Jelly good show

BEACHGOERS have been warned to beware of a jellyfish plague this summer.

A perfect union of weather conditions, temperature and a lack of predators has created the ideal conditions for a bloom of the stinging blobs, according to scientists at the Costa del Sol's Institute of Marine Sciences.

But researcher Josep Maria Gili Sarda said that although the swarm will "almost certainly" be bigger than in normal years, the invasion is set to last for a maximum of 15 to 20 days.

The news follows a recent spate of Portuguese Man O'war sightings, after hoards of the potentially deadly jellyfish-like creatures were blown into the Mediterranean by Atlantic storms.

ONE of Britain's most wanted fugitives will not fight extradition after being held in Spain, it has been confirmed.

It comes after former Stephen Lawrence murder suspect Jamie Acourt was arrested as he ate lunch following a workout at Metropolitan Sagrada Familia Gym in Barcelona.

Reports suggest he tried to impersonate an Italian tourist but was unable to fool armed undercover officers who had spent days posing as fitness fanatics while keeping tabs on the 41-year-old from Eltham in South East London.

Acourt went on the run three years ago amid allegations that he was involved in a €4.5 million UK cannabis smuggling ring. Scotland Yard said in a statement he had been remanded in custody by Spanish police on a European Arrest Warrant at the close of an operation involving the UK's National Crime Agency (NCA).

Dramatic images released in the wake of the swoop show the handcuffed suspect in a Barcelona police station.

It's a fair cop

UK's 'most-wanted' fugitive accepts fate

And a court appearance in Madrid has reportedly been cancelled after the Spanish High Court heard via video link that he will accept his extradition.

Ian Cruxton, Head of International Operations for the NCA, said: "Acourt thought he could evade capture but as a result of an intelligence-led operation his days on the run have ended.

"We were able to direct the Spanish authorities to his location in Barcelona.

"Our ability to share information and work at speed with our international partners ensures there is no safe haven for fugitives. We will never stop pursuing these individuals."

A Crimestoppers appeal to find Acourt was launched in October 2016, when he was described as one of Britain's Top 10 fugitives.

It is believed he regularly returned to the UK using a false passport to raise money for his life on the run.

A Met Police statement said: "Spanish authorities arrested Jamie Acourt, 41, in Barcelona on a European Arrest Warrant (EAW) on behalf of the Metropolitan Police Service.

BARCELONA ARREST: Jamie Acourt was held in the Catalan capital.

"The EAW was issued as part of the Met's efforts to trace Acourt in relation to an investigation into the unlawful supply of controlled substances.

"This relates to an investigation launched in 2016 by detectives from the Serious and Organised Crime Command.

"Extradition proceedings now await."

Acourt's arrest follows recent reports that he had been spotted living a party lifestyle in glamorous Costa del Sol resort Marbella.

He was alongside his brother Neil named among the five prime suspects in the Stephen Lawrence murder enquiry, but was not convicted and has always maintained his innocence.

Stephen was aged 18 when he died on April 22, 1993 after a racially motivated attack at a London bus stop.

Gary Dobson, now 42, and David Norris, 41, were found guilty of his murder and handed life prison sentences in 2012.

Acourt is the 81st of 96 British fugitives to be traced by Operation Captura, a joint scheme between the NCA, Crimestoppers and Spanish authorities.

€50m EU eco boost agreed

BENALMADENA, Torremolinos, Fuengirola, Marbella, Cartama and Rincon de la Victoria will split €50 million in European Union funding over the next two years after being chosen for the bloc's sustainable urban development scheme. Alhaurin el Grande, Alhaurin de la Torre and Ronda also applied, but failed to make the cut.

Footie sex rap

A 45-YEAR-OLD married father from Malaga City accused of sexually abusing at least 25 boys aged 11-17 while working as a football coach faces a lengthy prison stretch after prosecutors demanded he be slapped with a 100-year sentence. The suspect has been behind bars since admitting the child sex crimes in 2016.

Paw and order

MARBELLA Council is to launch a new public awareness campaign after an official revealed that €290,000 of public money was last year spent removing dog mess and chewing gum which caked the city's streets. Dubbed 'Street Marketing,' the initiative aims to draw attention to the cost of 'uncivilised behaviour.'

Smuggle swoop

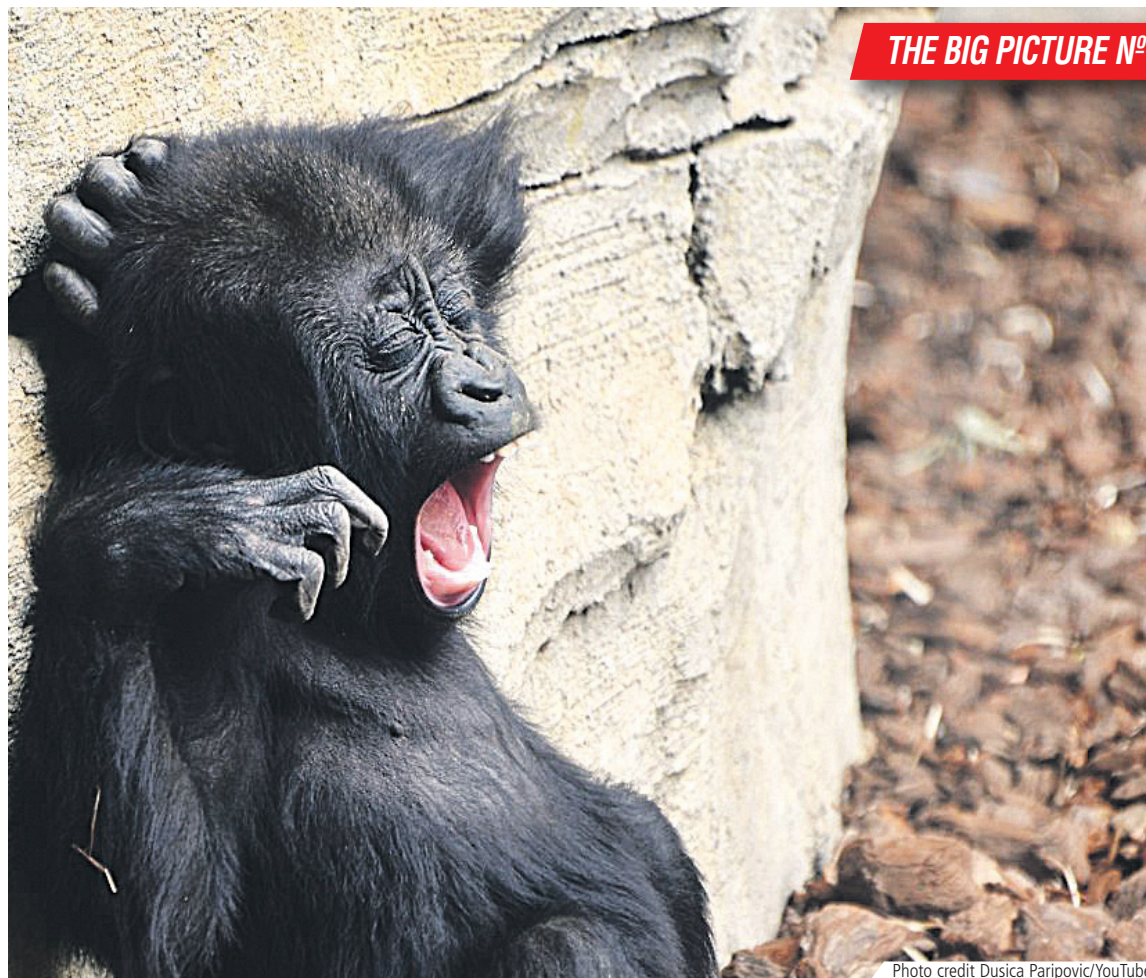

A 36-YEAR-OLD Moroccan drug-trafficking suspect wanted in France has been held at his Mijas home on a European Arrest Warrant. He is an alleged high-ranking member of a large-scale hashish smuggling gang transporting drugs from North Africa to France, Spain and the Netherlands by road, detectives said.

Muscle hustle

THE owner of a sports shop in Torremolinos has been held for possession of illegal anabolic steroids, hormones, fat burners and other chemicals bought from Eastern European, Chinese and Indian websites. Police seized more than 52,000 doses of the banned substances from the 30-year-old's Mijas villa during the swoop.

Knife attack

A 14-YEAR-OLD girl has been quizzed by investigators after she allegedly stabbed another teenager several times in Plaza de los Naranjos, Fuengirola. The pair reportedly arranged to meet via social media before an argument saw the victim slashed in the face, shoulder, stomach and leg.

GOING APE: The young primate unleashes an almighty yawn.

Planet of the naps!

THIS is the adorable moment that a baby gorilla was captured on camera as it hung loose at a Spanish zoo.

The at-ease ape was snapped by Bosnian photographer Dusica Paripovic, 32, during a visit to Bioparc Valencia.

The zoo has maintained a population of critically endangered western gorillas since 2007, and the group started breeding in 2012.

Named Mbeli, the youngster pictured here will be a year old this summer.

Dusica said: "The baby gorillas are so adorable and expressive. They play with twigs or whatever they can find, they stumble and fall, they playfully wrestle with other gorillas."

"When you photograph animals, you never know if you are going to get any good photos. They will not stand in the best light for you or give you the best angle.

"But when I saw this baby gorilla yawning, I knew there had to be at least one good photo there. I was excited."

She added: "Animals are my favourite subject to photograph - it's challenging and fun. They are unpredictable, fast, can't be posed and there's no need for retouching."

Bloodied and disorientated

The man, said to be 52 years old and from Croatia, had been thrown down a two-metre embankment with his legs bandaged.

He died from his injuries, while his Colombian partner, 54, was found wandering by the A-7 with her face and white dress covered in blood.

They are believed to have been abducted and tortured before being dumped near the Costa del Sol Hospital.

The alarm was raised when a passing motorist stopped after spotting the disorientated blonde woman pleading for help.

He called a police officer friend, explaining that she was shouting that 'they' had killed her partner.

She was hospitalised with head injuries and 'multiple wounds,' but medics were unable to revive the man, who officers confirmed had suffered heavy blows 'over all of his body.'

Initial interviews with the survivor following her discharge suggest that the pair were taken hostage over the weekend.

She reportedly told detectives that she had been bundled into a 'high-end black vehicle' after the attackers covered her head with a hood, and that she pretended to be dead before being abandoned.

A post mortem examination is expected to confirm that the man was beaten to death as the investigation continues.

'WE NEVER UNDERSTOOD WHY THEY HAD CHOSEN US': A Nazi soldier among buildings destroyed during one of the attacks and (inset) survivor Angel Beltran in the film.

80-year riddle

A MOVING new documentary film has revealed why four small villages in rural Valencia were targeted by Nazi bombers.

In May 1938, three Junkers 87-A dive-bombers, dubbed stukas by Nazi Germany's Condor Legion, dropped their payloads on the hamlets of Benassal, Albocasser, Ares del Maestre and Vilar de Cane in Castellon Province.

Many buildings were reduced to rubble and 38 people died.

"It was the first plane I saw in my life. It was like a great bird, but different," remembers Obdulia Mir in Experimento Stuka (Stuka Experiment), which this week opened at the Docs Valencia international documentary festival.

Entirely lacking strategic or military value to the Germans, locals for decades believed that the attacks were ordered by Republicans fighting for General Francisco Franco in the Spanish Civil War, which ended a year later.

Others blamed Franco's troops themselves, since some of the villages briefly fell within Republican territory.

"My father heard that the Reds [Republicans] had destroyed the village and the church," added

Angel Beltran, the son of a Republican militant.

But 80 years later, modern-day residents have finally learned the truth.

University physics professor Oscar Vives, who was born in Benassal, travelled to Freiburg in Germany to study local archives after finding a clue in a Spanish Civil War book.

A short passage revealed that the Condor Legion used the Spanish villages as a testing ground for Second World War operations, and in the German archive Vives found a folder containing 66 photographs of the attacks.

The images show Nazi soldiers driving to the bomb sites and studying the devastation before returning to an airbase in La Senia, Tarragona, and drinking beer together on the beach.

The film reveals the Nazis were testing whether their dive-bombers were able to transport and drop 500-kilo bombs, double the standard weight.

Rafa Moles, who directed the documentary alongside Pepe Andreu, says that the raids were among the world's first "surgical military strikes."

The film is a follow-up to the pair's Five Days to Dance, an award-winning documentary about a school dance performance.

Ova the moon!

SHE'S currently ranked number 52 in the world after a recent return from a drugs ban. But tennis star Maria Sharapova, 31, appeared at ease with life after posting a series of photos of herself enjoying the sights of Madrid, where she is competing in a tournament. And she was clearly amused by the local custom of late eating as she captioned one of the snaps: 'First ones at the restaurant...9pm #SpanishStyle.'

Sheer outrage

BRITISH singer-songwriter Ed Sheeran has angered a fan who travelled from Spain to watch him perform.

As the Shape Of You hitmaker kicked off his Irish tour at Cork's Páirc Uí Chaoimh stadium, the irate concertgoer tweeted: 'Just travelled from Spain to Cork. Ticket in my friend's name. Xmas present.'

"Told at box office I can't get in. WTF ED. After costing me €800 I can't get in. Screw you."

HE'S the former One Direction singer who has struck out alone.

But Liam Payne, 24, was joined by Mexican songstress Sofia Reyes on stage in Madrid as he performed at the LOS40 Primavera POP Festival.

The pair belted out his hit For You, which he originally sang with Rita Ora for the racy film Fifty Shades Freed.

Liam's relationship with ex-Girls Aloud star Cheryl Tweedy, 34, has reportedly been under strain since his solo career took off.

Liam heads in own direction

The couple's son Bear recently celebrated his first birthday, but widespread reports have suggested he is more committed to his pop career than family.

However the pair insist all is fine after a recent 'make or break' getaway at an undisclosed location.

PAYNE ATTRACTION: Liam on stage in Madrid.

The former X Factor contestant said in a magazine interview Cheryl's bond with the baby left him feeling 'desperate' as he tried to "get through fatherhood."

Dan in the dumps over split rumour

And new reports have claimed that former The Only Way Is Essex star Dan Osborne, 26, failed to get in touch with wife Jacqueline Jossa, 25, while on a 'holistic bootcamp' in Marbella.

The ex-Eastenders actress - who is pregnant with their second child - is said to have been left furious after he failed to return her messages while on the sun-soaked break with Hollyoaks actress Stephanie Davis and Love Island's Gaby Allen, among others.

But Dan took to Twitter to vent his frustrations, as he wrote: 'Whenever a relationship goes through tough times etc... why is it always the man that gets stick...?'

And Jacqueline appeared to back him as she added: 'Daniel and I are dealing with things privately as a team, there is always two sides to every story. Stop with the nasty comments, no one deserves them.'

Sexy Sadie

ENGLISH actress and fashion designer Sadie Frost has been enjoying a sunshine break in Mallorca.

And the Bram Stoker's Dracula star, 52, shared a cheeky snap of herself after slipping into a black and orange bikini, posing in the doorway of her luxury suite at Belmond La Residencia, near Deya.

Pay squeeze fails to ease

COSTA DEL SOL residents currently earn an average of €618 less per year than before the financial crisis, with the mean annual salary in 2016 €15,561 compared to €16,269 in 2008, according to the latest Spanish Treasury data.

Jewel theft

TWO Georgian expatriates, aged 26 and 60, are reportedly being quizzed in connection with a dozen Malaga City break-ins during which jewellery and expensive perfumes were stolen, after they became embroiled in a punch-up.

TWO Spanish men with previous police records for theft have been held in San Roque, Cadiz, on suspicion of stealing 65 metres of copper cable.

A LUXURY Costa del Sol villa has been voted one of the best 10 holiday rentals in the world.

VillaCasa-7 Marbella, located on the upmarket Belo Horizonte housing estate, was for the second year running placed ninth in its category of the prestigious TripAdvisor Travellers' Choice Awards 2018.

According to the American travel and restaurant website, the family-owned property costs €895 per night to rent in low season, rising to a whopping €1,500 in summer, although a week's package can be booked for €7,350.

The Travellers' Choice Awards winners are determined using an algorithm based on the quantity and quality of reviews and ratings over a 12-month period.

Other winners in the opulent high-end rentals bracket included rentals in Costa Rica, Florida, Greece and Whitstable, UK.

Feeling supersonic

SPANISH development officials have been negotiating with the British firm Virgin to create a site for the Hyperloop supersonic rail project in Antequera, according to sources close to the talks.

The ongoing talks were announced while Spain's Ministry of Development and railway infrastructure body Adif signed an agreement to create a 'Railway Innovation Hub'.

The Hub will reportedly be formed of several companies working in partnership with state bodies on rail development with a base at the Centre for Railway Technology near Malaga.

Iñigo de la Serna, Spain's Public Works Minister, said it was too early to know if an agreement would be reached but added it was an 'opportunity' for the country.

"We are simply holding negotiations and meetings, in which I myself participated, but we still have to wait," he said.

The Hyperloop project would see the creation of the first such centre outside of the United States if it goes ahead.

The technology is the brainchild of entrepreneur Elon Musk but it is currently under Virgin management.

It aims to develop a way to shoot goods and passengers through tubes at speeds of up to 1,200 kilometres per hour.

Manuel Baron, Antequera's mayor, said it was 'unbeatable news' for the town.

Airport staff take bites for chickenpox

A BRITISH mum has spoken of her outrage after her family was turned away from a Costa del Sol flight after her daughter's insect bites were mistaken for chickenpox.

Gillian Ainsome, 36, said her two-year-old toddler Amelia was targeted by staff from low-cost airline Jet2 as they waited to check in at Malaga Airport.

She claims they were told to visit the airport doctor before they would be allowed to board the Manchester flight.

They were forced to book a hotel for the night before a private medic gave Amelia the all-clear, leaving them with no choice but to take a flight to Edinburgh, hundreds of miles from their Salford home, the next day.

They then took a train and eventually arrived 36 hours late and having spent an extra €800, which the carrier has now reimbursed since they had taken out holiday insurance.

A furious Gillian told UK media: "It was awful. It was our first time abroad as a family and we'd had a lovely time. It was ruined by sour-faced air-

"A man approached Amelia as we stood in the queue. He just insisted that the bites on her arms were a virus like chickenpox.

"I told him they were just harmless mosquito bites from her holiday, but he wouldn't listen.

"My partner, Lee, even showed him his insect bites, which were just the same, but they were having none of it."

A Jet2 official said: "Whilst we sympathise with Gillian's situation, for the safety of everyone on board the aircraft we may occasionally request a Fit to Fly Certificate if there is a risk that a customer may have an infectious condition such as chickenpox.

"After this Fit to Fly certificate was issued, we advised Gillian to make a claim via her travel insurance provider which she did. This is why we always encourage customers to purchase travel insurance."

Black start to summer bodes badly for resort

AS the summer party season begins and thousands of Britons jet to Magaluf, the resort already has its first casualties.

And the death of young father Aaron Henderson plus an unnamed Scottish teen in recent days should trigger alarm bells for local authorities who have for years been promising to tighten regulations and curb drinking practices.

But Magaluf's reputation continues to plummet, with reports of balcony falls, rapes and muggings on the increase.

At what point does enough become enough?

Holiday death probe - page 18

Have we brought it on?

THE alleged abandonment of a British man by a Benidorm ambulance crew who were high on drugs and alcohol has rightly sparked outrage.

And it is arguably a sad indictment of the professional standards rife in private firms drafted in to provide cheaper alternatives to 'expensive' public services in Spain and the UK alike.

Perhaps just as worrying is that the two men accused of negligence were not even trained paramedics, but cut-price technicians.

But perhaps the question is, why do the general public allow such moves to happen without apparently batting an eyelid? Have we truly become so apathetic?

Spain tops global ranking

By Staff Reporter

SPAIN has maintained its status as the nation with the most blue flag beaches on the planet.

It comes after the Association for Environmental Education and the Consumer (ADEAC) handed the coveted award to 590 sandy strips across the country.

The Blue Flag is given to beaches meeting high standards of hygiene, sanitary conditions, safety, and accessibility.

And Spain's total has increased by 11 this year, with the sun-drenched hotspot having topped the world ranking since the awards began in 1987.

The Costa del Sol has bagged 25 Blue Flags this year, an increase of one compared to 2017.

MAKING A SPLASH: Torremolinos' Los Alamos beach this year makes its Blue Flag debut.

SHORE LOOKS FAB: La Rada beach, Estepona.

FRIENDS' TRIBUTE: Sharon Lang.

FRIENDS have organised a memorial run in memory of a British woman who died during a Costa del Sol triathlon.

It comes as organisers of the Ironman 70.3 event continue to probe the incident.

Sharon Lang, 39, was competing in the gruelling competition - which included a 1,900-metre swim, a 90km bicycle ride and a 21km run - when she fell unconscious and was found face down in the water.

It is believed the athlete from Plymouth, Devon suffered a cardiac arrest during the swimming leg, and she later died at the Costa del Sol hospital after medics were unable to revive her.

A race official said in a statement: "We are deeply shocked by the death of one of our athletes.

"Our condolences to the athlete's family and friends, who we will continue to support.

"We are working with local authorities to gather together all the information on how the incident occurred and we will continue to do everything possible to provide a safe environment for our athletes."

Ultimate stag-do

Party includes €50m private jet, strippers and supercars

By Staff Reporter

HE'S a video blogger with more than 1.1 million subscribers on his YouTube channel.

And former professional skier Jon Olsson showed he knows how to live life to the full after his billionaire father-in-law Rickard Deler organised the ultimate stag-do.

The vlog of the Swedish expatriate entrepreneur's incredible bachelor party starts with his friends bursting into his luxury Marbella villa wearing balaclavas shouting: "Get on the fg ground!"

He was blindfolded and whisked to a helicopter hangar where he got a lapdance before a helicopter ride to the Ascari racetrack near Ronda.

"This is probably my favourite place in Spain," he said. They have a lot of toys and a lot of fun things."

After completing a few laps in a Porsche GT car the choppers flew him to exclusive residential development Sotogrande in Cadiz for a round of polo, before he headed to a nearby airfield where a €50 million private jet was waiting to speed the group to Barcelona.

"You guys are crazy in a fantastic way," Olsson told his pals as he boarded the plane on a red carpet decorated with his name, tucking into seafood and high-priced Champagne during the flight.

And after checking into the five-star W Hotel on the Catalan city's port, where rooms including hot tubs and rotating beds cost up to €11,000 per night, the gang hit the Shoko nightclub, where VIP tables start at €1,000.

Footage of the day ends as bottles of Dom Perignon Champagne arrive while the boys pogo dance in front of the crowd.

The next morning, Jon wakes up wrapped in the red carpet while a friend is sleeping in the hotel lift with his trousers down.

He is engaged to 28-year-old sweetheart and lifestyle blogger, Janni Deler.

The couple own properties in Marbella and Monaco, and recently sold their Spanish mansion Casa Camo for €1.7 million before moving into their new home Casa Castle.

El Chiringuito Marbella is open for the 2018 season!

PUENTE ROMANO is pleased to announce the reopening of the well-established Ibiza brand, El Chiringuito, in Marbella for the 2018 season.

The Mediterranean kitchen offers a wide variety of truly authentic El Chiringuito dishes. The menu created by French chef Jérôme Palayer includes Lobster Risotto, seared tuna fresh from the wood fire grill, sea bass cooked in sea salt crust or Nebraska entrecôte.

El Chiringuito's goal is to serve honest, great tasting food in a warm, soft and loving environment.

Its décor is a relaxing combination of white-washed wood, spacious sofas and picturesque palm tree paintings, inspiration taken from both Ibiza and Andalucía.

Since the opening in 2009, El Chiringuito brand in Ibiza has become one of Ibiza's top beach clubs, winning best beach club award for the last two seasons, and El Chiringuito Dubai just got voted as one of the best beach clubs in the world. A favourite with locals and international jet setters, the award-winning restaurant has been charming guests with its laid back vibes and attentive service.

El Chiringuito Marbella will be open every day from 9am - 8pm with lunch service between 1pm - 5pm.

Holiday death probe

Witness claims Brit was 'kicked in head'

MALLORCAN police are probing the death of a British man in Mallorca.

Aaron Henderson, from Coleraine, Northern Ireland, was on holiday with his partner and children when he was allegedly assaulted on Magaluf's Punta Ballena party strip.

The dad-of-two, 30, was found lying on the corner of Calle Martin Ros Garcia in critical condition after suffering a severe head injury in the early hours of the morning, and investigators initially believed he had fallen.

But a witness, described as 'foreign' in local media, has since come forward to claim that he saw three men beating Aaron. According to reports, he was pushed to the ground before being kicked in the head, and later died of his injuries in capital Palma's Son Espases Hospital after medics failed to revive him. The precise cause of his death has not yet been confirmed.

Detectives say they are now scouring CCTV footage recorded on the night of his death while quizzing hotel customers and staff as they try to trace his attackers.

It is believed he decided to continue partying after partner Daniella Baxter returned to their accommodation.

She paid an emotional tribute to him on social media as she wrote: "I love you Aaron Hendy Henderson always and forever, you've made me the happiest I've ever been in my entire life. "Life is cruel... Love and miss you always... My babes xxxxxxxx."

Tributes have also been flooding in to the Facebook page of his family business Paul Henderson Wholesale, which has attracted more than 400 messages of condolence.

FUENTE DE PIEDRA: There are currently around 35,000 flamingos at the lake.

Pretty in pink

LAGUNA DE FUENTE DE PIEDRA is awash with pink.

In the wake of heavy spring rains, the salty lagoon in Antequera, around an hour inland from Malaga, has filled with water.

And with it have come an estimated 35,000 greater flamingos, with at least 10,500 breeding pairs.

The lake is the only temporary wetland in Europe where large numbers of the majestic birds reproduce on a regular but intermittent basis, and it becomes the continent's second biggest colony when conditions are right.

Violent death probe goes on POLICE continue to probe the violent death of a woman on the Costa del Sol.

It comes after the unnamed Bulgarian expatriate was found dead at her home on Calle Isla de Inca, Fuengirola, with her 38-year-old son held on suspicion of stabbing her 13 times.

Investigators say that the alleged culprit also butchered two of his mother's cats before attacking her.

It remains unclear whether the victim was dead when officers arrived at the scene, as the investigation remains shrouded in secrecy.

Investigators have confirmed that the man was arrested 'immediately' after the incident, and he has been admitted to hospital after a judge ruled he was too 'mentally unstable' to be interrogated by detectives.

ating out of a Costa del Sol marina have sparked outrage.

It comes after Benalmadena Council put contracts for companies based at the holiday hotspot's Puerta Marina out to public tender.

And the move has left existing operators furious, since it forces competing businesses to pay the town hall 50 cents per passenger and another 50 cents each time they moor up.

Gonzalo Medina, who has headed a local firm for 37 years, said: "Other towns like Marbella ask for €600 per year, and in Malaga it costs 14 cents per person, so it's ridiculous for Benalmadena to demand 50 cents, and worse they've done it at this time of year so we have no time to plan."

Boat owner Adrian Perez added that the new conditions "aren't profitable and will drive us to ruin," while Jose Rosello, who runs a decade-old tour company, believes that "big foreign brands will win the contracts and leave dozens of families out of work."

The council has not responded to a comment request.

Got his number

Brit playboy probed for false plates

by Matt Ford

A SELF-STYLED 'maverick tycoon' who drove his €300,000 supercar through the front window of a Mallorca shop has escaped with a €500 fine.

But playboy millionaire Jody Sanders, 39, is now being quizzed for illegally modifying the licence plate of the convertible Rolls Royce Dawn involved in the accident.

Investigators believe he has substituted the number 1 with a letter J, so that it reads JODY, as the vehicle remains impounded in Calvia.

The new probe comes after the property magnate turned up to a police station in Palma five hours after reversing through the façade of a Portal Nous tobacconist while two bikini-clad women took selfies on the back seat of the car.

He told the shop owner his flip-flop got stuck under the accelerator pedal during a phone call in the wake of the smash, with the pricey motor 'narrowly missing' around 20 people dining on a terrace.

A well-placed source told UK media: "He passed a breath test although several hours had elapsed since the crash and he was reported for reckless driving.

"Because he paid up there and then, he got a 50 per cent discount so ended up handing over €250.

"The damage he's caused to his car and the tobacco shop is another matter and bound to run into thousands of pounds but that's a matter for him, the shop owner and the insurance people.

"He put [the five-hour delay] down to one of the women he was with being injured so his first concern was to get her to hospital."

It has also emerged that the trio were accompanied by a second man who popped into a nearby chemist just prior to the accident, and that Jody may have lost control while reversing the wrong way up the road to pick him up.

A SNAP of Spain's Alfred and Amaia taken during rehearsals for the Eurovision Song Contest will not lead to the country being thrown out of the competition.

The romantically-involved singers were almost sent packing after Brisa Fenoy, a professional judge appointed by Spanish broadcaster TVE, posted a photograph of the couple practising on social media.

Members of the jury are strictly forbidden from publishing material that could influence voting ahead of the final.

The shot was quickly deleted with the European Broadcasting Union saying it understood that the blunder was 'an involuntary error,' before axing an official probe.

Spain's entry in this year's contest, Tu Cancion (Your Song), was written especially for Alfred and Amaia, who fell for each other on a reality TV talent show.

The final takes place in Portuguese capital Lisbon on Saturday and the duo are hoping to improve on last year's dismal performance when Do It For Your Lover by Manel Navarro finished last.

Spain have won Eurovision twice, first in 1968 with the song La, La, La by Massiel followed by Vivo Cantando by Salome a year later, the latter in a four-way tie with France, the Netherlands and the UK's entry Boom Bang-a-Bang by Lulu.

Both Spain and Britain go straight into this year's final as part of the 'Big 5' making the biggest financial contributions to the contest.

But while the Spanish pair are among the favourites, bookies have failed to even place the UK's SuRie - who will sing Storm - in the top 20 ahead of the showpiece.

BOOZE BLUES: Playa de Ingles and (inset) one of the revellers after being cuffed by police.

Drunk let off

Irish pair cleared of robbery rap

By Staff Reporter

A CANARY ISLANDS judge has cleared two 26-year-old Irish revellers of theft after ruling they broke into a holiday flat by mistake because they were too drunk.

Two Spanish women who had rented the accommodation in the popular resort of Playa del Ingles, Gran Canaria, claimed they had lost €280 in cash and a pair of sunglasses after finding one of the men asleep on their bed and the other on the sofa.

But a local court in San Bartolome de Tirajana heard there was 'no evidence' to suggest the unnamed pair - who were staying in the same complex - stole the items, concluding that they mistook the flat for their own after a night partying.

An official statement said that the holidaymakers "had been drinking a lot and do not remember how they accessed the apartment... in fact they thought they were in their own room."

A police report confirmed they were 'extremely intoxicated,' and that it took officers '20 minutes' to wake them up.

The ruling added that the door to the property had not been forced and that the accused only had €22 in their pockets when they were arrested.

SEIZED: Three modified craft and guns were impounded in police raids.

€17.7m drugs haul

A JOINT sting by Spanish National Police, Guardia Civil and the Tax Agency has seen a giant 3.7 tonne hashish haul worth €17.7 million seized in southern Spain.

Fourteen people have been held during raids in the Andalucian provinces of Cadiz, Malaga, and Huelva, plus the North African Spanish enclave Ceuta, while three modified speed boats equipped with high-powered engines, a yacht, a fishing boat, nine cars, guns and more than €100,000 in cash were seized.

It comes in the wake of an 18-month probe, sparked when drug enforcement investigators were alerted to a suspicious semi-rigid boat which docked repeatedly in Bajadilla Marina, Marbella.

And it soon became clear that the vessel was being used by a drug trafficking gang based in the Campo de Gibraltar area of Cadiz.

The first two arrests were made when a boat sailing from El Terron in Huelva to Morocco was in February intercepted with 1.5 tonnes of hashish aboard.

A month later a second craft was tracked as it travelled from Cadiz to Morocco, with four additional gang members jailed.

And intelligence gained from these swoops allowed detectives to identify the ringleaders, leading to a further round of eight arrests.

Brit assault victim found in roadside ditch

by Staff Reporter

ALICANTE COLLEGE OF NURSING has claimed that two ambulance crew members who tested positive for drugs after 'losing' a British attack victim on the way to hospital were not paramedics.

The institution released a statement in the wake of the pair being held by police in which it said it wanted to 'make clear' that the men were 'emergency health technicians,' and that no nursing professionals had been involved in the shocking incident.

It comes after the unnamed victim was found lying unconscious in a ditch a few hundred metres from La Villajoyosa Regional Hospital.

He had allegedly suffered serious injuries during a brawl between four Britons in central Benidorm, with National Police officers calling for an ambulance after attending the scene.

But when they called the hospital several hours later in order to write their report, they were told that no-one in emergencies knew anything about the man, and it transpired that he never arrived.

According to Spanish me-

MEDICAL SHAME: The brawl took place in central Benidorm and (inset) an ambulance operated by ASV Transport Sanitario Ayuda Group.

dia, the ambulance workers had returned to their depot, and when contacted by investigators said that the victim 'woke up in the middle of the journey' and started to attack one of them.

And when the driver stopped the vehicle and opened the back door the injured party 'escaped.'

Police launched a search for the Briton, and called the ambulance back out when they found him, at which point they noticed that the two crew members were behaving strangely.

A Guardia Civil traffic patrol was drafted in and local media confirmed they tested positive for cocaine, cannabis and alcohol before being held and charged with failing to assist a person in danger.

The Valencian Health Department has requested a full report of the incident, while sources reportedly told local media that the two men had been suspended without pay but could soon return to work.

Rosa Louis Cereceda, manager of the directorate of the local health department, claimed no knowledge of the incident when quizzed, pointing out that the ambulance service is subcontracted to a private company.

The ASV Transport Sanitario Ayuda Group, the temporary union for the firm providing the service, did not respond to a comment request.

GET PROTECTED: Make certain you are insured if you take part in activities.

Cover your hols

By Karl Smallman

LAST year more than one in five Brits holidayed abroad without any, or inadequate, travel insurance, according to travel agents' trade body ABTA.

And of those who did take out cover more than a quarter of them risked invalidating their policies for failing to declare pre-existing medical conditions or by taking part in activities that were not covered.

The most common reason people gave for not buying travel insurance was that people felt it wasn't needed and their European Health Insurance Card would provide sufficient cover. But the EHIC scheme only provides access to state medical care and does not include repatriation to the UK.

This could cost you thousands should you require an air ambulance. Around a third of the people surveyed said the cost of insurance put them off buying it. The Association of British Travel Agents is now urging people to avoid costly medical bills should something go wrong by doing their homework before they go on their summer holiday.

Chief executive Mark Tanzer said, "Every year we see cases of people falling into difficulty.

"While not declaring existing medical conditions or taking part in activities that aren't covered are easy mistakes to make, they can leave holidaymakers with medical bills that run into thousands of pounds."

"I'd urge all holidaymakers to make sure they take out travel insurance and check that it covers their circumstances and holiday plans."

Stalker nightmare

Brit expat jailed after 'abusive campaign'

by Staff Reporter

A BRITISH expatriate who lives on the Costa Blanca has been jailed for stalking his ex-wife.

Philip Carter, 40, sent his former spouse threatening emails and used social media to call her names, spread lies about her, and harass her family.

The Benidorm resident even attached a tracking device to her car during the terrifying four-month ordeal, Exeter Crown Court heard.

Mum-of-one Caroline Perkins, a teacher from Torbay in Devon, became so frightened she took to sleeping with a knife under her pillow and lost weight, TORMENT OVER: The hearing took place at Exeter Crown Court and saw Philip Carter handed a nine-month jail sentence.

the prosecution said.

Carter was due to stand trial after he denied stalking but pleaded guilty on the first morning and was handed a nine-month prison sentence plus a 10-year restraining order.

Judge Simon Carr said:

"I hope all you feel is shame. This was abusive, threatening and very frightening."

Nigel Wraith, prosecuting, said the accused and victim had been married for three years before they divorced in November 2016, and that they have a young daughter together.

But when Carter travelled back to the UK in April the following year he found that his former flame had moved on and started to make financial demands.

"He embarked upon a campaign issuing extremely unpleasant and abusive threats to her, her family and friends and properties," Mr Wraith added.

"The campaign of threatening behaviour was very serious and caused her to be fearful and live her life differently to how she would choose to have done if he wasn't harassing her." A raft of abusive messages penned by Carter were read aloud in court, including one addressed to the headteacher of St Cuthbert Mayne School in Torquay accusing her of mixing with drug dealers.

In November 2017 she moved in with a friend but he 'had by now placed a tracker on her motor vehicle.' A statement by the victim revealed that she felt like she was in hiding, took a series of different routes home after work, was unable to sleep and became depressed and jumpy.

"I can't see any end to Philip's actions. He's unstoppable, he'll stop at nothing. I feel he's still controlling everything I do on a daily basis. I worry at cars parked outside. I pull over to let other cars past. I feel I'll never be free of Philip and I'm always watching my back," it said.

Barry White, mitigating, said that the accused now wished to get on with his life and would return to Spain.

"He has no desire for ongoing contact with her," he added.

And Carter, originally from Gayton-Le-Marsh in Lincolnshire, was freed having already served five months of his sentence.

Rape suspect being held

AN Irish fugitive has been held in Spanish capital Madrid on a European Arrest Warrant.

The unnamed suspect was remanded in custody as he was about to flee to Brazil via Lisbon, Portugal.

He is reportedly wanted in his home country for the alleged abduction and rape of a young woman, and will now face extradition proceedings.

According to a National Police statement, the victim was bundled into a car by five men, but it is unclear whether the other four remain at large.

The operation was coordinated by the European Network of Fugitive Active Search Teams, dubbed ENFAST, a network of police officers on call 24 hours a day who are able to 'immediately undertake action to locate and arrest fugitives.'

Brit expat thrill-seekers held

BASE STUPIDITY: The daredevils were caught trying to parachute off Torre Levante.

by Matt Ford

FOUR British expatriates face fines of up to €300,000 after being caught trying to leap from a 33-floor skyscraper on the Costa Blanca.

The unnamed thrill-seekers were reportedly surprised by police as they prepared to launch themselves off the 120-metre Torre Levante building on the Benidorm seafront with para-chutes strapped to their backs.

Their arrests follow a brief probe after investigators were tipped off about a series of internet videos filmed by the BASE jumping quartet.

An official revealed that the daredevils are suspected of performing several illegal jumps in the area, before confirming that their parachutes, helmets and other equipment have been seized.

BASE jumping is the practice of parachuting from a fixed structure or cliff and is considered much more dangerous than sky diving from a plane due to the relatively low height of the jumps.

The abbreviation stands for building, antenna, span, and earth (cliff), the four types of object from which fans of the extreme sport typically hurl themselves.

ANIMAL TRAGIC: The cat died during the ordeal.

‘Pure cruelty’

Teen held over pet torture clip

POLICE have tracked down a woman who sparked a social media meltdown after posting video footage of her spin-drying a cat online.

The unnamed 19-year-old from Villarrubia de los Ojos in Ciudad Real has been held by police after the animal died during the ordeal.

During the shocking clip, she is heard to say “looks like people were right about cats having seven lives,” before adding detergent and switching to a wash cycle.

And after the video - entitled Gatolavadora (cat washing machine) - appeared online, she uploaded a picture of the animal taken prior to the incident captioned: “The cat is now dead... yes the bad luck cat.”

More than 300,000 people signed a petition on the Change.org website as they lobbied the Ministry of Justice to charge the culprit.

Animal rights political group PACMA also voiced its outrage as it called for ‘the maximum penalty for animal cruelty,’ including an 18-month jail sentence and a three-year ban from keeping pets.

Council crackdown

‘We just won’t tolerate it’

BENIDORM is cracking down on rowdy holiday-makers.

It comes in the wake of a series of incidents involving drunk British revellers, after a group of men staggering around ‘half naked’ were told to cover up or be fined, before a quartet of thrill-seekers were held as they prepared to parachute off a skyscraper.

The town’s security councillor Lorenzo Martinez revealed he spoke personally to the shirtless tourists, as he announced: “This type of behaviour cannot be tolerated.”

Extra police officers have also been drafted in for the summer party season, and they have been told to make themselves more visible by organising early morning beach front patrols.

The council said in a

NO FUN PLEASE: Boozy Brits will be fined.

statement that it is aiming to cut out “uncivic behaviour” since it damages the image of the resort, and it has designed a new awareness campaign to get the message across.

Mr Martinez added that he has already held a series of meetings with local business owners from the Levante Beach area, but confirmed that British sun-seekers are “fundamental” to the city’s economy.

The move follows recent changes to laws in Marbella on the Costa del Sol, where British stag and hen parties are to be fined up to €750 for roaming the streets drunk, semi-naked or wielding inflatable sex toys.

And in Mallorca 64 new rules have been passed prohibiting bad behaviour among holidaymakers, with tourists fined for everything from dropping a cigarette in the street to streaking and having sex in public.

A JEALOUS Guardia Civil officer from the Costa Blanca has been jailed for 22 years after trying to murder a female colleague and her family.

The convicted Spaniard - who cannot be named for legal reasons - was found guilty of spiking the victim's food with rat poison and an insecticide, and robbing personal effects including lingerie and a sex toy.

Valencia's Superior Court heard that he attempted to poison the woman, her husband and three-year-old son 'on several occasions,' sneaking into her property on the barracks where he also lived after making a copy of her house keys which he stole from the caretaker's office.

He recorded his thoughts on a Word document recovered from his computer during a raid on his home.

Extracts from the file read in court included: "She seems to be incredibly happy and I can't stand it, she doesn't let me sleep at night.

"Envy corrodes and chokes me."

And he even admitted his intention to harm the family as he wrote: "The time has come to see if I really have the courage to do this, I have planned it so many times in my head but one thing is to think about it and another is to dare to do it.

"I think I'm too cowardly, but if I don't do it I think I'll burst."

The victim first became suspicious when a USB pen drive containing images of her in sexually compromising positions went missing.

Other belongings, including expired identity cards, passports and car keys later vanished while the family were out, sparking an official probe.

And when detectives swooped on the culprit's home they unearthed the lost items plus a small bottle containing one of the toxic chemicals detected in their food.

Having been convicted by Alicante's Provincial Court, he had appealed on the grounds that he had laced the food with 'very small doses without risk to the family.'

But prosecutors argued that he had concocted 'a murderous plan,' and that since he is not a toxicology expert 'he was unable to tell whether the doses were harmless or not,' reminding the court that one of the victims was a child and another [the husband] undergoing cancer treatment.

The judge ruled that he was guilty 'without a doubt,' in the wake of the hearing, an official statement said.

Fresh migrant crisis

Hundreds rescued by coastguard

A TOTAL of 476 people bound for Spain have been rescued by the country's coastguards in the Mediterranean during a surge in crossings triggered by favourable weather conditions.

Three were taken to hospital with hypothermia, chest pains and a suspected fractured ankle, according to Red Cross sources quoted in Spanish media.

Those three were from around 111 migrants, made up of 103 men and eight women, of the total of 308 picked up on Friday.

Two were taken to Malaga while another was airlifted by helicopter to Almeria 'sick and semi-unconscious,' according to reports.

Maritime Rescue patrols located and rescued the 476 men, women and children from a total of 15 vessels on Friday and Saturday. Calm weather in the Strait of Gibraltar was reportedly a factor in the number of crossings made.

Antonio Sanz Cabello, the government's delegate in Malaga, said on Twitter a total of 308 migrants had arrived on the Andalusian coast in eight boats by the end of Friday.

In a later post he thanked coastguards for their 'professionalism and delivery' during the operations.

RESCUED: Hundreds of migrants were picked up by coastguards in the Mediterranean while attempting to reach Spain at the weekend.

In a separate development a further 105 migrants were reportedly rescued by Proactiva Open Arms, a refugee NGO, in the sea near Libya during their own operation. The group reportedly found the migrants in a boat without an engine.

Most of the migrants picked up over the weekend are believed to be from sub-Saharan Africa. A total of 22,429 people have arrived on the coasts of Europe since the start of this year and 615 have died making the journey, according to United Nations estimates.

Budget airline sets up UK base

By Staff Reporter

ULTRA-LOW-COST airline Wizz Air has set up a UK subsidiary company based at Luton Airport to deal with the Brexit aftermath.

The new company has been granted an Air Operator's Certificate (AOC) and Operating Licence (OL) by the United Kingdom's Civil Aviation Authority. Wizz Air UK will have eight new Airbus A320 and A321 aircraft in service by the end of 2018 - an investment of £630 million - and will create around 300 new management, pilot and cabin crew jobs.

CEO Jozsef Varadi said, "While Wizz Air UK is a key part of our Brexit contingency plan, it is also the first genuine ultra-low cost carrier licensed in the UK and the natural next step in the development of our UK business."

He added, "It puts us in a strong position to take advantage of opportunities that may arise in what remains Europe's largest travel market."

Wizz Air is now the eighth largest airline group operating in the UK, with flights to 74 destinations in 23 countries from nine UK airports.

Jozsef Varadi recently met with Theresa May to discuss aviation concerns post-Brexit and thinks UK government has the situation in hand.

Minister slammed after comments recorded by Greg Kirby

A RECORDING of a senior Spanish minister slamming elderly people has landed the ruling Popular party in hot water.

Secretary of State for Communication, Carmen Martínez Castro said of pensioners protesting over state pensions: "It makes you want to give them the finger and say: 'go and fk yourselves'."

Isabel Montaña - a journalist for Valencia's 12TV television station - captured the official's words on her microphone.

The politician made her comments as Prime Minister Mariano Rajoy got out of his car to the sound of booing protesters during a visit to Alicante.

and 'early retirement now!' as the leader made his way to city hall to honour his party's new mayor, Luis Barcala.

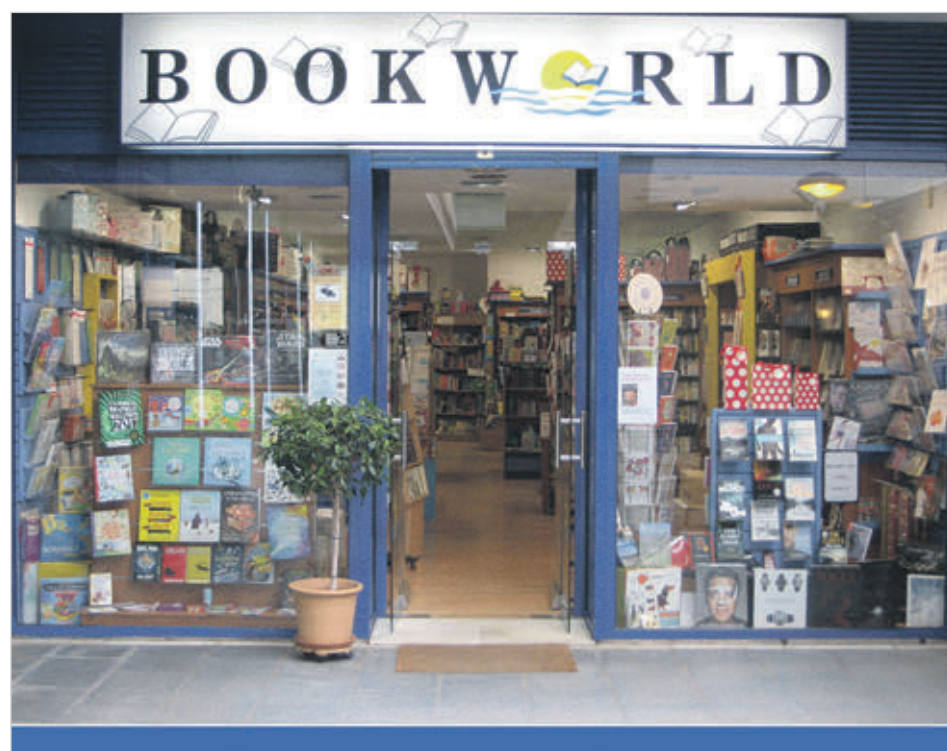

A video of the recording is already circulating on social network Twitter.

Martínez has since apologised to anybody who was offended by what she described as "jokey comment."

She admitted it was inappropriate and made her look "indecent," although the footage was censored by national and local television stations.

It comes amid ongoing protests from retirees who say the prime minister's pension plans are 'undignified.'

Senators pass Gibraltar motion

by Joe Gerrard

A MOTION addressing Spain's position on Gibraltar as the territory prepares to depart with Britain from the European Union has been passed by a body of the Spanish Senate.

The Foreign Affairs Commission's motion addressed issues such as cross-border workers and Spain's position on the British enclave's sovereignty.

Its purpose was to set out a consensus position on the government in Madrid's attitude to Gibraltar going forward, a Partido Popular (PP) spokesperson from the Commission said.

Carlos Aragonés Mendiguchía added the statement backed co-existence and the rule of law in relation to the territory.

He said Brexit gave Spain "unprecedented negotiating leverage" in relation to Gibraltar, with the motion also highlighting Spain's ambitions for a say over its governance.

The motion called on the Spanish government to reach a "bilateral understanding" with Britain over the territory in line with previous agreements.

It cited proposals for joint rule over Gibraltar which were put to a referendum and rejected with 98.5 per cent of votes cast against the plans in 2002.

MOTION PASSED: The motion called for the joint management of Gibraltar's airport among other positions.

It referenced proposals for shared sovereignty tabled by Spain at the United Nations in 2016 which were also dismissed by Gibraltar authorities.

The motion called for 'joint management of the airport situation on the isthmus, above all the entrance into the Schengen area of said airport.'

The Schengen agreement covers the free movement of EU citizens within the bloc. Britain is not signed up to that free movement area.

The Foreign Affairs Commission's document also called on Spanish authorities to reach an agreement which favoured Spanish interests and those of people living in the Campo de Gibraltar.

Many of those living in the Campo cross the border regularly to the territory to work or visit relatives and friends.

A QUARRY in Lancashire is supplying Barcelona's La Sagrada Familia with stone to help complete the building.

Brinscall quarry in Withnell, near Chorley, was selected alongside other sites across the world to ship the stone to the basilica.

The sandstone needed by builders for the church was previously quarried at Montjuïc near Barcelona until reserves there were exhausted.

Stone was being sourced from demolished buildings until Brinscall and others were chosen to help with supplies, according to the quarry's owners Armstrongs.

Armstrongs said the ongoing project was one which all of Chorley and the north west of England could be proud of.

"Without doubt this is the most historic and prestigious job any quarry in the UK is currently undertaking," the company said in a statement.

Armstrongs added sandstone from the Brinscall quarry was being used for the Nativity and Passion facades on either side of the front of the church.

La Sagrada Familia was designed by Catalan architect Antoni Gaudí, who began working on the project in 1883. He became Architect Director the following year.

The church was between 15 and 25 per cent complete when Gaudí died in 1926. Work to finish it has continued with interruptions ever since.

Building work on the main features is set to finish in 2026, the 100-year anniversary of Gaudí's death.

Decorative parts of the building are due for completion by 2032.

Puigdemont back in running

Lawmakers pass measures to restore former leader

by Joe Gerrard

FORMER Cataluña President Carles Puigdemont could return to the post after regional parliamentarians backed rule changes which would allow him to be sworn in remotely.

Supporters of the ousted leader said they aimed to return him to power by Monday. Eduard Pujol, a spokesperson for Puigdemont's Junts Per Catalunya party, added they did not want fresh regional elections as a result.

CREDIT: Shutterstock/Cataluña Parlament, via Twitter

COMEBACK: Carles Puigdemont (inset) could become Cataluña's president again.

The new measures were passed by Cataluña's legislature by a margin of 70 for and 64 against last Friday. They stated Puigdemont would not have to appear in person to be sworn into office.

Ines Arrimadas, the leader of the pro-unionist Ciudadanos party, said Puigdemont's time had passed and that power should not be in the hands of those who want to 'break Spain.'

"The 'Puigdemont Law' is tailor-made for a fugitive escaping from justice and it is a challenge to democratic rules that will not get him anywhere," she said.

The government in Madrid plans to fight the passage of the new rules in the Constitutional Court, with the Council of Ministers approving appeal efforts on Monday.

Previous attempts to return Puigdemont to the presidency were scuppered by Spain's Constitutional Court. It ruled he would have to be present in the region's Parliament to be legally sworn in.

Puigdemont remains in Germany on bail in connection with an extradition request from Spain after being charged over last year's independence referendum and declaration.

The former president would likely face trial for sedition, rebellion and corruption if he returned to Spain. A court turned down the request to extradite Puigdemont back to the country on rebellion charges on the grounds there was no equivalent offence in German law.

He could still be sent back to Spain on lesser charges of corruption, with the government in Madrid claiming funds were misused to hold the referendum.

Dog show breaks records

HUNDREDS of people recently came to Estepona's Palacio de Congresos either to watch or take part in ADANA's annual great dog show.

Over 100 dogs were entered for the competitions, which included agility tests and a Mr and Miss Estepona competition.

In addition to the competitions, there were stalls offering a variety of mainly dog-related items as well as the cafe, run as usual by Trish and her team.

ADANA would like to thank organisers Andy Sprake and Nazli Vet at Pointer Clinic as well as Trish Mansfield and everyone who helped in any way to make this event such a success.

Rambling sponsored walk

THIS Saturday, the 'Rambling with AI' group will be holding their annual sponsored walk to raise money for the four charities they support, SOS Animals, AID (Animals In Distress), ARCH (Andalucian Rescue Centre for Horses) and Cudeca.

There will be two separate walks on the day, one of 15k and a shorter one of 5km, which is suitable for all levels and ages.

If you would like to participate and obtain a sponsor form, please contact AI at alan@alrumbles.org. All 15km walkers must register with AI before the walk, but participants can register on the day for the shorter 5k walk.

The walk will begin at Los Llanos sports ground in Coin. The 15km walk will start at 9.30am and the 5km walk will start at 12.30pm.

There will be snacks and drinks available at the finish line for a donation.

A fusion of culture

THE Arts Society Costa del Sol will be holding a lecture at the Salon Varietes Theatre in Fuen-girola on Monday at 4.30pm.

The lecture is entitled 'The Cordoba Mosque, A Fusion of Culture' and will be given by Jacqueline Cockburn.

She will discuss the fascin-ating period in Spanish history from when the Moors arrived to Spain in 711 and established their Caliphate in Cordoba, through the 800 years of their presence on the peninsula.

Everyone is welcome, entry is €10. For more information, please call Yvonne Sjukvist on 952 858 952 or 617 368 414, or visit www.theartsociety-costadelsol.org.

Riverside Benahavis

RIVERSIDE recently an-nounced details of their new property development that will be constructed in Benahavis.

The new development will be set on the banks of the river Guadalmina, and framed by countryside of unparalleled beauty.

The spacious three-bedroom homes will boast floor-to-ceil-ing windows to make the most of the spectacular setting.

The location means that res-idents will only be a short dis-tance from leisure and enter-tainment areas offering bars and restaurants. It's real bonus though, is the variety of golf courses, marinas, walking trails and waterfalls all within 10 minutes by car.

STREET BUSKERS: The Molina branch enjoyed the sights and sounds of Cordoba.

Something for everyone

MEMBERS and friends of the Molina branch of the Royal British Legion recently spent a splendid day in Cordoba for the festival of patios.

Their day included a tour on the Red Bus, visits to histori-cal buildings and a horse and cart ride.

They managed to raise almost €200 for the Poppy Appeal on the day.

The Molina branch meets on the second and fourth Tues-day of each month at 11am in the pool bar of Parque La Vina.

You do not have to have served in the armed forces to come along or indeed join.

A NEW creative writers' group is to be established in the Torremolinos area.

It is thought that meetings would be held once or twice a month, with members writing on set themes or in-dividually, and sharing ideas and con-structive criticism.

A smile from Irania

LA CALA DE MIJAS Lions Club were overjoyed and humbled when they recently got to see the specially designed car platform and hoist in use by Irania Berrocal Benjuma. This new piece of equipment was purchased through a donation of €6,500 that the President of the Lion's Club, Julie Barry, recently presented to Ma Del Mar Benjumea.

Irania goes regularly to ADIMI in Fuengirola for horse riding therapy. Based in La Cala Hills, on the Coin road, this wonderful organisation has helped her over many years with physiotherapy and speech therapy.

Don't forget that La Cala de Mijas Lions will be holding their fashion show and spring fayre on Monday from 11.30am to 5pm at the Tamisa Golf Hotel. There will be music and singing on the day along with lots of quality stalls and a raffle. Snacks will be available and a cold buffet lunch will be served at 1.30pm. Entrance is free but tickets for the buffet lunch are €20, including a drink. Tickets for the lunch are available from the charity shop in La Cala.

With nearly €60,000 being donated last year, the La Cala de Mijas Lions are always looking for new members as well as volunteers for their charity shop in 12 Calle Torremolinos in La Cala. This year the club celebrates 20 years of service to the local community.

Visit their charity shop to find out more about what they do or bring donations of clothes, bric-a-brac, etc. The shop is open from Monday to Saturday, 10am to 2pm. For more information, please call 677 059 061.

Fantastic fundraiser

THE recent charity cabaret night for Animals in Distress was a tremendous success.

Jordans Bar in Coin was packed with a lovely audience who enjoyed various songs from 'The Sound Bites.'

A total of €800 was raised for this worthy cause and was gratefully received by the charity, who explained that it couldn't have come at a better time as they are expecting a hefty bill from the vet this month.

Mortgage Expert
by Sara

WHEN looking to buy a property in Spain, securing a mortgage would probably be one of the first steps in the process for most people.

Bank in Spain is a mortgage broker specialised in expats and international clients buying a house in the sun.

"How much mortgage can I get?" is normally the first question we get," Sara Stannard says. She works as a British Client Advisor in the mortgage broker, Bank in Spain, specialised in expats and international clients buying their holiday home in Spain.

"The maximum you can get in a mortgage, would be 70 per cent of the purchase price excluding taxes and fees.

"The best conditions you get on mortgages up to around 60 per cent of the purchase price." Sara continues, "Different from the UK, Spanish banks do not include the costs related to buying a property nor the costs related to taking out a mortgage. For several years after the financial crisis, many Spanish banks were reluctant to offer new mortgages. This has now changed and the banks are once again open for lending out money.

"We are not yet back to the mortgage boom we saw before 2008, but now the competition is fierce between the banks on good mortgages," she continues.

The number of mortgages signed in Spain has seen a steady increase since 2014.

Only in 2017, the increase was close to 10 per cent as compared to the previous year.

Despite this increase, we are still a long way from the mortgage boom of 10 years ago.

According to the Spanish National Statistics office, the number of mortgages signed in 2017 was only a mere 25 per cent of the mortgages signed in 2007 - at the top of the boom.

The conditions offered to expats vary surprisingly between the banks, but in some areas they are similar.

Interest-only mortgages and 100 per cent mortgages are a thing of the past.

"Currently, 100 per cent mortgages are only offered on certain bank repossessions with no option of selecting the lender."

Keith Rule and off plan refunds in Spain

Costa Luz Lawyers

by Keith

THE name is very possibly familiar to you all. Keith Rule, Milton Keynes based business man, was a pioneer on promoting the action which is giving back to both foreigner and national off plan buyers in Spain their hard earned savings of a life time.

On starting a series of articles for this publication, I have no doubt on beginning with a short account of what this name means for the off plan industry in Spain and the recovery of trust in the system.

Keith Rule saw, with a meridian clarity, that banks involved in off plan projects from publicity to contracts had to be liable, together with developers, of the bad results of those projects and face the consequences before the buyer who trusted in their inclusion in the project as a back-up institution.

Regardless of clients holding the titles of guarantee or not.

Being called reckless by some and being refused as a client by many law firms, he insisted and found a law firm willing to take the risk and advance.

The case he represented was won in April 2013 in Albacete and since then he has helped hundreds of other off plan buyers in Spain to obtain their refunds.

Now, after 10 years of exigent work to the cause he is still battling with the help of Costaluz Lawyers to make clearer the fields for property investment in Spain. We thank him and congratulate him for his vision and efforts.

HACKED OFF: Experts said cyber attacks were picking up ahead of the World Cup.

Online strikes step up ahead of World Cup

ONLINE attacks aimed at Russia and people heading to the country for the World Cup are becoming more frequent and sophisticated, crime analysts have said. Scams including spam emails about winning tickets to the event and fake websites offering cheap flights and hotels have sprung up and popular websites have been infected with viruses.

Demonstrators fined

PROTESTORS in St Petersburg have been arrested and fined for waving non-Russian flags and some were jailed following May Day rallies. Vadim Charushev was reportedly fined 11,000 rubles (€ 143) after allegedly being caught with a British flag and was charged for violating public assembly laws and resisting arrest.

Syria crash deaths

TWO Russian pilots were killed after a military plane crashed off the coast of Syria in what is reportedly believed to have been an accident. The Sukhoi Su-30SM fighter jet plunged into the sea shortly after taking off from Russia's Khmeimim air base where planes regularly fly from to target troops fighting Syrian government forces.

'Statue vandal' caught

A MAN who allegedly toppled a sculpture of Russia's ruble currency in the town of Syktyvkar has reportedly confessed less than a week after the incident, according to local police. The glass and metal statue of the Russian Cyrillic letter R was found shattered on the ground shortly after the incident last month.

Haircuts for veterans

MOSCOW authorities arranged for Second World War veterans arriving in the city for the Victory Day celebrations to receive free haircuts. Barbers were also on hand to provide free home services for the former soldiers, Moscow region consumer official Vladimir Posazhenikov said.

'Monstration' march

SEVERAL people took to the streets of Moscow for Monstration marches recently for a light-hearted take on protesting. An estimated 100 to 150 people turned out, with demonstrators bearing signs which read: 'We Ban Bans,' 'Piece, Work, Nonsense' and 'The Future Ripens in a Corner.' The idea behind the protests is to spoof traditional demonstrations by carrying signs which make little or no sense.

'BAN BANS': Between 100 and 150 people took part in the parody protests.

Countries show united tax front

FRANCE and Spain have agreed on the need for 'financial harmonisation' in the European Union to clamp down on tax havens and unfair competition between member states.

It comes as French Minister of European Affairs, Nathalie Loiseau, and Spanish Secretary of State for European Affairs, Jorge Toledo, attended a debate organised by the Faculty of Law at Madrid's Complutense University.

Both officials also insisted that 'Euroscepticism must be fought against,' with citizens becoming 'more invested in the European project'.

Norwegian rejects IAG bids

by Matt Ford

LONG-HAUL budget airline Norwegian Air Shuttle (NAS) says it has unanimously rejected two takeover offers from the owner of British Airways.

International Airlines Group (IAG), which owns 4.6 per cent of Norwegian, is reportedly aiming to increase its share of the market amid fears of competition from low-cost rivals.

But the NAS board said in a statement that it had rejected IAG's 'conditional proposals' because they 'undervalued NAS and its prospects.'

The rapidly-expanding carrier added that the board 'would remain fully committed to delivering on its stated strategy.'

Shares in the airline plummeted by up to 10 per cent in the wake of the failed bid before a slight recovery.

IAG last month announced that it had acquired a minor stake in NAS 'intended to establish a position from which to initiate discussion, including the possibility of a full offer for the firm.'

But in an analyst presentation the company confirmed it had failed to strike a full takeover deal as it said: "IAG confirms that it has had contact with the Norwegian board regarding a possible offer, without reaching an agreement."

"IAG is currently considering its options in relation to Norwegian."

The company - which also owns Spanish flag-carrier Iberia - also revealed a jump in operating profits in the first quarter of 2018, with underlying earnings before exceptional items up to €280 million compared to €160 million over the same period last year.

Economy cheer as hike goes on

THE General Council of Economists has revised its growth forecasts for Spain.

According to the national body, gross domestic product is expected to rise by 2.6 per cent in 2018 and 2.4 per cent in 2019.

The figure represents an increase of one 10th compared to earlier predictions.

It comes after the country's economy expanded by 0.7 per cent from January to March.

And it is expected to shoot up by a further 0.7 per cent over the next three months.

VAT'S UNBELIEVABLE: The gang reportedly laundered money via luxury car dealers.

THE Spanish tax agency, National Police and Europol have busted the country's biggest VAT fraud scheme, with the culprits accused of cheating the state out of at least €60 million.

Raids across the country saw 58 people held in Madrid, Elche, Malaga, Cordoba, Murcia, the Basque Country and Navarra, with €400,000 in cash and 52 high-end sports cars seized.

It comes in the wake of a three-year probe during which the gang's ringleaders, two men of Indian origin holding Spanish passports, were found to have built an elaborate racket after setting up 100 bogus companies.

The pair reportedly fled to the United States after realising that the authorities were investigating them, from where they continued to direct the scam.

Detectives said that the group specialised in the import and sale of undeclared electronic goods before laundering much of the proceeds via luxury car dealerships in Galicia.

€2.1bn tech tax scheme

SPAIN hopes to raise €2.1 billion by 2019 by slapping 'certain electronic transactions' with a new digital tax and using the cash to boost state pension hikes, Economy Minister Ramon Escolano has revealed.

Good job

THE Spanish Ministry of Employment has revealed that the number of jobless people across the country fell by 86,683 in April with more than 18.6 million now in paid work, the most for almost a decade.

Fuel's gold

MADRID-BASED global energy firm Repsol has announced an 8 per cent year-on-year increase in adjusted first-quarter profit after higher oil and gas prices helped the company rake in €616 million in January-March this year.

Uranium miner's list plan

LONDON-BASED mining firm Berkeley Energia has announced it is to apply for admission to the main board of the London Stock Exchange (LSE) and its Spanish equivalents in Madrid, Barcelona, Bilbao and Valencia.

The company - currently listed on the Alternative Investment sub-market of the LSE - owns a controversial uranium mine in Salamanca.

Managing Director Paul Atherle said the move "represents a major strategic move forward."

"It will allow us to build support amongst European institutional investors whilst we advance activities on site," he added.

Last summer, Berkeley received €100 million from Oman's sovereign wealth fund to help finish construction of the Spanish mine, with production set to start in early 2019.

New scheme just the ticket

EUROPEAN AIRLINES TO AXE CREDIT CARD CHARGES

THE global airline industry is set to wage war against credit card firms.

Working with German financial services company Deutsche Bank, carriers aim to save billions of Euros in transaction fees using a new electronic real-time payment system for web-based ticket sales.

The scheme, which does not yet have a brand name, is earmarked to be trialled in Germany before being rolled out across Europe by the end of 2018. Spaniard Javier Orejas, senior banking manager for the International Air Transport Association (IATA) in Europe, the Middle East, Africa and the Americas, said: "We are developing an industry-wide payment solution that is an alternative to credit cards."

According to IATA, credit card payment processing costs the industry up to €6.7 billion per year, with credit card companies including Visa and Mastercard charging between 1 and 3 per cent for each transaction.

But the new system will employ a fixed rate which will be "a matter of cents," Orejas added.

It has been made possible by a new

FARE ENOUGH: The new scheme will be trialled in Germany and has already gained the support of the country's biggest carrier Lufthansa.

European Union ruling that forces banks to hand third parties access to customer data and trigger payments.

Customers will enter their bank account details before Deutsche checks their balance in real time, collecting the fees and transferring the money to the relevant airline once it sees that sufficient funds are available.

"Most banks view this in a defensive manner and only reluctantly open their data," said Shahrokh Moinian, global head of cash products at Deutsche. "For us, it's an opportunity for change. We have asked ourselves: why can't we behave like a tech company?"

But introducing new payments systems can be tricky, because companies will only buy into schemes that their clients are willing to use, and vice versa.

IATA and Deutsche believe that convincing Europe's biggest airlines to adopt the system will see them break through this barrier.

"We are currently in talks with large carriers," Orejas told the Financial Times, noting that there is "a lot of appetite among airlines."

Meanwhile, travellers will be lured in with offers of flight discounts or extra loyalty miles.

Germany's largest carrier Lufthansa said in a statement that it is in favour of modern payment initiatives, adding: "We believe that competition in payment and distribution systems is a basic factor for decreasing cost while improving customer experience."

Tourists splash record amount in first quarter

MORE than 13.7 foreign tourists spent almost €14.4 million in Spain during the first quarter of 2018, according to the National Institute of Statistics.

The record figures represent increases of 6 and 7.7 per cent on the same period in 2017, respectively.

In March alone more than 5.4 million holidaymakers flocked to the country as visitor numbers soared by 9.6 per cent compared to last year.

The average tourist stayed for 7.5 days and spent €1,064, with Britons (2.8 million), Germans (1.85 million) and French (1.69 million) travellers topping the rankings in terms of numbers.

And the destinations raking in the most cash were the Canary Islands (€4.5 million), Cataluña (€3.1 million) and Andalucía (€2.2 million).

A-hunting we will go 'down under'

LEAPY LEE SAYS IT

OTHERS THINK IT

SO, there he stood.

Rick the Roo Boy, 6.30am, outside my hotel room, dangling some bewhiskered rodent up to the spy hole and asking 'if I was ready?'

For those who missed last week's introduction to this Australian saga, I was touring the great 'down under' and while appearing in Melbourne had recently mentioned in a radio interview that I had 'yet to see a kangaroo.' A local character had phoned in and offered to 'show me all the kangaroos I wanted.'

I had completely forgotten the incident and suddenly here he was, at my hotel room, raring to go, about 10 minutes after I personally had actually staggered into bed! His broad Australian 'rasp' once more penetrated my befuddled senses.

"Come on Leapy," he shouted through the door, "don't wanna be late.

"Freddy the ferret here wants to get him a few rabbits." What!?! Having very little choice I fumbled with the door and as he burst in I turned and moved hastily to the bedroom, calling over my shoulder for him to take a seat and that 'I wouldn't be a minute'.

AUSSIE RULES: Nurses, 'uppers' and bunny bashing.

I shut the bedroom door and flopped down onto the bed. Oh my God, I thought, what am I going to do? Well one thing was for sure, if I was going 'kangaroo hunting' I wasn't going on my own. Quickly downing a couple of 'wake up' pills, kindly donated by a couple of thoughtful young nurses, (who had only actually left around half an hour before!) I lifted the phone and began to ring around the group.

The first member, my drummer, didn't answer at all. The next two mumbling musos blearily uttered hardly discernible 'no ways,' even under the threats of getting an early flight back to Blighty.

Mike, my guitarist was next. Mike was just a big old softy really and after extreme begging and pleading, plus the promise of a couple of 'uppers,' he finally, very reluctantly, agreed to accompany me on the 'hunt.'

One hour later Mike, me, Rick the Roo Boy and Freddy the ferret were bouncing across the Australian outback in a jeep. We pulled up in the middle of nowhere. Rick leapt from the vehicle, clutching the wriggling Freddy in a sack and gleefully exclaiming that first, we were going to catch us a few rabbits for supper.

"Take these two clubs," he enthused, "and go over and stand on that hillock. I'll put Freddy down these burrows and when the rabbits pop out over there just hit 'em over the head!"

Oh really! Mick and I, both utterly 60's peace and love, further enhanced by the effects of the 'uppers' wandered reluctantly over to the distant, rabbit-holed mound, and just stood there, looking at each other. At that point those Australian rabbits were the safest animals on earth. There was no way in the world that either of us could have bashed their heads in as they emerged from the ground on that sunny morning. So, there we stood and waited... And I'm afraid that's what all of us will have to do 'til I round it all off next week. Back to my old 'telling it all as I see it' soon. Promise.

Take back (digital) control

The week after next, Terence Kennedy will insist that Facebook deletes his digital indiscretions

TECH FOR THE TIMID

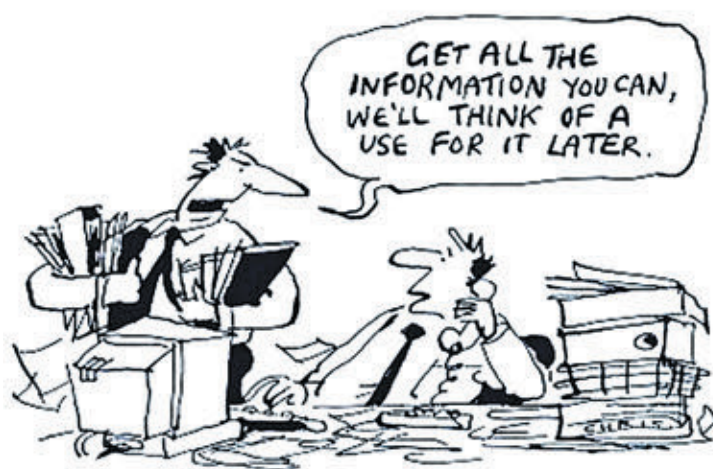

SOON the world's digital overlords will apparently hold 40 zettabytes of information on us.

No I don't know what that means either, but when a colleague recently asked Facebook for all the information it held on him, he got nearly a gigabyte back.

That's the equivalent of 200 copies of the Bible in plain text, if you're interested. Or not, if you're an atheist.

Most alarming of all was that it listed every call he had ever made and every message he had ever sent. The good news is that this changes in a fortnight. At least it does for we Europeans, thanks to the acronym of the moment: GDPR.

From May 25 the General Data Protection Regulation means that organisations may no longer treat us unilaterally as just so much advertising fodder, to be milked of every possible bit of personal information for their nefarious or even non-nefarious purposes. If they do, it's goodbye €20 million or more in fines.

The likes of Facebook, Amazon, Google or that popular anatomical research site Pornhub may not harvest our personal data without asking us, may not hit us with 40 screens of terms and conditions we cannot understand as an excuse, may not refuse to tell us what they know about us, and must delete it if we insist. I certainly do.

If they get hacked they have to 'fess up' within 72 hours.

Not only may they merely store our details for a 'reasonable' time, but we will have the hitherto denied 'right to be forgotten' if we want to opt-out of any part of our brave new digital world.

It's not just our direct personal data which is affected. Anything which could be identified directly back to us may not be collected without our explicit consent. That includes the 'IP address' which pinpoints your specific computer or phone even if you think you operate online anonymously.

The good news for non-Europeans is also that the GDPR will reverberate far beyond the old world's borders. Any company has to comply when doing business with Europe (here's lookin' at you Facebook and Google).

So: The Empire Fights Back? Will it all make a difference where online privacy has devalued more than a Zimbabwean dollar?

A recent survey revealed that 32 per cent of the respondents intend to ask at least one organisation exactly what information it holds on them.

I will certainly be asking Google to delete details of all those searches I did back then on performance-enhancing substances undetectable by local Scrabble clubs. Purely for scientific purposes, you understand.

Trackdown

WE'VE all seen those ads which mysteriously track us right across the internet - irritatingly offering to sell us the very item we just bought.

But it's not just GCHQ, the NSA or even the former KGB who'd like to track us physically too. Soon we might pass the supermarket and our phone might entreat us to buy today's special on biodegradable crumpets.

The GDPR doesn't (yet) tackle the thorny issue of surveillance, but it's coming. Proposed legislation hopes to take the next step: banning surveillance unless you agree.

Would anyone, other than 'helicopter' parents obsessing where their children are 24/7? Or a nurse keeping tabs on someone like my granddad, whose 105th birthday we celebrated this week? (Though sadly he died at 62).

Help at your time of need

ENGLISH FUNERAL DIRECTORS: Offering a caring and professional service.

THE loss of a loved one at any time is traumatic but if it happens here in Spain, you may well need help from a caring and knowledgeable team to deal with what could be a difficult process.

The English Funeral Directors, based on the Costa del Sol was created by proprietors John and Sally in order to offer expatriates a service which will steer them through all of the requirements of Spanish law and ensure that the important administrative work is completed on their behalf.

Traditions and practice with regards to death in the UK are quite different to those in Spain, where the deceased is normally buried within 24 hours but if required, the English Funeral Directors can arrange to delay the process so that friends and family can be alerted and travel over for the ceremony.

They can also contact an English-speaking minister or celebrant to conduct the service or arrange repatriation to the UK which will be organised personally by John and Sally.

For the growing number of people who want their last action to be environmentally positive, the company offers non-ornate or eco-friendly coffins, as well as the option to take ashes back to the UK.

Death can be an expensive business for those left behind and the English Funeral Directors offer various pricing options to suit your needs, as well as the opportunity to subscribe to pre-paid funeral plans which can be used in the UK or Spain.

If you have the unhappy need to contact a funeral director, then John and Sally will be able to offer a caring and personal service. You can call them on 699 664 660 or via email to john@englishfuneraldirectors.com.

Warning: Tigers roaming loose on the Costa del Sol

THE Asian Tiger mosquito is smaller than most mosquitoes and has a very distinctive white band across its back.

It's officially known as Aedes albopictus (which apparently translates into 'unpleasant white decorated') and has for some years been setting up home in our international community on the Costa del Sol.

This is not good as a bite from one of these mosquitoes can leave more than a red bump and itchy skin. Originally from southeast Asia, the females can transmit many serious diseases including the Zyka virus, West Nile virus, the Chikungunya virus (similar to dengue fever), the Usutu virus, encephalitis and yellow fever to name but a few.

This problem is so potentially serious that the Junta de Andalucía and local town halls have prepared information to help us keep this unwanted visitor to a minimum. The Asian Tiger mosquito starts laying its eggs in May so now is the time to put the recommended steps into action.

The first and most important rule is to ensure there is no still or stagnant water available for them to lay their eggs. They can only do this on a still surface so if there is no still water, there will be no mosquitos.

This is not just relevant to ponds or clogged drains but also small amounts of water lying still in baby pools, flowerpots, birdbaths, dog water bowls, empty bottles, buckets, houseplants, ashtrays, vases, toys, and rubbish bins, even tyres.

It is so important to ensure therefore that our dog water bowls for example are changed very frequently and that we look in our children's toys etc, to keep it all fresh or dry!

Swimming pools and particularly half empty pools will also be ideal breeding grounds, so it is imperative that all pools are covered or emptied completely if not in use.

Wells, cisterns, tanks and other water containers also need to be covered, as do holes in logs and branches, which can be filled in with sand. Stagnant, still water can also accumulate in drains and gutters and even holes in the ground.

To protect yourself against mosquito bites it's also advisable to have window and door screens and wear long sleeves and long trousers, as well as a repellent when outdoors.

If you do get bitten the chances are it will just be another itchy red bump however, if you develop symptoms such as headaches or a fever or notice any abnormal swelling, nausea or anything other than a small, itchy, red bump, please do visit a doctor.

The typical egg laying season is from May until September with July being their peak month, so quite an arduous challenge lays ahead, but one that we need embrace to keep the numbers of this potentially dangerous invader at bay.

TV COUCH CRITIC

by Adam Whalley-Lewis

THERE are an increasing band of TV celebrities who have a fan base so loyal (or sheep-like, you choose) that with the protection of social media have become somehow un-touchable.

Do I dare share some thoughts? Of course! Piers Morgan, Jane McDonald, and Jeremy Clarkson to name just three.

So with the return of Who Wants to be a Millionaire this week (ITV1, until May 11) I paused before deciding if I should include something, or not, but here goes.

The show is celebrating 20 years with a run of seven shows with Mr Clarkson trying, oh he is trying so hard, to fill

Chris Tarrant's shoes.

ITV has introduced a new 'Ask the Host' option for contestants, that's useful if there is a question about cars or having a temper and taking it out on your co-workers.

Jeremy started out by making an obviously scripted off the cuff remark about winners being able to live like The Queen, with an old Greek upstairs, which Clarkson fans loved and fans of the show probably thought didn't need to be there.

Jeremy hasn't (yet) been overly supportive to contestants who struggle with the earlier/easier questions, but the viewing figures aren't too bad, after all you can get Top Gear on catch up.

My view, if you like Jeremy you will love it, if you like the show, you will probably put up with the new host, while most of us will dip in and out as the feeling takes us.

Thankfully Jeremy wasn't invited to dine with the Goodmans when Friday Night Dinner returned to Channel 4 last Friday and a good job too. Jackie and Martin have bought a hot tub so there would have been a risk of Mr Clarkson in budgie smugglers, think I will leave that one there.

This is series 5 so there is a risk that Adam and Jonny turning up for dinner on Friday and something going wrong will start to look stale. The first episode of the new series shouldn't have disappointed fans of the show, Jim and Wilson are back and the 'nippy-nippy' sequence surely had anyone watching with a family member squirming in their seat.

Jackie's mum returns later in the run, so that should keep things bumping along nicely and what did you make of Jim's potential new girlfriend, more this week?

I'm really not trying to keep the image of Jeremy in swimming trunks alive, but thankfully he didn't make it to the Levante beach (hi to all our readers in the Costa Blanca) for the final episode of Benidorm last week.

Most of us probably agree that the show has gone off the boil recently, but I will miss the antics around the pool in this smashing part of Spain.

There was a nice guest appearance for the creator of the show when Derren Litten launched a possible takeover bid as Elvis from Skegness and Claire Sweeney, Bobby Ball and Holly Johnson all pitched in to push the show to a conclusion. I think I will be a little bit sad not to have the cast doing their thing anymore.

It's the Eurovision Song Contest this Saturday (BBC1, for over three hours). Watch out for Cyprus, but Israel, Spain and the UK are not expected to make the top 10.

Happy viewing.

DUE to continuous growth and customer recommendation since 2006, Elite Glass Curtains which manufactures and supplies glass curtains across the Costa del Sol has had to expand.

After 12 years of business, the company has amplified their product range incorporating a whole range of new and innovative aspects of glazing.

They now offer aluminum and UPVC windows and doors, retractable and fixed roofs, stainless steel balustrades, pool surrounds, toldos and much more.

Elite's factory is based in Elviria on the new Marbella industrial estate. The factory is a fantastic facility creating many varied products although glass curtains remain their primary product.

Being manufacturers allows them to offer accurate and realistic installation dates, ensures a first class service from beginning to end, and more importantly infuses confidence to the ever-growing band of consumers that Elite has seen growing annually and continues to do so.

When you talk to Elite, you are contacting professionals who have managed literally thousands of installations based here on the Costa del Sol.

Any issues in the future? Elite always provides a valid five-year guarantee although having traded for 12 years, the life of their product has exceeded more than twice over the guarantee period given.

More than a decade of superb service

GLASS CURTAINS: Make a balcony a room regardless of shape or size.

Dealing direct with the manufacturer is fundamental.

If you are looking for the most reliable and professional service, look no further than Elite.

Their team of multilingual engineers and helpful staff members are always on hand for sound and logical advice no matter the project in mind.

With this outstanding record they can also offer the facility of finance at 0 per cent interest although naturally terms and conditions apply.

Alternatively, they also accept all major credit cards.

The Elite Glass Curtains factory is open from 8am to 5pm Monday to Friday and prospective customers are always welcome to visit, view the product and discuss their needs.

The address is Elite Glass Curtains, Polígono Industrial Elviria, Fase 2 Nave 32, Elviria, Marbella or for more information telephone 952 830 503/692 975 477.

Trigger-happy 'generation snowflake' forever in Neverland

Nora Johnson

AN over-praised and narcissistic generation of university students is persistently trying to negotiate better grades - or 'grade grubbing' as it's called - academics recently reported.

When university education was free, most students were grateful for what they got and wouldn't have considered complaining. But now students have to pay high fees, they're the customer and, understandably, expect to receive good grades in return for their financial investment.

But they argue frequently and aggressively about low grades, even when some of them haven't attended lectures, aren't particularly clever or just plain lazy.

Universities are scared stiff of getting low Student Satisfaction scores, which would lead to a lower student intake the following year and therefore loss of income. So, fundamentally students can do almost anything they please and they know this.

Basically, too much 'Aren't you clever, darling' and not enough 'naughty step!' from their parents?

Newsflash: 'The University of Neverland' acknowledges that law students are required to study topics in the criminal law module that may distress them, specifically murder, manslaughter, assault, rape and other sexual offences. At the start of lectures, relevant trigger warnings will be given and any student needing to leave may do so then.

'If an appeal is made without delay to the university indicating which parts of the course cause discomfort or anxiety, examination questions on these topics will be replaced with substitute questions on fraud, theft, corporate liability or other non-trigger topics.'

I made this up but you get the idea. Heck! I need trigger warnings for stories like this because my blood pressure spikes whenever I read about what a collection of girl's blouses young people have become.

Whatever next? A trigger warning at the beginning of a crime novel that someone, maybe even another person, will be dead by the close? Phew! As the author of crime thrillers perhaps I'd better shift gears and focus solely on fairy tales... set in Neverland!

LEGALLY SPEAKING

Do they need a tax adviser?

Q. My partner and I have lived in Spain for seven years. We have lifetime residency and NIE. We live on our pensions and do not pay tax in the UK, as we do not earn enough.

Some people tell us we must register for tax in Spain and some tell us we don't have to. A website tells us that if we earn less than €22,000 per year, we do not have to register in Spain. We are now confused.

I have recently begun earning from buying shares in properties with a Spanish company, and so I agree I must now register. Can you please clear up the matter?

N K (Costa Blanca)

A. YES you must declare for Spanish tax. Here is a simple rule: if you reside officially in Spain, your worldwide income is subject to Spanish tax.

In your case, you want to find a Spanish tax consultant who speaks English so you can understand. Ask your friends. The limit of €22,000 applies only when the income received has been subject to Spanish withholding tax during the year. Clearly, this does not apply to a UK pension.

Not open all hours

Mike Senker

Views of a Grumpy Old Man

I'VE been reading lately that shopping online is killing high street, bricks and mortar, shopping. This in my opinion is due to many reasons. Of course, the biggest one is the convenience - you don't have to get off your backside; you just click a couple of buttons.

Another is the massive shopping centres like Westfield. I've just got back from a few days in the UK and the thing is the high streets just haven't moved with the times. I was staying in Borehamwood. It has a nice high street but most of the shops are eateries - you can buy every type of food you want.

There is an abundance of nail places and estate agents but no 'shop' shops. At the back of the high street there is a mini shopping park where there are some of the big name stores but they are all closed up by 6pm.

Why? I remember when I had my first shop, we opened at 9.30am and closed at 5.30pm and had half-day closing on a Thursday. Remember those days?

This was 1980 and I had just opened my first video rental shop. After the first few weeks I realised that this couldn't work because the only customers I was getting were people who didn't work those hours or local workers who nipped in during their lunch break, so I changed my hours to be open 10am-7pm and no half-days and I opened Sundays too.

Business boomed, even though I had to fight the council tooth and nail not to be fined. Back to Borehamwood - I wanted to buy a pair of shoes. I got to the shop at 6.02pm and everything was locked up and gone. I'm sure if everyone opened later they would have a better chance of survival.

Of course they won't because you can't cover those opening hours with one shift. For us living here in Spain we are spoilt - we can shop from 10am till 10pm.

Sure we have some stores that still take a siesta but you don't half miss the longer hours when you are in the UK. Plus, here we still have thriving high streets with a great selection of independent retailers.

OK stand up Jet2 and take a bow. I used them for the first time this trip and they are head and shoulders above Ryanair. Their staff were so helpful and it's the little things like having a pocket on the back of the seat to put a paper and more legroom - give them a try.

So there you go I was temporarily happy this week.

If only someone could come up with a solution

MOST of us retirees enjoy a wonderful life here in Spain - the weather's amazing, the lifestyle is great, the people are friendly, our pensions go further etc.

However, the nagging thing that is always there in the background, and spoils it is we are all inevitably 'getting older' and what this may entail. Who will look after us?... especially if we lose our 'other halves.' It isn't fair to just plonk yourself on your family, or near, unless they want you of course. Perhaps you do not have any family...?

So many decide, reluctantly, they will have to go back to the UK as there are Retirement Homes, Warden Controlled Homes, Independent Living Villages etc to choose from. Most do not want to but feel there is no alternative.

Why can't we have Warden Controlled Homes, Independent Living Villages, Retirement Homes here with an in-house warden or nurse or both (hopefully who speak English as so many of us just cannot master Spanish). Maybe a DIY man on call, a gardener, a weekly driver to run us to Gibraltar, Sabinillas, Estepona or wherever.

Check the rates when changing cash

I WAS very interested to read the letter from Helen Stretch regarding unfair exchange rates in Benidorm. A similar thing happened to me in January this year at an exchange shop in the Old Town area. Again there was a large sign outside the shop offering the daily rate on a variety of currencies with no mention of minimum amounts for the rate shown.

I fortunately went into the shop with my husband and, as there was already a customer at the counter, was able to see his transaction. He was changing £100 and the woman behind the counter started to count out some coins but the rate advertised outside would have only needed notes. I would point out that I did change my money with an exchange shop on the main road in Benidorm and received the correct amount for my pounds. The moral of this is check before you hand over any money!!

More on motorhomes

I READ with annoyance Messrs May (La Marina), article regarding motorhome freeloaders.

Obviously they have annual problems in their small village with the convergence of motorhomes. Unfortunately, there are always bad apples in any basket. It is stated photos have been taken with motor homers emptying their sewage in and around the parkland.

If this is true, why were the local authorities not notified, and action taken? How do Messrs May think motor homers stock up with food and drink, if they do not contribute to the economy? Visitors to Spain do not pay taxes for emptying their rubbish, or the refilling of water, however, we do patronise local businesses. All items are taxed!

You are tarring us all with the same brush, and I object! If people abuse the law, then they should expect to be dealt with (including the Spanish). We are NOT all free loaders, because we choose to avoid campsites (another Issue)!

Dave Turre, on the road

This is what we need, a solution to the problem and then... WE CAN ALL STAY HERE!!

Sandy Avis, Marina de Casares
Editor's note. Thank you Sandy and there are already homes just like this who advertise with us in Costa Blanca so your idea could hopefully become reality across Spain.

RAILWAY RACE ROW: Asian teen appeals for help

I find it unbelievable that no-one on the train stood up for this poor girl during what is, without doubt, a racist attack. Had I been on that train I would have spoken out vociferously. All it takes for evil to triumph is for good men to do nothing!

WATCH: 'Reckless' driver of Brit-plated car strikes wrong chord with police in Spain

He shouldn't worry. Their courts recently gave an American who was over the limit a one-year suspended sentence after he ran down and killed a 46-year-old British father of three. I guess the young American hot footed it out of Spain and will never return.

Drivers like this add to our insurance costs, and, more importantly, they add to the carnage on the roads.

BnB website for naturists launches with holiday listings in Spain

These beaches attract all the old recycled teenagers! Puke! Brighton, England. I don't want my kids to see these unsightly crews on the beach. If that is what they want then put up 10-foot screens and keep them inside and charge them an indecency fee!

Anne Nancy Traynor

I used to be a beach seller in the south of France which I did in summer and went on to the nudist beach to sell and they weren't all old but seemed weird. No-where to keep their money haha!

Gran's tips

CLEANING out some cupboards, I came across old tubes of glue, super-glue, shoe polish and such.

The tops were completely stuck and the glue as hard as hell. I remembered my grandmother telling us to put these items in boiling water, leave for a few minutes and hey presto. The glue still has a life and also the shoe polish. I believe it also works on paint lids stuck.

Anyone got other handy old fashioned tips for 'green' remedies?

Thanks for the crosswords and other letters.... love 'em.

Hi Leapy

Many thanks for your splendid article 'How many...' You may be 'awaiting slings and arrows' but you won't be getting any from me. I brought your article back to the UK with me and distributed it to my many UKIP friends: they all agree with you.

MADDOCKS' VIEW ON LIFE

' NO PROBLEMS - ONE SEASICK, THE NEXT TOO MUCH GUINNESS AND THE THIRD IS COUNTING TOXIC JELLYFISH. '

YOUR STARS FOR NEXT 7 DAYS

AQUARIUS
(January 21 - February 19)

Keep up the pace this week so that you have plenty to discuss and 'write home about'. With your mind so active, you are capable of doing in a day what would normally take a week. By-pass those who try to slow you down. There will be plenty of time to be a plod later.

PISCES
(February 20 - March 20)

Others may be changing their minds, and generally being a bit of a pain. That may irritate you but it is no reason to change your plans. Both you and your colleagues will be glad that you did in the longer term. You may need to find some peace and space for yourself come the weekend.

ARIES
(March 21 - April 20)

Looking back over the past few months you will realise that fine adjustments are needed. Both your working life and diet need attention, so be determined that progress made will continue apace. Certainly, you have no qualms about facing any problems straight on. You thrive on responsibility and there is no shortage of that at the moment.

TAURUS
(April 21 - May 21)

Now that you are feeling much better, it will be tempting to put aside your healthy eating and exercise, but if you remember what a difference it makes it would be silly to stop now. Enlist the help of a friend or two in keeping the momentum going.

GEMINI
(May 22 - June 21)

There are so many things to do or try that you should be spoiled for choice. No, don't settle down in front of the TV. Get out, make some friends and aim to learn something new every day. That may only be the name of your neighbour on the bus but it counts. You are charming and urbane, so don't keep it all to yourself.

CANCER
(June 22 - July 23)

When your feelings are so positive, which they should be now, it is hard to remember that they have ever been any other way. You may have a plan in mind for a new activity to get the adrenalin flowing. How much more enjoyable, though, to find someone to share this with you. Book that course and maybe you will meet them there.

LEO
(July 24 - August 23)

After a few recent excesses, bad habits can prove hard to shake off. Remember that any time of the year is a good time to make a fresh start. Don't put off looking after your health any more than you would put off stashing a cheque in the bank. Use it or lose it? You know it makes sense. Think about combining health with a holiday.

VIRGO
(August 24 - September 23)

It happens that energy is sometimes low. Take the chance to read up on why this could be. You may think that you know it all, but in this world there is no chance of that. Maybe you are out of touch generally, or just out of touch with your own needs. Give building your strength priority. How much better you will cope with extra energy.

LIBRA
(September 24 - October 23)

With so much going on, you are in danger of burning yourself to a frazzle. You won't realise until you have done it, so make a point of getting some peace and quiet, preferably both of them at the same time. Relax and don't even think about things that are unchangeable. Time will sort out most things for you.

SCORPIO
(October 24 - November 22)

Leave nothing to chance when it comes to your health. Although you are feeling good now you will soon have problems because you are more concerned with others than yourself. This can be good but can also be overdone.

SAGITTARIUS
(November 23 - December 21)

Your tendency to see yourself through the eyes of others can lead you to undervalue your worth. This could see you going pear-shaped, emotionally. Try not to believe everything that you are told because there are always at least two ways of seeing things. Be positive. You are capable of so much. Take care of your needs on a daily basis.

CAPRICORN
(December 22 - January 20)

Concentrate on your physical needs this week and spend much more time on yourself. There will be plenty of opportunities to look after others when you are feeling 100 per cent yourself. Stay in control of day-to-day plans.

CULTURE SHOCK: Paris syndrome was first diagnosed by Hiroaki Ota in 1986.

DID YOU KNOW?

There is a condition called Paris syndrome which refers to the extreme shock some tourists experience when they realise the city is not what they expected. Delusions, hallucinations, anxiety and dizziness are all reportedly symptoms of the disorder, which affects Japanese travellers in particular. It is believed to be an extreme form of culture shock.

Letters of longing

ANDERS LARSEN is a professor at a Danish museum mourning the death of his wife. He has just about lost hope when he receives a letter from Tina Hopgood asking about ancient exhibits.

Tina penned the letter expecting never to receive a response. But a correspondence between the two soon begins and they find out they share many of the same passions for history, the world and nature.

They also find they share the same anguish over losing loved ones and they begin to share their innermost feelings with each other despite being oceans apart.

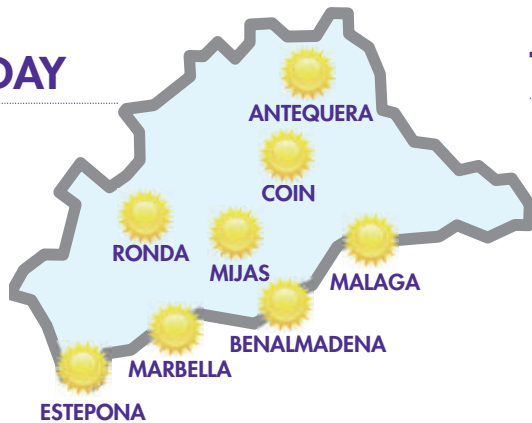

Anders is thrown into despair when his latest letter to Tina gets no response. He begins to wonder if the new friendship will survive in Meet Me at the Museum.

Spirited away

LAURA BARLOW (Natalie Portman) and her sister Kate (Lily-Rose Depp) believe they can communicate with the dead. They decide to travel to France where they perform séances at cabarets across 1930's Paris.

When visionary French film director Andre Korben (Emmanuel Salinger) goes to see one of their performances he is impressed and soon decides to bring the spectacle to the silver screen.

Filming quickly becomes difficult as war with Germany looms and feelings begin to emerge between Laura and Andre in The Summoning.

Laza Hearing Centre invites you to try Widex Hearing Aids for free

LAZA HEARING CENTRE, is an official Widex centre, which offers those with the problem of being unable to distinguish sound an opportunity to recover much of their hearing.

The reality is that the use of Widex Hearing Aids has helped a number of people to improve their hearing and the ability to actually differentiate between sounds greatly improves.

For this reason Laza Hearing Centre offers any user a free hearing aid trial with no commitment, as it is confident that the use of Widex Hearing Aids will come as a surprising experience and will amaze those who have previously experienced hearing loss.

The company's aim is to help all those who are starting to face the problem of hearing loss. This often occurs to people when they reach the age of 60 or so which is an age where there are still lots of things to do and many years to live. Therefore it is important to improve their hearing and hence their quality of life.

In addition the Laza Hearing Centre is also offering free hearing tests as well as the best advice, especially to those over the age of 60, as it is possible to try and stop some of the processes of deterioration of hearing capability if action is taken in time.

Widex official centres, are distributors of the highest quality hearing aids on the market and Widex Hearing Aids offer their clients the best facilities so that hearing problems are no longer an issue.

They offer up to three years finance, three years guarantee, free batteries during the first three years, insurance for loss or theft and replacement of the hearing aid in case of breakage. Their aim is that Widex users do not need to worry during the three years of guarantee.

In addition, Laza Hearing Centres are able to offer any person over 60 an improvement plan for their hearing - Plan 60+. Ask for further information.

You can find their stores in Fuengirola, La Cala de Mijas, Calahonda and Marbella.

SPA THERAPIES: That special touch can offer much needed relief.

Pampered pleasures

SOMETIMES we need to retreat from the world and pamper ourselves a bit. And surely there is no better way than to escape for a few hours into the secluded world of a spa.

Heading to a spa for the day or even a few hours lets us disengage from work, family and friends. The experience allows us to slow down and regenerate the body. The waters improve our blood circulation which sends more oxygen and nutrients through the body and cells.

Time at a spa, can include more than just lounging in a range of bubbling waters of differing temperatures. There are often a range of therapeutic therapies available to relax and relieve chronic pain, such as arthritis or sciatica.

Such therapies can also cause serotonin to be released by the body creating a 'feel good' factor. Certain massages can stimulate the lymphatic system which helps the body to get rid of toxins. Other treatments such as body exfoliation can cleanse the skin, refining pores and offering much-needed relief.

The investment isn't just for the day either. These benefits remain even after the spa. With a body renewed and recharged with nutrients and elements, the mind too will feel rejuvenated and relaxed for days to follow. If the price of a spa visit is too prohibitive for you, don't fret.

There are other options out there to have a near-spa experience.

Spain has some of the most beautiful outdoor hot natural springs on the planet. Apart from the natural beauty of these outdoor springs, their real beauty is that they are free.

And many of them offer more than just piping-hot, mineral-rich thermal waters. The natural mud residue that lines many of these natural spas is just the thing that your body is aching for.

Simply claw the mud away from under the spa waters and cover your body.

This replenishing mixture will extract impurities from your skin and exfoliate it, leaving you vibrant and fresh. And, of course, for free!

Brits prefer blondes

RECENT research from Mintel reveals that blonde is the nation's most popular dyed hair colour of choice. So why not keep the nation happy and freshen up your locks. But don't be restricted in your choice.

Even though blondes are said to have much more fun, other colours can offer their own delights.

According to the research, 42 per cent of Brits choose to go blonde, hot on the heels of trendsetters such as Kim Kardashian and Cara Delevingne.

However, why not break the mould and be a bit more adventurous.

Of those who coloured their hair, a courageous 25 per cent were bold enough to go for non-natural choice, such as pastels and bright colours.

Nor is this advice just for women. As many as one in five men have dyed their hair in the comfort of their own home. This peaks at 38 per cent for 16-24 year olds.

And once they start, they just can't stop. A staggering 57 per cent of men who reach for the bottle do so once a month or more, compared to just 28 per cent of women.

If variety is the spice of your life then opt for a temporary hair colour or choose to have extensions put in.

Temporary hair colouring products have seen a boom in sales of 48 per cent in the last year alone. And if you decide you don't like it - or it doesn't match your new weekend outfit - then just wait a week and after a few washes you'll be back to your natural self again.

Alternatively, choose an option which will allow you to both experiment with colour and add length to your locks. Hair extensions are additional synthetic or natural locks of hair which are usually clipped, glued or sewed onto your own natural hair.

The great thing about hair extensions, particularly synthetic ones, is the scope you have to change your look. Because of their synthetic nature, these additional locks can allow you to have straight and silky hair or go for a deep wave look. Or you can be a buxom brunette one night, and a bubbly blonde the next.

BLONDE, BOUNCING AND BUBBLY: Even Kim prefers blondes.

Dermatome

PAIN that doesn't get better.

I've written a few times now about nerve pain and how it confuses treatment. The problems with nerve pain are:

- Identifying it
- Finding the root cause

And this is why you can be having the best tennis/golfer's elbow treatment, the best carpal tunnel treatment, the best knee and leg pain treatment with no effect.

Because it's actually a problem with the nerve supplying that area not that area itself. The pain comes from somewhere else.

Finding the root cause of pain

So, if the pain isn't coming from where you feel it how do we find it?

- A thorough clinical, physi-

By Estelle Mitchell

cal assessment - checking not just the painful area but also the areas that can refer pain. This takes a while!

• Talking to you! I've listed before various symptoms which give critical clues that the pain is related to nerves not the location - it jumps/moves, tingling, pins and needles, sharp or searing (for more information see my previous articles on my blog - www.TheBodyworksClinic.com/blog)

So what's a Dermatome? A dermatome is an area of skin that is mainly supplied by a single spinal nerve. There are 30 in total, one for each squishy disc between the bony discs of the spine.

And they follow a general pattern.

If all your pain keeps jumping about in a specific area, or you get tingling or pins and needles across a certain part, breathing difficulties, loss of sensation or a feeling of cold in a particular body part, even a rash, we check to see if these correspond to a dermatome.

Then we can use that to identify the nerve affected and check the spine.

They are an amazingly useful diagnostic tool to identify the root cause of those difficult to treat nerve pain issues. Because if we treat the root cause the symptoms go away.

Gorgeous granny

WITH the headline news that a glamorous 47-year-old granny is due to compete in Miss Maxim Australia, many grannies have been left asking themselves what they can do to achieve this sexy look.

A single mum-of-four and granny-of-one, Gina Stewart looks less than half her age. So just how does this granny look so hot?

Gina recently spoke of her top tips to stay healthy and remain looking youthful. She recommends drinking at least two litres of (alkaline) water each day and limiting your intake of coffee, soft drinks and alcohol.

She avoids packaged and processed foods and eats as much natural food as possible. She never eats or drinks products which are packaged in plastic.

She uses organic rosehip and coconut oil on her face, body and hair to maintain her healthy complexion and keep everything soft and supple. And only uses all-natural toothpaste, deodorant and skincare products. She advises people to cut down on the use of heavy medications and find natural alternatives.

Incredibly, Gina has said that if she happens to win the $10,000 Miss Maxim Australia prize, she will donate it all to her friend who has recently had a stroke. Perhaps, after all, the biggest secret to remaining youthful is to have a good heart.

THE Harbour Bar & Restaurant Marbella is an elegant and friendly restaurant located on the first floor of the historical Real Club Marítimo (Yacht Club) in the marina.

The restaurant which is open to the public seven days a week from 10am is in a stunning location with a fresh vibrant atmosphere and colonial style décor.

Renowned for taste and presentation along with excellent friendly service, the team at The Harbour leave no stone unturned to bring you the best in port side dining.

The décor and views are fabulous and with live music and events it's certainly one of the newest hot spots to consider and well worth a visit.

A focal point of the Mediterranean over the years, Marbella port and the Yacht Club itself founded in 1956, is a well-recognised

The new owners Marc and Penny Quinlan felt it was important to honour this historic location that has been central to society in Marbella for many years.

As such during the renovations this year it was essential to make sure that tradition was blended with modern and they chose to include a wall of historic memorabilia to allow visitors to see the huge changes that have occurred over the years in the area.

With the introduction of a refreshing alternative menu there is something for everyone from traditional paella to super-food salads and an unforgettable fish baked in salt.

livered daily, the feedback from clients old and new has been a breath of fresh air for Marc and Penny.

Whether it's early morning coffee to lunch or dinner with stunning sunsets and incredible views out across the sea, port and beaches, all of these things combined certainly make The Harbour a must on your 'places to visit in Marbella' list.

Notes:

Daily Lunch is available from 1pm until 6pm, Monday to Saturday.

During this time you can select from their a la carte menu or opt for the special menu of three courses for €25.

Sunday lunch is served from 1pm to 6pm accompanied by live Jazz then the a la carte menu is available until 11pm.

The Harbour caters for large groups and parties for up to 200 people, private events and weddings. This year already The Harbour has been the chosen location for many weddings.

For reservations call 952 865 534, email info@theharbourmarbella.com or visit their new website to view the menu at <http://theharbourmarbella.com/>.

Robert De Niro will open Nobu

ALTHOUGH the Nobu Marbella hotel may have opened its doors in mid-March, the official opening of this latest venue in the international chain doesn't take place until next Wednesday.

There will be some big names arriving for the opening including the owner and executive chef Nobu Matsuhisa, co-founder and Hollywood legend Robert De Niro, Film Director Meir Teper and Chief Executive Trevor Horwell.

This is a hotel within a hotel as the Nobu is situated within the grounds of the Puente Romano hotel on the Golden Mile and there has been a Nobu restaurant in the Plaza there since June of last year.

Japanese culture will be honoured as there will be a formal Sake (rice wine) ceremony which involves the filling of a barrel with special Nobu Sake, before the proprietors break the lid with wooden mallets.

This is one of 30 such hotels around the world, each of which combines traditional Japanese culture with a meticulously planned design which reflects the character of each location.

Chef Nobu Matsuhisa opened his first American restaurant in Beverly Hills in 1987 which brought him into contact with Robert De Niro and Meir Teper,

Not just rock in Mijas

THE Mijas Council has organised a series of three open air band concerts, Music in the Parks over the next three months.

The first event takes place at 8pm on Saturday May 19 in the Plaza Virgen de la Peña in Mijas Pueblo. The second will be held on June 9 in the Plaza del Torreón in La Cala de Mijas and finally, the third will be a contest between different bands in the Parque Andalucía de Las Lagunas on July 14.

A spokesman for the council said "We want the concerts to be attractive for all kinds of audiences, so the programme Music in the Parks has been organised so that the bands of Mijas Pueblo and Las Lagunas can perform various numbers including soundtracks from movies and other popular themes including pasodobles.

Both the bands and the audiences will be provided with seats for these free concerts which should help residents and visitors to enjoy good music on warm and balmy days.

Summer events at the Bullring

AFTER the council took control of events in the Estepona Bullring last year, apart from the PinkPurpleZep Festival last year, the venue has been very quiet.

Having now appointed a new management company, the Algeciras-based Emell Events, a whole series of different entertainments has been announced for the summer.

Whilst the bulk of the acts announced so far are mainly Spanish, there is still quite a lot to appeal to an expatriate audience with appearances by Flamenco singer Nina Pastori in July and Diego El Cigala in August followed by a night of Hardcore Modern Mozart Heroes as well as Freestyle Moto Cross and Andalusian Horses.

The big draw for British visitors will be UB40 who appear on August 16 celebrating their 40th anniversary since originally getting together but it's not just the Everly, Gallagher, Knopfler and Wilson brothers who fell out as this version only consists of three of the original members.

Perhaps most associated with the band's 50 hit songs is Ali Campbell who left the band in 2008 and has since been in litigation with his two brothers over use of the name UB40, with each brother claiming rights to the name although it has never been legally registered.

By way of attempting to ensure that they cannot be accused of any impropriety, the band appearing in Estepona is touring under the name UB40, featuring Ali, Astro and Mickey.

With so many great hits over the years, the town is going to buzz to the reggae inspired sound of the trio who hail from Birmingham via Jamaica together with their backing musicians.

A quick and easy spicy meal

Eat Well to Live Well

by Andrew Harding

THAI THIS AT HOME: Red curry is a quick and easy meal.

Thai Red Chicken Curry serves 2

- 400 grams chicken breasts, cubed
- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 4 whole garlic clove, skinned and chopped
- 1 whole onion, chopped
- 1 Packet Thai Red Curry Paste
- 1 cube of ginger chopped (optional)

- 1 (or more) sliced and seeded red or green chillis
- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 1 can of coconut milk
- 1 chicken stock cube, crumbled
- 2 tablespoons fish sauce
- 1 whole aubergine, cubed
- 1 whole red bell pepper, sliced
- 2 teaspoons chopped Thai basil leaves

Fry the chicken, onion and garlic until chicken sealed and garlic and onion have become transparent.

Add the Thai red curry paste and fry for two more minutes.

Add all remaining ingredients, except for the basil and simmer until chicken cooked through and aubergine and red pepper are soft, add the basil and serve with boiled rice or noodles.

ANOTHER exotic but very easy and cost-effective recipe this week.

Thai red curry paste can be bought in most of the supermarkets in Spain, Mercadona have a good one for €1.

My jar of Thai basil was bought in the UK and frozen, but Italian basil is a perfectly good alternative, or coriander can be used if the taste of basil is not to your liking.

Ginger and chilli are optional and add heat to the curry, the former to a much lesser extent than the latter.

Tip: Choose chillis wisely, some are extremely spicy and contact lens wearers should get someone else to chop them otherwise bedtime will be a very painful experience! Wearing rubber gloves to chop them is always a good idea. Hand washing will not remove all the traces of the capsaicinoids that give the chillis their heat.

Tip: If as a family or couple, one or more like a hot curry and others don't, use green chillis that are not too finely chopped so they can be easily identified in contrast to the red pepper and removed from individual plates.

Tip: Any vegetable oil can be used but not olive oil. Ideally choose peanut or coconut, but rapeseed or sunflower also work well in this dish.

Tip: A cheap cut of beef can be used instead of chicken, it would need cooking slowly for about three to four hours (a slow cooker would be ideal) just add the aubergine and red pepper when the beef is tender. Prawns or fish can also be used and added just before serving so they are not overcooked. Use beef or fish stock instead of the chicken.

FLASHBACK: Last year's FOTA Fashion Show

FOTA Fashion Show 2018

EVERY year the Friends of the Theatre Association (FOTA) puts on a popular Fashion Show in the beautiful courtyard of La Farola Restaurant, Calle Cuesta, Fuengirola.

This year it will take place on Thursday, May 31 at 1.30 pm and Pomodoro is the fashion house providing the clothes, the models are stars of shows at the Salon Varietes theatre, and Maggie Dobson, a founder member of the theatre, is in charge of proceedings.

This event is open to everyone and is always a most enjoyable afternoon out, with a three-course meal, drink, fashion show, raffle and handbag sale. All proceeds go to the Salon Varietes, which is closed from mid-June to mid-September, but still has many expenses to meet.

Tickets are now on sale at the FOTA Desk at Salon Varietes on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 11.30am to 1.15pm. For further information please ring the FOTA President, Val Williams, on 951 313 257.

Come to the Fashion Show and help keep live theatre alive in Fuengirola.

IN CONCERT: The four young musicians who are the Rahman String Quartet.

THE Rahman String Quartet, a group of young musicians from Estonia are travelling from their recent concert in Ireland to present two performances in the Costa del Sol.

Consisting of Hans Christian Aavik First Violin, Marta Mutso Second Violin, Greten Lehtmaa Viola and Andres Alexander Metspalu Cello, the quartet was formed by four friends during their studies at Tallinn Music High School in Estonia, where they were each section principals in the school's symphony orchestra.

Having won awards in Europe for the quality of their interpretation of various classical pieces they will be appearing this coming Monday at Velvet Marbella, Avenida del Prado, Local 2, Nueva Andalucia at 8pm with tickets costing €40 per person to include admission, welcome drink and canapés, drinks and tapas at the interval.

Reservations for this concert may be made by calling 604 192 491.

The following night (Tuesday) doors will open at 8.30pm at the Avanto Theatre, Calle Rota 4, La Cala de Mijas and tickets there will cost €25 to include a welcome drink and canapés at the interval. Tickets for this performance may be obtained by contacting pmmtickets@mail.com or calling 693 751 857.

Cannes, highlighting more than just films as women strive for recognition

by Michel Euesden

ONE of the world's most important film festivals, the 71st Cannes Festival is underway and will run until May 19.

With all of the publicity given to the excesses of certain movie moguls, directors and actors, this will be an important pointer to how the film industry is actually trying to change for the better.

Although the jury which is to be chaired by Australian Oscar winner Cate Blanchett and includes actress Kristen Stewart as well as three other women, female directors are not greatly represented in the competition.

There are just three films out of 21 directed by women and they are France's Eva Husson, Alice Rohrwacher from Italy and Lebanon's Nadine Labaki and this year, Netflix is absent from the judging as it has refused to guarantee that their films will be screened in French cinemas.

One major change will be the instruction that those on the red carpet will not be permitted to take selfies and if they do, they run the risk of being refused entry to the screenings as this activity is considered vulgar.

May 15 is an important date in many Science Fiction fans' diaries as the first showing of Solo: A Star Wars Story, starring Alden Ehrenreich and directed by Ron Howard will take place in Cannes.

Thursday night is music night

ONCE again, the Mijas Council in conjunction with BIG M Promotions is sponsoring weekly musical performances outside the council office in La Cala de Mijas.

Everything is free and the performances will commence at 9pm every Thursday with a mixture of different genres of music, although there may be the odd week when there isn't a performance due to other local events.

The acts due to appear until the middle of July are;

Today (Thursday) Arte Azabache - Flamenco

May 17 Memphis Trio - Rockabilly

May 24 Reality ES - Santana/Fleetwood Mac Tribute

May 31 Artistas de Mijas - Francisco Blanco 'El Calerito'

ON TOUR: The pair performing numbers from the new album.

Malaga mayhem

THERE is going to be a mixture of rock, reggae, flamenco, jazz and mayhem when Astola and Ratón appear tonight at 10pm at the Sala Cochera Cabaret in Malaga City.

Diego el Ratón, the former member of Los Delinquentes has teamed up with guitarist Alejandro Astola, who used to be in Fondo Flamenco, to release their own album El Hombre Caracol (Snail Man) with support from the Astola band of which Ratón is also a member.

This is a very close-knit relationship as Diego had previously produced the last Astola album and as the pair get on so well, it seemed logical that they should record together.

A number of Spanish bands and musicians have guested on the album and the appearance by the pair in Malaga is the penultimate date of a short tour of Spain to support the album.

Gardeners get going - it's spring

THE spring growth is a great opportunity to gain a wonderful garden.

It is a very busy time for gardeners with the warmer temperatures and longer days creating an explosion of growth which needs to be managed to make the most of the season. To get them off to a quick start, it is the perfect time to plant your summer annual flowers and vegetables.

Established plants will also start growing rapidly now and the new growth will make them look wonderfully healthier than usual.

Of course weeds and excess growth of even your favourite plant will need attention to keep the garden in the way you prefer it. Fortunately it is so good to be able to get out into the garden, with the beautiful spring sunshine making it one of the best times of the year for the avid gardener.

Annual summer flowers can provide a beautiful display. Many favourite annuals from northern European regions require a lot of water to do well though. I usually plant a small number of summer annuals in planter boxes with trays to catch any excess water from being lost and use a good potting mix that retains water well.

SPRING: A time of rapid growth.

summers is not ideal for large plantings of cooler climate summer annuals in the garden. If you have a balcony or terrace with planter pots or window boxes, annuals can be a really good way to brighten them up.

If you are planting a vegetable garden, make sure that you enrich the soil with plenty of moisture-holding compost to reduce watering needs in summer. After planting your tomatoes, capsicum, summer squash and other summer varieties ensure that you mulch the garden with coarse compost, straw or any other suitable material which will reduce evaporation and keep soil temperatures cooler.

Keeping the soil temperature lower is important in summer as plant growth will slow when the roots get too hot. Insulating with mulch keeps soil temperatures closer to spring conditions so growth will continue to thrive for longer.

There is the inevitable weed growth which always seem to grow faster than anything else in spring. It is a good idea to learn more about these spontaneous plants as many do have attractive flowers. If the garden is not a formal design, many weeds can be left to flower and then be removed.

Even in my vegetable garden I allow certain plants normally classed as weeds, such as poppies and borage, to add colour to the garden with no extra work.

Many people are also finding that there are many weeds which are actually edible and even the flowers can be added to salads and in cooking. Many of these wild plants were actually a normal part of the diet before explorers centuries ago brought back vegetable varieties from around the world to replace the native food sources of the Mediterranean.

The shrubs and perennials which are normally planted in autumn (so they establish their roots over winter) start to grow with the warmer spring weather. It is a good idea to lightly trim the ones that you want to grow thick and bushy now while growth is active and before the sun becomes too intense for pruning.

WITH rising temperatures, you might feel the heat is on to finally install a central air conditioning system. However, if your budget is already stretched, there are other less expensive options to keep you cool under the collar at home.

The three most popular are portable units, window units and traditional fans.

Portable or window units can be cheap and easy to install. Both systems allow you to cool a specific room, rather than waste energy and money cooling your entire home.

The benefit of a portable unit is that it can be moved easily from room to room. This is different to a window unit which is fixed to a window, or through the wall. Of the two, portable units are more expensive to buy and tend to use a lot more energy. Whereas window units are extremely energy efficient and don't take up any valuable floor space.

However, if you want to keep expenses to a minimum, the traditional air fan is always a trusted option. Installation is easy - you simply plug it in - and it can be moved from room to room with ease.

Of course, do bear in mind that most air fans don't actually 'cool' the air. They simply circulate air around you, giving the sensation that you are being cooled off.

These fans might provide some much-needed instant relief from the heat, but if your budget can stretch that far, opt for a portable or window unit to keep your home comfortable over the months ahead.

COOLING DOWN: Portable fans can easily be moved from to room.

LETTERS FROM CANARIES

By Barbara Belt
barbarabelt@gmail.com

DOWN here on the small Canary Island of La Gomera, we've been selflessly risking life and limb again for the greater good, making sure lots of babies are born and crops prosper.

Every April 24, on St Mark's Eve: "The town fills with the smell of juniper wood bonfires, which are lit and leapt over by neighbours and visitors, either for fun, or in the hope of securing good luck for future ventures" (Island Cabildo).

For mysterious reasons, the ancient practice of spring fire-jumping has survived in Agulo, La Gomera, on this date. We don't know why. Mark's story in the gospels includes: a questionable martyrdom announced four centuries after his death; a lion; a connection with public notaries, of whom he is patron saint and no mention whatsoever of fire, or of jumping over it fuelled by vino del país on a small Atlantic island off the coast of Africa, though he was supposedly born in Africa.

The date of his feast day is probably the reason. Spring fire celebrations and rituals marking the end of dead winter and the start of the fertile year were once common. They symbolised the death of winter and ensured fertility and the return of the sun.

It's likely that the locals were still jumping over spring fires in Agulo when the Catholic Church arrived, en route for the New World to save it from sin. Did priests troubled by the islanders' refusal to stop this pagan fire-leaping nonsense sensibly absorb it into a St Mark's celebration to avoid conflict?

The only other surviving fire-jumping festival I know of is far away in Azerbaijan, where the Novruz Spring celebrations are still going strong, with bonfires in the streets. Azerbaijani adults, however, content themselves with dancing some lively pieces whilst their children do the leaping.

Hardcore Gomeros jump and dance lively pieces. As darkness falls and Mass finishes, there's an explosion of sound. Bells clang, chacarra and tambor (Canarian castanets and drum) music vibrates, San Marcos gets paraded and youths held back at the top of the cobbled street start chanting 'Fuego! Fuego!' straining for the off.

Bonfires are lit, flames leap, sparks fly... and away they go. This wonderful health and safety nightmare has an incredible atmosphere. Jeopardising important reproductive tackle, the participants leap through flames to ensure virility. When the fires are slightly lower, off go the young women, hair tied back (I proudly cheer my daughters on. Am I normal?).

Then the more cautious and elderly jump. Kids leap, too, with the tiniest on parents' shoulders. Couples holding hands hop. They all jump down the line of fires, between smoky, ash-flecked spectators, then walk back up and do it again, and again, until the fires die down, the band strikes up and dancing starts.

It's a great fiesta, all the better for its mixed origins. ¡Viva San Marcos!

Bentley Continental GT inspires kitchen

Nick Horne The Rich Pick

Freelance correspondent, London, England

SALON INTERNATIONAL DEL MOBILE, Milan April 2018. The centrepiece of the Bentley Home collection presented at the salon was the kitchen. An idealised expression of the focal point of modern family living.

Designed by architect Carlo Colombo the Bentley Home draws together the materials and finishes of the luxury British carmaker.

Elegance, combined with luxury and contemporary design are the hallmarks of the Bentley Home collection. A line of furniture and accessories embodies a superb representation of the Bentley Car's design language further enhanced by Italian flair and manufacture.

The design of the collection focuses on proportion and shape rich in detail, with new patterns and sinuous geometries emphasised by metal details drawn from the interiors of the new Bentley Continental GT, as with the new Bampton sofa whose shape is highlighted by a steel under top and hi-tech cooking module. The absence of handles in the doors and the recessed opening emphasises the sophistication and cleanliness of the shapes.

The Bentley design language and style is reflected in the materials, the new larch wood, with its warm shades and dark veins is modelled to embellish sofa and seat frames or combining it with leather in table and coffee table surfaces.

Upholstery fabrics of soft velvets in silk and cotton, high performance chenille and Alcantara fabrics worked with a chevron motif in colour patterns of delicate and pastel shades. Stone grey and quartz grey tones combined with natural shades define a collection of a distinctive contemporary character.

Elements of the Bentley kitchen may be acquired selectively to enhance the ambiance at the heart of your home. A Bentley Home Matlock coffee table, combines elements, two curved modules create the structure on which the top made of new larch wood is fitted.

The leather outer cover is framed by a metal profile which is the motif of the collection, at €5,300, or the Bampton sofa - a design inspired by the dashboard of Bentley cars - at €19,030. Prices are excluding local taxes.

THE Dogman

Bringing the baby home

MOST people treat their dog like a baby and often problems will occur when a real baby is brought home. You must plan for the new baby's arrival.

Acquaint the dog with a friend's children. Let them feed it some of its favourite treats. Stay calm and keep the dog on a lead. If at this stage the dog is showing any signs of aggression, then professional help is needed.

If the dog is used to sleeping in a bedroom, place the dog bed outside the room in its basket or on its blanket. If necessary, put the dog on a lead and restrict it to an area.

Consider walking around with a stuffed doll. Even talk to it in a baby voice as if it is a real baby. When changing the baby's nappy - both the real one and the toy one - always put your dog in the Sit-Stay command.

Let it sniff and watch, for this is the time to accustom it to baby sounds and praise it for being good. Use different phrases and voices for the dog and the baby.

For safety reasons and hygiene, dogs must not be allowed on the furniture near the new baby. Start the new house rules by taking the dog by the collar and lead and taking it to its bed. Move the bed around the home to every room (except bedrooms) in the house. The dog must learn to stay where it is put.

Start getting a little more removed from the dog in three 20-minute intervals. First, go into another room for 20 minutes. Close the door behind you so that it cannot follow you. Then come out for 20 minutes before returning for another 20 minutes. Stop all tug-of-war games, wrestling and all games involving chasing.

Babies have to be fed several times a day so, to prevent jeal-

Toys are a big headache. You don't want a dropped toy to be licked. No more shoes, socks, slippers, and plastic or stuffed toys for the dog. Now is the time to take away all its toys from the floor. Train it to play with one at a time. Paint the others with a mouthwash which dogs do not like. If your dog goes for it, pick up the toy and shout at the toy. Very soon the dog will keep away from anything smelling of mouthwash.

Babies like to grab and pull but dogs don't like it at all. Start getting the dog used to this treatment by gently pulling it and grabbing its tail and then, within three seconds, hug it and give plenty of praise.

When the baby is born, ask a maternity home nurse for some bed sheets from the baby's nursery. Have these put in the new nursery at home and around the area of the home where the baby will be nursed. Let the dog sniff around the house at the new smells and praise it.

Plan your homecoming and let the dog welcome the baby by sniffing while on a lead.

Keep the lead trailing on the floor for the first week so that it can be used to correct all mouthing and jumping. Praise when the dog does not jump or mouth.

Stop dogs pining while you're away

KEEPING dogs at home with dog-sitters can have many advantages.

A long time ago I had a dog who was very much an only dog. And when he lost sight of me he would howl for a long time, sometimes very loudly. Even when I popped into a shop tying him outside he would howl until I returned acting as if I had deserted him.

This same dog was put in kennels for three weeks during our holidays and when we returned he had lost his voice and was emaciated. He just lost his appetite. It became apparent that he absolutely would need to stay at home with a sitter to ensure he was as comfortable as possible, and would experience the least stress possible if there was companionship and a familiarity to his surroundings.

stay in our home.

It may be no surprise to those of you who know I have been running HouseSit Match.com for five years now to help other pet owners keep their pets at home in order to minimise pet anxiety when the owners go on holiday.

What is more I have structured our business so that the costs remain low for all members. Both owners and sitters join as 'members' of our network paying an annual fee but no other money should change hands.

It is a win win, with sitters benefiting from a new location, and owners benefiting from free pet care at home!

Why join a network like HouseSitMatch?

HouseSitMatch is a managed online network which we believe makes us more secure. We ID check all members on joining, and police check all sitters. We believe this transparency is safer for everyone.

How you benefit as a home and pet-owner?

Our membership offers a secure network to help you find suitable sitters. We don't reveal your contact details, or your address. You post an advert ahead of your travel dates, we publish the advert then house-sitters apply.

You can view their profiles and chat with them before you make your choice.

Cats, kittens, claws

IF you are tired of your cat destroying your furniture, there are a few things you can do to prevent your feline friend from tearing your home to pieces.

And the solution is as simple as introducing a comparable alternative into your shared surroundings.

Cats scratch to get rid of the dead layers of tissue from their nails and keep their claws in top shape.

They also do it to mark their territory and as a means to stretch and release stress.

Put simply, all cats need to scratch. It is an instinctive aspect of their natural behaviour.

The best compromise for you both, is to introduce one or two scratchers into your home.

Before you do so, however, observe your four-legged friend to identify where and how they like to scratch.

Then, place a scratcher beside

KITTY CLAWS:
Introducing a scratcher should save your sofa.

the object that you want the cat to leave alone. Remember to replace it with a material that offers a comparable experience for the cat. So, if the cat likes to scratch the hard vertical side of your sofa in the living room, then simply place a vertical scratcher of a hard material beside it.

Your cat will soon move its attention away from your prized furniture and towards the scratcher.

Once this has been achieved, move the scratcher away from the furniture, little by little, to the more desirable location.

YOUNG DOMESTICATED cats rescued from the killing station need kind homes. Fully vaccinated and neutered. We will also deliver to England for a donation to the charity. Please give one of these beautiful cats a home so we can save more from death. Can be seen without obligation at Cat and Dog World Kennels. Tel. 630 197 435 (246764)

CHARITIES

ACE CHARITY "El Refugio" in La Cala de Mijas is a registered charity. We have on average 275 dogs in our care and we receive no help from the Town Hall or the Andalusian government. We desperately need foster homes and adoptants for our many dogs, especially the small ones and puppies who do not do well in a big shelter. We are grateful for any help offered, including donations of food and blankets. Visiting times are from 13.00 to 15.00 and you can always turn up or make an appointment by calling Denise on 669 018 736. Our website is www.ace-charity.org where you can view all the dogs in our care. (93320)

ADANA THE ANIMAL SHELTER IN ESTEPONA. We always need volunteers to walk and socialise with our dogs and help with cleaning. We also need good homes for our animals that you can see on www.adana.es. Kennels open every day 10-1.30, Camino de Casares, near Parque de los Pedregales, Estepona. (5 minutes from the Poligono) For more information call 952 113 467, available from 10.00am until 14.00pm. (93319)

SEPE the horse and donkey charity is open to the public week-ends from 10.00 to 5.00. Volunteers are much needed in all departments and are welcome at anytime. For our riding for the disabled classes, we are also in need of extra helpers. We are nationally registered by the Spanish Ministry of the Interior (164640) but only with your support can we give the equine a voice. If you can just commit to 2 or 3 euros a month it will really help make a difference. You can find us at Lauro Golf Equestrian Centre, Alqueria, Alhaurin de la Torre. Tel. 608 258 950 info@sepeonline.net www.sepeonline.net (93321)

AT SOS ANIMAL REFUGE we have dogs, young and old looking for homes. Some of our dogs have been with us for some time and would love to find a cosy spot to curl up in and a knee on which to rest their heads. If you have room in your heart and home we would love to hear from you. We do not put our dogs to sleep - no matter how old, they are safe with us. For day to day needs and to pay for veterinary care, we much appreciate the support we receive. We desperately need items to sell on our market stall to help raise funds and are happy to come and collect. So if you are having a clear-out, please contact us on 605 227 155. If you would like to know more about re-homing, please call 653 257 875. Visit our website www.sos-animals.org or please phone Sandy on 952 385 923 or 666 814 056 if you would like to make a donation or help in any way. (93317)

ARCH- Andalusian Rescue Centre for Horses welcomes visitors and volunteers to our stables every day from 9-11am. Come along and help out, or sponsor or adopt one of our horses, donkeys or ponies. We always need help with fund raising to look after the abandoned and abused animals. Our aim is to rescue, rehabilitate and re-home. We are a small friendly team - why not join us. Find us in Alhaurin el Grande, behind the Venta Miralmonite on the road from Alhaurin to Coin, (A404), Urb. Viña Borrego, follow the yellow signs. Charity registered with the Junta de Andalusia No 8448. www.horse-rescuespain.org or info@horserescuespain.org or archrescue@yahoo.co.uk Tel 656 935 613 or 659 408 664 Our Charity shop is located in Calle Melendez Pelayo, just off Calle Gerald Brenan, Alhaurin el Grande. Tel: Liz 600 651 007. We always need volunteers and stock for the shop. We can also arrange collection. (93322)

ROAD TEST

by Nick Fletcher

SKODA'S Yeti compact SUV was a big seller and its replacement, the larger Koroq, is set for even greater success with enhanced space and versatility giving it wider appeal.

The SUV sector is jammed with alluring models and while some of them have perhaps a more sporty feel than the Koroq, they do not have its overall blend of driving comfort and refinement and its day-to-day family practicality.

Offering more striking and classy styling than the Yeti, with more of an off-roader look, most Koroq models will be 2WD - a 4WD system is available only with the 2.0-litre diesel engine.

With prices starting at €23,767 (£20,875), Koroq is keenly priced and offers a good range of engines, including a 1.6 diesel and 1.0-litre and 1.5-litre turbo petrol units.

There are three trim levels,

Skoda Koroq Edition

with the starter SE model well-kitted with alloys, DAB radio, Bluetooth, smartphone connectivity and dual-zone climate control among its features.

My flagship Edition version adds much more, including larger touchscreen and upgraded satnav with voice and gesture control, leather upholstery, panoramic sunroof and rear seats with variable positions to enlarge load space or allow more legroom for occupants. In 2.0-litre 148 hp 4WD form, and with seven-speed auto gearbox, this version costs

Top speed is 195 kph (121 mph), the 0-100 kph time 9.3 seconds, and fuel economy 19.2 kpl (54.3mpg). The emissions figure is 138 g/km.

The exterior style of the Koroq is forceful and impressive and while the dashboard design is rather ordinary it has a quality appearance. It is perfectly functional, with an excellent layout of dials and switchgear.

impresses with its accurate steering, excellent handling balance and better ride comfort than you get in most SUV models.

Five occupants will have ample space, and the big 520-litre boot expands to 1,800 litres with rear seats folded.

Plenty of cabin stowage places and aircraft-style tables for rear seat passengers help underline the family-friendly aspect of the new Koroq.

IMPRESSIVE: The car gives a superior ride.

Hammer time!

ITALIAN artisan hypercar maker Pagani has stopped production of its Huayra coupe after the 100th rolled off the production line.

But the manufacturer bowed out in style with a Lewis Hamilton-inspired special it is calling 'L' Ultimo.

It includes certain elements taken from other Huayra models including the Tempesta's carbon front splitter, panels, downforce-inducing skirts and rear diffuser plus a hood scoop similar to that seen on the BC and Cinque.

And it is all finished in carbon fibre with Petronas green highlights and stunning turquoise and white leather interior, in addition to a pricey Sonus Faber 1,200w sound system.

Introduced in 2012, the Huayra was the successor to the iconic Zonda.

La Liga Preview

Barca are the Real deal

BARCELONA maintained their incredible undefeated run in La Liga this season despite having a man sent off in a spiky 2-2 draw with Real Madrid on Sunday.

Luis Suarez volleyed Barca into the lead after 10 minutes, only for Cristiano Ronaldo to quickly bundle in an equaliser.

Barca will travel to Levante on Sunday and it will require something special to end their 13-month unbeaten league record, while Real Madrid will host Celta Vigo on Saturday.

Villarreal moved to within touching distance of qualifying for the Europa league after Mario Gaspar headed a late winner at Estadio de la Ceramica to edge rivals Valencia 1-0.

MARCHING ORDERS: Sergi Roberto received a red card in an ill-tempered El Clasico.

They will travel to relegated Deportivo La Coruna on Saturday, while Valencia will head to mid-table Girona.

Girona were comprehensively thrashed 4-1 by

Eibar, who themselves are aiming for a top-half finish.

Real Betis saw their eight-match undefeated league run end in a 2-0 defeat at Athletic Bilbao on Saturday, ensuring a top-four spot for Valencia.

Bilbao will be heading to Alaves on Saturday, who dispatched bottom placed Malaga 3-0.

Other fixtures this weekend will see Atletico Madrid travel to Getafe, Real Sociedad entertain Leganes and Eibar host Las Palmas on Saturday, while Malaga heads to Espanyol on Sunday.

Premier League preview

Blues stay in Champions League hunt

OLIVIER GIROUD was the match-winner as Chelsea kept their top-four hopes alive with a 1-0 victory over Liverpool at Stamford Bridge.

The Frenchman expertly headed in Victor Moses' cross in the first-half after the visitors had dominated possession and failed to capitalise.

Chelsea have now moved to within two points of Tottenham in fourth and just three behind third-placed Liverpool with two games remaining.

Manager Antonio Conte said Chelsea were "putting pressure" on their rivals, and as things stand Liverpool need to beat Brighton at home next Sunday to guarantee Champions League football.

Chelsea themselves will host Huddersfield Town on Wednesday, before travelling to Newcastle for their season finale on Sunday.

Newcastle slipped to a third successive defeat at Watford on Saturday, with the Hornets securing Premier League survival in a 2-1 win thanks to first-half goals from Roberto Pereyra and Andre Gray.

According to manager Rafael Benitez, Newcastle's players looked like they were already "on holiday," while goalscorer Ayoze Perez described it as "embarrassing."

Elsewhere, Jake Livermore's last-gasp goal handed West Brom a 1-0 victory over Tottenham, keeping their slim hopes of survival alive.

Just hours later, the Baggies were seconds from relegation when Southampton were denied victory over Everton by a 96th minute Tom Davies equaliser.

The Saints moved out of the bottom three and above Swansea despite conceding a heart-breaking stoppage time goal to make it 1-1.

FRENCH FLAIR: Giroud's deft header means the top-four battle will go to the wire.

Everton, who stay eighth in the table, were booed at the final whistle of their final home game of the season, and the result means they can no longer overhaul seventh-placed Burnley who have qualified for the Europa League.

Swansea's 1-0 loss at Bournemouth leaves them in real danger, and winless in seven games, while Stoke's 2-1 defeat by Crystal Palace ended their 10-year stay in the top flight.

Arsene Wenger said his farewell to the Emirates Stadium with a 5-0 thrashing of Burnley, before being treated to a guard of honour from Arsenal and Burnley players alike.

Other fixtures this weekend will see Swansea host Stoke, Arsenal travel to Huddersfield and Crystal Palace entertain West Brom on Sunday.

Fergie's battle

By Staff Reporter

MESSAGES of support have been flooding in for former Manchester United manager Sir Alex Ferguson, who remains in intensive care after undergoing emergency surgery for a brain haemorrhage.

It comes after the 76-year-old was said to be awake and 'asking about his results' in the wake of the life-threatening incident.

He was reportedly taken to Salford Royal Hospital with a police escort after falling ill at his Cheshire home over the weekend.

Manchester United said in a statement: "Sir Alex Ferguson has undergone emergency surgery today for a brain haemorrhage. The procedure has gone very well but he needs a period of intensive care to optimise his recovery. His family request privacy in this matter."

The legendary Scot won 49 trophies as a manager, including 13 Premier League titles, five FA Cups and two Champions Leagues.

FIGHT FOR LIFE: Sir Alex reportedly collapsed at home.

SPANISH SUPERSTAR: Iniesta is one of the greatest footballers in history.

Iniesta is a Spanish sporting great

ANDRES INIESTA is to receive the Grand Cross of the Royal Order of Sports Merit, the highest honour in Spanish sport.

The award recognises 'distinguished service in sports' and has previously been given to former Spanish internationals Iker Casillas and Xavi Hernandez.

Barcelona legend Iniesta, 34 later this month, confirmed he will be leaving the Nou Camp last week after 22 years.

There were tears as he thanked his teammates who packed the press room to watch him say goodbye.

The midfielder stands alongside Lionel Messi as the club's most decorated player ever, having lifted 32 trophies.

Iniesta has signed off his final season at Barca with another La Liga and Copa del Rey double, and his team are still on course to achieve the incredible feat of remaining unbeaten throughout the season.

He has not confirmed his plans for next season, although reports indicate that he may be heading to China.

World Endurance Championship: Fernando Alonso wins on debut

FERNANDO ALONSO made a winning start to his FIA World Endurance Championship career with victory in the Six Hours of Spa-Francorchamps race, in Belgium.

The double Formula One world champion teamed up with Sebastien Buemi and Kazuki Nakajima to win his first major race since the 2013 Spanish Grand Prix.

Their Toyota TSO50 finished just 1.4 seconds ahead of the second Toyota outfit, having started from pole position.

Alonso is combining the World Endurance Championship with his Formula One commitments at McLaren this season, in a bid to become only the second driver after Britain's Graham Hill, to take the so-called 'Triple Crown of Motorsport.'

This involves the Formula One title, or Monaco Grand Prix which he has also won, the Le Mans 24-Hours sportscar race, and Indianapolis 500.

Alonso will race Le Mans in both 2018 and 2019 with Toyota, and entered the Indy 500 last year, leading for a while before retiring.

THE Morgado Golf Course par 73 with 7,347-yards incorporates four par three holes and four par fives, including the 16th which is 624-yards long.

Morgado and Alamos courses are situated to the north of the town of Portimao on the Algarve. The Morgado Golf Course is laid out in a large 980-hectare estate through undulating small valleys. The immediate main characteristic factors are generous fairways and its large greens which place demand on good putting skills.

Also, the accuracy of the player's shot will be questioned by deep aggressive bunkers. At the NAU 4* Morgado Hotel Resort you will find 98 rooms with a modern decor and luxurious touches that convey comfortable elegance.

They are equipped with LCD TV with satellite channels, air conditioning and heating system, safe, mini-bar and most have stunning views of Morgado Golf Course, the excellent practice facilities or Golf Academy.

Proper champion Yorkshire in race to host Vuelta

SPAIN'S most prestigious cycling race could soon start in Yorkshire.

It comes as director of the Vuelta a España, Javier Guillen, jetted to the UK for talks with sheep farmer turned Chief Executive of the Welcome to Yorkshire tourism agency, Gary Verity.

La Vuelta, also known as the Tour of Spain, is one of the world's three most important cycling tour events alongside the Tour de France and Giro d'Italia.

It was last year won by Team Sky cyclist Chris Froome, who became the first Briton to pick up the title after bagging his fourth Tour de France just weeks earlier.

Mr Verity led the successful campaign for the 2014 Tour de France to start in the northern English county, when the first two stages saw the competitors race from Leeds to Harrogate and York to Sheffield.

And speaking at the start of the Tour de Yorkshire's third stage, he confirmed that discussions to bring the Spanish event to Britain are underway.

"We would love to start the Vuelta here, it's kind of Spanish weather isn't it?" he said. "It would work really well, we've got a great relationship with Javier Guillen who's the director of the Vuelta."

Yorkshire will next year host the UCI Road World Championship, the first UK venue to do so for 37 years.

FA Cup final preview

Locking horns in FA Cup

WITH the Premier League drifting towards its foregone conclusion, the FA Cup final on May 19 now stands as the biggest fixture left in the 2017-18 season.

It will be the 137th grand finale of the tournament, and a chance for two heavyweights of English football, Chelsea and Manchester United, to salvage something from their disappointing seasons.

It will also mark the first final between Antonio Conte and Jose Mourinho, two bitter rivals whose verbal spats this season descended into vicious personal attacks.

Eden Hazard, man of the match in Chelsea's semi-final win against Southampton and who has shone in the competition this year, can expect much closer attention from Mourinho's side.

ing Tottenham's blistering pace and pressing in the semi-final, fighting back from a goal down to claim victory.

A goal which saw Paul Pogba's perfect cross athletically converted by Alexis Sanchez was a sign of the weapons that Mourinho has at his disposal.

Chelsea are back in the final after losing to Arsenal a year ago, and winning the FA Cup might not be enough to convince either Conte or Chelsea owner Roman Abramovich that their two-year partnership should be extended.

Meanwhile Jose Mourinho has claimed that his critics will 'kill' him if his team fail to lift the trophy.

However, victory over Chelsea would yield the fourth trophy of Mourinho's two-year reign as United manager, following last season's Europa League, League Cup and Community Shield successes.

SPAIN'S Marc Marquez won his home race in Jerez to take the lead in the MotoGP championship after his title rivals collided spectacularly.

ago and was catapulted from his bike onto the asphalt after trying a bold overtaking manoeuvre of the two Ducatis on the inside line.

Although Dovizioso went wide, Lorenzo moved across into the corner, colliding with Pedrosa and sending all three riders into the gravel and out of contention.

Fortunately they all walked away from the incident, but Pedrosa has complained of acute pain in his right hip.

French Tech3 Yamaha rider Johann Zarco took second place and is now Mar-quez's closest rival in the championship, 12 points behind.

"Dani was the fastest, but a race is not only about being the fastest," said Marquez.

"You have to overtake, be aggressive in certain moments. I hope they are ok but I won't lie, it's more points for me."

The Honda rider and four-time world champion started the race from fifth place and took the lead with 16 laps to go.

Suzuki's Andrea Iannone finished third while fellow Italian and Moto GP great, Valentino Rossi, was fifth in a race which saw him reach a career milestone by completing the circumference of the planet in kilometres (40,075 km).
