The disgraced former president of a Costa del Sol animal shelter has not vet been jailed due to an admin blunder.

Carmen Marin, who previously ran Torremolinos' municipal cat and dog sanctuary, is set to become the first person ever to be jailed for animal cruelty in Spain.

A Malaga judge had ordered her to present herself to police by yesterday (Wednesday), but a paperwork slip-up only saw the order arrive to a Torremolinos court on Tuesday meaning she has not yet been officially notified.

She has therefore been granted an extension.

HAM CUTTERS from across Spain joined forces in Alhaurin de la Torre to break two Guinness World Records.

The spectacle, organised by the town hall, saw 350 professional ham cutters slice through more than 900 kilos of the delicacy.

The first record attempt began at midday on Sunday, where each cutter had two minutes to cut four slices each with a width between 0.5mm and 1.5mm. At the end of the day, the ham cutters then attempted to break the second attempt and cut more than 900 kilos in total. Guests also had the

This proved lucrative since the shelter received cash from the town council each time it took in a new animal.

Although the majority of the sentence is related to forged documents, it is a historic case since one year of the punishment is for animal cruelty, the first time that someone has been imprisoned for such an offence in Spain.

And her sentence could yet be extended as she and her two daughters remain under investigation by a Torremolinos court for suspected fraud, misappropriation and money laundering.

It is alleged that the trio used money from the shelter to fund a lavish lifestyle, including a €104,000 shopping trip, plastic surgery, luxury holidays to several countries, high-end cars and expensive meals.

SPANISH FACTS OF LIFE...37

With Christmas around the corner, Kat Ashton says it's time to break out one of the season's most beloved tipples - and one of Spain's greatest exports - Sherry.

A vine art

SHERRY is unique fortified wine closely associated with Spanish festivities, particularly in the southern province of Andalucia. The name 'Sherry' is an Anglicisation of Jerez, a town in Andalucia near Cadiz, where the wine has been made for centuries.

The so-called 'Sherry Triangle' is marked by the towns of Jerez de la Frontera. Sanlucar de Barrameda and El Puerto de Santa Maria. The towns are only about 20 minutes apart and all have a longstanding tradition of producing the drink.

Like cava or Iberian ham, Sherry has protected designation of origin status and only wine produced in the 'Sherry Triangle' can legally be labelled with the name.

Most Sherries are initially dry to begin with, as they are fortified following fermentation, with sweetness being added later. A typical bottle contains 15 to 17 per cent alcohol by volume.

Fino is considered one of the best Sherries out there

A drop of history

THE practice of wine-making was first introduced to the region by the Phoenicians in 1100 BC. The Moors then introduced the process of distillation, needed to make fortified wine, when they conquered the region in 711 AD.

By the end of the 16th century, Sherry had become popular across Europe and became particularly popular in Great Britain after English sea captain Francis Drake invaded Cadiz in 1587.

and is also one of the driest. It is aged under a layer of yeast which protects it from oxygen, so even though the average bottle might be seven years old, it still tastes verv fresh.

Manzanilla is another popular variety, and can only be produced in the town of Sanlucar de Barrameda. It is known for being very pale and dry, and also has a slight salty aroma as it is produced so close to the sea.

Finest wine

THE world's most expensive bottle was sold at the London auctioneers Sotheby's in 2001 for $43,500 (around €37,000). The bottle was dated in 1775, and was found in the Massandra cellars in the Crimea, Ukraine. This particular Sherry gained more fame several years later when Russian President Vladimir Putin and Italy's ex-Prime Minister Silvio Berlusconi drank a bottle of the 240-yearold wine while visiting the cellar, which had then reached an estimated value of more than $90,000 (€77.000).

Killer driver was on coke

A SPANISH Guardia Civil officer tested positive for high levels of cocaine in his system after causing a fatal car accident in Torremolinos.

As previously reported in the Euro Weekly News, the off-duty Guardia Civil officer was arrested after allegedly causing the crash which claimed the lives of three people and seriously injured three others.

A report by the Malaga Institute of Forensic Medicine (IML) revealed that the officer had high levels of cocaine in his system following the incident, as well as traces of alcohol

The official police report revealed that it was this combination of narcotics that caused the officer's 'aggressive and euphoric driving,' and revealed the accident was not likely to have occurred otherwise.

Three family members were killed in the accident; two women aged 30 and 48 and a 27-year-old man.

Three more women aged 16, 18 and 50 years old were seriously injured and remain in hospital.

The family were reportedly on holiday on the Costa del Sol and were on their way to

The lawyer representing those injured has declared that the amount of compensation offered by the Guardia Civil was insufficient for the trauma caused by the crash, which was revealed to be just under €400,000.

OUR VIEW Hoping for a real solution

IT has been an increasing problem in recent years and there appears no end to it.

And more sadly, no real solution.

Last weekend almost 400 migrants heading towards Spain were discovered aboard vessels heading to the nation's terra firma.

Had they not been rescued they might well have died before they even landed and potentially had the opportunity for safer and better lives.

If they had made land safely, they would have merely joined tens of thousands of other illegal migrants now in Europe. They will not be the last to be added to the statistics, so far this year almost 16,000 migrants have been spotted and rescued by various authorities up and down the Mediterranean coastline from Gibraltar, up the coast in Almeria, Murcia and beyond.

Spain does not hold a solution to the problem and it is not only Spain's problem.

Many of the mainly African migrants - but in some cases other migrant men, women and children make the life threatening voyages of hope - frequently travel from an eclectic variety of locations in Libya, Morocco and other North African nations. A humanitarian solution must be found and it is clear that all nations in Europe - and Africa and the Middle East - need to sit down, discuss the issues and provide a solution to the problem.

SPAIN'S maritime rescue service recovered more than 400 migrants from boats making the dangerous crossing in the Mediterranean Sea over the weekend.

And, on Sunday, they rescued a further 144 people from another seven boats.

High and dry Drought measures on the way

By Kat Ashton

THE Junta de Andalucia regional authority say it is finalising a 'draft' for declaring an official drought in two areas of Malaga Province.

The news comes more than two weeks after the original deadline and a dry start to November.

The Junta has confirmed that Axarquia and the Guadalhorce Valley have the most significant water shortages in the community, and officials are working to boost water supplies.

The Andalucian Environment Department has reportedly prepared 115 measures to tackle the problem, which include reopening wells that are not currently in use, importing water from other regions, promoting efficient use and favouring measures that reduce consumption.

However, farmers' groups, such as Asaja Malaga, have voiced concerns that these measures won't be enough to combat the shortages as many of the problems are caused by a lack of funding to improve infrastructure.

The Head of the Environment Department, Jose Fiscal, revealed that although the measures will be put in place to help the region as a whole, they will be focused on these two areas in particular as they were hardest hit by the drought. Fiscal announced that "it does not seem the weather is going to improve any time soon, so it is possible to predict where water will be the most needed."

Fugitive to face music

DISGRACED ex-Marbella councilman Carlos Fernandez will be extradited to Spain to stand trial after being held in Argentina for more than two months.

Officials from the Spanish Council of Ministers finally submitted the request to extradite Fernandez after he was arrested on September 15 following 11 years on the run. The Spanish government had already informed the Argentine authorities of their intention to extradite the former councilman in order to prevent Fernandez from being released from custody.

The request was formally approved by the Council of Ministers at the request of Rafael Catala, the Spanish Minister of Justice.

Once the Argentina authorities receive the appropriate documents, they will have 30 days to choose whether to approve the extradition.

As previously reported by Euro Weekly News, the excouncillor is wanted to stand trial for six different cases, including his involvement in the Marbella Malaya scandal. Former Marbella mayor Julian Muñoz and former Urban Planning manager Juan Antonio Roca were among those charged for their involvement in the scandal.

Fernandez allegedly received over €150,000 in bribes while in office and fled the country in 2006 to avoid corruption charges.

He is also wanted for granting building licences illegally and embezzling public funds.

Fernandez faces up to six years imprisonment for his offences if he returns to Spain and a ban from employment in public services lasting from seven to 12 years.

A police official said that a probe had been launched in the wake of the youths vandalising the streets.

Protected by Halloween disguises, the youths then went on a rampage through Malaga City, insulting residents and causing damage to cars, bins and benches. They also threw Halloween party who alerted Officers also seized 305g of marihuana, as well the operation.

The investigation began following reports that dicts allegedly flocked there to get their fix in exchange for objects they had stolen nearby.

After carrying out surveillance on several buildings in the area, police witnessed several drugs transactions taking place. The group had put several security measures in place in case they got busted, such as keeping people on look-out and installing security doors in the main premises so they would have time to get rid of drugs if the police came.

The 54-year-old and her two children were then arrested along with another woman who also allegedly worked for the criminal organisation.

Toddler death probe slammed shut

POLICE have closed the investigation into the death of three-year-old Lucia Vivar, whose body was found on the train tracks between Pizarra and Alora.

The official report concluded that the young girl had walked 4,200 metres in the dark from where she was last seen by her family at the train station in Pizarro and was killed when she was struck by the first train in the morning.

But as reported previously in the Euro Weekly News, Lucia's family refuse to believe police findings, as they claim it would have been impossible for the young girl to travel that distance in the dark on her own. They have also demanded to know why the first train ran that morning when they had been assured the service would be halted until she was found.

Two preliminary reports from coroners also questioned the verdict, revealing that Lucia received two blows to the head and that it was the first, smaller one that caused her death.

A bottle of chloroform was also discovered 700 metres from the spot where Lucia was last seen.

A teenager reportedly discovered the bottle two weeks after Lucia was killed in July but didn't tell anyone about it for weeks out of fear that he would be implicated in the girl's disappearance.

Local media sources confirmed that there are no businesses in the surrounding area that use the substance. As chloroform has a short life-span in the body, it is also impossible to detect if it was ingested during an autopsy unless it was the cause of death.

There was also controversy surrounding the security footage as the station's guards claimed the girl had not been spotted by the station's cameras, which later proved to be untrue.

The two guards on duty that night, employed by rail management company ADIF, both claimed they first learned that the child had disappeared when they arrived at the station at around 11.40pm and saw the large crowd of people.

The guards both took part in the search party that night, and were asked by the police to check the security footage to make sure the girl hadn't been recorded walking on the train tracks.

The guards claim that the firm's security centre, which had access to the footage, informed them that the girl had not been seen that night.

However, when the footage was later checked by police, they confirmed that the girl was recorded by one of the cameras heading towards the tracks at around 11.35pm.

But because no connection was found between the bottle of chloroform found and the girl's disappearance, and no signs of any struggle, sexual assault or DNA trace from any unknown individuals, police have concluded that Lucia's death was caused when she was accidently hit by the train.

Lucia's family have not yet commented on the verdict.

A FOUR-YEAR-OLD boy from the Ivory Coast has finally been reunited with his mother in Spain after they were separated for seven months.

According to the women's charity 'Women's Link,' 33year-old Bahoumou Totopa arrived on the Andalucian coast in April after making the perilous journey over on an inflatable dinghy.

Her son Abdurrahmane had already journeyed to the Spanish enclave of Melilla on the North African coast with his aunt the month before.

Bahoumou was prevented from contacting her son by child protection services who had taken the boy in Melilla, who told the 33-year-old she had to prove she was his mother before she could claim him back.

After failing to persuade Spanish authorities to let Bahoumou make contact with her son on several occasions, Women's Link turned to the European Court of Human Rights who then urged Spain to allow

ON OUR AUTUMN/WINTER COLLECTION

Spanish authorities have often been criticised by human rights groups for the poor treatment of migrants who arrive in the Spanish enclaves of Melilla and Ceuta on the North African Coast. 'Human Rights Watch,' a non-governmental organisation, revealed many children are taken away into child protection services while their parents are held in dark, dank police cells before they can be deported.

Drug dealers busted

POLICE have held 56 people in Malaga Province for trafficking narcotics and dismantled more than 25 drug dens.

Officers have seized more than 1.6 kilos of cocaine, nearly 200g of hashish, 35g of heroin and more than 1,500 marihuana plants in the past three months alone.

Nearly €22,000 in cash, five vehicles and 24 mobile phones have also been confiscated in operations carried out in towns including Malaga City, Fuengirola. Marbella and Torremolinos.

Out of the 25 drug-trafficking dens busted across the region during the investigations, six were located in Torremolinos alone, while two were found in Fuengirola and one in Marbella.

The claws are out! Council cat cull questioned

OPPOSITION politicial parties have spoken out after Velez-Malaga Council unveiled a plan to cull hundreds of stray cats.

The free-roaming felines are concentrated around the municipal cemetery, and the Izquierda Union (IU) coalition has demanded answers.

Spokesman Miguel Angel Sanchez said in a press conference that his team have sent a letter to Mayor Antonio Moreno Ferrer after being tipped off about the scheme by animal rights group Asociacion Defensa Animal (ADA).

ADA members told the official that a contract for the capture and potential responsible for the collection of abandoned animals

> Mr Sanchez added that the 'stable' cat colony has a special symbolism for people who come to the graveyard to visit the tomb of Spanish philosopher Maria Zambrano, who was born in Velez.

The cats represent "the love and defence that the thinker showed towards these animals in life," he said.

He went on to question why such a plan is necessary when a motion to set up a pilot sterilisation and release scheme had been approved by the council in June 2016.

"Based on that motion, we have taken advantage of our right to information not only related to this specific case, but also to demand compliance with the existing agreement regarding the coexistence, defence and protection of animals," he concluded.

'Migrant smugglers' detained

POLICE have arrested two people on suspicion of human trafficking.

It comes after a child was found in their car with no identification.

The pair were stopped in San Roque, near La Linea, by Guardia Civil officers, who became suspicious when they noticed a minor who was covered in sand and had wet clothes on.

The two provided paperwork proving they could legally be in Spain, but could not do so for the child who was not related to either of them.

When questioned, the two Moroccan nationals said they were taking the minor to a relative's home.

However National Police have since taken custody of the child as they believe he has possibly been smuggled into Spain.

BRAIN CANCER battler Leo the Lion is putting up a brave fight as his fifth birthday is now just a few weeks away.

Over the past two years Leo Bermejo, from Almeria has undergone major brain surgery at Alder Hey Children's Hospital in the UK and travelled to Oklahoma in the United States for cutting edge proton-beam therapy.

But, despite all this, the 'monster' in his brain continues to grow.

Mum, Karen, has said that if he makes it to December 6 then Leo will have a party - only balloons and a birthday cake so he can blow out the candles.

Leo's Go Fund Me account has been closed and his fighting fund collection tins have now been brought in.

Karen said, "We have been very fortunate to receive so much overwhelming financial and emotional support during Leo's illness and we thank everyone from the bottom of our hearts. "We have been able to give Leo the best chance possible to survive and be cured from this evil disease, but unfortunately the odds have been against him since day one when this monster grew in his head. "Since Leo became terminal we have been able to take Leo and Sofia to Euro Disney to make lifetime memories for us all to treasure forever.

"We have also been able to give Leo an early Christmas as it looks more and more unlikely that he will survive until then." She explained how difficult it is watching the lump on the side of Leo's head get bigger.

"It is the hardest thing in the world watching him go downhill. We just need to focus on making him as comfortable as possible."

even though a tiny part of me is still hoping for a miracle.

"At this stage the most important thing is that Leo does not suffer and he is made as comfortable as possible and we need to treasure every moment, every minute, every second we have with him now.

"Leo's legacy will live on and has changed so many peoples' outlook on life."

Karen went on to say that in the future she plans to do things to make a difference. To help families overcome the obstacles they have had which has made the fight even tougher. "I do not know how yet or when I will be able to do this, but I will do something in Leo's name."

Panic as tap water turns to foam

WATER WOE: El Palo and (inset) an image posted to social media.

THREE people have been held as police probe a water calamity in Malaga City.

Around 750 families were left without water for almost two days after the supply was turned off, with some posting photos and videos of froth-filled cups and glasses on social media. It comes after outraged residents bombarded the police with calls complaining that their tap water contained foam and smelled of ammonia. A police official confirmed that the entire supply for the El Palo neighbourhood had been contaminated with a concentrated foaming agent, with initial enquiries suggesting that an accidental spillage was to blame.

Reportedly non-toxic, the product is commonly used in soaps and shampoos, household cleaning products, and is the main ingredient used in creating foam parties at nightclubs. The main access to the water supply is in a building on calle Pintor Enrique Florido, and several empty bottles of the product were found next to rubbish bins. The district has its own closed water supply so other parts of the city were not affected. A team of experts from Malaga's municipal water company, EMASA, were called in to flush the system out.

FIREFIGHTERS rescued 13 children from a fairground ride in Benidorm.

The thrillseekers were trapped in a series of metal cages dangling four metres from the ground after the attraction lost power, a council official said.

The dramatic breakdown came just half an hour after the city's Fiestas Mayores Patronales de Benidorm celebrations got underway.

Two fire engines attended the scene and the captive revellers were brought down on an aerial platform having been locked inside for almost an hour and a half

There were no reported injuries and it remains unknown what caused the ride to stop working.

SPAIN'S new roadside cameras that automatically monitor the use of driver seat belts have started issuing €200 fines

The first 50 cameras have come into full operation and eventually 227 will be rolled out.

The scheme has been trialled over the last two months with 331 drivers receiving an informative letter.

From now on if drivers are caught not wearing a seat belt they will be hit in the pocket with a fine notification in the post. The Dirección General de Tráfico (DGT) say that the images captured by the cameras are subject to a 'strict quality control.'

They are sent every day to the Automated Complaints Treatment Centre, where software designed specifically for the purpose will review the photographs.

The software will discard photographs in which it detects that the driver is using a seat belt.

The remaining images are then manually reviewed. If an offence is

DRIVERS: Don't forget to belt up.

Belt up and don't registered the image is sent to the corresponding Provincial Traffic Headquarters, where it is manually checked again.

The owner of the vehicle will then receive a request in the post to identify the driver that appears in the photographs. If a passenger appears in the photographs, their face is pixelated, so that they are not identified.

Once the driver has been identified the fine of €200 is issued and three points deducted from their licence.

If the vehicle owner does not name the person driving a penalty fine will be issued for not identifying the driver.

Sixty per cent of the cameras are located on roads with the highest accident rate and the remaining 40 per cent of cameras are located on the busiest roads.

A CAR was left dangling out of a building after smashing through a car park wall in Galicia.

A Coruña resident feared the worst when they heard a "tremendous bang" that "sounded like a gas canister had exploded" but were shocked to see a vehicle hanging 30 metres above the street.

Several people helped hold the vehicle so the driver could get out via the back seat.

The woman driving the car was unharmed and the vehicle has since been removed, leaving a gaping hole in the car park wall.

A CYCLIST who was seriously injured in an accident near Alicante six months ago has died, according to reports.

Retired lecturer John Telfer, was left fighting for his life after breaking his neck in two places following a collision with a friend near Alicante in May.

The 57-year-old defied predictions to survive the crash, and an online appeal raised more than €25,000 to bring the devoted husband home to Scotland.

In cold blood

Killed by ex-partner at school gates

By Linda Hall

A 28-YEAR-OLD mother shot by her ex-partner as she picked up their son from his Elda school died later in hospital.

Jessyca Bravo and the boy, aged three, were already in the car, ready to return home to Monforte where they lived, when her former partner, Imanol Castillo, 31, reached inside the vehicle and shot her five times.

Jessyca was already in a coma when she was admitted to Elda hospital's intensive care unit and died the next day.

Sources afterwards said that the child was aware of what had happened, because he ran crying back into the school. "My Daddy has killed my Mummy," he sobbed

Castillo then took the car, drove it violently into a wall and killed himself.

Jessyca had denounced her ex-partner on at least three occasions for gender violence and he was due to appear in court for a fasttrack trial the day after the shooting.

Days earlier he had insulted Jessyca, demanding that she hand over their son and threatening to kill her, witnesses at the scene said.

The Guardia Civil detained Castillo minutes later and he was issued with a restraining order but one day before the shooting Jessyca complained that he had twice tried to contact her through intermediaries.

He was picked up but released after questioning, sources said, as he had not threatened his ex-partner.

Forty-four women have now lost their lives at the hands of partners in Spain this year, five of them in the Valencian Community.

BORIS JOHNSON has left Spanish officials 'fuming' after speaking in support of bullfighting at an Anglo-Saxon dinner in Bath.

The gaffe came as the UK's Foreign Secretary told guests that attempts to ban the controversial practice are "political correctness gone mad.'

MPs at the event to honour ties between the two countries said Johnson's 'lecture,' during which he encouraged Spanish officials to support the 'sport,' had sparked outrage.

A source told UK media: "He antagonised every Spaniard there. They fumed for the rest of the dinner.

"Bullfighting is the subject of lively debate. Some parts of Spain have banned it.

"The Spanish don't like people painting a caricature of their country as bullfighting, flamenco and paella."

One Spanish guest apparently remarked: "He's a clown. He's not fit to represent your country."

It was the first fatal accident on a high-speed line and the most serious rail accident in Spain for four decades.

According to the documents an independent safety inspection company, Ineco, was hired to carry out risk assessments along the line up to the bend in which the high-speed AVE train derailed outside the Santiago de Compostela railway station in June 2013.

The files also detailed the construction department of ADIF requesting adequate safety documents from its security department before installing a railroad switch, but after numerous attempts instead called for a simpler document, which did not need approval from an independent inspection.

Ineco representatives said in court they were merely hired to determine whether the line followed regulations and made clear it was not hired to investigate the new railroad switch.

The revelations come a year after the European Railway Agency slammed the original Spanish investigation into the disaster, which it said lacked independence and attention to detail. If The train's driver Francisco Jose

Garzon Amo was charged with manslaughter and causing injury by professional negligence in the wake of the accident. He was travelling too fast as he approached the 80km/h bend, causing it to derail and killing 80 people with a further 144 injured.

It was claimed the driver was talking on the phone to an official of the rail company Renfe at the time of the crash. Just 250 metres before the start of the curve the train was travelling at 195 km/h, and in spite of Garzon applying the emergency brakes it was still travelling at 179 km/h when it derailed four seconds later.

In the immediate aftermath of the accident, ADIF installed three automatic braking and announcement of signals on 1.9 km of the approach to the curve to enforce speed limits to prevent trains from reaching the speed that would cause a similar derailment.

The track-mounted transponders communicate with the on-board computers of the high-speed trains, and can trigger an automatic brake application if speed restrictions are not obeyed.

ADIF is reviewing other similar sections of Spain's rail network for possible similar speed-restricting installations.

CHINA'S first space station, Tiangong-1, could crash to Earth and hit Spain early in 2018 according to the European Space Agency.

The 8.5-tonne space station, launched in 2011, has been outof-control since September 2016 and now the ESA is predicting it will make an 'uncontrolled' re-entry between January and March 2018.

The experts have projected the latitudes between which it is likely to land and countries at risk include Spain, Italy, Turkey, India and Saudi Arabia and parts of the USA.

The space craft is now at about 300 kilometres (186 miles) alti-

Out-of-control

Chinese space station could hit 'within months'

tude travelling at 20,000 miles per hour.

Normally, a decommissioned satellite or space station would be retired by forcing it to burn up in the atmosphere.

But, because the Chinese have lost control of Tiangong-1 it won't be able to burn up in a controlled manner and there is a chance that debris from the falling spacecraft could strike a populated area.

However, most of the parts of the space station will still burn up in the atmosphere, and the few that do make it to the ground probably won't land in any populated areas. Holger Krag, head of ESA's Space Debris Office, said, "Owing to the geometry of the station's orbit, we can already exclude the possibility that any fragments will fall over any spot further north than 43°N or further south than 43°S.

"This means that re-entry may take place over any spot on Earth between these latitudes, which includes several European countries, for example.

"The date, time and geographic footprint of the re-entry can only be predicted with large uncertainties.

"Even shortly before re-entry, only a very large time and geographical window can be estimated."

Jonathan McDowell, a Harvard astrophysicist, said, "Yes there's a chance it will do damage, it might take out someone's car, there will be a rain of a few pieces of metal, it might go through someone's roof, like if a flap fell off a plane, but it is not widespread damage."

IN ATTENDANCE: Simon Manley (centre) in Madrid.

British Ambassador Simon Manley attends Madrid Remembrance Service

THE British Ambassador in Spain, Simon Manley, attended and read a lesson at the Service of Remembrance at St George's Anglican Church in Madrid. The Ambassador, who attends this service every year, was joined by diplomatic colleagues from across the Commonwealth, EU and other countries, as well as serving members of UK armed forces based in Spain, as part of NATO operations or bilaterally. In addition, a number of British consular teams also attended Remembrance Day events across Spain. Simon Manley said: "Remembrance Day is a special moment for us all to remember those who serve, and have served, to keep us safe and free. I will remember the members of my own family who served: my father in the Eighth Army in North Africa and Italy, my maternal grandfather with the RAF in Sri Lanka, and my paternal grandfather with the RFC in France. It's absolutely right, in these turbulent times, to underline that the United Kingdom's commitment to Europe's security remains absolute."

Inquest says blood clot killed British father

AN inquest has revealed that a British father of two who died minutes after stepping off a flight to Ibiza was killed by a blood clot.

Holidaymaker Paul Birchall, 51, had travelled to the island for a stag party and collapsed at San Jose Airport after texting partner Andrea Houseman, 47, to say that he had arrived safely.

Friends and a doctor aboard the Jet2 flight from Manchester tried unsuccessfully to resuscitate him.

And it has now emerged that the builder from Bolton, England died from a blockage in the lungs following an investigation in his home town.

It comes after Spanish medics said that Mr Birchall may have suffered from Economy Class Syndrome, in which a blood clot can form in a flyer's leg after spending more than six hours in a seated position.

This was ruled out by Home Office Pathologist Dr Patrick Waugh, who concluded that the deceased suffered from heart disease and was killed by a pulmonary embolism.

TRAGIC: Paul Birchall (inset) died at Ibiza Airport.

Speaking at the hearing in Bolton he said: "This is a common condition where you develop a blood clot in your leg and that clot travels all the way up to your heart and gets stuck in your lungs which obstructs blood getting to your lungs and causes you to collapse.

"In cases where clots are affected by flying, it tends to happen in long haul flights of around nine to 12 hours, this flight was no longer than three hours. He was already feeling unwell on the flight meaning that the clot had already formed."

After the hearing Mr Birchall's family said in a statement: "We miss Paul and just wish that he could come back, we will never get over it.

"At 6.15pm when he landed in Ibiza, he texted Andrea to tell her that he loved her. He was so excited about the trip, he loved a party. If we knew he was ill we would never have let him go on that stag party. It is just such a sad story."

LONG RIDE HOME: The owner has yet to come forward.

A PARTYGOER has handed a bicycle to police in northern Spain after admitting that he had been too drunk to remember if he had stolen it or not.

The sheepish reveller called his Local Police station in Pamplona, Navarra, to report the incident.

Dealing with unregulated Spainbased independent financial advisors

THE collapse of Continental Wealth Management, an Alicante-based advisory firm, has left tens - possibly hundreds - of investors worried sick. CWM was not regulated to provide investment advice in Spain and was loosely regulated to provide insurance advice, through Germanbased Trafalgar international (who also do not appear to be registered in Spain).

In the world of the investment 'smoke and mirrors' expat business, where few things are what they appear to be and what's real is often portrayed to be something else, clarifying concepts becomes a necessity.

So, let's get under the bonnet of these clandestine firms (this article does not allude to properly regulated advisory companies) to know what are the real chances of victims caught by the lack of scruples of runaway bogus consultants:

• Most of the IFAs currently operating with the expat market in Spain are not regulated.

• Equally, some insurance or pension providers have never been regulated to operate in Spain (Old Mutual Isle of Man, Premier Group Isle of Man, Generali Worldwide Insurance Guernsey, RL 360° etc), thus falling foul of Spanish laws that declare all such policies in violation of national laws and consequently, null and void.

• Very often, investments are carried out via 'life-insurance/assurance companies' that provided wrappers, whole-of-life or unitlinked policies. These policies are linked to an investment portfolio.

• Whether offered validly in Spain or not. life insurance policies linked to an investment are being declared void by the Spanish Supreme Court because they do not consider them life insurance policies. The reasons? Well, the calculation of the premium and payout lack 'actuarial' methodology, there is no transfer of risk from insured to insurer and it is irrelevant for the insurer if the insured party lives over a certain date, or dies.

• Courts ruling on the nullity and voidness of a life insurance policy will order the company to reimburse the premium in full (minus any surrenders made), plus annual legal interest and without detraction of fees or commissions charged.

• Financial or insurance mis-selling can be said to be automatic where the agents are not regulated (nobody can provide valid advice if not regulated). This violation of mandatory laws implies the responsibility of the principal (ie insurance or pension providers).

• Claimants should aim for Insurers, Investment Funds and Pension Providers.

• Lawyers should be able to identify the best way forward, always aiming for compensation (and not retribution).

A day to remember at Coin gathering

COIN Cemetery Chapel was almost filled to capacity when members of the Coin branch of the Royal British Legion gathered together with friends to pay their respects to all servicemen and women who lost their lives in conflict. As in previous years, the Tapas choir sung a beautiful selection of songs before the service started on Saturday.

The mayor of Coin, Fernando Fernandez Tapia-Ruano, and his fellow councillors were in attendance and complimented the group on their performance. The branch chairman Jo Taylor started the service with an address in Spanish and English which included welcoming Captain Bernade Moya Ortiz, of Coin's Civil Guard, for the first time. The branch's chaplain Caroline Macfarlane then led a service with the theme of Women in the Armed Forces.

For the first time in Coin Cemetery Chapel, the Last Post and Reveille were played on a cornet by the Coin Standard Bearer's daughter Annette Spokes Ellis.

Catalan fear stalls €350m China deal

THE owner of a Chinese business consultancy has put the brakes on a €350 million investment in Spain due to fears over the Catalan political crisis. Veline Ong, owner of the Alicante-based Veline Group, has previously facilitated business deals worth €150 million between Chinese and Spanish firms. But the 37-year-old, speaking in the wake of a trip to Shanghai, said that in China "they are afraid of investing in Spain due to political instability."

Monarch woe goes on

COLLAPSED British airline Monarch will not be able to sell its take-off and landing spots to other carriers.

The blow comes after the former carrier's administrator lost a legal battle leaving it unable to cash in on assets worth an estimated €67.6 million.

Jet2, Norwegian Air Shuttle, IAG, Wizz Air and easyJet are all rumoured to be competing for the slots at Manchester, Leeds Bradford, Birmingham, Luton and Gatwick airports.

But two judges in London's High Court have ruled that KPMG, Monarch's administrators, do not have rights to the slots. The decision follows an application for a judicial review submitted by KPMG after independent scheduling company Airport Coordination Limited, which manages flight schedules at 39 UK airports, opted not to allocate slots to Monarch for the summer 2018 season.

It represents a major upset for the illfated airline's owner, the private equity firm Greybull Capital, which intended to pocket millions by selling the slots, and an appeal is now expected.

KPMG's legal representative, Bankim Thanki QC, said: "Monarch Airline Limited's (MAL) portfolio of slots would represent MAL's most valuable asset

"MAL would therefore seek to exchange those slots with other air carriers in order to realise value for its creditors." The winding down of UK's fifth-biggest airline in October saw 1,858 people made redundant and the flights of about 860,000 people cancelled, and sparked the country's biggest peacetime repatriation to fly home 110,000 stranded holidaymakers.

Economy on the upswing

SPAIN is set to meet its latest European Union budget deficit deadline.

The European Commission forecast comes as the country's spending gap - which must fall below 3 per cent of gross domestic product by the end of 2018 - is expected to plummet to 3.1 per cent this year, down from a high of 4.5 per cent in 2016.

NEW CHAPTER: Wang Xiang in Madrid.

Xiaomi targets Spanish market

CHINESE smartphone brand Xiaomi has picked Spain as its first market in Europe.

A selection of the firm's flagship products, including the €229 Mi A1 smartphone, are now available alongside scooters, fitness trackers and coffee makers.

The tech giant's senior vicepresident Wang Xiang said that the company has embarked on "a new chapter" in its global expansion as he spoke at a launch event in Madrid.

He added: "It's proof we are very, very serious to be a global company, not only a Chinese company and not only working in developing countries."

Two authorised Xiaomi shops opened in the Spanish capital on Saturday, and sales partners including Carrefour and Media Markt will carry the brand from next Wednesday.

The push into Spain comes after the company pulled out of several overseas markets including Brazil and Indonesia due to regulatory issues and local competition.

Rotten eggs whip up stink

THE price of eggs is soaring in Spain. A dozen extra-large eggs from caged hens currently costs 20-50 cents more than in 2016.

It comes in the wake of the contamination scandal that hit 24 European nations this summer, leading Spain, which was not affected, to become one of the main suppliers to other EU countries.

The scare broke out after eggs were found to contain high levels of a toxic insecticide, leading to millions being pulled from supermarket shelves across the continent.

Teens now appy shoppers MOBILE PAYMENTS FOR U18S ROLLED OUT

SPANISH teens are addicted to mobile phones.

A number of studies have shown that young Spaniards clock up more screen time on their devices than in any other European nation.

And the tech savvy teens now have a new payment method after German electronic payment specialist Wirecard teamed up with mobile network operator Orange.

The partnership sees the range of functionalities available for Orange's mobile wallet app Orange Cash upgraded, tapping into the mobile payment market for 12 to 18-year-olds under their parents' supervision.

After the successful launch of Orange Cash Jeune in France, the app feature has now been launched in Spain.

It comes despite widespread fears and expert claims that excessive mobile phone use can have an adverse effect on childrens' mental health.

But the total transaction volume of mobile payments in Spain is set to triple by 2021, according to online statistics portal Statista.

With Orange Cash Joven, Wirecard and Orange believe they have developed a solution that they claim addresses the needs of the younger generation.

To create an account, parents or legal guardians sign up over the web interface of Orange Cash and install the app on their childrens' smartphones. Via the web interface, adults can control the sums of money, which can be charged on the account and get a real-time overview of the expenses.

All financial administration is managed through the parents' Or-Philippe Laranjeiro, Head of Sales Telecommunication at Wirecard said: "Today, nine out of 10 young people in Spain use a mobile device to connect to the internet on the go.

"No wonder teenagers would rather use their smartphones to shop in stores than use cash.

CORRUPTION IN ITS PUREST FORM' €120m enquiry returns

THE head of an in-depth probe into Spanish political finances has accused Prime Minister Mariano Rajoy's party of "corruption in its purest form."

Manuel Morocho, chief inspector of Spain's Unit of Economic and Financial Crimes (UDEF), said that the national leader's centre-right Popular Party (PP) behaved as a "criminal organisation" after it accepted slush money from illegal donations.

The investigator also claimed that there exists "circumstantial evidence" linking Rajoy himself to the alleged offences.

His comments follow Rajoy becoming the first serving Prime Minister to testify as a witness in a criminal trial since Spain became a democracy in 1978.

The PP allegedly used a secret accounting system in parallel to its official one to channel bribe money into party coffers through the so-called 'Box B' managed by ex-treasurer Luis Barcenas, who stood down as the scandal erupted in 2009.

@euroweeklynews

Barcenas has since admitted that he used to hand envelopes stuffed with undeclared cash to party members.

Addressing a Spanish Congressional commission, Mr Morocho said: "An organisation that has operated for a long time, which has penetrated to very deep levels in public administrations until it has become parasitic and absorbed the capacity of a political leader to allocate and manage public funds...

"That is the concept of corruption in its purest form."

He added that circumstantial evidence links Rajoy, who would have benefited "indirectly" and former Spanish ambassador to the UK, Federico Trillo, to the payments.

But the Prime Minster is not considered a suspect in the case despite him being included in Barcenas' notes.

The inquiry into the PP's finances, known as the Gürtel case, has been ongoing since 2007, although it was not until October 2016 that most suspects began to appear on trial.

Mr Morocho also added that the UDEF had been placed under pressure to terminate their investigation, a move which led opposition party Podemos to slam the PP's efforts to 'intimidate' the independent body.

Analysts have suggested that the case resulted in the loss of at least €120,000,000 in public finances.

The future of farming?

SPANISH farmers are selling their expertise to the Middle East.

A group of businesses from the agricultural sector aims to help ensure profitable, yearround production of fruit and vegetables in Qatar.

Dubbed AgroQatar, the alliance was "created especially to facilitate the development of agribusiness in the country," according to Ignacio Escobar, Spanish ambassador to the gulf nation.

"The Spanish solution is the most advanced, efficient and adapted integrated system able to produce throughout the year a variety of crops with the highest quality and in the most sustainable and cost-efficient way in Qatar," he added.

His comments came at a matchmaking event in the Qatari capital Doha, with experts from Almeria, famed for its intensive soil-free farming, flown over to liaise with local investors.

Green light for €l bn Spanish investment

SPANISH energy company CEPSA is to invest more than €1 billion in 2018.

The announcement from chief executive Pedro Miro comes as the firm looks to create new opportunities for growth in Asia, Latin America and other developing markets.

Miro confirmed the budget was rubber-stamped in Abu Dhabi by sole shareholder Mubadala Development Company, an investment vehicle of the Emirate's government which counts Manchester City FC owner Sheikh Mansour among its directors.

"In Europe, it is difficult to build a new factory because there is no more consumption, but to keep the existing ones, we invest €85 million per year per refinery," the official said.

IBERDROLA COMMITS TO RENEWABLES Gone with the wind!

SPAIN'S electricity, gas and services giant, Iberdrola, is to invest in new wind farms after announcing a  $\notin$ 2.41 billion net profit for the third quarter of 2017.

The boost - 18.4 per cent up on the same period last year - comes after poor results in Spain were offset by a positive performance by the firm's international subsidiaries.

A countrywide drought meant the first nine months of the year saw low hydroelectric power production - some 57.2 per cent below 2016 levels.

And Spain's renewables output was also affected by low wind resources, although results improved elsewhere, with the company growing 34.7 per cent in the UK. Europe's secondbiggest power company by market value is also the owner of Scottish Power.

But the UK core profit fell 77 per cent to €53 million in the nine months to September, partly due to the depreciation of the pound, lower output following the closure of a coal-fired power station in Scotland, an increase in regulatory costs, weaker gas sales and narrowing profit margins.

In the first three quarters of 2017, Iberdrola carried out investments worth €3.99 billion, up by 31.5 per cent from the same period last year.

A total of 91 per cent of investments were allocated to networks, renewable energy and long-term contracted energy generation.

The group has 7,400 megawatts (MW) of new infrastructure under construction, of which 2,700 MW are expected to be operational by the end of 2018.

Since announcing the results, Iberdrola's Chairman Ignacio Galan has called on governments and corporations from all sectors of the economy and other actors across the world to take firm action on combating climate change.

Speaking at the COP23 summit in Bonn he said: "Time for talking has passed, it's time for action now!"

Citing Iberdrola's decision to close their remaining coal power plants in Spain he added: "Iberdrola has set very strong targets to reduce carbon emissions, meaning we will reduce our carbon intensity by 50 per cent in 2030.

"In this sense, we have made the tough decision to close all of our fuel oil and coal-fired power plants around the world (almost 7,500 MW), and focus on renewable technologies.

"Iberdrola will continue to do our part, but we need other industries and companies to follow our lead." Inequality on the rise says report

THE planet's richest 1 per cent owns more than half the world's wealth.

Swiss financial services company Credit Suisse's annual global wealth report says that the world's most moneyed individuals have seen their share of the globe's wealth increase from 42.5 per cent in 2008 to 50.1 per cent in 2017.

And their combined fortune is equivalent to €118 trillion.

"The share of the top 1 per cent has been on an upward path ever since [the crisis], passing the 2000 level in 2013 and achieving new peaks every year thereafter," the report said.

The increase has seen 2.3 million new dollar millionaires in the last year, with the global total now standing at 36 million of which 428,000 are based in Spain, a rise of 58,000 on 2016.

The world's 3.5 billion poorest adults account for just 2.7 per cent of its riches.

Losing mental capacity whilst living abroad

MANY UK expatriates living in Spain own properties in the UK and have pensions and investments in the UK. They rely on their UK assets to maintain their lifestyles (and those of their families) in Spain. If they can no longer manage their affairs in the UK due to a loss of mental capacity, it can cause many difficulties.

You can choose a person or people, who you trust, to act for you when you are no longer able.

The best way to avoid the legal and practical difficulties that can occur with the loss of mental capacity is to plan for it in advance by drawing up a document called a 'Lasting Power of Attorney' ('LPA').

An LPA must be made while you have full mental capacity.

What is an LPA?

An LPA is a legal document that enables you to appoint one or more attorneys to act for you when you are no longer able to act for yourself. Your attorney can be a professional, such as a solicitor or a family member or friend.

There are two types of LPA: 'Health and Welfare' or 'Property and Financial Affairs'

An LPA must be made while you have full mental capacity. It is therefore important to make one while you are in good health.

Why should you get an LPA?

You can choose a person or people, who you trust, to act for you when you are no longer able.

If you lose your mental capacity and do not have an LPA, then your family (or the authorities) will have no choice but to make an application to the Court of Protection to appoint a 'deputy' to look after your affairs, which can be time consuming and costly.

Will my LPA be recognised in Spain? Unfortunately there is no international type of LPA which is guaranteed to work in both the UK and Spain.

The advice we give to our clients at Stone King, is that if you have assets in both Spain and the UK, your only safe option is to appoint attorneys in both jurisdictions.

LEAPY LEE SAYS IT OTHERS THINK IT

IF ever there was a case for leaving the EU then the recent decision to award a Somali criminal nearly £80,000 for wrongful imprisonment, has to be it. Abdulrahman Mohammed had amassed 30 convictions while living in the UK and had been imprisoned more than a dozen times over 15 years.

The government were trying to deport him back to east Africa and detained him for a total of 445 days over three periods between 2012 and 2016. A judge at the High Court ruled that, despite being described as a prolific and violent offender, there was some evidence he could be tortured if he returned to Somalia (oh dear!) and it was unlikely he would be sent back. Therefore, the judge concluded he had been falsely imprisoned and was entitled to 'justice in a civilised society.'

The 39-year-old had initially been refused asylum on entering Britain. He had been granted leave to remain but only until August 2000. In 2008 (it took eight years!) the Home Secretary made a deportation order against him. But lawyers took his case (yes, you've guessed it) to the European Court of Human

A STEP TOO FAR? Drag queens set to teach British schoolchildren.

Rights and the UK was ordered not to remove him from the country 'until further notice'.

Because he could not legally be deported, the judge decided the three periods of confinement had been 'improper detention' and were therefore illegal and awarded him £78,500 in compensation! Confused? Don't be.

Basically, some violent criminal illegal immigrant thug, has just been given nearly 80K of UK taxpayers' money. You really couldn't make it up. The sooner we say goodbye to the unbelievable and often downright lunacy of these arrogant EU idiots the better for us all.

I know it'll get a few backs up, but I think that allowing drag queens to sing and recite nursery rhymes to classes of two-year-old kids, is most definitely a step too far. As far as I'm concerned nothing can be gained from this exercise, except more confusion and insecurity among our youngsters, serving no more purpose than teaching these little tots that, instead of a special treat at Christmas, Panto is now a classroom event.

It really is a time to call a halt to all this gender bender extremism; which in the main emanates from a minority of transsexuals, who won't be happy until all the toilet seats are glued down and 'boys and girls' a distant memory. Far from creating more acceptance of transgenderism, all this overkill is actually having a reverse effect.

For heavens, and sanities sake, these extremists must be reined in, before the whole, often commendable cause, is lost in a mire of mistrust and messy misinterpretation.

Got a laugh for you now. On the subject of name combinations. I was delighted to hear Tim Rice is set to marry a Miss Garlick. Apparently Mr Curtain is also about to tie the knot with a young lady called Annette and there actually appears to exist a Miss Flay whose first name is Sue! Can you do any better? I'm all ears. Only genuine combinations need apply!

Deal or no deal

HALF a million people in the States take out loans every year just to shop on Black Friday.

This year Spain may spend €1.3 billion, and virtually every major retailer is now on board.

But beware of over-inflated discount hype.

A British investigation last year found that up to half the goods on offer were not the real deal, that the 'was' price had been inflated, that the goods were obsolete models, or that some were actually cheaper before or after the big day (or week).

Buy from reputable retailers with a money-back guarantee, use a credit card rather than a debit one if you can because then the bank will foot the bill if things go wrong, and use your browser's bookmarks to keep track as you trawl the web and things get hectic.

Black Friday's child is loving and giving?

If retailers can afford such massive discounts next weekend, are consumers being scammed the rest of the year, asks Terence Kennedy.

GOT your Black Friday shopping spree planned? Ready to splash out next weekend on that electronic spaghetti fork you've always wanted, a WiFi-enabled toaster or a remotecontrolled churros extruder?

In just over a decade Black Friday has morphed into a worldwide shopping frenzy (followed no doubt by Blue Saturday when adding up the resulting credit card bills). For one more bite at the cherry, retailers have added Cyber Monday, so now you really can shop till you drop. Or your bank account does.

Since Spanish rules on sale dates were lifted in 2012, Viernes Negro has taken off here: 90 per cent of Spaniards surveyed knew what it was, nearly 60 per cent actually buy something, and the country is expected to splash out nearly €1.3 billion next weekend on discounts, real or imagined.

Cynics say the one who profits most from Black Friday is the one smart enough not to go shopping that day. Certainly those who do choose to partake may be safer here than in America, where there have been seven Black Friday deaths listed and nearly a hundred serious injuries. Indeed, two people died during a shooting altercation at a Toys 'R' Us in California. Someone must really have wanted that cut-price Disney princess.

Physical Black Friday shoppers

CHAOS: Black Friday scenes.

(those who will surge to the bricks and mortar retailers this weekend) are said to be older, less internetsavvy and often pay in cash. Cyber Monday shoppers are younger, more affluent, use credit cards and often don't have a lot of time (or patience) for shopping.

So why brave the madding crowds when you can bankrupt yourself so much more comfortably from home? Some online retailers have even extended the buying frenzy to a whole week (here's lookin' at you Amazon).

The trick to coming out on top next week is to know what you want, and to have priced it before the madness strikes. 'Fifty per cent off!' might indeed mean it's half-price (assuming it doesn't mean only half the product is actually present...). But half-price of what? The price some overhyped designer store might have tried and failed to charge? Or the manufacturer's recommended retail price which no self-respecting consumer would ever expect to pay?

Ask yourself the killer question: it may be hyperventilatingly cheap, but what exactly is a WiFi detector shirt, and do I really need one?

So happy shopping one and all, and where I won't be spending my money next week is on an Irish site with my favourite Black Friday offer ever: 'Two for the price of three!!'

HEARD about the latest squabble between rival three-Michelin star chefs Gordon Ramsay and Michel Roux? Ramsay described Roux as "pompous" and an "old fart" for banning diners at his Waterside Inn in Bray from photographing their food on Instagram: "If I see a great-looking picture posted, I'll want to go and eat there immediately, he's just an old fart who's forgotten to move on!"

Personally, I'm not too bothered if people want to take pictures of food provided it's done discreetly, though I do question the motivation. Perhaps they're all keen chefs who want to replicate the dish, though wouldn't it be embarrassing if people started posting photos of Big Macs, KFC bargain buckets or home-cooking disasters, and tagging them as if they were taken at Monsieur R's establishment?

As for attention-seeking, motormouth Ramsay, it's simply unfortunate that he can't actually discuss anything without his usual unintelligent four-letter expletives, or being rude and pretentious.

Talking of pretentiousness, navigating London's restaurant scene these days is a bit like trying to find Wally in the dark, isn't it? From weird pop-ups in shipping containers in Brixton to no-reservation, foragedfood joints in hipster Hackney.

Why must everything be 'curated' now hang on while I curate some clothes to put on today - or 'hand-crafted'? My coffee #### from a local coffee 'artisan' was 'handcrafted' (although I'm pretty sure I saw it coming out of a machine). And don't get me started on 'hand-cut'/'hand-cooked' chips - though better, I suppose, than crushed by foot or strained through teeth.

But I confess I'm a connoisseur of foodie pilgrimage stories. I love hearing tales of hazardous journeys to some distant outpost where, in some hovel known only to indigenous mystics, you're served the local black flatbread made from unicorn's ashes and garnished with virgin's tears, and the taste is simply 'a-w-e-s-o-m-e'!

Well, Monsieur Roux. I've just posted on Instagram a photo of my lunch of 'haricots à la sauce tomate sur pain grillé' (or 'beans on toast' to us), everything hand-cut, curated and foraged. Délicieux. So beat that!

THURSDAY THOUGHTS

By Susan Piercy (Albox)

The adventure

LET'S move to Spain we said. It'll be an adventure. We can live like movie stars in a white villa with a swimming pool. Live the dream. The envy of our friends. Enjoy endless sunshine, cheap booze and minimum bills.

We arrived in February; expectations high after years of hard work. Wishful dreamers that we were, the weather was cold, wet and windy. Spain was supposed to be hot; wasn't it? The villa was freezing so we lit our log fire eager to warm our disappointed cockles by the hearty chunks of blazing olive wood. Only when we were choking in a smoke-filled room did we discover the chimney was ornamental.

It rained, the ceiling leaked and the wind howled through the house like a screaming banshee. The tiles were cold and our feet freezing. Why oh why had we swapped our semi in England with wall to wall carpeting and central heating for this?

Swimming pool full of sludge, broken pump and leaking water. What had happened to the film-star life style?

To make matters worse we got our medication mixed up. (Knew we should've learned the lingo.) I suffered head rushes while hubby felt great on my HRT. Reality hit, should we give up our dream? Go home? Had our adventure turned sour?

Suddenly the sun shone, the rain stopped, the wind died down and was replaced by a warm breeze heralding summer. Each problem found its solution and our skin took on a golden glow along with our humour.

We laugh about those early days now because the mishaps were the adventure.

A weekly look - and not entirely impartial reaction to the Spanish political scene

RAJOY'S go-to strategy for political predicaments has always been to hide behind the courts or the public prosecution department.

Now it has come and bitten him on the backside. The Fiscalia - less detached from the government than it should be accused the Catalan government of sedition a n d rebellion. With these charges there was little for investigating Judge Carmen Lamela to do than remand the nine politicians remaining in Spain.

Result? Instant martyrdom and a probable slew of votes in the Catalan elections on December 21. Rajoy has blown it again.

Sometimes the punishment does not need to fit the crime and there has been too much stick and not enough carrot over Cataluña.

All the present government has ever made clear is what would happen if the Catalans left, and the punishment that awaited them. They have never been

be heard, and a pro-remain vote would make everything after the party has ended.

Rajoy could have tried that, but he never comes across as anything other than a third-time-lucky president unable to tackle a problem requiring instinct and warmth, not rulebook logic.

Alternative vocabulary

THERE was a point during and immediately after the Catalan UDI when the separatists were in disarray and ex-president Carles Puigdemont hightailed it to Brussels.

Ask a silly question

IT'S hard to imagine a flood of sexual harassment accusations emerging from the Congreso de los Diputados. Whatever slap-and-tickle occurs there, stays there but money's a different matter. Nothing brings out the beast in a Spanish politician like the eroticism of an illicitly-earned commission. Sex or cash? No contest. ticketyboo once more.

Then the remaining government members were remanded for rebellion and sedition.

Esquerra Republicana is rising in the polls and will not repeat the Juntspel Si coalition with Carles Puigdemont's downwardly mobile centre-right PDeCat. Left wing pro-independence parties might or might not go hand-in-hand but if the separatists win it, it will be thanks to voters who believe that words like rebellion and sedition, unheard in Spain for decades, are too redolent of former regimes.

Food for thought

ORIOL JUNQUERAS, leader of Esquerra Republicana de Cataluña (ERC) was criticised for his low profile following the region's shortlived declaration of independence.

The same can't be said for Junqueras' silhouette which was as rotund as ever when he was remanded on November 2 for sedition, rebellion and misuse of public funds. He is likely to get rotunder: prison food is notoriously calorific nowadays.

Keep smiling

WHO knows what Barcelona mayor Ada Colau truly feels regarding Catalan independence? What we do know is her much-criticised equidistance between 'stay' and 'go' means she wants to have her cake and eat it. She wants to remain mayor and needs PSC-PSOE support to do so. Her party Catalunya en Comu is not separatist but she needs separatist votes too.

Colau's pussycat smile does not falter but only she knows if the cream is curdling.

NOW in their eighth year of trading, Neater Heater are still being asked the same questions. What makes Neater Heaters special? Why should you choose them over other electric heaters? The simple answer is; design and build quality.

Many families throughout the Costa Blanca are already enjoying the soft warmth given off by these cleverly designed and unobtrusive Norwegian heaters. A good discreet central heating system has never been so affordable.

As Richard and Tony explain: "The basic choices for heating your home are either a full central heating system with water-filled radiators and pipes, gas heaters, electric, or a combination. Obviously with central heating the main obstacle is the high installation cost. Also, there is quite a high ongoing maintenance cost.

Gas estufas are effective, but quite unhealthy and give off a huge amount of vapour which causes black mould. This brings us to electric. Until we started Neater Heater the options were awful. You either bought Jellfilled heaters that were as expensive as a central heating system to buy, or cheap - but mostly inefficient - heaters that would make your electric meter wheel spin like a helicopter. There was nothing affordable, economical, and effective available in Spain. We know, believe us - we looked."

But sometimes in life luck plays a strange hand. It was while Tony was looking for a heater for his son's bedroom that, quite by chance, he saw a heater in a house he was doing some maintenance jobs in and it fit the bill perfectly. It was a neat and very efficient wall-mounted Norwegian convector heater. It could be used as an individual room heater, or as part of a complete integrated system. The heaters can be wall-mounted or if you are limited for wall space additional feet can be purchased to enable them to be freestanding.

Last year they added to their range the Turkish-made Vigo heater and towel radiators. These heaters share the design technology and ethos of the current Neater Heaters, but it has two differences: The Vigo comes with a carrying handle, wall bracket, and feet included in the price; They also have a digital display which indicates the reduced wattage that the heater regulates once the room has reached the desired temperature, thus saving more money through reduced running costs.

With their online shop or phone facilities for credit card payment, bank transfer and PayPal, purchasing these fantastic heaters couldn't be easier.

From Russia with motherly love

I AM proud to have Russian blood running through my veins with a grandmother from Belarus, but that's about all I know about her origins. It's such a shame that when I was young I never thought to ask.

What a shame that I haven't even tried to learn that one word a month of Russian as I said I would three years ago when I was interviewing President and Founder of the Russian speaker's association Luks Marbella on Mi Marbella radio (107.6 fm Wednesdays at 5.30pm).

If I had I'd have felt a lot better about myself when I was honoured to be invited to the Mama Awards 2017 last Friday, an emblematic Russian Awards Ceremony that our Russian counterparts have now also brought with them to Marbella.

The event was held at the stunning Russian restaurant and social club Kitch at Casa Rusia, the Russian hub of our city. It was organised by Anna Solod of the Russian event company Top5 Agency and the place was packed! I was delighted to be seated with lovely people who also spoke English and Spanish and it was a really fun night.

The 'Mama Award' aims to support and develop family values and recognise women who stand out for their professional achievements whilst also giving 'their all' to their children and families and actively participating in cultural and social life.

Not everyone there was Russian but the entire event was held in Russian. There were various categories of prizes awarded and even though I didn't understand a word that was going on it was an entertaining award ceremony. The atmosphere was electric with excitement, live performances by acclaimed Russian artists, DJs and everyone dancing! Very entertaining to watch and particularly enjoyable as everyone was in full evening dress and some of the ball gowns amazing!

This was undoubtedly one of the most glamorous events I've been to and, like with most emblematic events on the Coast, also raised money for a child that needs medical attention but doesn't have the funds.

The whole experience was a lot of fun and I'm grateful to #MiMarina, Marina Nitzak of Luks Marbella for introducing me to Anna of Top5 Agency and giving me this opportunity to travel to Russia for an evening and meet such lovely people in such atypical surroundings.

The penny really dropped as to where I'd spent the evening though when I finally got home, flopped exhausted on the sofa and turned on the telly. There was a documentary on about the Romanov family - ironic to say the least as I'd sat back to back with a Romanov all evening.

As I often say, you just never know whom you are going to be sitting next to in Marbella. Natasha was one of the very first Russians to establish their homes in Marbella and inherited the Romanov surname from her grandmother but as I understand it she also has noble blood from her grandfather's side of the family, the Kochubey.

It really was a special evening in all aspects and something I realise doesn't happen every day. I had been privy to a world where I don't belong but was made to feel welcome. A night of families and celebration in an event that truly came from Russia with motherly love!

By Steve Collins

WE all have different ideas as to what constitutes the first signs that Christmas is on the way, although the seemingly unrelenting high temperatures being experienced at the moment may well see some wishing their lives away for the cooler times around that time of the year.

I've only been in Spain full time for a handful of years - since 2009 - and Christmas takes some getting used to with neighbours and friends planning big events on the beach in glorious sunshine for most of the time.

In my final years in the UK, I knew I was counting down to the festive season when the X Factor auditions and the announcement of partners for Strictly Come Dancing were announced. Now, it's the annual announcement of the El Gordo (The Big One) Christmas Lottery tickets going on sale!

Even though it's not drawn until December 22 every year (a Friday for 2017), the world famous state lottery tickets always go on sale in July. The aim of making them available so soon is to encourage holiday-makers to buy one of the décimo, or 10th of a ticket which are sold at a set price of €20 per ticket. This is the price charged in the official lottery offices but you may see some in other venues for €22 or €23. Usually, these tickets have been purchased by a club or fundraising society and they are allowed to add an extra couple of euros.

THE BIG ONE: Life-changing Christmas tickets on sale.

Why put them up for sale so early? The official line is to 'encourage tourists to take a piece of Spanish luck home with them.' Also, it will help cash flow for year-round residents who would otherwise decide not to buy an El Gordo ticket in December as the usual extra Christmas expenditure means €20 is harder to find. Many local people form syndicates and pay in so much a week to buy the tickets from different parts of Spain, and I can remember delighted customers in my local asking me to get a couple of El Gordo tickets for them when I announced I was off to Barcelona for a weekend!

The 2017 draw will see 170 million 10ths of a ticket put on sale - five million more than last year - of numbers ranging from 00000 to 999999. The total value of prize money available will be  $\notin 2,380,000,000$  and  $\notin 70,000,000$  more than in 2016.

However, because a full ticket costs €200, most people only buy a décimo, or 10th of a ticket at €20, meaning the first prize equates to €400,000.

Second prize is  $\[mathcal{\in}\]1.25m$  for a full ticket or  $\[mathcal{\in}\]125,000$  for a 10th, whilst for third place; the pot comes to  $\[mathcal{\in}\]500,000$  for a ticket or  $\[mathcal{\in}\]50,000$  for a 10th. There is a selection of fourth or fifth prizes too and if your ticket is picked out among the hundreds of individual numbers drawn, that 10th is worth  $\[mathcal{e}\]200$ .

Remember, if you don't see the five-figure number you want hanging up in the lottery offices, ask the person behind the counter if yours is available and they can print one out especially for you.

The traditional singing of the lottery numbers on December 22 by children of the San Ildefonso School in Madrid is, for many, and probably me too after my eight years the real start of Christmas.

WITH the scale of cocaine use absolutely staggering in the UK, the new documentary series Gordon Ramsay on Cocaine (ITV 1, Thursdays) provided fascinating, if at times very disturbing viewing.

His first out-of-the-kitchen drugs task was to check the toilets of his own restaurants. Surprise, surprise, evidence of cocaine positive in every one, not only the gents and ladies loos but more worrying to him, further drug proof when the staff toilets also turned the wipes he was using blue, signifying Coke use.

Caution... for Ramsay also turned the air blue with his characteristic strong language.

It seems Albanian crime gangs ever willing to use extreme violence - allegedly control London's cocaine trade, with the UK topping the European league table for use of the white powder!

Ramsay then travelled to Colombia, the main source for cocaine cultivation, and discovered that there are a million people involved in its growth and distribution.

Ramsay serves up dollop of coke surprises in loo

My own personal note to cocaine users is that it is manufactured using petroleum, acids and alkaline, so rather them than me.

What would Ena Sharples (young readers Google her) make of her beloved Coronation Street (ITV weekdays) at present? The chances are she would get her hairnet in a twist at the goings on.

Where did Phelan come from?

How come he's found his long lost daughter? How did he acquire the house which he uses for his captives?

Will Ken Barlow turn out to be his proper dad? Will Aliens be hiding in Roy Cropper's deep fat fryer? Will Schmeichel come back as a poodle? Stay tuned folks as it's turning that unbelievable!

Blue Planet 2 (BBC 1 Sundays) blasted on to our screens in a wave of anticipation and hype that didn't disappoint one bit.

Four years in the making, the filming, expert knowledge and professionalism of Sir David Attenborough, the master of all things in nature and the planet's best friend, were extraordinary.

Another blockbuster triumph from the BBC. A Rhapsody in Blue that George Gershwin would have been proud of and a superb must see. For something totally different that does not tax the brain, try Pawn Stars shown on various channels, and centred around one family and a friend of the son, Chumley, working in a Las Vegas pawn shop.

Amazing items arrive through the door, some original worth thousands and some fakes. However, the banter between granddad, father, son and the not-so-bright Chumley make it a pleasant half hour.

A recent trend in television advertising is slow, re-recorded classic songs played over ads and sung by to me at least - unknown female vocalists.

One that really grinds me down is the Beatles belter Across the Universe, now turned into a melancholy dirge by an anonymous vocalist!

I have no idea what is being promoted as I switched it off. Speaking of advertisements, thank the lord for the Beeb with no mundane interruptions.

Most ITV viewing is advertisement slots with programmes thrown in between. You can cook a threecourse meal in the intervals now whereas it was at one time ideal only for making a cuppa!

Are you sure you're on the padron?

SIR,

I wonder whether you could consider including an article regarding an issue which I have only just discovered despite many years serving on the council.

I recently had a few elderly couples come into my office asking for help due to their partners needing 24-hour nursing care, and we helped them get a place in a care facility.

Subsequently, we helped them contact social services with a view to applying for financial assistance. I then discovered that the claimant has to have been resident in the municipality for 10 years and consecutively on the padron (civil register) for the past two years, and if not they are not entitled to financial assistance.

The system for the maintenance of the padron creates a regular check to ensure that it accurately reflects who is in the municipality. But if the town hall are unable to contact the individual (due to changed phone number, no Spanish number, etc) they then drop off the padron and may not even know about it. The only way to be sure is to check Lions are losing roar

IT is very unfortunate that Nerja Lions Club now has members who seem to have forgotten what a Lion Club stands for.

When the Lions Club Nerja market was started many years ago, local charities were encouraged to take stalls and given half price rental rates.

Occasional charity sales were supported and given free access to a standing place by the gate.

This practice was continued until three years ago when a new President shelved the discount on the charity stalls. This also marked the time when a new intake of members created internal frictions which led to some people being forced to leave the club or resign. These rejected members, believing in the ethics of the Lion Movement, started a new Lion Club in Nerja; the Lions Club, Balcon De Europa, Nerja.

We hope that readers will not think badly of the Lions movement because of the spiteful actions of one group of people.

Ex-shelter boss jailed for animal abuse

Pure evil!

IT'S time Spain started awarding minimum sentences of more than two years for animal cruelty anything less, including the current one-year custodial term, will practically never have to be served as it is always suspended for a first offence. People actually being locked up for animal neglect and cruelty rather than just getting a symbolic black mark may act as a deterrent. Kally

I hope she will spend a long time in prison, absolutely heartbreaking all those poor dogs had to die because of greed. Doris Teasdale

Not enough time in my opinion... but a step in the right direction.

Let's hope this brings to the fore many other facilities that are operating in this way too. Karen Perry

Boris Johnson infuriates Spanish dinner guests

I JUST don't understand why he hasn't been sacked!!! He's an embarrassment to the UK. Anita Oakes

Comments from EWN online

How he even GOT that job still astounds me. Anne Sewell

Why does he even bother to open his mouth??

Ann Ayckbourn And he's supposed to be a diplomat????? Barbara Taylor

Poppy seller sent packing from car boot sale

SHE'S not SELLING anything. She is taking donations. For which she is licensed.

People that know me understand that as much as I'm proud of my previous career, I will discuss it when asked, regale when invited to do so but don't walk around with my medals, tie and blazer on all of the time. But at this time of year it is different - it is special to me. It is a time for me to privately reflect, to remember my comrades, my brothers and sisters of my 'Service Family' and to respect the Ultimate Sacrifice made for this country by some whom I knew and many that I didn''t.

I am a Veteran, and a Veteran is someone who, at one point in their life, wrote a blank cheque payable to the United Kingdom for an amount up to, and including, their life. Regardless of personal political views, it is an honour to serve one's country, and there are far too many people in this country who no longer remember that fact. Sean Scully

Very embarrassed as this is our local car boot market and that the Lions have their own event for remembrance ... why stop someone else who is well known in town? Lydia Taylor

Mother shot and killed by ex-partner

A RECORD of physical and verbal violence against the deceased and released on bail pending trial for domestic violence. Why was he at liberty therefore to do this? Lorena Irwin  with the town hall. My suggestion would be that everyone makes that enquiry once a year, maybe on or near their birthday to ensure that they have not been inadvertently removed.

Jim Simpson, Zurgena Town Council, Almeria

On the turn?

WELL, it's official, the Leaping One's virtually owned up to being one of us and not one of them by giving the thumbs down to politicians who came through the public school system and we all know which party that is, well in the main anyway. What a fabulous picture in EWN (Issue 1688) of the chosen ones who believed they were born to rule. As for schemes and skulduggery the ex-Bullingdon's Club members and Tories are the masters of that!

Philip, San Fulgencio

Rental rip-off

I WISH to advise readers to make sure on returning their rental car to Goldcar at Alicante Airport they have it checked by a representative and take photos of the vehicle. My friends recently returned their vehicle at 6am - before the office was open - and have since been charged €615 for alleged damage!

Images which showed no obvious damage were attached to the bill. Several attempts have been made to contact them without success.

Mel Christie, Calpe

PC madness

WHY is it assumed that until recently everyone has enjoyed being deliberately rude about blacks and homosexuals so they had to introduce 'politically correct speech' to make sure that no-one would ever be inadvertently offended? But now we are to stop calling children girls and boys? Oh please!

June Rendle, Marbella

Out of town

HAS your printing equipment lost the word 'town'?

The only city on the Costa del Sol is Malaga! All the other municipalities are towns, villages or hamlets. Some of the places you call cities are not even towns, so please drop city everywhere!

Roberta, Malaga

Editor's note: Although the Spanish also class Marbella as a city, this point is well made and has been passed to the relevant department heads.

LEGALLY SPEAKING More potential road hazards

WE answer some common driving questions, kindly provided by members of the Guardia Civil based in Torrevieja, Costa Blanca, who set up the N332 website and Facebook page to help break down barriers.

OBSTACLES: If you need to 'moove' into opposite lane you must give way.

EVERY time we get behind the wheel of a car to embark on a journey our fate lies somewhat in the hands of others and there are potential hazards at every turn.

Last week we looked at some of the hazards and this week here are some more hazards drivers meet and how you can best avoid the risk.

Obstacles in the road: There are countless items that could find themselves in the road and pose a problem to vehicles, fallen trees, items fallen from vehicles, rocks and boulders, parked cars, the list is almost endless. If you encounter an obstruction one thing you must be aware of is that if you have to invade the opposite lane then you must give way to oncoming vehicles and only pass when safe to do so.

Permanent road features: It is vital that you pay attention to surroundings by reading and observing the physical signs on a road, like maximum permitted speed limits or warnings of hazards ahead. Also look at the physical characteristics of the road itself for junctions, narrow streets, dangerous bends, elevation changes and dips, blind corners and merging traffic.

Parking: When parking your vehicle, always choose a location that is safe, legal and convenient. Respect distances between vehicles, look for signs or signals that prevent or restrict parking. Be careful when opening your door, look in the mirrors and around the vehicle for cyclists, motorbikes, pedestrians or other cars.

Reversing vehicles: Always try to avoid reversing wherever possible as the field of vision is significantly reduced. Reversing into a parking bay makes it safer and more convenient for leaving, and avoid reversing from a minor road to a major road.

Animals: Animals in the road pose a major risk, especially in countryside areas. Drive slowly and always respect distance, because animals are unpredictable and can be startled.

Are the new extensions

registered in the property

registry? Legally, your community needs to change its original basic charter and assign new percentage shares that reflect the new reality.

Can we change quotas?

Some owners in our community have extended their properties by almost 50 square metres, making them into units of three bedrooms and three bathrooms. My own property is a two-bedroom, two-bathroom unit, as originally designed and built. However, I pay the highest community charges due to the original quota system established in the year 2000. Is it possible to have the cuota reassessed? I have asked at the AGM for equal shares, but this was refused.

Yes, it is possible to change the assignment of quotas. In your case, it is necessary in order to match the reality of the new construction. Ask these questions: Did the owners have community permission for new construction? Did they have building permits from the town hall?

Send your questions for David Searl through lawyers Ubeda-Retana & Associates in Fuengirola at Ask@lawtaxspain.com, or call 952 667 090.

How ridiculous they are

Views of a Grumpy Old Man

I'M lucky because I'm pretty computer savvy. I've always used computers for work, as well as at home, using search engines to look things up. But here's a word of warning about what not to look for on the internet. The worst thing you can do is to google medical symptoms.

Here's my advice - if you don't feel well go to the doctor. Do not self-diagnose because, if you do, I can guarantee you will have some of the worst diseases known to mankind. Every lump, stomach ache, going to the loo a lot or not enough will definitely mean you have got some form of horrible, nasty illness.

The same applies to looking at the side effects of medication the doctor has given you. I did it once and I absolutely had the majority of them and the ones I didn't have before I looked completely scared me about taking the medicines in case I got any of the others.

So now I just don't look and I advise you do likewise and save yourself a lot of worry. 'When are you going to do that?' I asked the handyman. 'I'll get round to it sooner or later,' was the reply. What does that actually mean? Will it be sooner or later? It's one of those total dumbass sayings. He might as well have said, 'I'm not telling you!'

So of course that got me thinking about a couple of other sayings that makes me think how ridiculous they are.

I was watching one of those US cop TV shows and when they are questioning the suspect, they always say, 'Can you tell us, in your own words, what happened that night.' If that was me I'd be very tempted to say, 'I'm sorry, I don't have any of my own words, I just always use the same words as everybody else. Will that do?'

Another one that doesn't make sense is when you ask someone to do you a favour and they say, 'Sure, I'd be more than happy to do that for you.' What's more than happy? Delirious?

Last one today - when something is as 'easy as pie.' So back to google. What does it mean and why is it used? Apparently it's not the making of the pie; it's the eating of it. Well that's not easy for me because I'm diabetic and I've also googled what happens if I eat too much pie...

GIBRALTAR TWi NOW

Thief seized

■ A 27-YEAR-OLD woman has been sentenced to eight weeks in prison after being found guilty of breaking into a property in Kingfisher House with two companions. No items were stolen as the home-owner allegedly returned home before they could take anything.

Tech surge

■ THE increased level of interest in Gibraltar as an offshore financial centre, particularly from businesses specialising in financial technology, has been "staggering" according Albert Isola, the Minister for Finance, who said that it's the most he's seen in 35 years.

Paying tribute

■ GIBRALTAR joined the UK in paying tribute to those who had fallen on Remembrance Sunday. A ceremony led by the Governor, Lt General Edward Davies, was held at noon at the British War Memorial on Line Road to commemorate all those who have laid down their lives to protect their country.

Drawing the line

"COLD WAR-STYLE Checkpoint Charlie borders after Brexit will not be acceptable," said Fabian Picardo, the Chief Minister of Gibraltar, while appearing before the House of Commons' Northern Ireland Affairs Committee in London.

Picardo and the Deputy Chief Minister, Dr Joseph Garcia, travelled to the British capital for a series of meetings that involved detailed discussions about the UK and Gibraltar's departure from the European Union.

The Chief Minister said that the border between Gibraltar and Spain could remain fluid after Brexit with "goodwill and pragmatism," but added that crossings must not be used as "choke points" for political reasons.

Mr Picardo and Dr Garcia also participated in a seven-hour

Mother-of-two stabbed to death

A MAN has been held for the alleged murder of his British wife in Gibraltar.

Mother-of-two Carolina Elizabeth Lishman, 32, died at St Bernard's Hospital after being found in a flat on Sir William Jackson Grove with her husband, aged 42, who also had severe knife wounds.

Officers from the Royal Gibraltar Police (RGP) arrested the 42-year old while he was still in hospital on Saturday. Police have described his condition as critical but stable, and revealed that he will remain under police guard as he recovers from his injuries.

Chief Minister Fabian Picardo called for citizens to respect the woman's family at "this tragic time."

He said: "I urge all to think first of the deceased and the family.

"The harrowing circumstances of this matter are not for social media speculation."

The RGP also moved to calm public fears following the incident.

"The Royal Gibraltar Police wants to reassure the public in

They also confirmed that they are not looking for a third person,

Fishing in

troubled waters THREE Spanish fishing captains from La

Linea de la Concepcion have allegedly boasted they will continue to fish in Gibraltar's waters illegally. Fisherman Esteban Navarro Bedriomo told UK media sources that he had fished there since he was 15 and was not put off by confrontations with the Royal Navy and the Royal Gibraltar police.

Drugs busted

A 45-YEAR-OLD man was held for allegedly smuggling 2.7kg of amphetamines after being stopped in his vehicle by officers of the Royal Gibraltar Police and Customs. Officers reportedly discovered three packages of the stimulant, after stopping and searching Michael Grima's vehicle.

Migrant plea

SEVEN migrants found in British Gibraltar territorial waters have pleaded not guilty to arriving in the country without valid documentation. The men, having arrived from North Africa, were held by local police after they were found on a rigid-hulled inflatable boat in Gibraltar waters.

Fraudsters freed

A COUPLE charged with fraud, forgery and money laundering offences have been granted bail. A 49-year-old from Russia and a 45-year-old from Norway have to report to the New Mole House police station twice a week before their next court appearance.

Elderly support

A NEW means-tested benefit system from the Gibraltar Community Care charity will ensure that those with limited financial resources will be granted an income that lines up with the minimum wage. This payment will be in addition to the charity's 'Household Cost Allowance.'

YOUR STARS FOR NEXT 7 DAYS

A chance remark alluding to your past brings a flashback. This helps you to see a current situation more clearly. We all make mistakes and follow the same old patterns. but this time you are being forewarned. It is in your experience and power to make a different choice of action this time. In doing so, much confusion and upset can be avoided.

Someone will most certainly come to the rescue when your situation changes. Well, they will, won't they? Have Plan B ready just in case. In continuing to think in the short term you do yourself no favours. Think now of a '10year plan' and be determined to reach your goal. Bit by bit and day by day you will progress. You don't have to rush ahead and get stressed.

An exciting project is bubbling away in your mind but may need financial backing. Take advice from a professional or someone with successful experience in these matters. Remember that any idea has to grow, so consider what you need to see happen in five years' time

During your social encounters this week you meet someone who offers to help. That is great, but do ask yourself if you would be prepared to give anything in return.

Some exciting suggestions make you think twice about a current business matter. However, it may not be necessary to change anything but to consider the new suggestion as a sort of 'add on' to a current project.

The moment that you have been waiting for has arrived. A colleague has made а decision that is long overdue. Perhaps you are a little shocked and speechless because there has been such a time lag, but this will pass. It may not be over-convenient but the phrase 'striking while the iron is hot' springs to mind

You work hard for your money. Make it worthwhile by trying to hold on to as much of it as possible. Someone who is charming and plausible may try to get you involved in a fast-track money making scheme.

(August 24 - September 23) By showing confidence in your own way of doing things, you inspire others. This is chiefly because you are at last finding a balance between work and home life. In the past you may have felt stressed and equated that with working - not so now.

Because you are intent on pleasing others, you may be cramping your own style. This is something that you have in abundance and it should be used. You may be feeling that a business idea does not stand a chance.

SCORPIO (October 24 - November 22) A juicy bit of gossip comes your way this week and it is hard to keep it quiet. You must do so, however, because there is a lot riding on it. When people trust you, they are saying much about the relationship. In this particular case, the person may well be able to progress you socially at some time in the future.

The rather more serious side of your nature needs to take over this week. Someone in a higher position is keeping an eye on you. This maybe because they are considering you for promotion, so be on your best behaviour. It is important at the moment to stick to any rules and regulations or your reputation (and pocket) could be hit.

Letting life get too tame will eventually irritate you no end. Your social life needs a boost which, in turn, helps romance blossom. It is easy to be a bit lazy when things are going smoothly but we all need constant stretching. With an active mind such as yours, the important thing is to keep making progress. This may be in a physical way or in some of business. A brisk kind attitude to your whole life is needed.

Avoid the dreaded lurgy

By Sally Underwood

WE all know we are more prone to coughs and colds in the winter months.

Poor sleep patterns, lack of fresh air and colder temperatures all lower our immune systems and increase our risk of catching a bug. The constant supply of hugs and kisses from friends and family at festive parties also heightens our chances of catching something someone else has.

However, there are some simple hygiene changes you can make this winter to avoid contracting bugs.

According to Heather Leslie, director of infection prevention and control at Benenden Hospital, a sneeze can travel around 30 metres if not captured in a tissue, while vomit can also travel far. She explains "just one particle" can spread infection to others.

So if you are ill, try to limit your contact with other people, particularly the very old, the very young and pregnant women and avoid spreading the infection further.

PARTY season is definitely upon us and with it an increased risk of contracting food poisoning. Buffets left out too long,

germs

Leslie also encourages eating five portions of fruit and vegetables a day and getting as much sleep as possible. While this is sensible advice for any time of year, Leslie says this will avoid putting unnecessary strain on your immune system, therefore lowering your risk of contracting bugs.

She says it is also important to wash our hands more thoroughly than normal when there are bugs floating around. She explains an equally important part of the process is drying our hands, saying "wet hands are as dangerous as dirty hands." The NHS advises washing hands for between 40 and 60 seconds, reaching every part of your fingers, palms and nails.

Finally, Leslie recommends keeping our houses as clean as possible to avoid bugs spreading. She says we should use antibacterial sprays and disposable cloths on all kitchen and bathroom surfaces as well as ensuring we close our toilet lids before flushing as germs can travel up to six metres.

food at the incorrect temperature. To avoid this, make sure you wash your hands thoroughly using an antibacterial soap every time you handle food, particularly if you are handling different meats or raw and cooked meat.

Make sure you cook your food to the temperature recommended on the recipe or packaging by using a food thermometer in any meats or flat foods.

Before even starting to cook, make sure you store your food properly by refrigerating it as soon as possible when you get home and cooking it within two hours of it being out of the fridge.

When handling meats, make sure to use one set of utensils and serving dishes for raw and cooked meats and store them on different shelves in your fridge.

Finally, once your food is prepared, if you are laying it out buffet-style make sure to keep hot food hot with chafing dishes and cold food cold, for example by placing seafood on ice. If you are refilling depleting supplies of a particular dish, put a fresh dish out rather than mixing the older food with the new and make sure nothing stays out for longer than two hours in total.

Twinkle toes

BEREFT of their customary uniform of flipflops and sandals, our feet can become sadly neglected throughout the winter as we cover them up more.

Giving yourself a pedicure can give you a quick makeover as well as ensuring your feet are hot to trot when the weather heats up again. Regular pedicures also get the blood flowing in your feet and lower legs, improving your circulation and help you detect any skin or nail problems early on.

Before starting your pedicure make sure you have all the essentials to hand; a bowl filled with warm water, exfoliant or sea salt, good quality nail scissors or clippers, a nail file, a pumice stone or foot file, moisturiser and nail varnish remover and nail polish if applicable.

Remove any existing nail varnish before placing your feet into your bowl of water. For an extra treat, add Epsom salts, bath salts, bubble bath or essential oil to the water for further skin-softening properties. Soak feet for around 10 minutes before massaging them with an exfoliator or a handful of dampened sea salt; this will help to remove dead skin.

Remove your feet from the bowl and dry them thoroughly before using your pumice stone or a very fine grade foot file to slough any particularly rough skin from heels and toes. Now trim your toe nails with scissors or clippers. Make sure you cut them in a straight line rather than an arc shape as this will encourage ingrown toenails.

Cover your feet in a layer of moisturiser.

SPECIALIST: Doctor Luis Perez Belmonte.

HOW often is prostate cancer present in middle-aged men?

Prostate cancer is extremely common, although its exact cause is unknown. Around 29,000 men in Spain suffer from the disease each year, making it the most common form of male cancer, affecting up to 50 per cent of males over 70.

When should you get checked?

All men over 50 should get checked even if they present no symptoms. If any symptoms present themselves or if you have any queries before this age don't hesitate to see a specialist.

What are the symptoms of the onset of prostate cancer?

Symptoms can take a long time or even years to manifest. In the early stages, when the tumour is confined to the prostate, it may be asymptomatic or accompanied by mild obstructive symptoms such as urinary incontinence, interruption of the urine stream, increased frequency of urination, especially at night, difficulty urinating or a burning sensation during urination.

The A-Z of Knee Pain – Part 3

THE knee is the largest joint in the body. Four bones, more than 20 muscles and tendons four major ligaments + little ones and at least three layers of cartilage.

Here's part 3 of my A to Z of things to think about if you have knee pain

Q Angle Correction:

The angle formed by your thighbone and shinbone through the knee cap when viewed from the front. If you are knock-kneed or bandylegged this angle is wrong, putting extra pressure on the knee. Shoes and arch supports can reduce the risk of joint damage.

Referred Pain

Getting an accurate diagnosis is critically important! Pain in the knee can be referred from the hip or the feet and without an accurate diagnosis, treatment is a waste of time as you are not treating the true cause of the problem.

Supports

Are not all created equal! It is important to get the right one for your knee problem and the activity you want to do. New specialised techniques using tape are also effective. Elastic supports stifle the circulation and restrict movement.

Tissue Engineering

Or stem cell regeneration. fe This is a new surgery technique which implants cartilage from elsewhere aiming to stimulate cartilage regrowth but has mixed results to date.

Ultrasound

Used by physiotherapists, this therapy uses sound waves to reach deep tissues and increase blood flow, relax muscles and aid healing.

Viscosupplementation

Injections of hyaluronate into the joint to lubricate it but not cure it. The injection can be painful and only offers short term pain relief.

Water

Exercising in your swimming pool takes the weight off your knees. Over and over again research shows that exercise can reduce knee pain, and is an important MUST!

X-rays

And other investigations can give you a clearer idea of how advanced the problem is. Always make sure you get the right investigation for your problem, this should follow a detailed clinical assessment.

Yucca

Possible anti-inflammatory, as well as a steroid effect on pain and potentially beneficial effects on bone density.

Zinc

Helps trigger the growth of new cells to replace damaged tissue.

SAN ROQUE is set to host the next edition of the Fair of Samples of the Natural Park of Los Alcornocales after a first preparatory council meeting took place earlier this week.

The meeting was attended by the councillor for the Environment, Juan Serván, as well as the Deputy Mayor of Tourism, Dolores Marchena.

At the end of the meeting, Serván told local Spanish media: "As the Nat-

"We are very happy because it is an extremely interesting activity for all the residents of the Campo de Gibraltar to know the Alcornocales Park.

"We are trying to fix the date. It would take place during four days, from Thursday to Sunday, with many activities.

"I think it could be a success and we hope to move the project forward."

The fair was held for the first time last June in Algeciras and consisted of 13 stands selling both crafts and typical products produced in the Natural Park of Los Alcornocales, alongside teaching workshops and environmental exhibitions.

Olives trees - the marvel of the Mediterranean landscape and cuisine

GRAEME TYRRELL

THE olive tree is the most symbolic tree of the Mediterranean. Spain has been the centre of olive oil production for thousands of years with olive oil being traded by Spain with the Roman Empire importing boat loads of the golden oil for centuries.

Mountains have been terraced and stone walls built in abundance to host the olive tree on thousands of hectares of otherwise unproductive land where the olive tree can grow and bear fruit for hundreds of years. There are olive trees that are known to be more than a thousand years old. The branches of the olive tree are displayed in hieroglyphs in Egypt and are on the current United Nations flag. It has been allocated as a symbol of victory by the ancient Greeks and Romans and Noah is said to have received a branch from a dove in the Bible when the flood waters receded

Any Mediterranean cuisine is not complete without a bowl of olives as an appetiser. The oil is the key to giving paella its Mediterranean taste, salads are anointed with it and bread is drenched in

The olive tree can grow up to 50 metres high but are usually severely kept pruned to allow easy harvest and to give maximum size of the olive fruit.

The trees obviously grow perfectly in the naturally alkaline soils of the Mediterranean. There is a wide range of different varieties so if you wish to grow them, you need to decide if you want the olives for eating or oil as they have different characteristics. It is then a matter of finding the best of the type you want for your region.

SYMBOLIC: Mediterranean olives.

Wild olives have very small fruit so if you want to have larger olives it is necessary to have a tree from cultivated varieties. If you want an established tree. the trees transplant very easily. The roots are not very extensive and reshoot well when pruned to allow transplanting. Very old trees do not produce as much fruit as younger ones but they make a wonderful ornament in the garden and for the domestic garden one tree can produce enough for eating. You would need an orchard to get enough to make oil so it is best to plant eating varieties if you want to use the fruit. The fruit is bitter due to glucosides that are present when first picked so it is a process to make them edible. There are so many variations on how to do it. The ancient Greeks used to tie baskets full of olives to their boats and let the sea water naturally cure them of the bitterness.

On the fence

The basis of curing olives is to soak them in salty water and keep changing the water until they are the right taste. It is an art form to prepare the olives to be just right, although right can have regional preferences.

The oil is usually extracted by crushing the fruit and filtering it. It can take around 10 kilos of olives to make one kilo of olive oil depending on the olive and the extraction method. The virgin oil is graded as Extra with less than 1 per cent acidity, Corriente that does not exceed 3.3 per cent acidity and Lampante with above 3.3 per cent acidity. The virgin oil can be further refined into regular olive oil and blended to find the right taste for its purpose. The olive tree is a must for the Mediterranean garden as a tradition that has occurred for thousands of years.

reflecting light and also makes a nice, contemporary feature. For a more modern look, choose fences with a pale-wood finish and try to use the same wood for your decking if possible.

Painting your fence in bright, clashing colours is a great way to brighten up your garden and help it to stand out from the crowd. Adding outdoor lights along the edges can also really help to brighten it up in the evening.

Time to plant your veg

WINTER is actually a great time to work on your vegetable garden if you live somewhere with a Mediterranean climate.

Those who live in places blessed with warmer summers choose to wait until later in the year to plant their crops in order to use the natural rainfall. which tends to come in winter months

However, the ground is still quite warm at this time of the year, even as the temperature starts to drop, which makes it a great time to plant grasses, shrubs and trees.

Leafy vegetables tend to do well when planted at this time of the year, such as cauliflower, kale, celery and broccoli, as do root vegetables like parsnips and beetroot.

While potatoes are traditionally planted in the spring, they can also be planted in Mediterranean gardens while it is still quite warm outside, so you can time your harvests to make sure you have a year-round supply.

The only plants that can't be planted during winter months are 'fruit' crops, such as tomatoes, courgettes and peppers, as they need continuous warm weather in order to ripen.

It's a good idea to plant your crops in stages, so they mature at different times, but still try to get them all into the ground as soon as possible in case the temperature suddenly plummets.

A GOOD-LOOKING fence can transform outdoor spaces by bringing new dimensions, structure and a pop of colour to the garden.

Now is the perfect time to renovate or redecorate your fence as most of the hard planting and pruning work is over until spring, leaving many gardeners with some extra time on their hands. While the main purpose of the fence is to define the boundaries between one garden and another, you should never unthat modern, rustic or more traditional. You can also use it to extend your space if you have a smaller garden by attaching climbing or hanging plants. Hanging a mirror will also

THE sit and stay

This is an exercise that can only be correctly taught if each stage is perfected before continuing on to the next stage. The training for this exercise should be started indoors, the dog on the lead and no distractions. Initially the handler should be kneeling on the floor with the dog close to the handler's left side.

1. Give the SIT command once only, whilst putting the dog into the sit position at your left side, thereafter NEV-ER recommand, even if the dog moves. Pull up and back with your right hand in the collar, simultaneously push down with your left hand on the dog's back just above the base of his tail. Never apply pressure any higher up the dog's back as this could cause injury. Remember - even if the dog does not sit immediately - DO NOT repeat the sit command.

Dog training tips

PRAISE the dog quietly once he is settled and comfortable in the SIT and remains there without any physical restraint from the handler. If the dog moves, replace him into the SIT with no further commands. Do this as often as necessary, until he is sitting still and comfortable, praise quietly, then give the release command and at the same time move the dog from where he is sitting, PRAISE.

2. Repeat stage 1 until the dog is sitting when commanded with confidence. Always use the method described in stage 1 to guide the dog into the sit position. Gently try to pull or push the dog out of position (the handler should still be kneeling next to the dog), but be prepared to place him back into the SIT should he move. If he resists your gentle attempts to dislodge him, PRAISE and give the release command. If the attempts to move succeed - place him back into the sit position without commanding and go back to stage 1 and start again until he is doing the exercise with more reliability.

ouseSit Match

The more frequently stages 1-2 are repeated the easier it will be to progress through this exercise and the more reliable your dog will be.

3. When the dog is doing stage 2 confidently, without moving, the exercise can be expanded. Put the dog into the SIT and with as little fuss as possible, stand upright. If he moves, put him straight back into the SIT without saying a word. When you are able to stand next to him use the lead, gently applying pressure to the collar to test the sit. If he moves again, replace him giving n o extra commands and start stage 3 again. NB On no account should you proceed any further if he is not reliable on stage 3.

4. When he is doing stage 3 reliably and confidently, the exercise can again be expanded. Place him in the SIT, take a couple of steps away from him, but be ready to > put him back just as he moves. Using the lead again gently apply pressure to the collar, return to the dog immediately, PRAISE profusely and then RELEASE.

NEVER release the dog until you are standing by his side or he will never do a reliable sit stay. The down stay

This is taught in exactly the same stages as the SIT - remember to only command the dog once and only when you are standing next to him, always replace him into position using no extra commands and always PRAISE and RE-LEASE at the end of each sit/down.

TRAINING: The sit and stay way.

When both the sit and down are perfected with no distraction indoors, use different places where there are no distractions and start again at stage 1, working through all the stages. Perfect the technique by gradually increasing the distractions i.e. rattling a bunch of keys, dropping your hanky etc.

NEVER TEMPT FATE by leaving the dog in a stay where a sudden distraction could cause an accident i.e. untethered outside a shop.

CHARITIES

ACE CHARITY "El Refugio" in La Cala de Mijas is a registered charity. We have on average 275 dogs in our care and we receive no help from the Town Hall or the Andalucian government. We desperately need foster homes and adoptants for our many dogs, especially the small ones and puppies who do not do well in a big shelter. We are grateful for any help offered, including donations of food and blan kets. Visiting times are from 13.00 to 15.00 and you can always turn up or make an appointment by calling Denise on 669 018 736. Our website is www.ace-charity.org where you can view all the dogs in our care. (93320)

ADANA THE ANIMAL SHEL-TER IN ESTEPONA. We always need volunteers to walk and socialise with our dogs and help with cleaning. We also need good homes for our animals that you can see on www.adana.es. Kennels open every day 10-1.30, Camino de Casares, near Parque de los Pedregales, Estepona. (5 minutes from the Poligono) For more information call 952 113 467, available from 10.00am until 14.00pm. (93319)

SEPE the horse and donkey charity is open to the public week-ends from 10.00 to 5.00. Volunteers are much needed in all departments and are welcome at anytime. For our riding for the disabled classes, we are also in need of extra helpers. We are nationally registered by the Spanish Ministry of the Interior (164640) but only with your support can we give the equine a voice. If you can just commit to 2 or 3 euros a month it will really help make a difference. You can find us at Lauro Golf Equestrian Centre, Alqueria, Alhaurin de la Torre, Tel. 608 258 950 in fo@sepeonline.net www.sepe online.net (93321)

AT SOS ANIMAL REFUGE we have dogs, young and old looking for homes. Some of our dogs have been with us for some time and would love to find a cosy spot to curl up in and a knee on which to rest their heads. If you have room in your heart and home we would love to hear from you. We do not put our dogs to sleep - no matter how old, they are safe with us. For day to day needs and to pay for veterinary care, we much appreciate the support we receive. We desperately need items to sell on our market stall to help raise funds and are happy to come and collect. So if you are having a clear-out, please contact us on 605 227 155. If you would like to know more about re-homing, please call 653 257 875 Visit our website www.sos-an imals.org or please phone Sandy on 952 385 923 or 666 814 056 if you would like to make a donation or help in any way. # Speed record smashed

By Matthew Elliott

CLOCKING an average speed of 277.9mph over two separate runs through the Nevada desert, the Koenigsegg Agera RS is now officially the world's fastest production car. During the runs the Swedish-built hypercar struck a top speed of 284.5mph, smashing the previous record set by a production car, the Hennessey Venom GT, which stood at 270.5mph.

the sound it'll make when the warranty expires."

Despite tackling an incline the Agera RS managed to reach 271.2mph on the first run. Enjoying a decline on the second it hit 284.5mph.

The average was calculated from the two runs in the opposite direction on the same stretch of Nevada's Highway 106. Driver Niklas Lilja said that the next stage was seeing how the Agera RS handles corners. Driving at 280mph plus was "really quite bumpy," he said, with his only concern being that the Michelin tyres were only guaranteed for speeds of 186mph.

A five-litre V8 engine with 1,300hp helped Koenigsegg engineers challenge the limits of aerodynamics. Ground force was tailored to prevent a disastrous flip on a small imperceptible bump.

Unlike the Bloodhound SSC aiming for a land speed record of 1,000mph plus next year with its jet engine, the Agera RS is road legal, though pushing 300mph might lead to a spell inside.

FERRARI is on course to make €1 billion in profits this year. It would be a record for the Italian giant, registering a 14 per cent increase on 2016's takings.

The one billion milestone was set as a target for 2020 by CEO Sergio Marchionne in 2014. Despite Ferrari racing to that finish line quicker than expected, this year's record profits are below those anticipated by shareholders who hoped for a 24 per cent profit increase.

Profits are expected to shoot up if Marchionne makes good on his pledge to take Ferrari out of Formula One. He plans to do so by 2021. It would be "totally beneficial to the profit and loss," he said, "the board would be celebrating here until the cows come home."

WILD SIDE: Agera RS is new king of hypercar universe.

THE University of Leon is set to host the first driverless cars in Spain.

According to reports, the first 'driverless vehicle experimental circuit in Spain' will be in Santiurde de Toranzo as part of a project developed by Auvsi España and the University of Leon themselves.

An installation is set to be presented at the beginning of next year and is the first leg of a broader government scheme, The Nertra Cantabria Plan, which focuses on mobility patterns of autonomous vehicles allowing software to make decisions and ultimately replace drivers.

In the experimental circuit, cars will be monitored and tested through a system known as the 'Nertra Government Centre,' which organises and regulates traffic from remote controls in order to avoid any accidents. This software provides a

ROAD TEST by Nick Fletcher Ford Kuga ST-Line

IT'S been almost 10 years since the Ford Kuga was launched and since then, demand for SUV models has expanded greatly, creating many more contenders vying for sales.

To meet this challenge, the Kuga was face-lifted for 2017, which gave the model a more distinctive exterior look, though interior changes are less obvious. Even so, the Kuga stacks up well against more recent competitors, offering a wide choice of engines, 4WD options, roomy cabin and a good level of standard kit.

Prices start at €25,690 (£22,595) for an entry version which still boasts features such as alloy wheels, sports seats and cruise control but my test model was an ST-Line 2.0 litre diesel version with a price tag of €32,374 (£28,475). This model features darkened alloys, black grille and roof rails and a body kit to give it a more rugged sporty image

There is plenty of equipment too, including sports suspension, climate control, auto lights and wipers, cruise control with speed limiter, keyless start, touch-screen, sat-nav, connectivity, audio voice control and tyre pressure monitoring.

The 148 hp diesel engine is a capable unit, proving smooth and responsive and the 0-100 kph time of 10.1 seconds is fairly typical of class standards. Top speed is 195 kph (121 mph) and the fuel consumption is 25.5 kpl (60.1 mpg).

On the road, the car has a slightly heavier feel than some rivals, with well-weighted steering and stiffer ST-Line suspension giving good grip and composed corner-GA 5602 ing, albeit at the expense of a firmer ride. Inside, there is decent room for five adults, a 456 litre boot and easy flat-fold seats to boost capacity to 1,603 litres. The dashboard looks a little ordinary compared with more recent rivals but it is logically laid out and easy to use which arguably is better than looking flashier but being more complicated.

The Kuga is up against strong opposition in a crowded SUV sector which includes Mazda CX-5, Honda CR-V, Peugeot 3008, SEAT Ateca and VW Tiguan yet the Kuga does have its own presence and plus-points and the recent styling touches and upgrades keep it well in the mix of best-buy SUV models.

Classic Car Club of Andalucia

The CCCA - Still busy in November!

Motoring correspondent Ian Giles reports on the latest news from the Andalucia Classic Car Club, the most successful such society in the area and probably in Spain with over 600 members. blue and the air was warm. A Saturday morning in November and almost 50 classics, modern and old, gathered just above Marbella ready to set off on yet anoth-and old, gathered just above Marbella ready to set off on yet another fabulous Classic Car Club of Andalucia day out. The buzz of excitement as around 100 enthusiasts gathered to around 100 enthusiasts gathered to share coffee and bacon sandwiches was palpable. So many cars to look at. So many friends, old and new, to chat to or meet and seemingly not enough time to do it all!

That just about sums up the atmosphere at the start of most all of the CCCA events that are organised every month. Fresh from a 30 cars plus entry on their six-day tour of Extremadura, the following weekend saw things continue with the November classic car run and lunch.

Organised by Stuart Sandon and Rob Walker, the event started from Venta Peligrino, just above the La Cañada commercial centre on the Ojen road.

The turn-out of classics was quite amazing. Porsche 911s from the 60's, 70's and 80's which included the 911 Targa of Lady Dulverton and the gorgeous, and very well travelled, four-wheel drive 1989 964 Carrera 4S of Mac and Pam McCarthy.

An Aston Martin Virage from 1990. A few Bentleys lending a certain elegance to it all. Mercedes and Jaguars galore, including a brace of E-Types. An AC Cobra that everyone just wanted to listen to, it's 6.0 litre V8 growling healthily in anticipation. A couple of Ferraris, that always stir the blood, sat happily alongside a very pretty, and rare, Nissan Figaro crewed by equally pretty ladies who's other halves enjoyed it all in their 1965 MGB roadster.

In another MG, a BGT, was David and Chris Binnie. Another all-girl crew, Claudia Langer and friend Sabine, participated and although their 1984 Opel Senator had become rather troublesome just before the start, they still managed to complete the event even if in something rather more modern... And the stunning, ivory Mercedes 190SL of Antonio Mendoza was a real treat for the eyes.

First car away was the lovely, evocative, red Alfa Romeo Spyder of Ian Ashworth and Jane Jackson hotly pursued by the magnificent Aston Martin Virage of the Masters family. The US of A was represented with a brace of GM sports cars, a Corvette C5 and a Chevvy Camaro, driven by Barry Surtees and Phil Marriage respectively.

Representing the 'modern classics' were a stunning Bentley Arnage convertible, a few Jaguars including an immaculate XKR, an XJR, an XK8 and a stunning white F-Type. The F-Type may not be old but, make no mistake, it's classic status is already assured.

As the event occurred on the 11th of the 11th, after a minute's silence on the dot of 11.00am to honour and remember the fallen of two World Wars, came a briefing from organiser Rob Walker, who uttered the time honoured instruction "Gentlemen, start your engines...!" I think the ladies involved have just about forgiven him for his omission....!

A number of new members came along for their first experience of this wonderful social and classic motoring organisation, the organisers being quick to remind everyone that this is a classic car run and not a road-race!

However, there is still a duty from the co-drivers to ensure that the drivers are pointing in the right direction which is an enjoyable, although not difficult, task using the internationally accepted Tulip Roadbook format originally designed as a 'language free' navigation system for the International Tulip Rally in Holland in the 1950's.

The route for this Saturday was to be fairly short, around 100kms but of no less quality. Crews headed up through the Ojen area using the stunningly beautiful climb up the A-355 and then turned off through Monda and Guaro before a coffee stop at Venta Gallardo and then heading for Alozaina.

Organisers Rob and Stuart had found a little used road to come back down towards Coin, crossing the Rio Grande on the way. Just like John Wayne would have...!!

From Coin the route headed for Mijas with a stop for a livening glass of Cava en route and then a drop down through to Valtocado.

The route finished with a short run along the A-7 coast road to Las Chapas and then off to Simbads restaurante on the beach near there. And what a superb lunch the people of Simbads produced.

Outstanding food and service and, of course, to be still sat, dining on the beach in the warm sunshine was a treat indeed.

What better way to pass an idyllic November day - wonderful, iconic cars, great scenery, amazing driving opportunities and super company finishing with a marvellous lunch in a fabulous setting.

Roll on the next one!

The CCCA Photographic Competition

NDALU

WINNER of the monthly competition last month, amidst stiff competition, was Frank Jolley. The competition ends with the November entries and the big annual competition, for which entries can still be accepted, and sponsored by Paul Yaffé Photography, will be judged later this month.

The Christmas Fair, Estepona

THE Club has agreed to provide a display of classic and modern classic cars at the Estepona Christmas fair in the Palacio de Congresos on Saturday, November 25.

The Club will be presenting prizes for best dressed cars and crews and it should be an excellent day out. If you are in that area do please come along.

What next?

THE Club has it's next classic car run on Saturday December 9.

The route will be organised by Club presidente, Ian Giles, but is not yet planned. What is known is that the finish will be at the beautiful Hotel Lake Vinuela.

The next Club night and dinner will be at Treetops restaurante at El Chaparral golf where live music will complement the Christmas atmosphere.

And, talking of Christmas, the Club's Christmas Party will be at La Sala in Puerto Banus on Tuesday, December 12.

That's it until next time!

Further information on Classic Car Club of Andalucia events can be found on the Club's website www.cccandalucia.com. Membership of this vibrant club is open to anyone owning a genuine classic car here in Spain. Saca tu coche clásico del garaje y diviértete con el.

UNDERFIRE West Brom boss Tony Pulis - whose Baggies host Champions Chelsea on Saturday - spent the international break tanning himself in Barbados.

Despite only two wins from their last 20 Premier League games Pulis relaxed with a trip to Barbados, having been booed by fans, following their 1-0 defeat against Huddersfield.

"I've been here nearly three years and talk was about us finishing in the top eight. If you go on a bad run supporters are unforgiving," rued Pulis, on a winless run of nine games.

Ander Herrera and Chris Smalling will be back in Premier League action on Saturday - as Manchester United host Newcastle United - at Old Trafford.

Herrera was given a week off by United boss Jose Mourinho.

"After so many matches Herrera deserved to have a week off," said Mourinho, who also gave United defender and England outcast Smalling - left out of England's friendlies against Brazil and Germany - time off.

United, who face six games in 17 days, are set to see the return of Paul Pogba and Marcos Rojo following injury.

Mourinho is hopeful that Pogba and Rojo will return to face Newcastle: "They have to work every day, but they are in a good position now," said Mourinho.

Striker Zlatan Ibrahimovic, sidelined with cruciate ligament injuries, has been pencilled in for a return in late December.

While United have been hit with injury woes their chances of narrowing the gap on league leaders Manchester City have faltered, with Pep Guardiola's side eight points ahead of United, going into their fixture at Leicester on Saturday.

Ex-Barcelona defender Dani Alves has not ruled out a move to City, despite snubbing a summer move to the Etihad, when joining Paris St-Germain: "I was considering going to play for Manchester City," said Alves.

"I don't hide my admiration for Pep and my will to play in the Premier League in the future," said Alves.

Liverpool, whose left-back Alberto Moreno was recalled to the Spain squad for friendlies against Costa Rica and Russia, host Southampton at Anfield on Saturday.

Moreno returned from the international wilderness having started eight Premier League matches and all four of Liverpool's Champions League group stage games this season.

Liverpool midfielder Jordan Henderson, who missed the 4-1 win against West Ham prior to the international break, is set to return after a thigh injury.

Spurs, who meet Arsenal at The Emirates Stadium on Saturday, are hopeful trio Dele Alli, Harry Kane and Harry Winks, who withdrew from the England squad, will return from injury.

Arsenal's Olivier Giroud, Rob Holding, Santi Cazorla, Danny Welbeck and Shkodran Mustafi are nursing injuries at the Emirates.

Struggling West Ham are hoping that David Moyes can turn round their fortunes as they face Premier League relegation on Sunday.

DAVID MOYES: Under the hammer.

United, Real Sociedad and Sunderland boss Moyes after snubs by Carlo Ancelotti, Roberto Mancini and Rafa Benitez, to replace axed Slaven Bilic.

Moyes has yet another mammoth task, underlined with facing Manchester City, Chelsea, Arsenal and Spurs before the new year.

"I've managed five clubs since starting nearly 20 years ago at Preston and I'm hungry to make sure I get things right," said Moyes, whose historic Georgian mansion formerly belonged to Squire Anderton, and has a helicopter pad, private chapel, tennis courts and ancient woodland.

Chelsea boss Antonio Conte has a debacle whether to recall defender David Luiz, dropped for the game against Manchester United prior to the break, when replaced by Andreas Christensen.

Marc Marquez wins fourth MotoGP World title

MARC MARQUEZ has won his fourth World Championship out of the last five after clinching this season's title with a third-placed finish at the Valencia Grand Prix.

In doing so, the 24-year-old has become MotoGP's youngest ever four-time champion.

He started the race in pole position and 21 points ahead of his nearest rival, Andrea Dovizioso, and only needed to finish in the top 11 to seal the crown.

But Ducati's Dovizioso crashed out of the race, won by Marquez's Spanish team-mate

Dani Pedrosa, with Frenchman Johann Zarco in second on his Yamaha

Marquez almost fell

son finale, running wide into a gravel trap with seven laps remaining.

Afterwards he said: "During the race I was trying to be calm and control the situation, but then I thought now it is time to push, because I felt really good.

"In turn one I lost concentration on the break point, I broke too late and, you know, Marquez-style until the end!"

Dovizioso was stuck in fifth place behind teammate Jorge Lorenzo, before both fell a lap after Marquez's wobble.

'T'm happy because we tried until the end, and it was open until 10 laps to the end,'' said the Italian.

"It was really on the limit from the first lap. At the beginning I wanted to overtake Jorge, but in some corners I was slower. So at the end he created a good pace and it was good for me to follow him.

"I was able to stay with them but we were over the limit for all the race. We both did a mistake but we have to be happy about the championship."

Marquez, who has won all his titles with Honda, also becomes the youngest man to win six world motorcycling championships ahead of Italian legend Valentino Rossi, and the first rider in 69 years of Grand Prix events to win at least five races for eight consecutive seasons.

QUALIFIED Advanced Open Water Scuba Diver, Zoe Connolly who successfully defended her Open Water Junior World Oceanman Female World Champion title in 2017 is eyeing further glory.

"I intend to participate in Oceanman for the third time in 2018. I'm going to try my best to maintain my title as World Champion," said Zoe.

"Another goal for 2018 is to achieve Elite Athlete Status, as it will also help me get a place in a Spanish University," said Zoe, who lives in Los Montesinos, Alicante.

"I am also aiming to get into the Spanish team for Fin Swimming. My aim is to win a medal in the Fin Swimming National Championships," said ambitious Portsmouth born Zoe, who has lived in Spain for 10 years.

"Last year I was very close to achieving both goals," said Zoe, who trains in the pool six days a week and also Fin-swims two days a week.

"When I don't do double sessions I go to the gym for an hour, after swimming three times a week," said Zoe, placed first, second or third in every race, with distances from 1,500m to 8km, in the 14 sea races during 2017.

"Each distance has its own difficulties. It always depends on the conditions of the sea," said Zoe.

"The most difficult part of any race is just after the second half, when the lactic acid kicks, and your muscles start aching," said Zoe.

"It's pointless putting extra pressure on. I do my best and have fun. I don't think the experiences make it easier - you still give 110 per cent but it helps you know how to swim it, what speed to go, when to go faster and slower," said Zoe.

"It helps you to be able to control the waves how to orientate yourself - and to not get lost or go off course," said Zoe, who has been the youngest swimmer in a plethora of competitions.

"I wouldn't say it puts extra pressure on me. It motivates me. It's pointless putting extra pressure on yourself, over things you can't control. I just go out there, do my best, and have fun," said Zoe.

"To know, not only am I placed highly in my age group, but also one of the better female swimmers in competition, is a fantastic feeling," said Zoe.

"Every time I finish a race the first question I ask my parents, who are watching is: 'How many girls have come in before me?'."

"My parents signed me up for swimming classes when I was four and swimming has always been for me, without a doubt. I started competing when I was seven and it's been my life ever since," said Zoe.

\*NEXT WEEK: Zoe Connolly reveals the financial costs to compete - with competition costumes costing anything up to  $\in$  400.

Captain fantastic Ramos on the spot as Spain draw with Russia

REAL MADRID captain Sergio Ramos scored twice from the penalty spot as Spain were held to a 3-3 draw against next year's World Cup hosts Russia

Costa del Sol

It is the first time that Spain has conceded more than two goals since they were beaten 5-1 by the Netherlands in the opening game of their 2014 World Cup campaign.

Spain raced into the lead in the ninth minute after Barcelona's Jordi Alba got on the end of a Marco Asensio cross to head the ball home.

They were put further ahead in the 35th minute when Real Madrid captain Ramos converted from the spot after Daler Kuzyaev's handball, before Fyodor Smolov pulled one back for the hosts before half-time.

The hosts were level soon after the break after a fine finish from Lokomotiv Moscow midfielder Aleksei Miranchuk.

Ramos was then fouled in the box in the 53rd minute, but picked himself up and went the opposite way with his second penalty to put the visitors back in front, but they were pinned back late on with Smolov's second to finish the scoring.

La Roja enjoyed 65 per cent of possession but couldn't break down the impressive hosts, who could have had a victory themselves but for an excellent late save from Manchester United's David de Gea.

The result extends Spain's unbeaten run this year to 10 games ahead of next year's World Cup.

RAMOS celebrates with his teammates after scoring from the spot.
