Sacking vote collapses

TWO parties are at loggerheads over a failed bid to oust Nerja's mayor.

The Partido Popular (PP) and Ciudadanos are now caught up in a war of words after failing to agree terms for a vote of no confidence in Mayor Rosa Arrabal.

Ciudadanos called the PP "theatrical," while they in turn were accused of breaking a proposed agreement "unilaterally."

The PP further claimed Ciudadanos walked away from negotiations after learning three of their councillors would still face investigation over their alleged part in an illegal landfill should the no confidence vote succeed.

Drought aid agreed

THE Junta de Andalucia will provide subsidies for irrigators who use recycled water.

The initiative is designed to compensate farmers after they are being hit with a new round of water restrictions from tomorrow (Friday).

Irrigators will be given financial incentives for using recycled water from sewage plants at Algarrobo and Velez-Malaga after La Viñuela reservoir dropped to 22.7 per cent of its capacity.

Water shortages have already begun to affect crop yield and the Junta has shown it is keen to avoid further losses to the €300 million industry.

Vultures die after poisoning

By John Smith

Tens of griffon vultures have been poisoned in the Sierra de Zafarrava.

It comes after an officer from SEPRONA - the Guardia Civil's nature protection branch - spotted a number of the huge birds flying with difficulty.

When he arrived at the spot where he had seen the birds in the Sierra de Zafarraya in Granada he discovered that they were all dead.

And it has now been confirmed that they were poisoned.

A police official said that this is one of the most horrific attacks on vulnerable local wildlife in the past 10 years and the Seprona is doing all that it can to track down the culprit after investigators discovered a number of poisoned baits in the vicinity.

The dead vultures were sent to the Centre for Analysis and Diagnosis of the Wildlife in Malaga City and there is a possibility that the person responsible may be discovered.

It is believed more than likely that the birds consumed poisoned lamb or mutton meat and based on a similar case some years ago, it may be possible to isolate the DNA of the sheep and match that with records of local sheep.

What particularly enrages environmentalists is that Griffon Vultures are carrion eaters, consuming flesh from dead animals and generally do not hunt and kill domestic animals such as sheep or goats.

LA VIÑUELA: Scene of the gruesome find.

A POLICE probe has been launched after a human skull was found by a dog.

The alarm was raised by a resident of La Viñuela, whose pet brought it to his home after digging in a nearby field.

Guardia Civil investigators swooped on the scene and confirmed that the remains were human, sparking a search for the remaining bones.

The skull - which police say is complete - has been sent to a specialised forensic laboratory as detectives aim to determine the age, sex, race and cause of death.

Holidays extend weekend

SPAIN is looking forward to two national holidays. Next Wednesday marks Spanish Constitution Day, but in the wake of controversy surrounding Catalonian independence, the public holiday may have a different feel to other years.

Traditionally, the day is one of national pride, with plenty of patriotic displays.

Yet with the constitution and the national flag now widely seen as a symbol of Spanish repression in Cataluña, the anniversary could be used as an opportunity for further defiance from the region.

Another public holiday takes place next Friday, with many Spaniards taking the Thursday off to enjoy a five-day weekend. The December 8 holiday is a Catholic event, known as the Feast of the Immaculate Conception.

It is an ideal time to visit one of the many Christmas markets springing up around the country since it is typically viewed to mark the start of the festive season.

SPANISH FACTS OF LIFE...39

In the build up to Christmas, hordes of Spaniards spend hours queuing outside to buy tickets for El Gordo, the €2.3 billion festive lottery that has become the richest draw in the world.

Feeling lucky?

FULL OF HOPE: A queue of people waiting to buy lottery tickets in Puerta del Sol, Madrid.

'EL GORDO' - or the 'the fat one' - is the nickname given to Spain's unique annual Christmas lottery, also known as el Sorteo Extraordinario de Navidad.

According to state figures, around 70 per cent of the population take part each year, with each person spending an average of ≤ 60 on tickets, while the total prize money in 2017 is forecast to be ≤ 2.38 billion.

The draw started more than 200 years ago in 1812, and is held every year on December 22 at the Teatro Real de Madrid in Madrid.

A group of 40 children, aged between eight and 14, from the Colegio de San Ildefonso school in Segovia are chosen to select the numbers each year. The school used to be an orphanage and the winners of the lottery traditionally donate a portion of their winnings to the school. Many people flock to watch the ball be drawn live, with many dressing up in lottery-themed clothing for luck.

The numbers are drawn from two giant golden drums, one with the numbers of the lottery tickets and another with the prize amount, and the children traditionally sing the results as they're drawn.

The prize fund is split among thousands of prizes ranging in value. Unlike other traditional lotteries, it's not possible to pick your own numbers. When you buy a ticket, the number is already printed on it and can range from 00000 to 99999. A full 'billete,' or ticket sheet, costs €200, but most people buy a 10th of a ticket, or a 'decimo,' for €20; meaning they win a 10th of the prize money allocated to the winning number. This can be split up further into 'participaciones' worth €1.

A fat chance

IT is not uncommon for people in the same location to win at the same time if they buy 'decimos' or 'participaciones' from the same place. Last year the first prize of €4 million was split between 10 people who all bought their tickets from the same lottery shop in Madrid.

In 2011, all but one of the 250 residents in the tiny Spanish village of Sodeto won a share of €120 million, take water readings. The technology, supplied by Danish company Kamstrup, is aimed to prevent water loss from leaks and breakdowns. The move is hoped to save €45,000 a year.

Crisis deepens

'Spain has lived as if it were water rich'

DRY AS A BONE: The Entrepeñas reservoir, the Tajo-Segura transfer (inset left) and its course (inset right).

By Matt Ford THE longest river in the Iberian Peninsula is drving up.

It comes as a series of dramatic images showing the extent of the crisis gripping the Tagus river emerged.

Known as the Tajo in Spain and Tejo in Portugal, the river rises in Aragon, northern Spain passing close to Madrid before forming a length of the border with Portugal and eventually emptying into the sea at Lisbon.

Along its 1,000 kilometre length it is dammed 51 times, but its current problems arise at the headwaters

And they are likely to exert a knock-on effect in expatriate strongholds on the Mediterranean slope.

Constructed between 1966 and 1979, the 292-kilometre Tagus-Segura transfer is a concrete canal designed to carry water from the upper Tagus to the Segura river basin, where it is used to irrigate crops in Alicante, Murcia and Almeria.

But much of the channel is open to the air, meaning tens of thousands of litres of water are lost to evaporation before reaching their destination.

Environmental organisation Greenpeace this week published a scathing report on water management in Spain, as the country continues to battle its worst drought for two decades.

The study, entitled Drought, Something More Than a Lack of Rain, concludes that 75 per cent of Spain is at risk of becoming a desert and claims that "the problem is not drought, but robbery."

According to the report, the national government "has not worked to mitigate dry periods' and Spain has instead "lived and legislated as if it were a waterrich country.'

The Entrepeñas reservoir in Guadalajara near Madrid is one of the sources of the Taio-Segura transfer, but currently sits below 10 per cent of capacity, with local villages forced to ship drinking water in by lorry.

OUR VIEW It's time to save water

THE ongoing water shortage is a crisis that has been lurking in Spain's shadow for decades. But the country appears to have no plan or will to deal with it.

And as a Greenpeace report claims that Spain has 'lived and legislated as if it were a water-rich country,' then it certainly appears time to address a problem which is long in need of a solution.

As reservoirs lie at their lowest levels since the 1990s, and state weather office AEMET forecasts a mild and dry winter, a natural fix may not be close at hand after the third driest year on record behind 1981 and 2005.

Ill-advised infrastructure projects such as the Tajo-Segura transfer, largely created during General Franco's era, are wasteful and woefully inadequate for a country as rich as Spain. Golf courses and public green spaces are typically irrigated with drinking water, while a number of towns and cities continue to pump raw sewage into rivers including the Tagus and Ebro.

As climate change continues to show that it is far from a future problem, Spain must find a way to use its precious water resources more efficiently or suffer the inevitable consequences brought about by a perfect storm of rapidlywarming planet, over-exploited aquifiers and unchecked pollution.

What is clear is that connecting more river basins by building pipelines, canals and dams is not the answer.

ALMUÑECAR Council will mark International Disabled People's Day with a series of events starting from 11am in Plaza de la Constitucion this Sunday and continuing at the Social Services Centre on Monday.

THE MEMBERS: Held a minute's silence.

€9m loan agreed

ALMUÑECAR Council has approved a loan to save interest on payments.

The town hall has changed the way it will pay suppliers, saving 5 per cent and gaining a two-year grace period on payments.

Councillor for Finance, Antonio Laborda, explained, "since payments began in 2012, we have paid off \notin 23 million and still have another \notin 9 million to pay with an interest rate of 6 per cent," adding, "with the agreement made in the council session we went down to a 1 per cent interest payment."

The councillor added the twoyear grace period would "mean more liquidity for the municipal coffers...we will be in a more comfortable situation."

He explained the vote had been taken at an extraordinary council meeting as a matter of urgency, "because on Monday December 27 we must present the financial conditions" for the loan to the Ministry of Finance.

The council session ended with all the members holding a minute's silence at the proposal of the mayor, Trinidad Herrera, 'in tribute and memory to the victims of gender,' as the council honoured International Day Against Gender Violence.

Time for the big moment

ALMUÑECAR and La Herradura's Christmas lights will be switched on tomorrow (Friday).

Scheduled to kick off at 6.30pm, the main event in Almuñecar will take place in Plaza de la Constitucion and is to feature a performance from children's choir, Arcos de Torrecuevas.

The group will perform a medley of classic Christmas carols under the direction of Pedro Hernandez.

In La Herradura, a separate gathering will be held in Plaza de la Independencia.

This will be at 8pm and feature an exhibition and awards ceremony for the winners of this year's Christmas card competition, organised by the mayor's office and Las Gaviotas public school.

At 8.30pm, the municipal nativity scene will be blessed by parish priest Nestor in the exhibition hall of the civic centre, backed by the Coro la Salinera choir.

The nativity can be visited from 9am to 2pm and 4pm to 10pm Monday to Friday and 10am to 1.30pm on Saturdays.

It is financed by the mayor's office with collaboration from the Parish of San Jose and the La Herradura Brotherhood.

DENIAL: Malaga's fire brigade denies negligence.

Fire strikers defend absence

FIREFIGHTERS in Malaga have been forced to defend their decision not to battle blazes.

Sixty firemen are on trial for abandonment of public service and denying assistance after failing to work when five fires broke out on the same day in June.

Their union blamed the incident on 'disorganisation suffered by the service and poor media management.'

The union added there was not an appropriate system in place to deal with fires while on strike, claiming, 'while other cities such as Torremolinos or Sevilla have a system in place to ensure firefighters off work are available in case of emergency, Malaga prefers to rely on improvisation in response to these situations.'

The spokesman added: "there is no rule, regulation or law by which firefighters in Malaga are obliged to be on the phone and available 24 hours a day, 365 days a year," adding, "although the idea that the firefighters have neglected their obligations has been put forward by some, this is flatly false and will be seen at trial."

The strike had been ongoing in the province for nine months, leading to a potential criminal case for the 60 firefighters who ignored calls.

TORROX Council is offering reduced ticket prices for the basketball Moscow Euroleague due to an agreement between the Provincial Council, Malaga Basketball Club and the Torrox Basketball Club.

Take a hike

VELEZ-MALAGA Council has organised several mountaineering events. The climbing and hiking routes took place in the Sierras Tejeda, Almijara and Alhama.

Fair time

TORROX will host its third annual Christmas fair from December 5 to 10 in the Malaga Lonja Horto, offering the largest craft souk on the Costa del Sol, according to its organisers.

NERJA: Still has a sewage problem.

Sewage works stall again

NERJA'S beleaguered sewage plant remains unfinished.

The Junta de Andalucia has accepted works are still stalled after seven months despite recent statements suggesting the project had started again. A statement put out by the Junta has stated it will find a solution to complete the works 'in the shortest possible time.'

After sources last month confirmed the project was once again underway following a six-month hiatus, the Ministry of the Environment has released a statement saying it is still trying to find a construction company to carry out the work.

In a letter published on October 13, it said, 'The Ministry of the Environment is holding periodic meetings with the business group with a view to launching the most viable alternative in the shortest time possible, although no other construction company has yet to answer in the completion of the work by administrative transfer of the same.'

In September, it was revealed that following pressure from the Association of Entrepreneurs of Nerja, the Ministry of the Environment had agreed a scheme to fund and manage the works.

Farm thefts increase

A GROUP of farmers has asked for help to tackle a spate of crop thefts.

An association is asking security services to work together more to prevent further crime after theft of olives and mangoes has caused economic loss to Axarquia.

The Association of Young Farmers (Asaja) has reported thefts reduced by 29 per cent in the first quarter of the year thanks to work by the police but it is now calling on institutions to work together to completely eradicate the problem.

The Guardia Civil is meeting with other security forces and staff from the Junta de Andalucia's Department for Agriculture and the Environment every week to exchange information.

Asaja has told these bodies it is willing to help out and has also reminded farmers to report thefts as soon as possible so the police are able to do their jobs as effectively as possible.

The combination of scarce water resources and rising avocado prices has seen crop thefts become a regular occurrence.

Avocados are now worth more than €3 a kilo, with one farmer telling police almost €1,000 kilos of avocados had been stolen from his farm in Torrox.

Farmers in Velez-Malaga have also reported thefts of the crop.

There is of course no guarantee that the company will still be trading in 3017 or that descendants of bond holders will still be around.

Uber ethics under question

UBER, the private hire company which is surrounded by controversy, may face an EU fine of up to \notin 20 million if they fail to alert consumers to security breaches again.

30 November - 6 December 2017

STAT OF WEEK

The company which has seen its licence to operate rescinded in London and taxi drivers all over Spain striking because of its presence, recently admitted that it had been hacked and lost data covering 57 million customers and drivers.

This is not the first, nor likely to be the last, group to have information compromised in this way, but what has horrified regulators around the world is that it kept the hacking secret for more than a year after reportedly paying a ransom of $100,000 (\in 84,000) to the hackers to have the data deleted.

It is claimed by the company that no financial information had been taken and the head of security has since been dismissed with offers of assistance being made to drivers but nothing to customers whose information was taken.

A new General Data Protection Regulation is due to be enacted by the EU early next year which will require that companies have to notify data regulators about a breach within 72 hours of becoming aware of a hack.

In the event that they don't, then they can be fined 4 per cent of their global annual turnover or €20 million whichever is higher.

USA to tax olive imports

DESPITE the recent warm meeting between Mariano Rajoy and Donald Trump, 'Olivegate' continues to be a problem and could result in annual import duties of up to €4.3 million. Following a complaint from Californian olive growers that Spanish exporters were receiving unfair subsidies of between 2.3 and 7.2 per cent, the US Commerce Department has agreed and will impose equivalent import duties on ripe Spanish olives entering America.

Although the duties have been announced, it has been decided the matter is subject to final ratification in May 2018 alongside a number of other new duties aimed at protecting American producers.

Quote of the Week The challenge for us as a nation is to prove them wrong," said British Chancellor Philip Hammond after the Office for Budget Responsibility slashed its 2017 growth forecast from 2 per cent to 1.5 per cent.

Pakistan promotes EU trade

THE Commercial Counsellor of the Embassy of Pakistan in Spain returned to Islamabad to encourage local businessmen to expand their exports to the EU using Spain as a base. He made it clear that Spain was an ideal partner both as a stepping stone for exports and as a customer for IT and marble products in particular.

Advising those attending a meeting at the Islamabad Chamber of Commerce and Industry (ICCI), Counsellor Dr Muhammad Hamid Ali observed that the Mobile World Congress would be held in Barcelona next February and urged that the Pakistani business community of relevant sectors should take active participation in this event to explore new business opportunities.

In addition it was suggested that as law and order had become much stronger in Pakistan that inward investment from Spain should also be encouraged and that the Pakistan Embassy and the ICCI would consider ways of assisting exporters to encourage increased trade with Spain.

» business extra Bank jobs

SANTANDER Bank has reduced the number of redundancies that it expects to make following the takeover of Banco Popular from 1,585 to 1,384. Whilst this has been welcomed by the unions, they have asked the bank to consider keeping more staff in work.

Price drop

DESPITE the fact that the average cost of luxury properties in Barcelona has dropped by 20 per cent, the actual market has collapsed by 50 per cent. This figure has been calculated by estate agents Barnes and covers the six weeks since the Catalan referendum.

EU support

THE European Union, taking into account the potential financial losses to the Spanish economy since the Catalan crisis has accepted the forecasts for the next two years may be reduced. There is no plan to threaten penalties if this is the case.

Giving Tuesday suggested

FORGET Black Friday says Giving Tuesday, a global movement supported by ecologists in Spain who last year raised €558,617 for 321 projects. The concept that they have is that the Tuesday following Thanksgiving should celebrate the action of giving food, money, time, second-hand objects or even blood to those worse off than oneself. Pound reacts to budget & Brexit, EUR fluctuates on German concerns STAYING on top of the latest currency news can help you time your transfers more effectively, so find out what you should be looking out for over the next couple of weeks...

Latest currency news

The pound lost much of its strength at the beginning of November, but GBP was able to rebound from its lowest levels as the month progressed. Over the past two weeks GBP/EUR has trended between a high of €1.13 and a nine-week low of €1.10.

GBP/USD, meanwhile, has seen even choppier trading, moving between lows of US$1.30 and a three-week high of US$1.32.

Over the same period, EUR/GBP fluctuated between £0.88 and £0.90 while EUR/USD ranged from US$1.16 to US$1.18.

What's been happening?

The pound has largely recovered from the significant GBP sell-off inspired by the November 2 Bank of England (BoE) interest rate decision.

Although the central bank increased interest rates at the November gathering, policymakers made it clear that borrowing costs wouldn't be increased again for a considerable period, leading to widespread pound losses. Political scandals also rocked market confidence in the government and its ability to deliver a smooth Brexit, further weakening the pound. Theresa May was faced with mounting pressure from within her own party to sack Foreign Secretary Boris Johnson and Secretary for International Development Priti Patel following separate diplomatic incidents, Then it emerged that 40 Tory MPs were prepared to sign a letter of no confidence in May. Since then positive Brexit news has given the pound a lift, with hopes that trade negotiations could progress bolstered by reports the UK plans to up its offer to the EU for the Brexit bill.

The UK Autumn Budget turned out to be a bit of a non-event, having little impact on GBP exchange rates.

The euro, meanwhile, was caught between positive economic data and a less rosy outlook for monetary policy. The latest Eurozone data continues to largely suggest that the currency bloc economy is in robust health and is headed for its strongest year of growth since the financial crisis. However, the European Central Bank (ECB) is unlikely to make any positive adjustments to monetary policy for some time, somewhat limiting the euro's strength.

The euro also came under pressure in response to the news that German coalition talks collapsed, leaving the nation without a working government two months after the election.

What do you need to look out for?

Over the next couple of weeks, the euro will be responsive to any political developments in Germany.

If it looks as though the nation will have to head to the polls again, the euro could be pressured lower.

The pound, meanwhile, could climb if it looks as though UK/EU trade negotiations will finally get underway.

UK data to look out for includes the nation's consumer confidence figure and Markit's Manufacturing PMI, while the Eurozone is set to publish inflation figures and German employment data.

BBVA TESTS BLOCKCHAIN New technology could speed up commerce

NEW technology is being tested by BBVA which could speed up international transactions by days rather than hours.

Many payments are made by use of a letter of credit which requires a great deal of physical work to actually set up and if there are any errors in the document then payment may be withheld.

In the case of an agreement between a Barcelona-based company and a Mexican company for the purchase of 25 tons of frozen tuna, the bank issued the letter of credit using Blockchain technology.

By allowing digital information to be distributed but not copied, Blockchain technology created the backbone of a new type of internet. Originally devised for the digital currency, Bitcoin, the tech community is now finding other potential uses for the technology.

Initially, the most well-known example of Blockchain technology was Bitcoin the computer generated currency

BLOCKCHAIN: IEEE Computer Society Techlgnite conference 2017.

EWN online Tweet us your opinions @euroweeklynews which started as being worth less than the cost of a pizza and is now a whisker away from $10,000 (€8,377) for a single coin.

Analysts believe that using the Blockchain procedures, a whole new and more efficient form of secure internet connectivity could be achieved in the not too distant future and this test by BBVA Bank is a major step forward in international commerce. In this particular transaction, the entire documentation was completed in just two and a half hours rather than the normal seven to 10 days that a traditional letter of credit would take to be completed.

Not only was the activity safe and made the entire transaction much more efficient, it allowed all parties to be able to view the documentation at the same time and to note any changes in delivery.

Spain is particularly advanced in the use of new and developing technology and a recent European Union report which was very critical of the level of unemployment in Spain acknowledged that the number of students studying computers and programming was high and they were leaving university with much-needed skills and in demand.

This innovative test by the bank could well pave the way for a massive increase in the use of Blockchain technology to speed up worldwide commerce.

Congress expected to approve new payment law

A LAW proposed by the Ciudadanos political party which could see fines as high as €819,780 for late payment of invoices is expected to be approved by Congress.

Research suggests that the larger the company, the later that payment is made and in some cases it can take as long as 120 days when the legal requirement is to settle within 60 days.

Within the European Union, late payment occurs with 30 per cent of purchasers but in Spain the number is believed to be as high as 60 per cent which can have a crippling effect on the cash flow of smaller companies.

Persistent offenders will face fines ranging from €406 to €819,780.

PROPOSED URANIUM MINE STILL CLOSED Greens oppose opening

THE Spanish arm of Australian mining corporation Berkeley has had an appeal against an environmental group stymying its €454 million uranium project rejected.

A Madrid court reviewed a number of complaints raised by the company against Ecologistas en Acción and political party Equo which had started a legal attempt in 2016 to stop the company from operating an open cast mine in Retortillo, Salamanca.

According to the environmentalists, the mining company's environmental assessment failed to recognise that the uranium processing activities and nuclear debris disposal at the mine could potentially cause health problems to the residents of surrounding towns.

Berkeley had seen a previous appeal rejected by the judges at the court of National Audience and the current decision highlighted the fact that the presentation was weak in defending its position and was similar to the previously rejected appeal.

The proposed mine is a major financial opportunity for the company which Berkeley has stated will show significant profits in the long run, especially as the local area has benefited from EU development funding and therefore initial investment is lower than normal.

According to its forecasts, the company expects to produce 4.4 million pounds of uranium each year for the next 10 years and will make between $5 \in (\le 4.21)$ and \$21 (≤ 17.70) per pound over that period.

There is already a ready demand for material from the mine, if it gets the go-ahead, as it has entered into a non-binding agreement with the Korea Electric Power Corporation (KEPCO) to cede 35 per cent of its uranium activity in Salamanca in exchange for a $70 million (€59 million) investment. In addition, there has been a further investment of $120 million (\in 101 million)in the project from the Sultanate of Oman which means that the approval for the opening of what will be the largest open uranium mine in Europe is attracting a great deal of interest worldwide.

On one hand the environmentalists are fighting against the mine which is close to a river and a protected area as well as a number of towns, whilst the company is anxious to start converting its investment into hard cash.

Politicians are also involved in the debate with a Podemos spokesman suggesting that the Castilla and Leon authorities would make things easy for the opening of the mine whilst the president of the Junta has responded that he has no personal opinions about the opening of the mine other than wishing to ensure that the entire project respects the law.

Should do better

BASED on information collected across Europe in 2016, the EU acknowledges that whilst Spain's economy is improving, it could do better.

Although it acknowledges that many countries, especially those in the east of the Union, are suffering from significant problems with unemployment it has highlighted Spanish inequality in income and the consistently high number of young unemployed.

As the economy continues to improve and unemployment drops (often due to part-time contracts) Spain still has the second highest number of unemployed at 17.3 per cent after Greece at 21.6 per cent.

Youth unemployment however at 40 per cent in Spain compares exceptionally badly in comparison with the EU average of 18.7 per cent whilst the average age of school leavers continues to drop.

Losing mental capacity whilst living abroad

MANY UK expatriates living in Spain own properties in the UK and have pensions and investments in the UK. They rely on their UK assets to maintain their lifestyles (and those of their families) in Spain. If they can no longer manage their affairs in the UK due to a loss of mental capacity, it can cause many difficulties.

You can choose a person or people, who you trust, to act for you when you are no longer able.

The best way to avoid the legal and practical difficulties that can occur with the loss of mental capacity is to plan for it in advance by drawing up a document called a 'Lasting Power of Attorney' ('LPA').

An LPA must be made while you have full mental capacity.

What is an LPA?

An LPA is a legal document that enables you to appoint one or more attorneys to act for you when you are no longer able to act for yourself. Your attorney can be a professional, such as a solicitor or a family member or friend.

There are two types of LPA: 'Health and Welfare' or 'Property and Financial Affairs'

An LPA must be made while you have full mental capacity. It is therefore important to make one while you are in good health.

Why should you get an LPA?

You can choose a person or people, who you trust, to act for you when you are no longer able.

If you lose your mental capacity and do not have an LPA, then your family (or the authorities) will have no choice but to make an application to the Court of Protection to appoint a 'deputy' to look after your affairs, which can be time consuming and costly.

Will my LPA be recognised in Spain? Unfortunately there is no international type of LPA which is guaranteed to work in both the UK and Spain.

The advice we give to our clients at Stone King, is that if you have assets in both Spain and the UK, your only safe option is to appoint attorneys in both jurisdictions.

LEAPY LEE SAYS IT OTHERS THINK IT

IT See

APPARENTLY, the term Black Friday refers to the chance for businesses to get back into profit (black ink) after being in the red for the rest of the year. Ah well, each to his own.

The only thing that has surprised me, is that some luvvie committee or another has not declared the term to be somehow non-PC! Well just about everything else has. This past week really has taken the whole ridiculous tin. Caring surgeon Colin Baillie was chastised when he praised a toddler's father for acting 'manfully.'

The child's Mother accused him of 'promoting sexism' and demanded an apology from the surgeon's bosses. Girl Guide leader advisors ruled that teenage boys who identify as girls would be allowed to use the girls' changing rooms and showers. (Probably one of the best excuses for declaring gender confusion to date!).

A woman was banned from giving a University lecture because she, quite acceptably, stated that young children, who are somewhat sexually confused, should not immediately be labelled as transgender. A terror suspect was awarded thousands of pounds in legal aid to overturn his travel ban, as it prevented him taking his children to a

I DIANE ABBOT: 'The savvy of a senile sea sponge.'

(non-halal!) McDonald's. The whole, almost unbelievable debacle simply went on and on. We learned that re-arrested child killer and monster Jon Venables, has cost the taxpayer over five million pounds for his 'rehabilitation'! Another scintillating snippet told us that last year, every six seconds, an immigrant won the right to stay in the UK (and they were only non-EU individuals!). And of course, the greatest humdinger of all, the woman who wanted Sleeping Beauty banned because she considered the Prince, kissing the sleeping beauty without her permission, was tantamount to sexual assault! Sorry love chucking a bucket of water over her royal highness, just doesn't have the quite the same romantic ring to it. Oh no it doesn't. You really couldn't make it all up, could you?

The only true bit of sanity to emerge this week was the doubling of Oscar Pistorius's laughable sentence for the brutal murder of his girlfriend Reeva Steenkamp. I always said the whole case involving this spoiled psychopathic brat, was a struggle of money and power versus justice and was delighted to see the rule of law finally emerged as the victor in this previously unsatisfactory example of the South African legal system.

'Dumb, Dumber' award of the week has to go to the producers who selected Diane Abbot to partner the razor-sharp Paul Merton on 'Have I Got a Bit More News for you.' This awful, incompetent political pretender, proved that with the personality of a plank and the savvy of a senile sea sponge, she could probably lose any future election of the Labour movement totally unaided. Sitting there with a blank, albeit slightly panicked expression (ala her mathematical budget gaffe) she was an embarrassment to all concerned.

Keep at it love, the way you're going, you could possibly get more votes for the Conservatives than Theresa May (the way things are going, not that difficult!).

Fake it till you make it

MY favourite TripAdvisor review, for a really appalling hotel, said its best feature was the car park. And that was written by the manager.

Well no, it wasn't. But it could have been, because it turns out shock, horror - that by one professional estimate, up to 40 per cent of all online reviews are fake.

There's even a new word for it: astroturfing, or 'the deceptive practice of presenting an orchestrated marketing or public relations campaign in the guise of unsolicited comments from members of the public.' In simpler words: 'Will lie for cash.'

A recent trawl by an American consultancy unearthed 650 reviewers who had posted 40,000 fake reviews involving up to 6,000 businesses. Produce a new product or service and just over €4 buys you a good review.

In the early days you could pretty much count on a review being genuine. So much so that when a couple logged a terrible review of Would you buy a product with a one-star review? No, neither would Terence Kennedy, but you might both be wrong

FAKE REVIEWS: Scourge of the internet.

Blackpool's Broadway Hotel ('a rotten stinking hovel'), the hotelier was deluged by bad publicity after adding a $\pm 100 \ (\pm 112)$ fine to their bill for reputational damage.

Now tens of thousands of more flattering hotel and restaurant reviews are written by the owners themselves. Amazon is struggling under a deluge of fake reviews and has launched more than a thousand rearguard legal actions.

The reviews may be fake, but in another twist to the tale the reviewers themselves often aren't. Companies increasingly pay (okay, bribe) real customers to write good reviews, giving them products, perks and discounts.

Why should it matter to the rest of us? Because the stakes are so high: online, 70 per cent of customers read reviews before buying. Any number of websites offer tips beyond the ability of most of us to perform, to discover whether a review might be real or a rip-off. Google, Amazon and others put their faith in algorithms and Artificial Intelligence to sniff out patterns, serial reviewers and obvious inconsistencies like a whole rash of great reviews coming out just as a product hits the warehouses.

But until someone creates that digital magic bullet, all the rest of us can do is sample as many reviews as we can to glean what might or might not be a realistic assessment of the product or service under review, take away the review you first thought of, and hope.

Things were so much simpler when a journalist friend managed to sink a truly awful movie about an elephant almost single-handed in his home town. All he wrote was: 'They say elephants never forget. Let us hope they forgive.'

Fake vs funny

ONE thing fake reviews don't do is 'funny.' Little could match this real review of a Kim Kardashian book: 'It's a little uncomfortable, but it doesn't leave pieces behind when you wipe, like other toilet paper brands.'

Would you stay where 'The owner kept trying to sell me the hotel?'

From a 'dissatisfied' buyer: 'I measured the TV and it was actually 104.6 inches not 105 so I returned it.'

An Amazon grocery review for Tuscan Whole Milk: 'Has anyone else tried pouring this stuff over dry cereal? A-W-E-S-O-M-E!'

Or one I confess to writing myself after visiting the lost city of Petra in Jordan: 'The tourist brochure says you approach the ruins, becoming more beautiful the further you go. Well I did, and I didn't.'

It's a complete wind up

WE have inherited a few things from the USA but this Black Friday nonsense is a complete wind up. First of all it's the day after Thanksgiving - a holiday that doesn't even exist in the UK or Spain. Secondly, it goes on for two weeks so it should be called Black Fortnight.

I suppose you could say it's a good time to start your Christmas shopping but I think December 24 is fine for me. In fact, I now prefer to go Christmas shopping after Christmas when the real sales start, not this Black Friday nonsense.

Having said that, my daughter wanted a cordless vacuum cleaner and asked me to research some for her as she is a very busy lady and well, to be honest, I do absolutely nothing. In fact, if doing nothing was a sport, I'd play off scratch. So I got online and typed in 'best cordless vacuum cleaner' and that's when the fun started.

This make, that make, then there's the different models within the makes, then there's the different prices. I get four or five different ones up on screen and it has a comparison feature. This model has loads of tools but needs charging every 30 minutes, another one lasts for 60 minutes without charge but has no tools. Another weighs a bit more than the other two but has got a shoulder strap and on and on it goes.

Then there's the model numbers. Fifteen digit numbers and letters which are impossible to remember and probably even too complicated to use as an Apple password and, believe me, that's saying something! When I was younger you had a Hoover. That was it no different models; just a Hoover. You might have had a choice of colours and every couple of years they might bring out a slightly different model.

I also quite like the Henry. That's simple you went in the shop and asked for it by name. They should just make it a simple model number 1, then 2, then 3 so you can just look at it and know if it's the latest model or not. It ticks me off big time when I buy something and then find out it's a deleted model.

I sent my daughter all the information and said it was now up to her and what did she do? She ordered the only one that didn't have any discount on it and wasn't in the Black Friday sale! KIDS!!

LEGALLY SPEAKING Classic cars in Spain

WE answer some common driving questions, kindly provided by members of the Guardia Civil based in Torrevieja, Costa Blanca, who set up the N332 website and Facebook page to help break down barriers.

I NO RULE CHANGE: Classics subject to same road laws as newer cars.

ROYAL DECREE 1247/1995, deals with the laws for historic vehicles, or classic cars, under article 10 of the circulation rules.

First and foremost, unless rules are specifically in place for this type of vehicle, classic cars are governed by the same laws and rules as normal vehicles, including the requirement of liability insurance.

The rules relating to the technical inspection and registration are also applicable, as per normal vehicles. The period of the technical inspection also remains the same, unless otherwise indicated in the official report.

Those vehicles which, on account of their age or constructive characteristics, do not have lights or indicators as are normally required by law, are not allowed to travel between sunset and sunrise, or in circumstances which would normally require use of lights and indicators.

I read your article in the Euro Weekly News concerning inheritance tax. If I sell my house in Spain for €225,000, how is the CGT paid or can I roll this into another property? M C (by email)

You have left out some important information from your question. So, let us first suppose that you are a non-resident who lives in the European Union. You pay Spanish capital gains tax at 19 per cent. You file Form 210 within 30 days of the sale.

If your profit is \notin 50,000, your tax will be \notin 9,500. If

It's nothing to do with the EU

SIR,

I see Leapy Lee adding weight to the argument that the most ardent Brexiteers are those with least knowledge of the European Union. In his last column he gleefully cites the case of a Somali criminal as absolute justification for leaving the EU because of the decision of the much maligned European Court of Human Rights.

Although it has the word 'European' in its title, this court is NOT an EU body, and is part of an entirely different legal system to the European Court of Justice with which it is constantly confused.

It was set up after the war by the Council of Europe to uphold the Convention of Human Rights and in fact the UK was one of the first members to ratify the Convention when it passed through Parliament in 1951.

The EU has actually decided not to be bound by the rulings of the European Court of Human Rights

Gibraltar 'to fall out of the single market'

'Blow for the UK leaving the EU!' You are totally mistaken! It is a blow for EU, UK leaving the EU! That is the reason that EU put up all the obstructions, they can find, in the 'Brexit' negotiations! They know, that UK leaving the sinking ship, will mean the beginning to the end, for EU! Carsten Thorvald

It's a blow for everyone Carsten Thorvald but it will be a bigger mistake for the UK singularly and every indicator is showing this to be the case - nothing positive is jumping out to show us that leave is the way forward. As for sinking ship, well all the predictions of collapse, capitulation and other members queing up to leave haven't transpired and if anything Brexit has galvanised the other members to stick together. Obstructions? The EU negotiators have made it clear what is required to move this forward, the obstructions to progress are internal caused by a divided government that is wasting more time and energy from belligerent in-fighting, and power positioning. The only ship sinking is the Brittania! Comments from EWN online

Best place. Can keep track and process... well done at least they know where they are and if not eligible for staying they can be returned from whence they came.

Susannah Washington Spain is battling this type of immigration virtually on its own. Eleven thousand arrived in boats on the shores of southern Spain this year alone to date. The problem is the trafficking mafias in their home countries, that is where the solutions should start.

Passengers 'quarantined' after flight from Spain

Better still, a dab of Vaseline in each nostril will catch the germs. Most throat and chest problems are caught when breathing through the nose. I always take a cotton handkerchief with tea tree oil on it and inhale it regularly, as it's antibacterial. I do this in hospitals as well.

Just returned from trip to UK and back. I think I have picked up every germ on those planes. People will get on, sit down and put the air-con on... Don't they realise that just spreads everyone's germs around.

Clare Lloyd Wear a mask on every trip. The amount of people that have nasty colds when flying to and fro from the UK is terrible. The air circulation/aircon units are crap.... Thank god I don't fly these days...

Editor's note: This is correct, and was noted by other readers. The error slipped through due to pressing deadlines in the editing process, and we apologise.

What a puzzle!

A reader wrote in asking for puzzle answers to be printed the same week, sparking a deluge of replies. Here is a selection.

The case for...

I THINK putting puzzle solutions in the same week as set would be a bad move, as often I find that the answer is so obvious I wonder why it took me so long. If you get a majority response to include answers, will you please put them on a different page so that they are not seen accidentally!

Les Johnston, address withheld

REGARDING the letter from Norman (November 23-29) - no, no, no - please DON'T publish the answers to the puzzles in the same issue, it takes all the fun away! Sometimes it can take me two-three days to complete the cryptic crossword and people should have a little patience to wait for the answers to be given the following week.

Barbara, Alhaurin de la Torre

...and against

I AM one of the loads of people and I definitely agree with last week's reader! It is infuriating not to be able to check the answers to the puzzles immediately. I particularly like the crosswords and even using a dictionary I cannot find one or two of the answers so have to wait.

Muriel, Algorfa

I AM writing with regard to the puzzle answers being printed in the same issue. My partner and I take two papers every week so that we can each do the Codebreaker and puzzle. We both feel that it would be much easier for most of us if the solutions were in the same issue, obviously printed on a different page, otherwise we might peek.

(July 24 - August 23) Consider what is the most important thing to you at the moment? Is it wealth or social position? Your work, or how it may be possible to afford that new conservatory are minor considerations compared with vour greatest asset which is your health

the case

(February 20 - March 20) Pat yourself on the back for all of your efforts of recent weeks. Looking back just a few months, would you have thought so much progress could be made? Because of your efforts, home life is enhanced and you are more appreciated. Give yourself a break at the weekend and do something with a loved one that you have not done together for some time.

Rarely has your mind been as sharp as it is at the moment. There have been some awkward and downright bad periods in the recent past, but this week everything falls into place. Why, you wonder, have you worried so much about things which could not be changed?

For all of the things that you want to do, there are three others that you wish to do. Maybe they are waiting for their own time to come. During the course of this week you will be thinking of what the future could hold, even though dealing with practical issues.

When it isn't possible to change something, often it is just as effective to rearrange it. That is the solution which comes to you this week. Instead of being frustrated at a delay, try changing the conditions or times. This may mean that you save money or delay a payment to your advantage.

When we have long-standing friendships, these are often taken for granted and yet often we could make so much more of them.

VIRGO (August 24 - September 23)

As the saying goes, 'no one ever said it would be easy'. In the past few months you have found this to be true. Hard work is not alien to you, but there is a point where you want to shout 'enough'. It may be that business or home life needs some rearranging, or that someone is moving job and the routine is severely disrupted.

(September 24 - October 23) As a home-loving Libran, you are torn between making changes to your surroundings and getting some cash in on the business side. Apparently, it is not possible to do both because energy levels fluctuate.

(October 24 - November 22)

There is so much in you that is determined and looking forward to a fresh start, but something that you are trying to get rid of, or give up, may be giving you more trouble than anticipated. Some things have to be done alone, or so you think, but others have gone through this before you so they are able to give support.

Is playing the waiting game really to your advantage? Your Sagittarian character naturally leads you to be optimistic, and why not? Even so, it won't hurt to hurry someone along rather than having them go at their own pace. Bear in mind that, in letting someone get away with sloppiness, you are doing them no favours at all.

(December 22 - January 20) The enthusiasm of your bright Capricorn mind is also capable of making you restless. There are mixed feelings about being at or near home this week, with thoughts of more progress being possible elsewhere. Your need to make things better for those round you may not make you money but it can bring great joy.

Sticking the knife into poncey, chefy 'theatre on a plate'

Nora Johnson Breaking Views

THE 'sainted Delia' (Smith) was recently roundly attacked online for complaining that: "Cooking has become very poncey, very chefy. If I get one more plate put in front of me with six dots of sauce on it, I will go mad."

Personally, I can't stand Michelin-style minute portions, the emphasis being on minute, with artfully arranged drizzles of coloured spots or smeary daubs.

I go out to eat, not admire the lavish plate decoration when more time's plainly been spent on appearance than on how the food tastes. And don't get me started on seasonal tasting menus with wine flight - I'd have more fun at the chiropodist, getting my corns removed. If I get served one more, I'll have the chef up before The Hague...

The problem with presentday cookery that we see on shows like 'Masterchef' is the idea of deconstruction. This turns food into something less about the pleasure of eating, more about the chef's creativity. 'Good' cooking invariably reflects the established ways of making the dishes.

That's why old-fashioned TV chefs like Keith Floyd were so much fun to watch. He wasn't a creative genius 'SIX DOTS OF SAUCE': Michelin-style food and (inset) critic Delia Smith.

but was devoted to tasty dishes made traditionally.

Nowadays, everything's rushed: chopping, pressure cooking, pan frying, pre-cooking in a water bath. What's become of long slow roasts, braising, stews? Chefs produce 'theatre on a plate,' traditional cooks produce tasty, comforting food full of flavours and tantalising smells.

But that's 'reality' TV for you: everything's instantaneous. A garden can be 'made over' in days, an entire house in a week. Unlike in real life ...

Benny Hill had it right. Diner sees sign in Diner: 'Home Cooking Just Like Mother Made.' Diner orders meal which he finds disgusting. He complains that he expected more from 'Mother's Home Cooking.' Chef responds: 'Nobody said my mother was a good cook!'

So, good, traditional 'home cooking' best done, yes, at home and you avoid the salt, sugar and fat, plus all the added preservatives most people can't spell let alone pronounce. You got this one so right, Delia!

Nora Johnson's psychological crime thrillers 'The Girl in the Red Dress,' 'No Way Back,' 'Landscape of Lies,' 'Retribution,' 'Soul Stealer,' 'The De Clerambault Code' (www.norajohnson.net) available from Amazon in paperback/eBook (€ 0.99;£0.99) and iBookstore.

THURSDAY THOUGHTS By Graham Braben, Albox No goodies at the top

WE were in Ikea last week, just for a coffee and those cinnamon rolls. No shopping. No self-assembly nightmares. Or that's what I thought. It turns out we were on a mission to find curtain rails. Now in my world, you go in and choose the first set you come to and that's it!

But according to my wife and daughter, I know nothing. The first thing we had to do was measure them, taking into account drop, width and some other things that I'd never heard of, so we picked up one of those paper tape things and that's when I perked up!

It's funny the way our minds work. Apparently, the Nepalese government aren't sure how tall Everest is now after recent earthquakes, so they've commissioned professional measurers to produce a definitive figure.

It got me thinking, well the curtain rails did. We had to measure one of them and my job was to hold the measure at one end. Unfortunately, every time it was pulled tight, I let go.

Okay I admit it, I'm not a fully qualified rail measurer and to make things worse, I wasn't paying the slightest bit of attention either! All I got for my incompetence was a very hard stare and the threat of no cinnamon roll. Imagine what would happen if the same thing happened on Everest.

Which brings me to the point of this. If you have to go to Ikea against your will this weekend, take comfort, you could be over 20,000 feet up in the freezing snow, measuring a mountain rather than curtain rails, and there are no drinks and goodies at the top!

HOW could Kay Mellor make the day-to-day running of a register office interesting? Simply through her usual brilliant writing.

Welcome to Love, Lies & Records (BBC1), her latest creation situated at Leeds City Hall and starring Ashley Jensen as Kate, a Superintendent Registrar who combines chaotic home surrounds with her professional life.

It may be a cliche but Kate doesn't always play by the rules and where work is concerned it's very successful. There was the man registering his baby's birth, born to a mother with cancer who refused treatment to save the child.

They are not married. but as Kate does weddings as well, cue the resulting tears.

Staff wise, Registrar James announces plans to work dressed as a woman, with all are pleased except Judy who happens to have been passed over when Kate was promoted to superintendent.

Popular with everyone except Judy, Kate is particularly liked by Rick, especially after they sidled off to a storeroom for some festive fun at the Christmas party.

Kay raises the smiles but its heartache from rubber ducks

But Judy had a copy of the CCTV recording their event in full, with this leading to a proposal from Kate to her partner Rob, a detective investigating the local murder of a young woman.

This will no doubt be linked to one of the future story lines in a comedy drama series that is yet another triumph for Mellor, making Thursday evening one to look forward to.

BRILLIANT WRITING: Kay Mellor.

Blue Planet II (BBC 1) was a bitter-sweet highlight with the consignment of 7,000 plastic duck bath toys ready to embark on their various journeys after being tipped from a container ship in high seas off Alaska.

The star performer landed off the west coast of Scotland, but then there was the sad sight of tons of dis> carded plastic, endangering and killing the blue world, including a whale carrying dead offspring, thought to have been poisoned by pollution. It was truly heart-

Welcome to your December 2017 forecast. Every month I write about how the Astrology, Numerology, and Tarot for the month ahead affects you. Below is your forecast for December 2017 thought provoking as usual.

I'm a Celebrity Get Me Out of Here (ITV) is beginning to scrape the barrel for so-called celebrities, though many viewers clearly still enjoy it and it's good to see Ant fit and well and self depreciating about his personal life over the last six challenging months.

The sight of the first five contestants meeting and not knowing who each other was served up amusing viewing. But the camp mates discussing each others' fame with Rebekah Vardy claiming recognition for her charity work (really?) and Hollyoaks 'star' Jamie Lomas telling Made in Chelsea 'star' Georgia Toffolo "that's what your talent is, being yourself," was another matter.

Boxer Amir Khan's frightened reaction to pulling out a snake thinking it was a rope, however, was priceless... showing there is still potential for comedy gold.

Would I Lie to you (BBC1) is back for a new series. Arguably television's funniest panel show is as good as ever, but why put it on Monday evening opposite Coronation Street which is a traditional graveyard slot?

Meanwhile The A Word (BBC1) is back for a second series and as good as ever. This time around it follows Joe's move to a more specialised school and the effect this has on his dysfunctional family.

The separation of Alison and Paul, Joe's mum and dad, while travelling to his new school leads to problems between them and the inter-action between Paul's own father and music teacher Maurice and Louise is both amusing and sad as he tries to support her during her cancer fight whilst bringing back memories of his previous wife's death from the same disease.

Eddie (Alison's brother) and Nicola pretend to her parents that they haven't separated, with this leading to amusing moments, and as always some brilliant music is a theme throughout with the talented actor Max Vento having an encyclopaedic knowledge of the songs and lyrics as he sings along to them.

SPECIALIST: Doctor Luis Perez Belmonte.

THIS week, the doctor answers our questions on Raynaud's phenomenon.

What is Raynaud's Phenomenon?

Raynaud's Phenomenon is a condition whereby cold temperatures or strong emotional reactions lead to vascular spasms which block blood flow temporarily. If when you are out in the cold or at emotional times find that your fingers, toes, ears or nose turn white, then blue, then red over a period of a few minutes or up to a few hours, you may have Raynaud's.

When does it happen and what is the cause?

This phenomenon is usually caused by low temperatures and stress.

There are two types: primary Raynaud's, where the cause is unknown and most patients have few symptoms, and secondary Raynaud's, which is associated with autoimmune diseases, artery problems, certain medications, infections and heavy smoking among others

Don't suffer this winter

AFFECTING one in 12 adults, eczema is an uncomfortable - and sometimes painful - skin condition.

Often exacerbated in winter when the air is drier due to heating, the eczema can cause skin to become red, swollen and itchy. The consequences can be lower self-confidence, an inability to wear certain clothes which chafe, and an intolerance to certain skin creams.

So what you can do to avoid or reduce the impact of eczema?

If this is the first time you have suffered from the condition, it may be that vou have contact eczema. where your skin is reacting to a particular irritant. This particularly affects the hands if they have been in contact with harsh chemicals and can be treated with prescription or over-the-counter steroid creams to reduce inflammation. A strong non-allergy moisturiser such as E45 will help to restore skin's hydration levels, reducing your symptoms.

If you have been suffering from eczema for some time, however, and find your symptoms flare up time and time again, there are some home remedies to improve the condition.

According to the Express newspaper, the most important thing is to take steps to lock moisture into the skin and avoid irritation. This begins with lowering the temperature on your bath or shower. The hotter the water, the more moisture is drawn out of the skin and high temperatures can also cause itching.

> Keep your skin hydrated by moisturing before and after showering.

Similarly, the newspaper suggests ditching scratchy fabrics for smoother ones, including replacing wool with cotton or cashmere and swapping manmade polyesters for breathable, natural fabrics like linen.

Finally, keep your skin hydrated by moisturising before and after showering and swap harsh shower gels for kinder soap substitutes.

If your symptoms persist, however, or you think your eczema may have become infected, it is always advisable to visit a doctor.

Festival line up announced

By Sally Underwood

A NEW list of music acts has been announced for next summer's Weekend Beach Festival.

The annual festival in Torre del Mar will feature performances by Loco Dice, Caleb Calloway, The Qemists, Natos and Waor, Muchachito, Invisible Dance and Juancho Marques.

In addition, Alborosie, Avalanch, The Sticker, The Tarambana, The Root, Neuman, Viva Sweden, The Kanka, Celtas Cortos, and Vitalic Live, have already been confirmed.

The event will feature important names in international electric music, including Tunisian group, Loco Dice and Puerto Rican, Caleb Calloway. The British group, The Qemists will be playing the festival for the second time, performing a mixture of electro and rock.

Some of Spain's most important acts will also be playing, including El Langui, one of the country's prominent rap stars. While Natos and Waor are one of Spain's youngest and most current groups, will also be performing for the second time, having played in the morning last year. The Malaga groups form part of nine artists named for the 2018 line up in a grand reveal coinciding with Black Friday.

The international shopping event was chosen by the organisers of Weekend Beach Festival to release further information about next year's acts as well as a small selection of reduced tickets. Promoters put 2,000 low-price tickets on sale for the event, only available for as long as supplies lasted.

When the first selection of tickets went on sale last month, sales reached 10,000 within two hours of going live.

The annual event, which takes place in Torre del Mar, is, next year, celebrating its fifth anniversary, fuelling a ticket-buying frenzy before its line up was even announced.

The 'most beloved and eclectic festival on the Andalucian coast' will take place next year on July 4, 5, 6 and 7, promising 'an exceptional line up and many surprises," according to its organisers.

Although the 2017 Weekend

Beach Festival, only took place a few months ago, starring 90's band, The Prodigy as the headline act, organisers decided to release a handful of tickets early due to demand.

On Sunday, 6,000 tickets went up on sale, which had to be increased to 10,000 within minutes due to the volume of people buying them. All tickets, costing between €28 and €35, were sold out in less than two hours, a record for the festival.

In just four years, the festival has positioned itself as one of the essential events on the Spanish festival calendar, according to its promoters. In previous years it has featured international artists including Skrillex, The Prodigy, Hardwell, Fabulous Cadillacs, Anthony B, Sepultura and Resident.

Last year, 35,000 festival-goers visited Weekend Beach Festival over four days and four stages, camping out on the beach.

Further tickets are expected to go on sale soon. For tickets and further information, visit www.week endbeach.es.

TORO is a Spanish Denominacion de Origen (DO) for wines produced in the Castile and Léon areas of Zamora province. The DO takes its name from the town of Toro with wines made locally since 100 BC and where King CELLAR Alfonso ID 1300 vear later granted by Lorenzo lands to reli gious order with the obligation to plant vines.

Barbareschi

Many of the 40 churches that still exist in Toro - which sits above the Río Duero and boasts medieval architecture and the site of Spain's first university - were built through wealth generated by the wine trade.

Producers established underground bodegas to ensure more effective temperature control, as many vineyards sit at 600 - 750 metres above sea level amid sand. clay and calcareous soils that suffer climate changes from winter lows of -11c to summer highs of 37c.

Due to the protection provided by the sandy soils, Toro vines were not affected by the phylloxera louse at the end of the 19th century, and many vineyards 80 to 100 years old are now the source of grapes for special cuvées.

Tinto de Toro, which is synonymous with Tempranillo, is an early-ripening grape with small berries and thick skin translating into intense, deeply coloured, full-bodied, tannic and excellently valued wines that pair well with meat dishes. Most of Toro's best wines are 100 per cent Tinto de Toro, although those with just 75 per cent of the variety and blended with Garnacha, also qualify for DO status.

Tempranillo Colegiata by Bodegas Fariña (100 per cent Tinto de Toro) and Caño Tempranillo-Garnacha (Blend) by Bajoz are among my recommendations.

Happy tasting.

BRITISH homebuyers continue to flock to Spain.

PROPERTY

It comes after a report revealed that property sales to foreigners in Spain have increased by 13.4 per cent from last year.

For the first time in history, the number of purchases by expatriates exceeded 50,000 between January and June of this year, according to the General Council of Notaries.

More than 46 per cent of the foreign transactions were carried out by non-residents, an increase of 5 per cent from last year, while the rest was made up from those already living in the country. This figure was the highest it's been since 2011.

The highest amount of sales occurred along the Mediterranean coastline, with the Canary Islands taking the top spot with around 42 per cent of the purchases, the Balearic Islands were next with nearly 38 per cent, followed by the provinces of Valencia (35.5 per cent), Murcia (26.9 per cent) and Andalucia (19, 4 per cent).

While the biggest increase in sales amongst the hotspots was in Valencia Province (12 per cent up from last year), the highest increase nationwide was actually in the lesser-explored La Rioja region, which saw a whopping increase of 74 per cent in property sales to foreigners this year.

The buyers with the biggest share of the market was once again revealed to be the British, making up nearly 14 per cent of the total purchases, closely followed by the French (8.8 per cent), Germans (8.2 per cent), Italians (7.7 per cent), Romanians (6.9 per cent) and Belgians (6.2 per cent).

The average amount spent per square metre by foreign buyers turned out to be €1,667 per square metre, another increase of 2.9 per cent from last year's figure.

Fastighetsbyrån

The amount was even higher when only the purchases by non-residents were taken into account, as they spent an average of \notin 1,941 per square metre.

Three Brexit questions to ask before buying Spanish property in 2018

We're fast approaching the New Year – a time when many people reassess their dreams and vow to make them a reality. But if you're determined to realise your ambition of buying a home in Spain in 2018, you won't be able to avoid thinking about Brexit, and how it could affect your purchase. Here's a look at some key moments in the tentative Brexit timetable, and how they might affect your Spanish property purchase in the year ahead.

Who will lead the UK to Brexit?

Theresa May's turn as Prime Minister has been beset by complications at every turn. She called a snap election to capitalise on the Conservative Party's poll lead over Labour, only to see her advantage collapse and be left relying on the DUP for a parliamentary majority.

Labour describe themselves as the 'government in waiting' and EU officials are allegedly preparing for negotiations with a UK Prime Minister who is not Theresa May. Everyone else seems prepared for an election; can Theresa May last an entire year without calling one?

Will there be trade tribulations?

Once trade talks actually begin and we start being subjected to rumours regarding the type of deal we will end up with, the pound will become even more volatile.

From a market perspective, the best type of Brexit is a 'soft Brexit', where the UK retains access to the EU single market and customs union, which would allow tariff free trade to continue uninterrupted. Markets will therefore judge the evolving deal in terms of how far away it is from the best case scenario; signs that the UK is drifting towards a polar opposite 'hard Brexit' could have a profoundly negative impact upon the pound, making your Spanish property purchase a lot more expensive.

Can negotiations really wrap up in October?

Chief EU negotiator Michel Barnier said that he wanted talks finished within 18 months of the triggering of Article 50, which would mean October 2018 if things run to plan.

This deadline is already in question, considering the UK and EU spent several months making no progress on the issue of the divorce bill.

However, things could still be rescued and the deal sent to national parliaments to ratify.

Even though many complications would lie ahead, it would be a positive sign if talks were indeed finalised on schedule, and the pound would be expected to gain in response, allowing you to get more euros than you do currently when you transfer sterling to the Eurozone.

Predicting GBP/EUR movement in 2018

Unfortunately, as uncertainty regarding the future is the very thing the pound is reacting negatively to, it's impossible to say what the overall outlook for GBP/EUR and EUR/GBP is for 2018.

Regardless of what happens, it's worth bearing in mind that the currency markets are driven by the whims of large-scale investors, such as pension funds and asset managers. They're looking for good returns, so anything that threatens the UK economy will negatively affect their appetite for the pound, weakening Sterling.

Therefore, if the development seems to be moving the UK towards a soft Brexit or some kind of free trade deal, the pound is likely to strengthen, while anything that moves towards the implementation of tariffs or quotas will undermine Sterling, raising the costs of Spanish property from the point of view of UK buyers.

Roses A challenge for the Mediterranean gardener

LOVE YOUR CAR?

902 123 309 5

GRAEME TYRRELL

ROSES are one of the most favourite flowers for their wonderful form and beautiful scent.

To grow a rose plant in the Mediterranean is a challenge though as they prefer cooler summers and winters to be at their best. There are ways to improve the ability to grow them.

The most important difference in the Mediterranean climate is to provide summer shade for roses for at least half of the day, preferably shaded from the afternoon sun.

The normal requirements for growing roses applies in terms of providing a rich soil with soil amendments of compost, manures and other fertilisers suited to alkaline soil. Alkaline soil is predominant in the Mediterranean regions.

Roses prefer neutral to acid soil but will tolerate a degree of alkalinity.

Applying mulch around the rose plants will also help to keep their root zone cooler in summer, so a thick layer is recommended to provide the most insulation. Organic mulches are the best for roses as they allow greater aeration for the soil to breath.

If you apply the organic mulch after the start of the hot weather it should last through summer and even if it breaks down by winter it does not need renewing until the next spring. Allowing the mulch to thin out over winter permits the colder weather to affect the rose plants to become dormant and rest before the spring awakening.

Planting roses adjacent to buildings can keep the rose plants too warm in winter so they are better planted in rose beds in zones more exposed to the winter cold but protected from strong winds.

Roses have the advantage in the Mediterranean of having a spring flush of flowers and a second flush in autumn. They often reduce their flowering over summer due to the heat and may have some flowers over winter, although it can make the plants stronger to remove the winter buds, it is also wonderful to be able to get roses at that time.

Pruning is best done at the start of spring to create a good framework for the coming flower season and another pruning at the end of summer to reduce height and remove crossing branches, but leaving many of the new shoots that have grown over summer to support the autumn flower display which can often be their best display if treated in this way.

Spring and summer removal of rose hips is also a good idea to make the plants stronger and more attractive.

Aphids can be a problem in late spring but a 50/50 mix of pharmacy type alcohol and water sprayed on them can clean them up easily and it is safer than many chemical products. Caterpillars usually attack at the end of summer.

They can be sprayed off with water from a hose. I leave a lot of them though so that the air is full of butterflies in autumn at the cost of perforated rose leaves for a month. The rose plants always recover quickly and they seems to flower better or at least the flowers stand out better for their perfect form and beauty.

A feast of fruit salad

WHILE some of us may be lucky enough to have a garden, many of us simply have a patio or balcony.

And although this may seem to offer fewer options for planting out, there are many things you can do to make the most of a small outdoor space.

If you are a grow-your-own fan, don't be put off, you can still grow several fruits and vegetables by maximising the space vou do have. One of the most efficient ways to grow several plants in one go is by grafting one to another.

An example of this is socalled 'fruit salad' trees which can combine up to six fruits on one plant. Stone fruits including plums, apricots, peaches and nectarines can all be grown on the same tree, while citrus fruits like lemons, limes, oranges and grapefruits can also share a plant.

While fruit salad trees can be bought in garden centres and online, you can create your own and enjoy all the benefits of a country house garden on your balcony!

Start by buying or using an existing root of a fruit tree measuring around one inch thick. Then take up to five cuttings of plants from the same family - like stone fruits.

Q. My dogs like to eat grass and mushrooms. Is this a problem?

A. There is no definitive answer as to why dogs and cats eat grass. Three veterinarians will most likely give three answers. Theories range from their stomach is upset to the need for vegetation in their diets.

The fact is grass has no nutritional value for pets. The most plausible explanation is that it is a habit dating back to their ancestors where a certain amount of roughage was required for normal bowel activity.

Present-day dog and cat foods contain varying amounts of fibre making grass eating unnecessary. It is most likely an instinct that has just not faded away with time.

It is true that too much grass can be irritating to the stomach lining, which can cause vomiting. Although some dogs enjoy eating grass, it is best to discourage them from grazing like cows.

Some mushrooms can indeed be very toxic to pets. Most cause gastric irritation resulting in vomiting and diarrhoea. Others can cause damage to the heart, liver and kidneys. In some cases, seizures and death can occur. The best advice is to identify the species of mushrooms in your garden. If they are safe for human consumption, they will not be harmful to your pet.

Remove all poisonous and unidentifiable mushrooms from your pets' environment. Cats are finicky and less likely to ingest mushrooms.

The potential for ingesting such toxic agents is another reason to keep your dog from roaming freely.

Owners should constantly inspect their pets' outdoor environment for potential toxins

These include garbage, dead animals, dangerous mushrooms and toxic plants. Remember pets, especially dogs, are non-discriminating when it comes to potential food. Items such as rotting garbage and dead birds may appear disgusting to us, but they can be filet mignon to some pets.

DOG DOCTOR: Owning a dog could protect you from developing heart disease.

Leaders of the pack

NEW research has suggested that those who own dogs are less at risk from developing serious illnesses than those who don't.

Scientists studying heart disease came to the conclusion after examining data from more than 3.4 million Swedish nationals between the aged of 40 and 80.

As registering a dog and going to the hospital both require Swedes to present their national identification number, scientists were able to analyse the records of people over a 12-year period to see if there was any correlation between the two factors

They discovered those who had registered a dog in the system were less likely to be treated for heart disease in the long run if they had not shown any previous symptoms of the illness.

Although the research did not draw any conclusions why this was the case, scientists suggested that it might have something to do with the fact that having a dog gives people more motivation to do exercise.

They also encourage people to be more social and are known to improve happiness levels, all of which has a positive impact on physical and health.

It has also been suggested that being in constant exposure to dog's germs could help to boost the immune system which helps to keep serious illnesses at bay.

Volvo strikes taxi deal

By Matthew Elliott

VOLVO is set to supply Uber with 24,000 cars which the American techtaxi company will convert into driverless cars.

Uber has transformed the transport market in recent years by supplanting the traditional taxi industry in almost every country it operates in. Users order taxis and pre-pay using an application on their smart phones.

The company is also at the forefront of driving technology. Instead of hiring drivers, who have frequently been accused of sexually assaulting female passengers, it wants a legion of autonomous cars to serve as taxis.

Swedish carmaker Volvo has stepped in, signing a deal to provide Uber with 24,000 cars between 2019 and 2021. Each car will be compatible with Uber's pioneering driverless technology.

Uber chief, Travis Kalanick, said: "Over one million people die in car accidents every year. These are tragedies that self-driving technology can help solve, but we can't do this alone. That's why our partnership with a great manufacturer like Volvo is so important."

Volvo CEO Hakan Samuelsson said the firm has ambitions to be the major worldwide supplier of vecles for the emerging driverless taxi industry. If the Uber deal goes ahead it will be the biggest for Volvo since it was taken over by Chinese giant Geely in 2010.

Although Uber will be responsible for the autonomous component of the hi-

cars, Volvo has its own designs on the intelligent car market.

It is currently trialling its driverless XC90 in the United States and has four other models Volvo engineers are working on making it 100 per cent autonomous.

Classic Car Club of Andalucia

CCCA does Estepona Fair!

Motoring correspondent Ian Giles reports on the latest news from the Andalucia Classic Car Club, the most successful such society in the area and probably in Spain with over 600 members.

HE CCCA always likes to help out where possible and following a call from the Costa del Sol chapter of the Church was able to supply a display of around 25 classic cars to go on show at the annual Christmas Fair in the Palacio de Congresos, Estepona.

First, and most important, an excellent breakfast was enjoyed by all crews at El Caserio near Estepona, on the A7 coast road. A marvellous group of enthusiasts turned up with a wonderful, mixed array of cars which were then driven in convoy to the Palacio. There were such things as an immaculate red Ferrari 308 GTSi, a genuine AC Cobra, a beautiful 1960's Fiat 500, a lovely 1960 Mercedes 190SL, a brace of Rolls Royce including a stunning Corniche convertible, a bright red and a silver V12 Jaguar E-Type, always a favourite! Then there were a pair of cars from Will Jackson, a bright red MGA and a similarly coloured and very lovely, Jaguar XK150. The most beautiful, orange 1978 Porsche 911SC came with Gerry and Kirsti Denn who had only arrived back from Finland in the early hours of that Saturday morning, well done to them! Jaguars were well represented as already mentioned, but also on show were two virtually identical burgundy coloured XJ-S V12's from the early 1980's. So too were Mercedes which included a very pretty E320 Sportline. A rare Fiat 124 Spyder came along and a beautiful, new Jaguar F-Type which, try as it might, could not overcome the steep and angular slope into the exhibition centre without grounding its very low underside!

Stefan and Judith Nicholson made a brave effort to bring their gorgeous old Bull-nose Morris, but it misbehaved with magneto problems after coming out of Gibraltar en route so the intrepid pair returned to Gib and collected their marvellous, old English white

CCCA festive period events

AS always the Club is very busy and the festive period is no exception. The fun starts off on Tuesday with the regular Club night and dinner at 'Treetops' restaurante at El Chaparral Golf Club in Mijas Costa. To add some Christmas flavour to dinner the Club will be providing music and song from the excellent Karen Cooper and canapés will be served before dinner. These club nights are always a great way to spend an evening with friends and the Club is happy for any number of guests to come along.

The December Classic Car Run

CLUB Presidente Ian Giles, along with wife Carol, will be organising a special Christmas classic car run on Saturday December 9. The start will be from Venta Carlos del Mirador, on the A-7000 just above Malaga. A fabulous route is being prepared by these two which will take in a coffee stop at the oldest Inn in Andalucia, some spectacular views of the countryside including the lake at Viñuela and a second coffee stop at La Galeria art gallery near Periana.

After that, a first class lunch has been organised at Lake Viñuela Hotel. Many members have already opted to book rooms there for the Saturday night which means 'Something of a Party' is on the cards. The Club has even invited members of the local Porsche and Jaguar Owners Clubs to join them for this festive event.

The CCCA Christmas Party, Tuesday December 12

THE Club has always organised its own Christmas Party and this year is no exception. Trying a new venue again this year, the Club will be having its own party rooms and bar with dancing area at La Sala in Puerto Banus. A first-class festive dinner is guaranteed, cava will be served on arrival, wines will be plentiful and music for dancing will be provided by the very good Tony Capo. Tickets are only €45 inclusive and guests are very welcome to attend this super night. Contact Ian Giles if you would like to join in the fun!

That's it for now, back in two weeks time.

Further information on Classic Car Club of Andalucia events can be found on the Club's website www.cccandalucia.com. Membership of this vibrant club is open to anyone owning a genuine classic car here in Spain. Saca tu coche clásico del garaje y diviértete con el.

Morgan +8, another favourite with the crowds there.

All in all, it was an excellent turn-out of very lovely cars and helped to provide something different for the visitors to the fair to enjoy whilst rummaging around the stands and raising some muchneeded funds for the Church's charities.

Many of the members then went on to enjoy a first-class lunch together, in the sunshine, on the terraces of Laguna Village, just a few kilometres out of Estepona, MOT changes for Classics! No road tax for the over 40s!

THOSE of us owning and running classic cars that are still on UK registration plates will be very happy to hear news from the DVLA that, as from May 2018, once a classic reaches 40 years of age it will not be required to pass an MOT test. Thus, from May of next year, once your classic reaches 40 years of age it will become MOT and tax exempt. Excellent news for many CCCA members! Regarding road tax, the same 'rolling' system applies to classics that reach 40 years of age. You still have to go through the VED system, to register the car for tax it's just that no money changes hands. Marvellous!

In Spain, if a classic car is over 25 years old it can qualify to go onto 'Historic' registration plates, which means road tax is free of charge and a much gentler ITV (MOT) is necessary only every two years. And, of course, classic car insurance policies, which are considerably less expensive than for modern counterparts, can be arranged. In fact, the CCCA has preferential terms for special classic car polices arranged for its members which is a great help. These policies can be available for both Spanish and UK registered classics. These policies also were available for Gibraltar plated classics but that, sadly, will cease to be possible after August 2018.

Three Lions set to roar in 2018 World Cup Harry's top quality - we're fortunate to have him - Southgate

THE 2018 World Cup Group draw is set to take place in the Kremlin Palace, Moscow, Russia, with England's Three Lions set to roar.

The 32 teams playing at 12 venues in 11 different cities that go head-to-head during June 14-July 15, 2018, will be split into four pots, based on their current FIFA world rankings. Pot 1 contains Russia and the highestranked seven teams.

The December 1 draw will divide the 32 teams into eight groups of four, from A to H. Each group will play three matches, before the top two countries advance to the second round. Russia are in Group A as host nation.

England meet Italy and Holland in friendlies in March, prior to manager Gareth Southgate naming his final 23-man squad: "The team are getting clearer messages in how we want to play," said Southgate. "Playing for England is different from that at club level and one of the key things we have to continue to work at," said Southgate.

There will be players 'missing out' in the England 23, with Daniel Sturridge, dropped in the friendly internationals against Germany and Brazil, desperate to return to the fold.

Liverpool outcast Sturridge, 28, in the cold at Anfield under manager Jurgen Klopp, is among a plethora of players that could miss the cut.

Ashley Young, Adam Lallana, Alex Oxlade-Chamberlain, Fraser Foster, Chris Smalling, Danny Wellbeck, Jermaine Defoe and Theo Walcott await their fates.

Sturridge could miss out, with Liverpool teammate Dominic Solanke, 20, getting the nod after his surprise call up to the England squad.

"We assess who can take us forward - that's the challenge for all the players - you have to be playing well enough to get into the squad," said Southgate. Klopp, ahead of Liverpool's Premier League game at Brighton on Saturday, said: "Solanke will be a future player for England, 100 per cent. "Apart from his football skills, his character is absolutely outstanding. He is completely calm and doing so well, but doesn't feel like 'roll out the red carpet'; he is a smart lad."

HARRY KANE: One player who has surely got his England passport stamped for Russia.

Chelsea duo Ruben Loftus-Cheek, 21, and Tammy Abraham, 20, on loan at Crystal Palace and Swansea, respectively, are among new blood, alongside Solanke, brought in by Southgate.

"Ruben and Tammy are two really good young players - the future for Chelsea," said Blues boss Antonio Conte, ahead of the Blues fixture against Newcastle on Saturday.

Two players who have surely got their England passports stamped for Russia are Phil Jones and Harry Kane: "Phil Jones has got the pace and the reading of the game at a relatively young age.

"He competes well and it's clear what he brings to the team.

Harry's finishing is top quality, as good as anyone, we're fortunate to have him," said Southgate.

Manchester United travel to Arsenal on Saturday and Red's boss Jose Mourinho said of defender Jones, 26: "Phil Jones is still young, still learning."

The 2018 World Cup Final Draw: Pot 1: Russia, Germany, Brazil, Portugal, Argentina, Belgium, Poland, France.

Pot 2: Spain, Peru, Switzerland, England, Colombia, Mexico, Uruguay, Croatia.

Pot 3: Denmark, Iceland, Costa Rica, Sweden, Tunisia, Egypt, Senegal, Iran.

Pot 4: Serbia, Nigeria, Australia, Japan, Morocco, Panama, Korea Republic, Saudi Arabia.

Group Stages: June 14-June 28: Round of 16: June 30-July 3; Quarter Finals: July 6-July 7; Semi Finals: July 10-July 11; Third place play-off: July 14. Final: July 15.

JULEN LOPETEGUI'S shoulders carry the hopes of Spain's 2018 World Cup glory in Russia - after qualifying undefeated to top Group G - in a bid to repeat Spain's success in 2010.

"Whoever wants to do something special at the World Cup, besides having great players, they will need a great team," said Lopetegui.

Spain, who beat the Netherlands 1-0 at Soccer City, Johannesburg, South Africa after an extratime goal by Andrés Iniesta, giving Spain its first World Cup title in 2010, have a great team.

Spain qualified for the 2018 World Cup, winning nine and drawing one of their 10 group games, scoring 36 goals, conceding a paltry three.

That underlines David de Gea will be the No. 1 goalkeeper pencilled in by Lopetegui, knowing their chances of glory are in safe hands.

Spain are in Pot 2 at The Kremlin in Moscow on Friday December 1, along with Peru, Switzerland, England, Colombia, Mexico, Uruguay and Croatia, for the draw on the road to the final on July 14 at the Luzhniki Stadium, Moscow.

Spain have a plethora of talent, including Carvajal, Pique, Ramos, Alba, Azpilicueta, Nacho, Alonso, Alba, Busquets, Iniesta, Silva, Isco, Koke, Alcantara, Niguez, Pedro, Deulofeu, Asensio, Morata and Alcacer.

Will Juan Mata, Cesc Fabregas, Diego Costa, Iago Aspas, Nolito and David Villa get the nod in Lopetegui's 23-man squad?: "There are many that will be in Russia," said Lopetegui.

"But I have not got the clear 23 players that will go to the World Cup. There are some that are certain and others that have an excellent opportunity," said Lopetegui.

Spain have a strike force to be reckoned with and Lopetegui said of striker Alvaro Morata, who joined Chelsea from Real Madrid in the summer: "Morata is a very good No. 9 and we are very happy with him."

Costa, Celta Vigo's Iago Aspas, Valencia's

Rodrigo and Athletic Bilbao's Aritz Aduriz are all vying for striker roles in Russia, and Lopetegui said: "Rodrigo is very good - so is Aspas - Diego Costa too.

"We will decide who our No. 9 player will be for our first game. It may be that we will not play with the same No. 9 for our second game. We shall see. They all have possibilities to be the starting No. 9 for Spain."

Atletico Madrid's Costa cannot play until January 2018, having last played for Spain in June, having missed the final four qualifying games, after a dispute with his former club Chelsea.

Liverpool left-back Alberto Moreno, 25, returned to the Spain squad for the friendlies against Costa Rica in Malaga and against Russia after a three-year absence.

"Alberto, a left-back that suits us, is someone that is eager to go forward, and is also very fast at correcting his position," said Lopetegui.

Former Sevilla star Moreno and his wife Lilia, who became proud parents following the arrival of Alberto Junior two weeks ago, said: "Last season was bad for me. I didn't play.

"I am playing all the games now, and at a good level. I am here now, and with the World Cup so close why not dream?"

Defending champions Germany, bidding to become the first country to win back-to-back World Cups since Brazil in 1958 and 1962, are the 5-1 favourites; France 11-2; 6-1 Brazil; 7-1 Spain; 8-1 Argentina; 14-1; Belgium; 20-1 England; Portugal 24-1; Russia 40-1; Mexico 80-1.

England to take on Australia Rugby League World Cup Final

MALAGA, Real Madrid and Barcelona were all in Copa Del Rey action earlier this week. La Liga clubs dominate the final 16, which may provide more dra-ma than the league, where Barca remain comfortably top.

ENGLAND coach Wayne Bennett believes his side's huge task in defeating Australia in the Rugby League World Cup final is unlikely: We probably won't win.

1995, against holders Australia, 1-9 odds-on favourites, in Brisbane on Saturday.

Australia, unbeaten under coach Mal Meninga, are on a path to win a fourth World Cup crown in five attempts. Underdogs England's odds are 6-1. Will defeat see Bennett retire?: "Retiring isn't in my head.

"The England job challenges me - there's a lot of talent in this team - the type I want to work with," said BenENGLAND and Australia go head-to-head in the opening day of The Ashes 2nd Test at the Adelaide Oval on Saturday December 2 after the First Test in Brisbane.

Vice-captain Jimmy Anderson has laughed off speculation it will be his last Test Series after Aussie off-spinner Nathan Lyon talk about ending England players' careers.

"The stuff he's been coming out with has been tickling us we've been laughing about it in the dressing room - it's good for team spirit," said Anderson.

Swing bowler Anderson, 35, played in the 2010-11 series in Australia, that England won; and the 2013-14 Ashes series humiliating 5-0 whitewash.

"I am not thinking if we don't win I am 'done.' My body feels fine. It's just a case of looking after myself. If I can keep fit, keep my speeds up," said Lancashire star Anderson.

Anderson, who broke onto the international scene in the 2002-03 season, says he could be in the 2021-22 Ashes series in Australia

"There's no reason why not. There's no reason why I can't extend my career - I wouldn't rule it out," said England's most successful test bowler Anderson.
