londoners plunge into a search for a missing American actress.

In the dreary days of November 1965, American actress Iolanthe Green has become the toast of the West End. Charismatic, mysterious, and beautiful, she brings colour and a sprinkling of glamour to the scuffed boards of Soho's Galaxy Theatre. But one evening, Iolanthe walks through the stage door, out into the cold London night, and vanishes.

All of London is riveted as Fleet Street speculates about the missing actress's fate. But as time passes and the case grows colder, only Anna Treadway, Iolanthe's dresser at the Galaxy, still cares. A young woman with a few dark secrets of her own, she is determined to solve the mystery of the missing actress.

A disparate band of London emigres - an Irish policeman, a Turkish coffeehouse owner and his rebellious daughter, and a literature-loving Jamaican accountant - joins Anna in her quest. Each of them has come to London to escape the past and forge a new future. Yet, as they draw closer to uncovering the truth of Iolanthe's disappearance, they may have to face the truth about themselves.

DVD

Here Alone

 Starring: Lucy Walters, Gina Piersanti, Adam David Thompson and Shane West.

In this sci-fiction movie, a young woman named Ann (Lucy Walters) struggles to survive after a mysterious epidemic decimates society. She leads an isolated life and battles the threat of the bloodthirsty survivors who were infected and lurk outside the forest. But when her supplies run low, Ann must make the desperate journey into town to forage for any remaining food. During one of these raids, she meets teenage Olivia (Gina Piersanti) and her stepfather, Chris (Adam David Thompson). She must choose between safety in numbers or continuing to go it alone.

Peace of mind is knowing that you'll never have to say: "If only we'd had a fence around our pool"

DROWNING in swimming pools is the second highest cause of accidental infant death in countries that have a Mediterranean, or tropical climate. The danger to young children is real and constant, causing parents, whether on holiday or at home, to be constantly worrying and on edge.

A purpose built Neater Pool Guardian removable swimming pool safety fence allows parents and carers to relax, up to a point, when the pool is not in use.

Conforming to European Union regulations, the Neater Pool Guardian is a 1.2 metre high mesh fence that is supported at one metre intervals by a post fixed into the tiles, or coronation, by a steel peg. Once installed, it can be rolled up and put away if it is not needed. It only takes minutes to erect it in readiness for the arrival of families with children.

The most dangerous time for families on holiday is the first half hour, when adults are distracted and children head straight for the pool. Most incidents involving children accidentally falling into pools, whether fatal or not, occur when the child is under supervision, but the supervisor thinks the child is elsewhere, and nowhere near the pool. In Spain, there are 200,000 incidents annually that require some form of medical notification. About 100 of these are fatal.

Enormous 'Peace of Mind' is the phrase we at Neater Pool Guardian most hear from our customers. Knowing that their pool will be as safe as it is possible to be for small children. Knowing that they have done the right thing. Knowing that they will never, ever, have to say those horrible words: "If only we'd had a fence around our pool!"

Change your life now and start living pain free

CHANGING LIVES has been run by Phil Watson and Kathy Coleman since 1998, originally in St Ives, Cornwall, in the UK, but now from a shop in the Mercaloi Indoor Market in Benidorm; opposite Hepburns hairdressers.

During this time, they have been doing just what they claim; changing lives and helping people out of pain they have had for years, and even people with serious problems.

They use a unique treatment which uses a patented magnetic field, called Bioflow. The way that Bioflow works on the body is very different to other static magnetic products (m a g - n e t s with a set magnetic field) and it has helped ease the pain of their many clients, some cancelling knee or hip operations for example and been helped out of severe pain by the unique treatment.

Phil offers a no-obligation free sample so clients can see what they can offer. They have demonstrated their treatment on over 40,000 people, with many different conditions, and have thousands of very happy customers.

Many people were sceptical that Phil could help them, but they are now converts to the treatment, which has literally changed their life. Some customers were even wheelchair bound before trying Phil's treatment, and now are not.

They are confident they can help anyone anywhere, not just here in Spain, as they have customers around the world they have not even met, calling it their 'Global Treatment Service.' For more information on what they offer and how you could ease your pains, visit www.changinglivesstives.com, call 605 193 570, or email changinglives170@gmail.com. For those calling outside Spain, use their UK phone number and call 07925 142563.

You can also see them at the Indoor Market in Benidorm and arrange for your no-obligation free sample to see how Changing Lives could change your life. After all, what do you have to lose?

As lawyers, Pellicer & Heredia know the law inside and out

“ I HEARD about and read in the newspapers, that there was something called the mortgage floor clause rate which the Court considered abusive, and thought I had nothing to lose by getting in touch with Pellicer & Heredia Lawyers and Tax Advisors. ”

That one phone call led to an appointment, which then led to the bank being contacted.

On June 5 this year, not only had Pellicer & Heredia managed to claim back all of the overpaid money that the bank had taken from me, but all of the expenses that I had for the two mortgages, amounting to in excess of 15.000€!

That much in just three months!

Not only that, but the clause has been removed from my mortgage, meaning that I am no longer going to be overcharged.

I am so pleased that I took the decision to get in touch with Pellicer & Heredia solicitors. That one phone call / email that I made in March of this year was the most productive ever. As a law firm, Pellicer & Heredia know the law inside out and what is more they speak English - real English rather than jargon - and they listen. The professionalism

DO you feel like you are old before your time? Could your mobile be to blame? It may sound a little far-fetched but scientists are claiming that our increased use of mobile phones, particularly as we are out and about walking down the street, is making us walk like pensioners. Taking slower steps, hunched over our phones as we send messages or check emails en route, is beginning to take its toll on the body and could lead to back and neck problems in the long term.

Scientists from the Anglia Ruskin University in Cambridge carried out a study where they fitted 21 people with eye trackers and motion analysis sensors, while negotiating an obstacle similar in height to a kerb. Over 250 separate scenarios were examined as participants read a message on their phone, wrote a message, spoke on their phone and in which they did not use their phone at all.

The researchers found that writing a text was the most demanding activity and led to people looking down at their phone 46 per cent more and they looked down 45 per cent longer when reading a message. They also walked slower whilst reading a message and whilst talking on the phone. It also found that participants using their phone were less able to walk in a straight line leading them to be more at risk from bumping into other pedestrians, lamp posts and other obstacles in the street they would not necessarily notice when looking down on their phones.

The researchers said whilst using their devices they were walking like someone in their 80's and this could affect their lower back and neck by altering their posture over time.

Using phones in the street is already changing some country's policies and in China segregated footpaths have already been introduced in some towns with special lanes for those using their phones.

In the Netherlands, traffic lights have been added into the pavements for phone users who are always looking down for increased safety when crossing the road.

Follow Med diet to help avoid cancer

THE Mediterranean diet. Yes we all know about it, we all know the potential health benefits of sticking to it, but many of us still struggle to follow it, despite it being readily available in Spain. However, do not fear.

Experts have now said that just making a few changes to your current diet can make major differences to your health, with making just three healthy changes able to reduce the risk of developing cancer by up to 86 per cent; eating more fruit and fish and reducing your soft drinks. Sounds simple right? So start making the changes today.

The seemingly simple and obvious changes have been announced following a study by researchers at the Tel-Aviv Medical Centre. They looked at a dietary questionnaire of over 800 people undergoing screening or diagnostic colonoscopies who did not have a high risk of colorectal or bowel cancer.

They found that patients with more advanced polyps, which are small clumps of cells that can, over time, develop into cancer, were eating fewer items recommended within the Mediterranean diet. But eating just two o r t h r e e c o m p o n e n t s halved the risk of developing advanced polyps compared to having none, with more fruit and fish and lowered soft drink consumption shown to be the most beneficial.

LETHAL PARASITE: The rat lungworm can affect the nervous system.

Alert in USA over lethal parasite

AN alert has been raised in the USA after several cases of a lethal parasite being found in people that affects the brain.

Several Florida nationals have been admitted to hospital suspected of being affected by the Angiostrongylus cantonensis parasite.

Also known as the rat lungworm, the creature can affect the nervous system and cause meningitis and is prevalent in Southeast Asia and tropical Pacific islands. It is believed that the parasite has reached several areas of the US due to global warming. Its life cycle begins in rodents, which causes infections in lungs, blood and brain. The faeces of infected rodents are eaten by snails, freshwater prawns, frogs or crabs, and so gets into the food chain and may even infect vegetables.

Test could help couples prepare for miscarriage

COULD a simple blood test help prepare women for the heartbreak of a miscarriage? New research believes it could as they have created a blood test that measures levels of the key hormone that is responsible for maintaining the embryo and helping it survive past eight weeks.

The procedure, costing around £40 (€45), was initially developed for IVF treatment, but could be used in natural conception, although it needs to be taken within 15 days of pregnancy which could be difficult to predict in natural conceptions.

By measuring the hormone levels it will help reveal the likelihood of a pregnancy ending in a miscarriage. Whilst it will not prevent it, experts say it can help couples to emotionally and psychologically prepare for the pregnancy potentially ending in miscarriage.

After analysing hormone levels in almost 2,000 women, researchers from the Glasgow Centre for Reproductive Medicine, said low levels of the β HCG hormone show an increased risk of miscarriage.

Back pain

SPECIALIST: Doctor Luis Perez Belmonte.

How can you relieve back pain?

Back pain can come about due to many different types of illness, but in the majority of cases rest, avoiding heavy lifting or straining postures, analgesics, anti-inflammatories, muscle relaxants or physiotherapy have all proven to be effective in alleviating back pain.

In extreme cases surgery may also be a solution but is only used in a small number of cases where back pain is caused by a specific medical condition.

You should always seek medical attention if the pain is severe and/or lasts for a long time. You should see your regular doctor first and afterwards, if necessary, a specialist. Seek medical attention immediately if you feel numbness or tingling around your buttocks or genitals, unexplained weight loss, chest pain as well as back pain or if there is a swelling or a deformity in your back. These problems could be a sign of something more serious and need to be checked urgently.

What causes back pain?

There can be many causes of back pain but the most common causes are strains or sprains in the back. Other causes such as a slipped disc or muscle and tendon contractures also have additional symptoms, such as numbness, weakness or a tingling sensation.

How can you prevent injuring your back?

The best way to prevent it is to have good posture, especially when sitting. Try not to strain your back by lifting heavy loads or by lifting from an awkward position.

Exercise which strengthens your back muscles can also help prevent back pain, but consult a physiotherapist on what exercises are most suitable for you.

Greater demand for respite

RESPIRE CARE:

Family get some much-needed time off.

DEMAND for respite care has increased 50 per cent in the last 10 years in Spain according to data from a leading health care services provider.

The figures were released as summer started, a time when request for respite naturally occurs with families looking for temporary stays in nursing homes, of a weekend, fortnight or even a month, for a family member in order to give the primary caregiver some much-needed time off.

Family respite allows the caregiver to get the physical and psychological rest necessary to avoid what some call the

The average age of respite services is 82 years.

‘burned-out caregiver syndrome.’ Although this resource is used throughout the year in times of convalescence, hospital recovery and unforeseen travel, it is especially required during holiday times.

Family get the much-needed time off as their loved one is cared for in professional centres receiving all the medical assistance and care they need throughout the day including rehabilitation programmes, occupational therapies or socio-cultural activities.

According to the data from Geriatros-SARquavita, the average age of respite services is 82 years, and the average length of stay is 15-30 days in the summer and two to four the rest of the year.

Keep cool and calm this summer and entertain the kids at Café Poco Loco FAMILY fun awaits this summer at Café Poco Loco, Javea's only café with an indoor soft play area for youngsters.

Whilst we all love spending time outside in the fresh air, being at the pool and beach in the summer time, the intense summer sun can leave many parents feeling trapped at home unable to take their children out in the blazing sun, but Café Poco Loco offers the perfect entertainment where you can enjoy fun throughout the day without having to worry about protecting your little ones from the sun.

In fact, it offers the perfect escape from the heat for everyone as adults can relax in the air-conditioned café as the children happily play in the safe and secure environment.

SUMMER FUN: Enjoy the summer out of the sun at Café Poco Loco.

Poco Loco is family-run and opened in October 2015 driven by a need and desire of the owners who themselves wanted somewhere to take their children. Since then, it has welcomed hundreds of children who have been able to play to their hearts' content and relieved parents who can have the chance to relax for an hour and chat with friends in a welcoming social environment.

You no longer need to worry about the long summer ahead as Poco Loco is open daily from 10am-8pm, with the kitchen opening for breakfast tostadas, pastries and cakes, with food served throughout the day including sandwiches, pizzas and burgers with regular food and drink offers available.

They have also welcomed the original Slush Puppies drinks which now available, including Slush Puppies cocktails for adults.

The venue is extremely popular amongst parents looking for a hassle free venue for their child's birthday party and with prices costing from just €6.50 per child with food, cake, drink, piñata and face painting available, it is no wonder that they are catering for more and more private parties. They will also cater for your dietary needs offering healthy snacks and dairy and gluten free food.

Café Poco Loco has indoor play areas for toddlers aged up to three years old and for children aged from three to 10. So whether you have the grandkids over on holiday, need an hour's break from the heat or want a fun and relaxed place to meet friends, then make Café Poco Loco your next stop.

Brit jazz-pop star plays in Valencia

OF MANY TALENTS: Cullum often accompanies himself on piano, guitar and drums.

ENGLISH jazz-pop singer-songwriter Jamie Cullum will play to an expected sell-out audience at the Jardines de Viveros in Valencia on Monday July 24.

Cullum produced his first album, Jamie Cullum Trio - Heard it All Before, with only £480 (€540).

It was released in 1999 with only 500 copies made. Due to their rarity, original copies have sold for as much as £600 (€680) on eBay.

Although primarily a jazz musician, Cullum performs in a wide range of styles and is generally regarded as a 'crossover' artist with his musical roots firmly based in jazz.

As well as The White Stripes and Kanye West, Cullum has performed work by Massive Attack, Pharrell, Rihanna, Pussycat Dolls, Radiohead, Gnarls Barkley, Elton John, Justin Timberlake, John Legend, Joy Division, Lady

Gaga and many others.

He has also performed with Deltron 3030, Kylie Minogue, Sugababes, will.i.am, Burt Bacharach and The Heritage Orchestra and played at many large music festivals, including Festival International de Jazz de Montreal, Glastonbury Festival, New Orleans Jazz & Heritage Festival and Coachella amongst many more.

Healthy food = healthy mood

‘NUTRIOUS and delicious.’ That is the mantra of Cosana Café, a new concept that combines healthy, great tasting food that is packed with natural goodness.

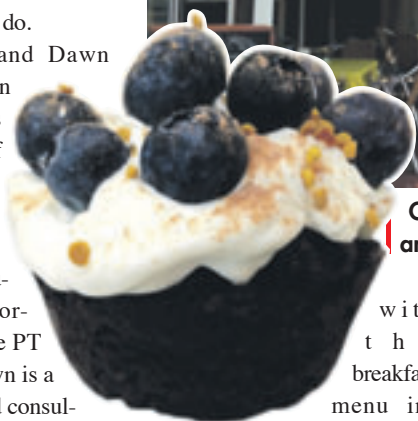

A trip to a café shouldn’t be a naughty, guilty trip, it should be a delight for all the senses, an enjoyable experience, whilst at the same time feeding your body what it both wants and needs, energising you and leaving you feeling full and satisfied. This is what Cosana Café in La Nucia aims to do.

Owners Sam and Dawn opened Cosana in March and it was really a labour of love for them to develop the café and spread their expertise to a wider audience. Sam is a former Royal Marine PT instructor and Dawn is a health therapist and consultant having studied nutrition, the digestive system and the science behind weight loss and weight gain. As a colonic hydrotherapist also, the couple ran their own retreat and witnessing the amazing transformation a healthy diet can have, they have now put all their energies into Cosana Café.

For Dawn, this is no new concept or healthy eating fad, if anything, it is about going ‘back to basics’ in some ways, back to decades ago, when we didn’t eat so many processed or refined foods full of additives and food related disorders.

Over time people seem to have forgotten that food is fuel for the body and is what keeps us healthy and energised: “The idea is more about how we used to eat, using natural, nutrient rich food. We cook with high quality produce; using fresh seasonal vegetables, whole grains, lean proteins, legumes, fruits, nuts and seeds, which naturally have higher vitamin and mineral content than food that has been preserved, refined or processed.”

Dawn has created a wonderfully nutritious, fresh and enticing menu. Start the day off right with the breakfast menu including tostadas on multi-cereal wholegrain bread, scrambled or poached egg with spinach, a breakfast pot of granola, natural yoghurt, fresh fruit and honey or a fruit platter. Arriving for lunch a range of fresh open sandwiches are available from €4.50, salads and pasta are on the menu and protein bowls give customers the option of choosing exactly what they want by selecting the protein: meat, fish, vegetarian or vegan options, add couscous or quinoa, four veggies or salads and a dressing. Looking for something refreshing in the summer heat, try a smoothie or juice offering a super boost of vitamins and minerals. But don’t think that at Cosana Café you can’t indulge in a sweet treat, as healthy bites, cakes and desserts are also available. Tel: 688 692 064.

La Bicicleta live

THE Jardines de Viveros in Valencia will play host to Colombian Grammy Award-winning singer, composer and actor Carlos Vives on Tuesday July 25 as he performs his La Fiesta de Todos tour.

Vives is one of the most important figures in Latin music, with more than 50 million albums sold worldwide.

He is most-recently known for last summer's hit La Bicicleta which he released with fellow Colombian Shakira.

La Bicicleta was number one all over the world - including in America, Australia, Italy, Japan and Spain and has netted over 900 million views on YouTube.

Tickets available from €35.00 via www.onetwo10x.com.

CARLOS VIVES: Performing on tour.

Something for the kids

FINESTRAT town is offering free children's activities on La Cala beach each Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Games for children aged between three and 12 years of age are organised between 10am and 2pm.

The children's programme covers water sports, volleyball, football, badminton and handball together with relay races and a beach Olympiad, Finestrat's Tourism department announced.

There will also be handicrafts, archaeology workshops and sandcastle competitions plus sessions with games for all the family, said Tourism councillor Juan Francisco Perez, who is also Finestrat's mayor.

"We have been doing this for years for an average of 80 children although this can rise to 100 when the season is at its busiest," he added.

"Many are local residents as well as families holidaying in the La Cala and nearby municipalities and in answer to demand we are now organising the activities on three mornings instead of one with a varied and interesting programme."

GOOD FRIENDS WITH
GARRY WAITE

I WILL never cease to be amazed at the amount of dross that is aired on TV in the name of entertainment; Love Island, Big Brother, Kardashians, The Real Housewives of wherever and the like. But a friend of mine commented about a new (to me) show called Naked Attraction.

For those of you that have not seen this programme the clue is in the title! Boy seeks girl; six young women stark naked parade for said boy! Who then has to strip off as well. Girl seeks boy; Six stark naked boys get ogled at by girl who then has to strip off too. They also have gays, pan sexuals (something involving bread?) bi-sexual and the list goes on. Now let's make something clear, I am not a prude and I love the female form and am happy to see it in all its glory, but I'm not sure that having nude bodies in full glare on a dating programme makes for a good base to start a relationship. I always thought that the sexiest part of a relationship was eventually discovering what was beneath the clothes.

Which is probably why the Japanese came up with the 'body table.' Now this could be a new 'dating - food programme.' Six girls are laid out and their bodies are covered with Rolls, Dumplings, Sashimi and Sushi and contestants armed with chopsticks start on the belly and have to eat all the food on the rest of the body before they are allowed to take the food from the ultimate erogenous zones! Now that seems the ultimate date - with dinner first!

A place of tranquility - Las Islas Hotel.

An oasis in the proverbial

MY sister came over last week for a few days to see her son and grandchildren so I ventured down to Torreblanca to see sister and nephew to have lunch and celebrate young Noah's birthday. After a pleasant lunch I took Melanie and Richard back to his house, but on the way stopped at the Boutique Hotel that is Las Islas, in that pueblo. It has become one of my sister's guilty pleasures. I have to admit, it seems very incongruous to find a little hotel in the middle of a sprawling urbanisation, but there it is, complete with pool, tropical gardens and birds. While we did not eat there - having already had lunch - we did have an after lunch drink and I, of course, had to look at the menu. There is a very heavy Lebanese influence and peculiarly mixed with Spanish dishes and just for fun, there's some Greek, Hungarian and even an Oriental Chicken Salad. The restaurant is open for non residents, but they do not normally serve drinks to non residents or non diners. Obviously my sister has some clout here!

ON THAT NOTE I will bid you farewell until next week and should aspiring restaurateurs need some help or advice, please do not hesitate to contact me. A toast to Good Food, Good Wine and Good Friends.

Japanese Proverb

In the blue and red

REGULAR readers may remember me mentioning about a wine that I was given a few weeks ago that was disarmingly coloured blue. I said it had a 'nose' like nail polish remover so I didn't drink it, but I did decide I would cook with it. So a chicken dish in white wine (well blue!) was prepared. And guess what? You're right; it turned the chicken - blue!

I did contact the bodega a couple of times to find out more details of Baltar de Alort but I did not receive a reply. I wonder if it is actually a white wine with colourant? If not what makes it blue. I shall have to ask my maestro friend Pancho Campo I'm sure he will know.

While we are talking about wine, I may as well throw my wine corner in and this week I am going to celebrate the Bodega Muga, probably one of the best and most well-known of the Rioja, but on this occasion I am going to talk about their Prado Enea 2009. The interesting thing about this particular wine is that they do not always make it unless it's particularly good. For instance they didn't make it in 2007/8 or 2012/13.

Robert Parker was suitably impressed awarding it 97 points and commented:

“The most classic cuvée was not produced in 2007 or 2008, so we jumped to the phenomenal 2009 Prado Enea. It was produced with grapes from cooler vineyards that enjoyed 20 extra days of slow ripening compared with warmer zones, which provided them with perfect ripeness and deep flavours. This blend of 70 per cent Tempranillo, 20 per cent Garnacha and the remaining 10 per cent between Mazuelo and Graciano had an extended élevage, in this case no less than three years (alternating newer and older barrels). This is still a baby and I know Winemaker Jorge Muga would like to keep it in bottle for longer before selling it, but the commercial pressure is tremendous, as there has been no wine since 2006. The wine has 14.1 per cent alcohol and a surprising 3.34 pH, especially considering 2009 was generally a warm and ripe year. But somehow this cuvée seems to work very well in ripe vintages. The wine feels even younger on the palate, and it still needs to develop some further complexity and the silky texture for which this wine is famous. There is good balance here and all the elements are in place for a nice development in bottle. In fact, it feels like one of the great recent vintages of Prado Enea.”

As I said there was no Prado Enea in 2012 or 2013 but it was produced in 2010, 2014 in small quantities and in 2015. At this quality it represents pretty good value. But again it's not a quaffing wine at 40€ a bottle.

A classic rioja - at its best. |

Tech advantage in real estate

NEW technologies are making the experience of buying, selling or renting a home in Spain radically different. Those who have access to such technologies through their real estate agent, or other company, are at a real advantage when playing the property market.

One example is virtual reality. Impressive VR technology uses glasses, a computer and 360 degree vision to offer potential buyers a tour of the home without them having to physically visit. A similar experience can be offered by drones, which can explore roofs and offer aerial views in ways which cannot be rivalled by boots on the ground.

While many might balk at buying a home without personally investigating every corner, a growing number of wealthier foreign buyers are confident in the technology and charmed by the convenience.

A seller who offers virtual reality tours of their home can tap into a vast market of distant buyers who might make only a few physical trips but take hundreds of online tours from the comfort of their living room.

A similar phenomenon is virtual 'home staging.' This technique uses computer augmentations to apply repairs, upgrades, extensions or redecorations to a property so buyers can visualise exactly what it will look like once they make the changes.

It helps take the guesswork out of imagination, especially for buyers without substantial surveying knowledge. This technology has helped sell properties which were considered almost unsellable in their original state by focusing strongly on their potential.

VIRTUAL REALITY: Offers a tour of the home without a physical visit.

Property surtax needs to be sorted

POLITICIANS should not take their summer holidays without first resolving the controversial issue of surtax being charged on the sale of properties according to a major public body.

Abel Caballero, president of the Spanish Federation of Municipalities and Provinces (FEMP), said parliament should not be allowed a break until the complex situation is resolved.

The surtax is an extra tax officially imposed on profits made from the sale of a property. But, contentiously, in many cases it applies regardless of whether a profit was made at all. Complex calculations are used to extract a tax even when the seller has made a serious loss on their investment.

The surtax has been successfully struck down by many regional supreme courts in the past year, including in Andalucia. A hefty backlog of cases is now piling up with sellers suing for a return of the tax payment.

A typical amount paid ranges from €2,000 to €3,000.

But without a repeal of the tax by the national parliament, many homeowners exist within a legal limbo. In some provinces the tax is still charged, in others the situation is entirely unclear, while some have banished it completely, leading to major differences across the country.

Abel Caballero, who is also the mayor of Vigo, wants the government to consult FEMP before August to work towards a uniform revocation of the tax that will ease the uncertainty felt by thousands of people.

SURTAX: Parliament should not be allowed a break until the situation is resolved.

FIGURES from one of the UK's biggest property search websites suggest that Spain is by far the most popular choice for Brits looking for a second home or a new life abroad.

Rightmove has revealed that more than 2.5 million searches are made for Spanish properties every month from UK households.

Head of Rightmove Overseas, Chris Pease, said "Spain's proximity to the UK, cheap flights and short travel time has it consistently emerging as one of the most popular property destinations abroad."

Spain was well ahead of southern European rivals, France, Italy and Portugal, which came second, third and fourth respectively, with Ireland making up the top five.

The popular property website said that Alicante enjoyed more searches than any other Spanish region. It also found that Glaswegians and Liverpoolians in particular fancied Spanish properties, while those in London, Cardiff and Bristol opted for France.

Rightmove also noted that, for the average June asking price of a home in England and Wales of £316,000 (€360,000) British buyers could easily acquire a luxury five-bedroomed villa on the Costa Blanca.

SPANISH PROPERTY:
By far the most popular choice for Brits.

LANDLORDS: Will no longer have any right to anonymity if they rent out their properties to tourists.

Tourist landlords to be named

LANDLORDS who rent out their properties to tourists will no longer have any right to anonymity under a draft bill to regulate the fast-growing industry. Global accommodation platforms operating in Spain, including Airbnb and Homeaway, would be obliged to reveal the identity of any owners posting adverts on their websites.

The companies, which have trampled over the dominance of Spain's hotel industry, would also be compelled to provide the ministry of finance with periodic market reports exhaustively detailing their activity and market trends.

Preventing tax fraud is a central purpose of the bill, as is more control over the holiday rental scene, which has operated as a largely underground market for years. The bill will be finalised next week and likely be voted on by the end of summer.

In the tax year just passed, a total of 21,500 taxpayers across Spain received a letter from the tax man stating that the government was aware they had rented rooms or homes to tourists and expected the profits to be included in their annual tax return.

Should the bill become law, it may throw up some interesting facts on the holiday rental phenomenon.

Activists opposed to tourist rentals in major Spanish cities believe that thousands of rented properties are concentrated in the hands of a surprisingly small number of owners, in many cases large companies rather than private individuals.

Digital makes Spanish debut

THE digital advance of Spain's housing sector has seen a variety of new, innovative real estate companies move into the marketplace. Most of these newcomers operate solely online and offer an alternative approach to traditional agents.

They offer niche services in the hundreds of mini-marketplaces which exist within the sector. Thousands of Spaniards are now employing normal real estate agents but searching online for more options when it comes to legal advice, property searches, market reports and a huge swathe of other related property services.

This emergent new sector is growing so popular it even has its own name in Spain. It is dubbed 'PropTech,' combining two English words to appear even more modern. It includes a huge range of companies, from those who print nifty attention-grabbing For Sale adverts, to others offering comprehensive personalised property advice.

Few of these developments would be considered new in the UK but are a fresh input to a Spanish property market which is finally enjoying its recovery after losing almost a decade of progress to the crisis.

There's a darker side to PropTech too though. Ironically it can also be used against the millennial generation who are most technologically equipped to embrace it.

Landlords are now employing PropTech companies to scour social media to perform effective background checks on potential tenants or buyers.

With privacy largely a figment of 20th century imagination, it doesn't take long for a professional to piece together a complete picture of an applicant's employment status, personality, music tastes and liability to fall behind on rent or mortgage payments.

Weeping Fig - happy or sad?

GRAEME TYRRELL

ONE of the more popular container plants in warm to temperate climates, and a favourite in the Mediterranean region is the Weeping Fig (Ficus benjamina).

It is a very strong growing plant but unfortunately it must be kept in a container unless you have a place that can maintain a 30 metre high and up to 40 metres wide tree with roots so strong they can lift up pavements and strangle underground pipes.

This strength however is why it is so good in a container. It has the ability to grow in adverse conditions of minimal water and direct sun for long periods without expiring. It does have its limitation though which, when understood, allow it to grow happily on your porch, terrace or balcony providing its bright green dense foliage reminiscent of a tropical jungle environment.

Its most basic need is to have an appropriate soil mixture that permits free drainage of water while having the capacity to retain moisture in the mix. A good potting mixture with an equal part by volume of pine bark mixed with it can be a good blend. Stones can be used instead of pine bark but as they don't retain moisture the container will need more regular watering.

Light is also an important issue. They will tolerate full sun when established but do well in light shade as a house plant. If you move them from a very light position to one of low light they will most likely lose many leaves but generally recover. Loss of leaves indicates a change of environment for the Weeping Fig but usually they reboot once a balanced environment for them is re-established.

Watering ideally requires that the container is drenched and then allowed to become touch dry before rewatering. The plant is tolerant of variations of this but if it becomes too dry it may shed its leaves to reflect the degree of dryness and if too constantly wet it may develop fungal problems in the roots that can cripple the plants vitality.

Allowing water to escape from the container when drenching assists with leaching out accumulating salts in the soil mix. The Weeping Fig is sensitive to salt build up so tap water with high mineral content can be detrimental therefore rain water is better and chemical based fertilisers with high salt content are detrimental in the long term.

It is best to provide organic fertilisers in liquid form to maintain nutrients but not excessively. As they are inclined to be a large tree, minimal fertilising will assist in managing its size.

They can be potted up into larger containers as they grow but when they reach the maximum desired size, it will be time to repot into the same sized container by removing the plant from the container flushing away most of the old soil mixture, prune the roots by about a third and return it to the container with a new soil mix. In this way the plant can last for decades.

I have two 1.5 metres tall that are a 15-years-old and as healthy as can be from caring for them in this way. I think my Weeping Figs are happy.

Ten simple tips for decluttering your home

A CLUTTERED home can lead to a stressful life. There's nothing worse than an attic or basement brimming with things, some of which you may not have used for years.

You don't have to wait for spring to have a clear out. With these simple tips, you can have a clutter-free home and (as an added bonus) mind.

1. Don't see it as a chore - enjoy it!

Do not focus on how difficult it will be to sort through those jigsaws with pieces missing and decades of junk you and the family have acquired. Instead, try to enjoy purging your living space.

2. Break it down into manageable chunks.

If you have a lot of responsibilities then it's probably going to be hard for you to tackle it all at once. Instead, break it down into individual rooms or even cupboard by cupboard, if necessary.

3. Phone a friend!

Trying to decide what handmade Christmas decoration to keep or whether to bin your dog's discarded tooth can be difficult. That's where having a friend on hand can help as they can advise you without the sentimental attachment. If you have grown-up children, get them involved and they can't blame you for throwing out their favourite, mouldy teddy.

4. The three-year rule.

If you haven't used something for three years, bin it! We are all guilty of keeping things that we're sure we'll find a use for but, if you haven't used something for three years or over, chances are you never will.

5. Allocate three boxes.

Label your boxes Keep, Donate and Throw away. Be ruthless and focus on how much good your unwanted items can do when donated to charity. If you're wasting too much time trying to decide, you might need another box for things you're unsure about, but don't hold onto things for too long.

6. Organise your shoes.

Shoes have a way of spilling out of the wardrobe and ending up in almost every room of the house. With some simple shelving, a hanging shoe-holder or shoe-rack, floor space will instantly open up. If all else fails, get rid of some pairs (but resist the temptation to go shoe-shopping as a reward!)

7. Embellish and beautify.

In any space where clutter tends to pile up, embellish with a favourite framed print or something special. Whenever you're tempted to re-use as a dumping ground, you will think twice when you see how good it looks without the clutter.

8. Re-use where possible.

If you've managed to clear out a chest of drawers or Welsh dresser, re-purpose it to clear your other clutter. If it's no longer required, donate or ditch.

9. Purge your paperwork.

If you can't file it or frame it, dispose of it. Of course, some paperwork needs to be kept for certain time periods and your child may never forgive you for throwing out their first drawing from nursery school, but use your judgement and persist with the purge.

10. Take the 12-12-12 challenge!

This is a simple task of locating 12 items to throw away, 12 items to donate and 12 items to be returned to their proper place. It can be a fun way to organise 36 things in your house quite quickly.

I encourage all owners to train their dogs to wear a muzzle, the earlier in the dog's life the better. Most young dogs are destructive; a muzzle will protect your home from being eaten. A muzzle will ensure that your dog is unable to eat any rubbish or poison on the ground that alone is worth training for.

When visiting the vet it can also be useful for nervous dogs to wear a muzzle and also when a dog has been operated on. Wearing a muzzle is another way to prevent him from licking the wound. In the event of an emergency, if you do not have a muzzle then one can always tie the leash around the dog's mouth to prevent it biting.

I would add that a muzzle does not cure a bad behaviour, but it is useful whilst an effective therapeutic strategy is developed.

MANY folk have so many different opinions of the muzzle. Of course anyone that sees a dog with a muzzle automatically assumes that the dog is dangerous.

There are many types of muzzle, but whatever one you choose make certain that the dog is able to breath.

The muzzle that I recommend is the Baskerville which is marketed by the eminent Roger Mugford. This is a basket design and allows near unrestricted mouth opening for panting and drinking. These are available at most good pet shops and many vets stock them. They come in 12 sizes to ensure that a good fit is available for most breeds of dogs. SITUATIONS VACANT

HiFX Europe Limited - Spain

If you're looking for a fun, dynamic company who invest in training and career development, HiFX is the company for you! We're part of Euronet Worldwide, Inc (NASDAQ: EEFT), a worldwide leader in electronic payment and transaction processing solutions. Together, HiFX, Ria and XE.com (also part of Euronet Worldwide) form the third largest money transfer business in the world, and every year HiFX helps over 100,000 people and 6,000 businesses to transfer money quickly, easily and securely at competitive exchange rates. With a focus on delighting customers with innovative products, we're looking for the most passionate, intelligent and talented people to work with us.

Business Development Manager

Purpose of Role:
As a Business Development Manager you will be responsible for identifying & on-boarding of new affiliates. You will engage with and develop new business relationships with businesses seeking a cost effective, efficient and secure international payment service. You will self-source client prospects through online and offline methods & networking. You will identify prospective B2B clients and conduct in-depth qualification in order to establish client needs and fully explain the value proposition of HiFX solutions. Business Development Managers will manage new business opportunities through the entire sales lifecycle from initial qualification through to account opening.

Skills & Experience:

- Previous experience within a fast moving sales environment
- Demonstrates previous experience of over achieving financial targets
- Must be articulate and possess highly professional manner both on the telephone and face to face
- Experience of building relationships with key decision makers

Client Relationship Manager

The Client Relationship Manager is a key role within the organisation and focuses on maintaining existing partner relationships and supports the sales roles in the on-boarding of referred clients. The Client Relationship Manager is the office counterpart for the Business Development Managers.

Key deliverables:

- To Increase the number of new clients within our database
- Maintain existing partner relationships within our current database
- Generate referrals from existing partners and convert to trading clients

Roles & Responsibilities:

- Assisting referred clients with the registration process
- Carry out visits to private clients & partners when required
- Will be able to demonstrate significant experience within B2B / B2C sales
- Excellent communication & interpersonal skills (telephone, face-to-face and written)
- Have excellent IT user skills and use of CRM databases
- (e.g MS word, MS PowerPoint, MS Outlook and Excel)
- Strong organisational and numerical skills
- Motivated to succeed within KPI driven sales environment

Both positions offer competitive basic salary + uncapped commission. Company car & mobile provided. Spanish & Scandinavian languages are an advantage in both positions. Please forward your CV and covering letter to recruitment@hifx.co.uk

“There is a word to describe this car. It begins with ‘s’, ends with ‘t’ and isn’t ‘soot’.” (On the Vauxhall Vectra VXR)

Some might say...

Motoring shorts

Deadly dawdling

PARENTS stopping outside schools to drop off and pick up children should have the common courtesy to switch off their engines. That’s the conclusion of a new health report backed by the RAC, Britain’s largest breakdown cover company.

The report from the National Institute for Health and Care Excellence (NICE) says children and older people are acutely threatened by the unnecessary pollution which can lead to serious health problems. It is believed that car fumes contribute to upwards of 20,000 early deaths in the country.

Fines for idling outside schools may be the wake-up calls selfish parents across Europe have long needed.

Volvo embraces electric

VOLVO has announced that, from 2019 onwards, all of its new cars will be electric or hybrid. It is the beginning of the end for the combustion engine’s dominance, which will be phased out after next year.

“Volvo Cars has stated that it plans to have sold a total of one million electrified cars by 2025,” said Chief Executive Hakan Samuelsson. “When we said it we meant it. This is how we are going to do it.”

The Swedish manufacturer has five distinct electric models planned for release in the next five years. All other cars built will be hybrids.

It’s an ambitious move for a company which has yet to release even one production-ready electric vehicle. Sales of its SUV XC90 hybrid have exceeded expectations, however, boosting confidence that eco-friendly is the future.

pensive than the diesel equivalent, at roughly €70,000 drivers are forking out an extra €15,000 for superior green credentials.

But prices are expected to drop as competition gears up a notch. Toyota, Nissan and BMW are leading the electric revolution, and many analysts expect battery-powered cars to account for the majority of the European market within a decade.

Volvo has another ace up its sleeve. The company is owned by Chinese giant Geely, which can put considerable financial might and electric engine expertise behind the Volvo revolution. Geely also owns a British factory producing the next generation of electric black taxis set to invade London.

SUV XC90 CROSSOVER: Set to inspire an electric future for Volvo.

Subaru BRZ SE Lux

SPORTS COUPES are a niche yet important sector of the overall car market, with many models costing north of £40,000, but there are some notable exceptions. At the head of the list is the Subaru BRZ, a sleek head-turning model with plenty of charisma. It is rear-wheel-drive, has a taut chassis and a limited-slip differential which diverts engine power to the rear wheel with most traction, helping provide outstanding handling.

But that's not the best part of the BRZ - what is remarkable is that it costs from just €30,190 (£26,495). It's hard to find a more enjoyable and engaging sports coupe at that sort of money.

Power comes from a 2.0 litre 197 hp horizontally-opposed Boxer engine delivering - with six-speed manual gearbox - a quick 0-100 kph time of just 7.6 seconds and top speed of 225 kph (140 mph).

My test model had an automatic gearbox and its figures are 0-100 kph 8.2 seconds, 209 kph (130 mph) and fuel economy of 14.0 kpl (39.8 mpg). With optional sat-nav this version costs €31,899 (£27,995). The slick and responsive auto gearbox still kept plenty of fun in the driving experience, and the driving is what this car is all about. With its ground-hugging stance and improved aerodynamics the car stayed glued to the tarmac and with super-responsive steering, you always feel totally in control.

With its potent styling, sports seats, big alloys, twin exhausts, rear diffuser and a boot spoiler, the BRZ looks an all-out sports car but it does have a practical side too.

For one thing it has four seats, though while Subaru says it will take four people "at a pinch" I have to quibble - anyone aged over 12 will struggle for space in the rear of the car. Boot space is decent at 243 litres and with the rear seats folded you get a surprising 1,270 litres which can accommodate some bulky items.

Standard kit on the test model included automatic LED headlights, heated leather and Alcantara seats, power windows, automatic air-conditioning, Subaru's Starlink infotainment system with 6.2 inch colour touchscreen, voice recognition, sat-nav and Bluetooth. You also get cruise control, keyless entry, push-button start and multi-adjustable steering wheel.

No doubt about it, the BRZ offers a lot for the money but more importantly delivers a driving experience which reminds you of just how much fun motoring used to be.

Stats panel:

Model: Subaru BRZ SE Lux Auto
 Engine: 2.0 litre petrol
 Transmission: 6-speed auto
 Performance: 0-100 kph 8.2 seconds, top speed 209 kph (130 mph)
 Economy: 14.0 kpl (39.8 mpg)
 Emissions: 164 g/km

SUBARU
of charisma.

Model tested was UK specification and equipment levels and prices may vary in other markets.

Pride of the Lions, victory for Root's England and a Brit for Wimbledon?

Tony Matthews

International Sports

A former player, Tony is now the world's most prolific author of football books with 150 published since 1975. He has also been a PE teacher and a policeman, and is now a quiz-organiser, fund-raiser, for various charities, and sports correspondent for Spectrum Radio.

Costa de Almeria

ONCE again, no-one, even those remotely interested in sport, have been disappointed with the action they've seen in various competitions worldwide during the last week... and it will get better!

RUGBY UNION

Last Saturday, the British and Irish Lions came mighty close to beating the New Zealand All Blacks, and indeed, winning a thrilling series, by drawing 15-15 in Auckland in the final Test down under... courtesy of Owen Farrell's long-distance penalty kick with just three minutes remaining. The hosts had won 38 games at Eden Park and their last draw was against South Africa over a decade ago. So it's "Well done the Lions - you did GB proud."

CRICKET

Joe Root celebrated his first game as England's captain in terrific style as his team walloped South Africa by 211 runs in the opening Test at Lords. England amassed 458 (Root scoring 190) and 233 while the tourists were dismissed for 361 and 119 ('Man of the Match' Moeen Ali taking 10 - giving him ten wickets overall). This was England's first win over the Springboks at Lords since 1960, doing so inside four days. The second Test starts tomorrow at Trent Bridge.

And England - after four straight wins - are progressing in the Women's World Cup which continues until July 23. Last Sunday they beat reigning world champions Australia by three runs at Bristol, scoring 259-8 against 256-8.

FORMULA ONE

Valtteri Bottas (Mercedes) won last Sunday's Austrian Grand Prix, ahead of Sebastian Vettel and Danny Ricciardo. Lewis Hamilton, annoyed after his team changed a gear box during practice, was subsequently penalised, but after starting eighth on the grid, he drove well to finish fourth. Vettel leads the driver's championship by 20 points from Hamilton (171-151) with Bottas third (136).

The next race is the British Grand Prix at Silverstone on Sunday week.

TENNIS

At the time of going to press, two Brits - reigning champion Andy Murray and Johanna Konta - had reached the quarter-finals of their singles competitions.

But they face strong opposition from Roger Federer, Novak Djokovic and Gilles Muller who eliminated Rafael Nadal 15-13 in the fifth set, and from Caroline Wozniacki, CoCo Vandeweghe, Spain's Garbine Muguruza, who k'od 2016 champion Angelique Kerber, Simona Halep, Venus Williams, Jelena Ostapenko and Svetlana Kuznetsova respectively.

Also Brits Marcus Willis and Jay Clarke ousted reigning champions from France, Herbert and Mahut in the men's doubles, while Jamie Murray and Martina Hingis were still in the mixed doubles at the start of the week.

TOUR OF FRANCE

Halfway through the second week of the 3,600km /2,200-mile race, GB's three-time winner Chris Froome was the overall leader by 18 seconds from Italy's Fabio Aru. Unfortunately two other Brits - Mark Cavendish and Geraint Thomas - are both out after they fractured a shoulder and collarbone respectively. Cavendish was bull-dozed off his bike by world champion Peter Sagan who was immediately disqualified!

FOOTBALL

Romelu Lukaku has joined Manchester United from Everton for £75m (€80m)... Wayne Rooney is returning to Goodison Park after 13 years at Old Trafford... defender Antonio Rudiger has moved to Chelsea from Roma for £29m... and Arsenal could sell Alexis Sanchez!

Alex Neil, ex-Norwich boss, has taken over at Preston.

My thoughts and best wishes (and yours, no doubt) go to Ajax midfielder Abdelhak Nouri who collapsed during a friendly last Saturday against Werder Bremen. The Dutchman (20) was said to be 'comfortable and stable' in hospital after suffering a heart spasm. Also we wish Wolves' goalkeeper Carl Ikeme (31) well after he was diagnosed with acute leukaemia.

And the Women's Euro 2017 championship starts tomorrow and ends on August 6.

EVENTS

There are several other sporting events coming up, including football's Gold Cup in USA (until July 26)... the Disability Sports/World Para-athletic championships (July 14-23)... the world swimming and diving championships (from tomorrow until July 20)... and the Open Golf Championship at Royal Birkdale which starts next Thursday (see my preview).

VALTERI BOTTAS:
Won last Sunday's Austrian GP.

ROONEY:
Move back to Everton.

LIONS:
You did GB proud.

My GOLF PREVIEW

The players aiming to win the 2017 Open:

- Brookes Koepka, the recent US Masters winner.
- Hideki Matsuyama will 'soon' become Japan's first Major winner.
- Rickie Fowler has been so near to winning a Major.
- Thomas Pieters certainly has the temperament to win.
- Tyrrell Hatton loves playing on links courses.
- After a superb US Masters England's Tommy Fleetwood is in form.
- Spain's Jon Rahm could well be the surprise package.
- Dustin Johnson, a champion who doesn't lie down for long.
- Jordan Spieth can easily finish in the top three.
- Masters king Sergio Garcia is also in fine fettle.
- Rory McIlroy, might, just might, have a chance, likewise Henrik Stenson, Jason Day, Adam Scott, Bill Haas, Brandt Snedeker, Branden Grace, Charl Schwartzel and Emiliano Grillo. Yet we could easily see a rank outsider beat the stars!

Gold category winners.

FORTY members and guests teed it up at what has become a firm favourite for members and when you read the results you'll see why.

The scores were unbelievable. The course was presented in immaculate condition and continues to improve. The lower handicappers seemed to have more success.

Again, in the Silver category, the scores were exceptional. John Hettrick secured 3rd place with 37 points. Lars Jernberg must have thought that he had done enough to win, but his 43 points could only take 2nd place with Yorkshireman, Mick Kennedy, topping this category with 44 points.

Gold category saw a little more civilised scoring with four players on 33 points, 3rd went to Carstan Landaas on handicap, 2nd was taken by Kenny Winton again only lower handicap but 1st place went to Captain John Eyre with 38 points.

Best guest was B Albin with 37 points. The €29 contained in the two's pot was taken by Joe Dean on hole 17.

NTP's hole 4 J Masson, hole 6 R Nilsen, hole 10 M Kennedy, hole 15 NADA, hole 17 J Dean.

The Anniversary Competition will be held at La Marquesa this year on August 9. After the competition, the committee invite the members to a full three-course lunch in the clubhouse, which should make it a full house!

Pego play at Oliva Nova

THIS week, Pego played a two-person Texas Scramble.

The weather was beautiful and Oliva Nova was perfect, with lush fairways and fast greens.

Stephen Murphy was their guest and was in the prizes. They had four 'twos' - Brendan Young took two of them, the others went to Russ Peters and Shaun O'Gorman.

Nearest the pin on hole 3 was Russ with 0.74 mtrs and on hole 16 was Derek Lindley with 4.50 mtrs.

1st Shaun O'Gorman & David Phillips net 59

2nd Derek Lindley & Paul Singh net 69

3rd Brendan Young & Stephen Murphy net 69

4th Colin Foster & Graham Borley net 71

If you would like to join Pego for a game you can contact them through their website www.pegogolfsoociety.com.

Carp-R-Us match report

ROUND EIGHT of the Summer Series was moved to the El Bosquet complex, as the match stretch in Murcia still can't be accessed.

Unusually for early July, they started setting up in light rain but it soon passed.

Using the less favoured pegs, 17 - 30, they knew it might be a bit of a struggle and so it proved, with Alan Smith winning with only 9.02 kg.

Second was Steve Collins with 8.14 kg, third was Mark Foden with 7.02 kg and fourth was Keven Mortimer with 6.76 kg.

Further information about the club can be found on its website www.carp-r-us.weebly.com or on their Facebook page Carp-R-Us Fishing Costa Blanca.
