EXCLUSIVE

by Matt Ford

A YOUNG Scotsman remains trapped on the Costa del Sol eight months after he was held on drug charges he describes as "ludicrous."

Computer engineer Robbie Miller, 24, was arrested on drug charges after a cannabis farm was discovered at the property where he was renting a room in La Linea de la Concepcion, Cadiz.

But he had only moved into the flat four days earlier and the plants were already mature, making it impossible that he grew them.

He was released on bail but had his passport seized while he waits for a judge to study his case, which he fears could take a year. And a detailed dossier of evidence, seen by the Euro Weekly News, appears to validate his story.

His mum - who is on benefits in Hamilton, South Lanarkshire - is sending money allowing him to rent a small flat in Malaga, but he is otherwise penniless and unable to get a job or return home.

A dejected Robbie said: "I'm at my wits' end. It's ludicrous to think I could have grown a load of plants that were 2m high when police came round.

"I had only moved in four days earlier and my passport

A BRITISH man on the run for armed robbery and known to have at least 75 false identities has been held on the Costa del Sol.

The still-unnamed suspect was detained in glamorous Marbella on a European Arrest Warrant after being stopped by a Spanish National Police patrol just after 2am.

And when he handed over his fake identification it became clear he was being hunted by UK investigators after being accused of raiding a series of armoured vehicles using illegal weapons and explosives.

He was cuffed and charged with presenting false documents on the spot but reportedly offered the officers €500 to let him go, resulting in an additional bribery rap.

A judge in Madrid ruled via video link that he be remanded in custody ahead of extradition proceedings.

It comes after one of Britain's most-wanted criminals - 41-year-old Stephen Lawrence murder suspect Jamie Acourt - was last week held in Barcelona on drug trafficking charges.

He had allegedly changed his name after going on the run and is believed to have spent the last 18 months in Spain, moving between the Catalan capital and the Costa del Sol.

A false passport bearing the name Simon Alfonzo was reportedly seized after he tried to pass himself off as an Italian tourist, but he is not challenging his extradition to the UK.

He became the 81st fugitive to be caught by Operation Captura, a joint venture between Spanish police, the National Crime Agency (NCA) and Crimestoppers, with the crackdown forcing criminals to go to extreme measure to avoid investigators.

NCA head of international operations Steve Reynolds told UK media: "Areas like the Costa Blanca and the Costa del Sol are the most popular with British holidaymakers and most of our fugitives. "It's been known for people to have plastic surgery after faces have been splashed all over the papers and television."

Others believed to be still at large in Spain include Glaswegian Jonathon Kelly, 36, who vanished four years ago after failing a drug test while on parole for a string of brutal assaults.

Serial fraudster Mark Acklom, 44, is wanted for allegedly fleeing a divorcee out of almost €1 million after romancing her while posing as an MI6 agent.

Twenty-seven-year-old Dominic McNally from Liverpool is wanted on drugs charges, while Londoner Shane O'Brien, 28, is accused of a 2015 murder.

And Sarah Panitzke, 42, from Yorkshire was among the masterminds convicted over a €1.1 billion VAT fraud.

Gun death test results

AN autopsy on the body of a man found near the Costa del Sol Hospital in Marbella revealed he was shot several times, according to the government's sub-delegate in Malaga. Miguel Briones added in conversation with journalists that the Institute for Legal Medicine's initial findings may shed light on the death.

Costa cabs

UBER has announced it plans to launch its cab hailing service across the Costa del Sol ahead of the tourist season. The taxi company reportedly hopes to cover Malaga, Torremolinos, Benalmadena, Fuengirola, Mijas and Marbella from June and a spokesperson said they hope to employ around 200 drivers.

False alarm

A ROAD in central Marbella was closed off by National Police after the area was struck by an explosives scare. Locals and businesses were evacuated from the Avenida Ricardo Soriano and Guardia Civil specialists were brought in with the incident later found to be a false alarm, according to a witness.

Man held

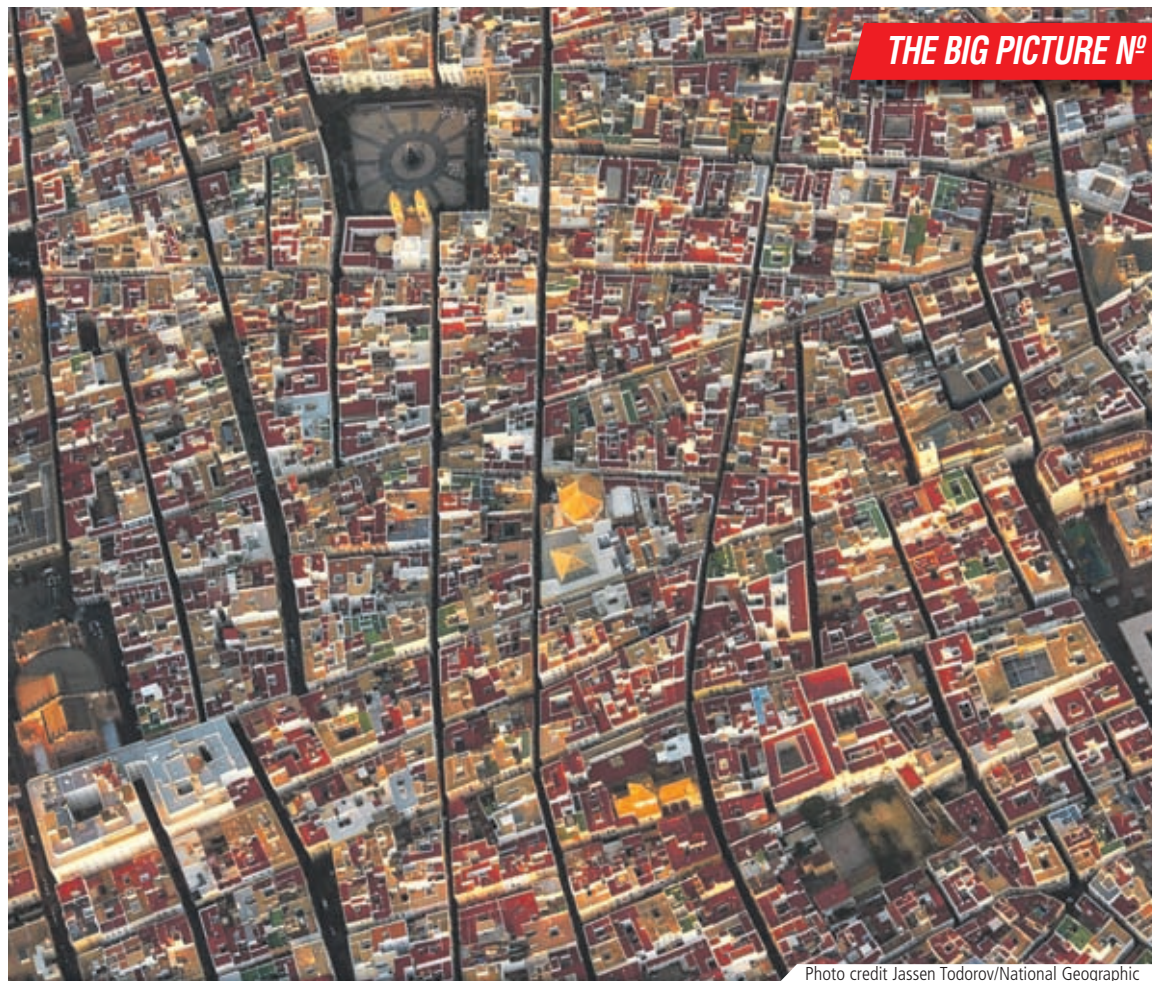

A 55-YEAR-OLD man who allegedly masturbated in front of a 10-year-old girl has been arrested by National Police in Marbella. The suspect was detained after the girl's mother reported him to emergency services and the man has already appeared before the court in connection with the case, provincial police said.

Beach death

A 75-YEAR-OLD who was pulled from the sea at a Torremolinos beach by onlookers died after failed attempts to revive him. Emergency services arrived at El Retiro beach in the town after receiving several calls warning them the man had appeared to be drowning when he was pulled from the water.

On the run

NATIONAL POLICE officers had to launch a search operation in Fuengirola after a man who arrived at a clinic with gunshot wounds ran away. Local and National Police and the Guardia Civil in the area were put on alert, with the man found minutes later and taken to hospital for surgery.

FLIGHT CLUB: The breathtaking snap was taken from an aeroplane.

Bird's eye view

THIS is the ancient port city of Cadiz, Andalucia, as you have never seen it before.

Arguably the oldest continuously inhabited city in Western Europe having been founded as Gadir by the Phoenicians around 1100 BC, the stunning shot shows the sinuous streets and historic plazas of its centre bathed in golden light just before sunset.

Taken from a plane by Bulgarian aerial photography specialist Jassen Todorov, it is his entry in the 2018 National Geographic Travel Photographer of the Year contest.

There are three categories in the competition - Nature, People and Cities.

One of the category winners will pick up the overall title plus a cash prize of $10,000 (€8,400).

Of the snap, Jassen - who is also a renowned professional violinist and avid pilot - said: "The town of Cadiz, Spain from above is as fascinating as it is from ground level - charming streets, narrow alleys, beautiful architecture, fun markets and people, glorious churches.

"It has got it all - now go visit and get lost for a while :)"

will show I arrived in Spain 15 days before I was arrested.

"No one has properly considered the case. No judge or jury could ever find me guilty."

The British Consulate offered to provide temporary travel documents when Robbie appealed for help, but warned he could be jailed if his bail conditions changed.

Robbie arrived in Spain, with his boarding passes verifying he travelled on October 5.

He went to La Linea in the hope of finding work in Gibraltar, and Facebook screen grabs show he contacted a British biker by the name of Simon of St Peter Pendragon on October 15.

He moved into a room in the landlord's flat on October 16, before police raided the property four days later, seizing cannabis plants weighing 7kg and jailing Robbie.

Additional screenshots confirm that Mr Pendragon even offered to visit police and protest the Scot's innocence in the wake of his arrest, although it is unclear if he did so.

Of the British Consulate's assistance, he added: "They said they can't intervene in the legal jurisdiction of Spain but they will seek to get my passport back.

"They sent me a waiver that says the bail conditions could change, which covers their back if I get remanded in custody prior to a trial."

Mum Alison told Scottish media: "The charges against Robbie are a joke."

WEDDING FEVER: Rhys, Inmaculada and (inset) the real Harry and Meghan.

Seeing double

THE world is gearing up to watch Prince Harry and Meghan Markle tie the knot this Saturday.

And as preparations continue, a couple have been crowned Europe's best royal lookalikes after beating more than 3,000 entrants.

Briton Rhys Whittock and Spaniard Inmaculada Serrano, both 34, were named the most convincing doppelgangers after stunning judges with their resemblance to the lovebirds.

The pair were also evaluated on royal waves, wedding proposals and bouquet throws before riding in an open-top horse-drawn carriage outside Buckingham Palace.

Property developer Rhys said: "My family and friends have often said I looked like the young Prince, but I certainly didn't think I'd be crowned the winner."

His partner Inmaculada, a teacher from Sevilla, added: "To be compared to the bride-to-be is a real honour and I'm flattered that I have been voted as the best double for one of the most famous women in the world."

Organised by low-cost airline easyJet, the winners received a year's worth of free flights.

And the runners-up were also from the UK and Spain, with Danni Burnett and Carlos Lamothe picking up second place.

The final round of judging - led by Duncan Larcombe, author of Prince Harry: Inside the Story, lookalike expert Susan Scott and professional Prince William double Simon Watkinson - saw the chosen couples jet into London from around Europe.

Some of the wackier entrants included a ginger kitten, a pygmy goat and a dog.

Around 600 guests are expected to attend the official ceremony at St George's Chapel, Windsor Castle, with another 2,640 invited to the grounds. But Meghan's dad Thomas Markle, 73, may not walk his daughter down the aisle after recently suffering a heart attack.

It comes after UK media revealed he had staged paparazzi photos for cash.

More than 100,000 people are expected to gather in Windsor for the big day, with 79 international media networks heading to Berkshire.

Mordor madness

Rude interruptions spoil big night

IT was supposed to be their proudest moment.

But the Eurovision Song Contest descended into chaos for the British and Spanish entrants. A stage invader ruined SuRie's performance for the UK after bursting on stage and grabbing the microphone before shouting about 'Nazis of the UK media.'

And the singer revealed that she has bruises on her hands after grappling with the man, who was wrestled to the floor by security.

The competition later turned into bloodshed after Javier Calvo, mentor to Spanish pair and real-life couple Alfred y Amaia, was attacked in Portuguese capital Lisbon.

He was allegedly involved in a bar brawl which left him with cuts and bruises.

And BBC presenter Graham Norton sent viewers into meltdown with a witty remark as the couple wound up their performance, as he quipped: "Awww, I give it a month."

Spain finished 23rd and the UK 24th while Israel won on the night.

Mob justice street scrap

DETECTIVES are probing an incident in Algeciras after nine Guardia Civil officers were attacked by a group of 40 people waving sticks, bats, broken bottles, paving stones and flower-pots.

The men were reportedly in plain-clothes and had just left a restaurant, but investigators are working to establish if they had been recognised as they reported that people were waiting in doorways and would not let them access their cars.

As the crowd - who are believed to have been celebrating a Communion - grew they began to chant at the men, who had by that point identified themselves as officers.

But they continued to advance until one of the men drew his regulation handgun and fired three shots into the air.

Six people were held in the wake of the incident, five of who have previous drug-trafficking charges.

Jaw blimey!

A 10-FOOT shark sparked panic on a Costa del Sol beach, but was later revealed to be harmless.

Red flags were raised as lifeguards warned beachgoers not to enter the water as the predator swam by Fuengirola, with a number of videos shot by onlookers sending social media into meltdown.

A police patrol was dispatched to catch the giant fish - identified by experts as a blue shark - and return it to deeper water, but they were unable to trace it.

The beaches were eventually reopened five hours later, but Elisenda Valls, a marine biologist from the University of Barcelona, told the Euro Weekly News there was 'probably' no danger at all.

"Blue sharks often approach the coast when searching for prey, especially when the beaches are quieter with less people," she said. "But there has never been an attack involving this species on the Costa del Sol or in Spain as far as I know."

Rental car robbers are not to be taken lightly

ANYONE renting a car in Spain this summer should take care. As holidaymakers flock to Spain in ever-increasing numbers, thieves are employing more brazen schemes to make off with their belongings.

And this does not just apply to tourists, after a member of the Euro Weekly News team was last year robbed while sitting at a restaurant less than 10 metres from their hire car.

Some might even say it is worth removing company logos and risking a small fine when returning the vehicle in order to attract unwanted attention.

Driven mad - page 23

UK should aim for EAW

THE Spanish authorities are to be applauded over the recent arrests of wanted British criminals.

Operation Captura has been a resounding success, with fugitives returned to the UK in droves as the UK has come to rely heavily on the European Arrest Warrant (EAW).

But what of this arrangement post-Brexit?

Senior figures in Brussels have argued that leaving the European Union (EU) necessarily means giving up the EAW and access to databases including Europol.

Labour MEP Claude Moraes, who chairs the European parliament's justice and home affairs, recently voiced concerns that the UK could become the new 'Costa del Crime.'

And after the recent breakdown in relations with Russia, it could be that the need for cooperation is now greater than ever.

Police say hit ordered by drugs cartel

By Staff Reporter

A MAN shot to death in broad daylight on the Costa del Sol is believed to have been killed by a Colombian drugs cartel.

David Avila, 36, nicknamed El Maradona for his poor football skills, was gunned down outside the Virgen del Rocio church in San Pedro de Alcántara minutes after attending the First Communion of his son.

As he and his family got into his Audi RS 3 sports car on nearby Calle Toledo, a motorcycle-riding hitman pulled up, smashed the driver's window with the butt of a pistol and shot him five times at point-blank range before speeding off.

His daughter was sitting on his wife's knee and his son was in the back seat, while other relatives stood close by.

No one else was hurt, and in-

vestigators believe those responsible wanted them to see the hit in a warning to others who fail to settle their debts.

Avila died at the Costa del Sol hospital after three bullets hit him in the head, one in the chest and one in the shoulder.

According to a police source he was a cocaine and hashish kingpin owing money 'which could run into the millions' to powerful rivals.

His assassination comes weeks after a luxury SUV stolen from Spanish actress Belen Rueda was driven through the window of his Marbella martial arts club, with the building then torched, before his Heaven Beach Club in Es-tepeña was burned to the ground.

Avila lived in a Benahavis apartment, drove expensive cars including Range Rovers and was often seen wearing Rolexes and other pricey watches, the source added.

He was reportedly on probation at the time of his killing, had previously served prison time for drug offences, and was under investigation for money laundering in Argentina.

Investigators are now probing a fatal accident in which two of his associates last month died while competing in a Ferrari race in Dubai.

Detectives initially believed it to be an accident, but are now suspicious that they could have faked their deaths after only their ashes were brought to Spain.

Fearsome fortnight

May 12: 'El Maradona' hit in San Pedro de Alcántara.

May 12: An African man is released in a shopping centre car park after a 24-hour kidnapping ordeal.

May 11: An Eastern European man walks into a clinic with a gunshot wound to the stomach.

May 7: A man riddled with bullets is found in a ditch near a hospital after his badly beaten wife raised the alarm.

May 4: Two Moroccan men with gunshot wounds walk into a hospital's emergency department in the wake of an incident at a marina.

April 30: Police unearth the bloodied corpse of a Spanish man near the Guadalhorce River several days after he vanished. A post mortem-examination revealed he had been stabbed to death.

No crime outburst

NO DANGER: Interior Minister Juan Ignacio Zoido (centre) with Marbella mayor Angeles Muñoz and other officials.

THE Spanish Interior Minister has dismissed the idea of a Costa del Sol crime problem.

Juan Ignacio Zoido's comments came during a visit to announce the construction of a new police station in Marbella in the wake of two brutal murders.

But when quizzed if he was concerned over a total of six violent incidents believed to be connected to drug trafficking in the last 15 days, the official described them as 'isolated incidents.'

He used the 15 per cent crime decrease in the city over the first quarter of 2018 as evidence, and urged local politicians and the media to avoid 'sowing alarm.'

The minister added: "There is less crime in Marbella than elsewhere so that's why [the incidents] appear so plainly.

"It is a great city 365 days per year and fashionable all over the world, so sometimes these things happen, but they are not occurring every day."

He went on to describe an attack by 40 people on Guardia Civil officers in Algeciras as 'more like vandalism.'

Mr Zoido visited three potential sites for a new National Police headquarters during his trip, plus a plot in San Pedro de Alcántara earmarked for a future station.

NEWS EXTRAMigrant mayhem

A MOROCCAN driver of a vehicle allegedly carrying four illegal immigrants failed to stop at a police checkpoint and was chased for several kilometres before being intercepted near Algeciras, the Guardia Civil said.

Crash drama

A TRAFFIC accident caused by a vehicle which was driving the wrong way down Avenida Victoria in Ronda left six vehicles written off but somehow no people were harmed, medics confirmed.

Summit up

THE Alhaurin de la Torre flag has flown on the summit of Toubkal in Morocco's Atlas mountain range after a team including a Local Policeman from the town braved the 4,167 metre peak.

Appy travel

BUS users in Benalmadena are now able to track the real-time location of public transport around the holiday hotspot, in a council master plan aimed at increasing the number of people using it and reducing pollution.

Cross to bear

MARBELLA Council has probed road security around the city but will have to seek approval from the National Development Ministry before dangerous pedestrian crossings on the A-7 road can be improved.

Stab horror

A 19-YEAR-OLD has been held after he allegedly stabbed a man, 27, in the throat and back while he walked with his girlfriend on Calle Mar in El Palo, Malaga City, police said in a statement.

POLICE are probing the death of a nine-year-old boy after a high-powered dinghy ploughed into the boat he was on in Algeciras, Cadiz.

And it has now emerged that the man driving is a member of the notorious Pantoja drugs clan with links to Moroccan kingpin Abdellah El Haj, known as the 'Messi of hashish.'

The fatal smash took place on Getares beach, near the mouth of the Picaro river, in an area where boating is prohibited.

Both occupants of the semi-rigid inflatable vessel were held after witnesses overpowered and restrained them until police arrived.

Beachgoers described how the victim and his father were anchored just offshore when the dinghy started to 'perform dangerous high-speed manoeuvres.'

But when the boy's dad shouted to complain about the men's behaviour, they turned and sped towards the other boat before 'passing over the top of it.'

It later emerged that their craft had until earlier that day been impounded by the Guardia Civil for being loaded with drums which investigators believe were used to supply fuel for drug trafficking boats.

The owner was initially turned away when he tried to collect it since he did not have the necessary documentation, but he returned with a licence-holding friend before they headed to the beach.

Drug death an accident

A DRUG trafficking gang member on trial in Malaga City has admitted that he and 12 others broke into a Mijas property to steal a 28-kilo cocaine stash, but that they did not intend to shoot the occupant dead.

APRIL saw almost 1.7 million passengers arrive or depart from Malaga Airport on more than 12,300 flights, representing increases of 0.1 and 2.8 per cent on the same period last year, according to official figures.

STREET TALK

Do you mind 'looky looky' men approaching you?

THEY'RE the sub-Saharan beach sellers who divide public opinion. But how much do 'looky looky' men really bother holidaymakers and residents?

• Ricardo Gutierrez Sanchez, 60, a retired stuntman on holiday from Salamanca

"In a country like Spain, people have to do what they can to survive. They have a right to earn a living like anybody else. Buying from them means they can afford to eat. We know the products aren't the real deal but we don't mind. I've bought all sorts, from underwear to trainers and the quality really isn't bad!"

• Linda Mason, 70, British holidaymaker from Essex

"I don't really like it but I'm used to it now because it's so constant!"

ENTITLED: Ricardo.

USED TO IT: Linda.

"I'd rather go to local markets than buy their stuff. I have bought a watch from them, which was okay and some bracelets too. They went a funny colour before long."

• Luciano Di Carlo, 44, recently moved to southern Spain

"It's okay as long as they aren't really pushy. "Actually, I would prefer them not to approach me. But sometimes I just buy something because I feel sorry for them, even if I don't need the product!"

• Carlos Jose Moya Perez, 34, waiter born on the Costa del Sol

"Well, the vast majority of clients don't like the sellers."

FEELING SORRY: Luciano.

"And it's a pain for me when I am trying to serve a table and they get in the way."

"They are allowed to sell on the beach next to the restaurant, but we try to stop them from coming in."

• Melina, 19, from Germany and working as a waitress at an Indian food restaurant

"As long as they aren't too 'pesado' (annoying or bothersome in Spanish) they're fine."

"But if I was in a really nice restaurant I wouldn't be impressed."

"I'm often out on the promenade persuading people to eat in my restaurant, so I'm not exactly in a position to slate them!"

DITTO: Melina.

ANNOYED: Carlos.

Rocky ground

Gib airport row takes flight

by Joe Gerrard

HANDS OFF? Madrid has sparked outrage.

SPAIN'S foreign minister has said the country's government continued to seek an agreement on potentially having some say over Gibraltar's airport.

Alfonso Dastis' comments come as Gibraltar officials and British politicians responded saying such a move would threaten the territory's sovereignty which was non-negotiable.

Dastis, who was speaking at a forum in Sevilla, said taking the option off the table would lead 'nowhere.'

"We're approaching these negotiations with a constructive spirit and with a will to reach agreement," he said.

The foreign minister was referring to proposals reportedly put forward by Spain that would allow the country to post Guardia Civil officers to police Schengen area borders.

They were reportedly put forward by the country's negotiating team in talks with the British over the future of The Rock after it leaves the European Union next year.

British political figures weighed in on Spain's proposal after news broke of it being put forward. Gibraltar and south-west of England Conservative MEP Ashley Fox said it would be 'tantamount' to a sovereignty breach.

"Allowing Spanish law enforcement agencies to exercise control on British territory crosses a red line," he said on Twitter.

"It is simply unacceptable as it would undermine Gibraltar's sovereignty. A mutually beneficial deal can be agreed if both sides approach the talks in good faith," he said.

The Government of Gibraltar said in a statement it classed the issue of the airport as a red line.

"Our position should not come as a surprise to anyone. Our red lines have not changed and they will not change in the future," the statement said.

Talks between Britain and Spain began in early January, in parallel with Brexit negotiations underway with EU officials.

The two countries have previously sat around the table to strike a deal on the airport. It is built on a disputed piece of land between the British enclave and the Spanish mainland known as the isthmus.

The Cordoba agreement, reached in 2006, stated Spain could construct an access point to the airport's terminal but this did not occur.

CAR ATTACK: Kemi Coaker (left) was held in Cala Vinyes after ploughing into victim, Meghan Tattersall.

Hit and run horror

Brit expat mows down love rival

by Matt Ford

A BRITISH expatriate from Manchester has been banned from leaving Mallorca for allegedly running over her husband's new girlfriend.

Kemi Coaker, 29, was held in Magaluf after she mowed down Meghan Tattersall in broad daylight before speeding off.

Both women are said to live and work in the area.

Onlookers described how a 'small white car' mounted a pavement near the Punta Ballena party strip and ploughed into the 23-year-old from Wetherby in West Yorkshire.

She was taken to Son Espases Hospital in Palma with serious leg injuries after two police officers spotted a group of pedestrians surrounding her as she lay on the ground.

Kemi, whose maiden name is Pereira, was arrested on the nearby Cala Vinyes housing estate half an hour later as she and a friend sat in a vehicle matching witness descriptions.

And investigators are treating the incident as intentional after it emerged that she had been lying in wait beforehand.

She has been released from custody after handing over her passport and agreeing to stay at least 500 metres away from Meghan, but could face an attempted murder charge, police said in a statement.

The ruling came after she was marched into a Palma court wearing handcuffs and with a grey hoodie covering her face.

Local media have named her ex and the victim's current partner as Andrew Coaker, 39, from Reading in Berkshire.

The pair are believed to have split 12 months ago after being married for two years, and he started a relationship with Meghan two or three months ago.

A friend told UK media: "Meghan was getting on with her life and enjoying herself out there in Mallorca, she is not a home wrecker."

He was not present at the time of the alleged attack.

Flight axed after ploughing into hares

AN Aer Lingus flight to the Costa del Sol was forced to return to Dublin after a hare was sucked into one of the plane's engines as it took off.

Flight EI-582 had 287 passengers on board as it departed for Malaga.

But soon after take-off the captain contacted air traffic control in the Irish capital to report that they had hit 'two rabbits or hares' as they sped down the runway.

And after an inspection revealed a single dead hare on the tarmac, the Airbus A330-300 jet was told to turn around as it approached the French coast, amid fears that the second animal's body had been drawn into an engine.

The cabin crew did not declare an emergency although firefighters and engineers were standing by as the plane came into land.

A replacement aircraft flew the holidaymakers to Spain later the same day.

An Aer Lingus official said: "Flight EI582 departed Dublin Airport this morning, en route to Malaga with 287 guests on board.

"The aircraft turned back less than one hour into the flight, due to a technical issue, and landed safely at Dublin at 9.52am.

"Guests disembarked normally and will be flown to Malaga this afternoon on a replacement aircraft. We apologise to our guests for this disruption to their travel plans."

Airline takes off

LOW-COST airline Primera Air has marked the start of an extensive new flying programme from a Midlands airport to the Costa del Sol.

Its first flights from Birmingham to Malaga airport have already taken off this week and a New York route launches on Friday.

Birmingham Airport's Tom Screen said: "It was great to welcome the airline and to celebrate their new Midlands operation by giving the aircraft a water arch on departure.

"These additional frequencies to Malaga and Palma complement the existing services we have to the Med and Primera's low fares will, I'm sure, be welcomed by Midlanders.

"With new direct services to New York and Toronto launching soon with Primera too, we are offering passengers the chance to fly across the pond non-stop, low-cost several times weekly."

Anastasija Visnakova, Chief Commercial Officer at Primera Air, said: "It was a pleasure to welcome our passengers on the inaugural service to Malaga.

"The range of destinations, both European and transatlantic, at fantastic prices creates more choice for passengers travelling from Birmingham airport."

Earlier this year the low-cost leisure airline revealed plans for new winter flights from Manchester to Malaga's Costa del Sol airport.

They will operate four times a week on Mondays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays from October with fares starting from €35 one way.

The Latvia and Denmark-based carrier currently serves 97 destinations in 23 countries and the European fleet operates Boeing 737-700 and Boeing 737-800 aircraft.

Thieves targeting rental cars

HOLIDAY WARNING: Criminals are conning tourists.

HOLIDAYMAKERS have been warned of a rental car scam in Spain.

Drivers on the AP-7 motorway are reportedly being targeted by thieves who flag them down after claiming to have spotted a flat tyre.

They are signalled to pull over before having their belongings stolen while distracted.

American tourist Kelly Roland said: "We were driving back from Cadeques to Barcelona when a mid-size BMW [with a few guys in it] pulled up next to us on the motorway."

She explained that a man in the front passenger seat was pointing at her front tyre and pointing to a service station ahead.

After she stopped her friend got out to look and the man came over 'speaking loudly in broken English' before Kelly herself joined them.

"Now all three of us are looking at the passenger-side tyre and you can see there's nothing wrong with it.

"[Later] I realised he had been talking loud so we didn't hear the doors opening and closing."

She added that one of the man's friends had sneaked over and removed their bags while they were distracted.

And when she reported the incident to police she was told they had seen the ploy "one, two, maybe 3,000 times before."

Other criminals are less subtle and simply break the windows of rental cars before making off with whatever they can lay their hands on.

Police recommend removing rental stickers or signage from cars, regardless of whether the companies themselves approve. They also recommend that all valuables should be kept out of sight, locking bags and other items in the boot if leaving the vehicle unattended.

It is the second time they have headed to the glitzy city this year, having spent several days there in February.

Death probe goes on Brit expat bar manager held

MURDER RAP: Paul Waugh (left) has been remanded in custody in connection with the death of Aaron Henderson.

A BRITISH expatriate bar manager has appeared in a Mallorca court on suspicion of beating a holidaymaker to death.

Aaron Henderson, from Coleraine, Northern Ireland, was on holiday with his partner Danielle Baxter and their young children when he was violently assaulted on the Punta Ballena party strip in Magaluf.

And manager of Mulligan's Irish bar Paul Waugh, 35, has now been held in the wake of a probe.

A 37-year-old Spanish colleague was also arrested and accused of withholding information to cover up the alleged attack.

Father-of-four Aaron, 30, was found in critical condition after suffering a severe head injury in the early hours of the morning.

A witness told detectives he was pushed to the ground before being kicked in the head.

He died four days later, and it is understood that a post mortem examination revealed the blows caused bleeding on the brain.

Around 10 people, including

British bar staff and promotional workers from the pub and other nearby venues have also been quizzed by investigators, according to a police statement.

Middlesbrough-born Paul has been working on the island for around 15 years and has a young son believed to be aged seven.

He has appeared in a Palma court and remanded in custody.

The victim's body arrived in Belfast on Monday and his funeral took place yesterday (Wednesday), his family confirmed.

PRISON CAMP: Republican supporters were rounded up and held after the war.

War camp confirmed

DOCUMENTS dated to the Spanish Civil War have confirmed a camp existed in Torremolinos where opponents of Francisco Franco's nationalists were subjected to forced labour and abuse.

The site reportedly stood where the town's old Aquapark was and operated between 1938 and 1939. Thousands of prisoners are thought to have been held there.

The existence of the concentration camp was debated and denied for years. Former conservative Partido Popular town mayor Pedro Fernandez Montes claimed in 2015 it was instead a 'detention' camp.

The papers, uncovered by local historian Carlos Blanco, consist of official certificates, a quartermaster's report and an administrative magazine.

One detailed 6,349 pesetas in costs paid and reviewed by a chief accountant on March 30 and 31, 1939.

A separate investigation from Javier Rodrigo, a professor at the Autonomous University of Barcelona, reportedly found there were more than 4,490 inmates registered there.

Concentration camps were built across Spain in the wake of the nationalist rebels' victory in the Civil War.

Suspected sympathisers of the deposed Republican government and political and ideological opponents of Franco's regime were held there.

Compensation for mis-sold SIPP's and QROPs now possible

ARE you one of the many expatriates in Spain who has transferred your UK pension into a QROP or a SIPP and suffered a financial loss of capital and/or income?

You may not realise that you have been mis-sold an investment.

Mis-sold investments are defined as the negligent, deliberate or reckless sale of an investment, where the investment was misrepresented or unsuitable for your needs.

Reasons for mis-selling are many and include:

Unregulated advice: Did you receive advice from a qualified adviser with correct permissions from the Financial Conduct Authority?

Unsuitable Advice: Was the advice you received suitable for your specific needs and personal situation?

Investment Risk: Did the adviser undertake a fully compliant risk assessment to establish your attitude to risk, your investment objective and your future financial goals?

Fee Disclosure: Were the fees, charges and commissions explained to you?

Investment Experience: Did you understand the investment product that you were buying?

Fund Choices: Were you informed that your capital would be placed in illiquid or experienced investor funds that now have little or no value? For example, Structured Notes, Hotel Rooms or Forestry Funds

If you answered NO to one or any of the above questions it is likely you have been mis-sold.

Expatriate clients who are victims of mis-selling, or more generally, are worse off because of misleading advice can now potentially receive compensation through the UK Financial Services Compensation Scheme.

Expat Investment Claims can investigate the advice you received and the way in which your QROP or SIPP has been administered to determine if you have grounds for a claim.

Representatives of Expat Investment Claims will be visiting the Costa Del Sol from May 21 to 25. If you would like to book a meeting regarding your potential QROP compensation options please contact us by email.

To identify whether you've been the victim of mis-selling please contact Expat Investment Claims at info@expatinvestmentclaims.com or visit www.expatinvestmentclaims.com for further information.

Expats spirit sparks Royal wedding fever with a free party

THE Costa del Sol expatriate community has once again shown its very best side at a time of need, and that is a real cause for celebration.

And as the Royal Wedding draws ever near, we sat and thought: 'How can we help people that might be sat at home on the big day?'

Our recent exclusive stories covering the squatters nightmare endured by 69-year-old Anita Pillay and husband Tony, who returned from a London trip to find their Torremolinos home occupied, sparked an overwhelming response.

And a campaign to help the heartbroken couple, who lost everything after the culprits fled with their belongings, saw Euro Weekly News' clients and readers unite.

Fuengirola-based firms Yorkshire Linen and Los Warehouse supplied new bedding and kitchenware, respectively, while Age Concern Costa del Sol got in touch to offer clothing free of charge.

Many people got in touch with offers of money, and one generous soul even donated a 32-inch flat screen television to replace the one stolen, which was a gift from the couple's son.

A delighted Anita this week said: "I can't actually thank everyone enough, with your support we are slowly managing to rebuild our lives.

"God bless you, thank you so much."

Hearing her words, an idea hit us. It came after we were honoured and privileged to receive an invitation to the British Embassy's garden party in Madrid.

The concept began to mushroom, and the community has once again pulled out all the stops and showed its incredible generosity, with volunteers galore from charities to businesses and British Consul Charmaine Arbouin.

We are delighted to announce a special FREE event at Restaurant Villalinda in Mijas - where Bob and Linda have kindly donated their beautiful venue in stunning surroundings - at which Harry and Meghan's big day will be projected onto a large screen.

Featuring the sensational singing voices of local talents Antony Wolfson

One Wish Steve, Pimms will be served on arrival followed by a light lunch and cava as the happy couple tie the knot, plus a special video message from the UK's ambassador to Spain, Simon Manley.

There will also be a raffle with great prizes donated by our wonderful clients, and a special prize for the best-dressed attendee on the day, sponsored by Currencies Direct.

So, there's no reason to sit alone this Saturday. If you are lonely, have a disability, or fancy getting out of the house, let us know. Transport can be arranged.

Places are limited so you MUST confirm in advance by calling organiser Nicki Burgess on 600 583 579 or emailing royalwedding@euroweeklynews.com by 11am tomorrow (Friday).

It's not a gas

by Karl Smallman

SPAIN'S National Police is warning the public, especially the elderly, to be on their guard for scams involving fake 'gas inspectors.'

Typically, the con artists turn up at the homes of the victims to perform installation inspections and then charge hundreds of euros for replacing any past, use-by date gas hoses, that only cost a fraction of the price.

They are often wearing official-looking uniforms and carry dubious ID and clipboards.

The police say that official gas distributors and inspectors always 'notify in advance, by letter and set an appointment,' so an unexpected knock at your door and visit should be a reason for suspicion.

They also add that if a payment is immediately demanded in cash or even with a credit card, this is also a sign of a scam.

National Police officers say that the victims are, in most cases, the elderly and the vulnerable and ask for everyone's help to spread the word and stop the scam.

It comes as the price of gas cylinders in Spain this week dropped by almost 5 per cent, with a 12.5 kilogramme bottle now costing €13.27, more than €4 cheaper than five years ago.

The Costa's got pride

by Liam Quinn

TORREMOLINOS is set to become one huge outdoor festival as it gears up to celebrate its fourth edition of Gay Pride which kicks off in two weeks time.

The festivities will open with the raising of the rainbow flag in La Nogalera square on Thursday May 31. From then until Sunday June 3, an explosion of music and dance will fill the streets as concerts, parties and other events take place across the town.

The highlight of this year's festivities will be the main Gay Pride parade which takes place on Saturday June 2. The parade of floats will weave their way through the streets accompanied by tens of thousands of participants and onlookers. And even though the event began only four years ago, attendance this year is set to attract over 50,000 people, breaking last year's record.

Speaking exclusively to the Euro Weekly News, the president of Colega Torremolinos, Santiago Rubio, said: "In light of the recent attack on the transsexual couple, we ask that everyone takes part in the peaceful protest at the front of the parade. We can't accept attacks such as this under any circumstances. We also invite everyone to take part in the more cultural aspects of the event."

His comments may come in light of the fact that last year concerns were voiced that the event had lost much of its social awareness message and had become too focused on tourism and business.

His promotion of the more cultural side of the event might also be in response to comments made by the ex-mayor of Torremolinos, Pedro Fernandez Montes, who was recently quoted as saying that

LGBT-phobia event tonight

To mark the International Day against homophobia and transphobia today, the LGBT Association Andalucia Diversidad will be hosting a Words and Music against LGBT-Phobia event at Kipfer & Lover in Malaga tonight (Thursday) from 7.30pm.

the gay tourism sector in Torremolinos was 'cheap and nasty' and that it 'scared away families and repulsed serious and formal gays.'

However, with greater involvement from a range of associations this year and the organisation of the event, the programme is packed with exhibitions, films, concerts and festivals, including family friendly events and activities. Although only in its prime, it seems that the Torremolinos Pride event is going from strength to strength every year.

Trouble ahead? Ryanair pilot talks stall

by Staff Reporter

A TRADE UNION representing Ryanair pilots in Spain has warned that negotiations will collapse if its final proposal is rejected by the Irish low-cost airline. The Sepla union represents around 65 per cent of the 700 Ryanair pilots in Spain.

In a letter to its pilot members, Sepla said that the union council that represents Ryanair pilots was 'moderately optimistic' following a meeting last month with Ryanair management. However, the union's chief delegate, Juan Antonio Canete Ruiz, said following the meeting, the union received a new proposal from Ryanair 'which differed from the spirit of the meeting.'

The union claimed Ryanair's position is 'totally surprising and leads us to believe that they do not intend to reach an agreement.'

Mr Canete Ruiz said that rejection of the union's final recognition proposal, which was sent to Ryanair last Friday, 'would lead to a breakdown of negotiations.'

Sepla is believed to be planning to file a lawsuit against Ryanair in Spain in an effort to have the carrier subject to Spanish labour laws if it rejects the union's final proposals.

Couple charged €200 per hour for sex

A COUPLE from Barcelona who moved to Ireland and charged clients €200 per hour for sex at their home will not be jailed.

Spaniard, David Navaro, 50, and his Brazilian wife Celia Galan, 41, moved to Ennis, County Clare, in 2015.

They were held in the wake of a covert surveillance operation by Gardai (Irish police) investigators amid suspicions they were running a brothel.

Ennis District Court heard that the pair were making around €1,200 per week after advertising themselves on the Escort Ireland website as 'Ann and Peter.'

A raid on the property saw a laptop with the saved advert, a phone and a notebook with clients' details seized, said Inspector Tom Kennedy.

The advert said: 'Ann is a woman of 30 years with a pretty face and Peter is a man of 38 years with a slender body and both are eager to please you.'

'We receive men, women and couples. You will enjoy the best experience of your life and are sure you will come back.'

Inspector Kennedy confirmed that the couple did not work individually, and that they would charge €200 an hour for sex, €170 for 45 minutes or €130 for 30 minutes.

He added: "Their response to Gardai was that they didn't think there was anything wrong with what they were doing and that it wasn't illegal.

"The entire operation was conducted by both of them. It was a joint enterprise.

"They were both participating in it willingly and with each other and it was advertised in that format."

Daragh Hassett, defending, called the racy venture a "cottage industry," and said that when the pair were charged "they were effectively run out of the property and out of Ennis."

He added: "This is rampant in Spain and regularised there and not something that breaches the law there."

The pair - who have no previous convictions - now live in eastern Ireland and work in a factory for €400 per week after cooperating fully with the police and pleading guilty to prostitution charges, the solicitor continued.

Judge Patrick Durcan charged each of them €600 and said: "This activity is against the law and the court doesn't approve of this type of activity."

Riding his luck

A 20-YEAR-OLD man who was found attempting to swim to Spain with a surfboard has been picked up by a Navy ship.

The swimmer, who reportedly identified himself as Hamsda Sabar from Morocco, was picked up by the Mar Caribe auxiliary ship at around 8.20pm last Sunday.

Naval personnel took the migrant aboard and gave him food and assistance. He was exhausted and showed the symptoms of hypothermia, according to Spain's Ministry of Defence.

The Navy's ship was ordered to transfer the swimmer to the Spanish coastguards, who picked him up at around 8.50pm in the Strait of Gibraltar.

The Mar Caribe currently undertakes patrol work in Spanish waters. It is also capable of finding mines, torpedoes and buoys and of carrying out rescue work.

It was travelling back to its home port of Rota, Cadiz.

Meat in the middle

AN employee who was fired for stealing and eating a pastry at work in Spain has been told by a court she should have her job back or be compensated.

The company she worked for recorded the empanada-scoffing incident on a surveillance camera which was submitted to the court as evidence.

But a judge in Cordoba said the evidence is inadmissible after the European Court of Human Rights condemned Spain for taking such evidence without the consent of the workers.

The woman had worked at the same shopping centre for 12 years and, on November 22 last year, she received a letter of dismissal for 'an absolutely fraudulent and disloyal performance.'

Now the judge has ordered the company to re-employ the woman or, alternatively, pay her €19,000 compensation.

Death plunge warning

Drunk Brits told to cut out hotel stunts

by Staff Reporter

A SPANISH doctor has warned young British holidaymakers to keep dangerous hotel stunts in check.

In a video produced by the UK's Foreign Office, surgeon Juan Jose Segura Sampedro from Son Espases Hospital in Palma de Mallorca urges revellers to stop jumping between balconies.

It comes after research revealed that more Britons are hurt or killed trying to pull off the risky move than any other nationality.

The medic blames British drinking culture after his survey into 'balconing' - where people leap or climb from one terrace to another - found that 61 per cent of those injured were British, while the average age of victims was 24, with 97 per cent men.

In the footage, he says: "The typical story is a guy, probably 19, 20 years old that has come here [Mallorca] with some friends and they are having fun, they are drinking maybe a bit more than usual and they get into a fight or they take risky behaviours (sic) like climbing from one balcony to another or jumping into a pool.

"Normally, the most frequent accident is going to be a spine injury, and even more severe a head or neck trauma.

"The problem here is not to ruin a holiday, the problem here is you are going to ruin your life."

And in an earlier conference on the subject the doctor revealed that "in 98 per cent of cases the victim had drunk large amounts of alcohol, and in one in four they also tested positive for cannabis or other drugs."

Two young Britons have already died after plunging from balconies in Mallorca this year.

Natalie Cormack, 19, from North Ayrshire in Scotland, was last month killed after plummeting from the sixth floor of a Magaluf building.

She was trying to cross to her flat from a neighbour's terrace after leaving her keys at the bar she worked at.

In March, Sheffield Hallam University student James Walton, 23, from Ealing in London, died when he fell four floors to the street in Palma after a St Patrick's Day party with friends.

House up

FIREFIGHTERS rescued a family in Campanillas, near Malaga City, after a fire engulfed two cars on a neighbouring drive and trapped them in their home when the flames spread to their garden, according to reports.

Right track

RESIDENTS of the Nueva Torrequebrada neighbourhood in Benalmadena have amassed 1,400 signatures in support of their demand for the Spanish government to build a railway station in the area, local media said.

€2.8bn spree

VISITORS to Malaga City spent more than €2.8 billion between November 2016 and October 2017, an increase of a record 76 per cent over the previous 12 months, according to tourism councillor Maria del Mar Martin Rojo.

Treason rap axed

Ruling fans free expression flames

A JUDGE has dropped proceedings against a woman for allegedly burning pictures of the King.

The decision follows a separate European Court of Human Rights (ECHR) ruling, classing such acts as free expression.

Jose de la Mata, a judge presiding in Spain's National Court, wrote in a report to police the burning was a 'symbolic' rejection of the monarchy.

The act did not incite hatred or violence which could have made the woman liable for prosecution, the judge added. Insulting the crown is a criminal offence under Spanish law, as is hate speech.

The ruling concerned the woman's alleged burning of a photograph of the king at a protest in Banyoles.

The demonstration was called after the ECHR's decision to strike down 15-month prison sentences for two Catalan defendants accused of insulting the Spanish crown. The court in Strasbourg also ordered Spanish authorities to compensate the protesters.

The National Court in Madrid's decision to call off efforts to prosecute the woman for the Banyoles burning follows the ECHR ruling on March 13.

Judge De la Mata cited the ECHR's ruling in his report to police. He wrote the burning of the photos had not been a personal attack but a criticism of what the King represented, the Spanish state.

The woman levelled political criticism at the crown over the treatment of the two Catalan defendants and over Spain's handling of the Cataluña independence push more generally, the judge added.

"The ECHR recalls that freedom of expression is valid not only for information or ideas that are favourably received or considered harmless but also for those that hurt or offend," the report said.

"Pluralism and tolerance are required. Without these there is no democratic society," it added.

The court's decision comes as Spain has wrestled recently with its monarchy insult laws. The Congress of Deputies in Madrid debated scrapping the legislation in March following proposals from a Catalan leftist party in the Spanish parliament.

Valtonyc, a rapper from Mallorca, was sentenced to three and a half years in prison for slandering the monarchy in his songs, among other things. He is yet to enter prison.

Plane crash horror

THREE people were killed on Saturday when a light aircraft crashed in Spain, authorities have revealed.

The regional government for Cataluña has said that the plane took off from the Portuguese airport of Tires.

It was headed to Reus Airport in Tarragona, northeast Spain, but crashed in the nearby area.

The accident caused a small bushfire that had to be extinguished by firefighters.

An investigation is underway and the identity of the three victims remains undisclosed at this stage.

Portillo Civil War link

By Joe Gerrard

THE father of a leading former British politician may have been behind one of the most famous speeches given during the Spanish Civil War, according to a historian's new theory.

Severiano Delgado said the address delivered by Miguel de Unamuno at the University of Salamanca was written by Luis Portillo, the father of ex-cabinet minister Michael.

Delgado, a historian and librarian at the University of Salamanca, added although a speech was definitely delivered it was possible the surviving transcript was Portillo's invention.

The address saw Unamuno take General Jose Millan Astray, a supporter of Francisco Franco and founder of the Spanish Legion, to task over his role in the war. It was delivered around three months into the conflict in October 1936.

"You will win because you have an abundance of brute force, but you will not convince. To convince, you need to persuade, and to persuade you need something you lack: reason and right in the struggle.

NEW THEORY: Portillo's (inset) father may have written the speech.

"It seems to me to be useless to ask you to think of Spain. I have spoken," Unamuno is recorded as saying in the address in the presence of Astray.

Delgado said Luis Portillo, a professor, poet and Republican government official, knew Unamuno through the university.

He later published a piece based on the speech named Unamuno's last lecture in Horizon magazine in 1941, possibly with the help of Animal Farm writer, George Orwell.

"In reality Unamuno didn't deliver that speech. It was invented and written by Luis Portillo," Delgado said.

He added Portillo's version had been picked up by British historian, Hugh Thomas who included it in his book The Spanish Civil War.

"He copied out Portillo's account pretty much from beginning to end and cited it as a translation of the speech. That was the great misunderstanding," he said.

Luis Portillo fled Spain when the war ended and went to Britain where he married and had five sons. One would go on to become former Tory MP and television railway enthusiast, Michael Portillo.

IT is a well-documented fact that the Spanish Costas' rich variety of foreign residents increases the complexity of legal issues and driving licences, that turn out to be fake, is one of them.

This same paper reported some months back that a US national was fined €500 for carrying a 'bogus' international driving licence, a lucky escape I should say considering that a Middle Eastern businessman is facing prison time for using an international driver's licence issued by an entity named as International Automobile Alliance (IAA), purportedly based in New York.

According to the State Prosecutor's writ of accusation, the licence was deemed 'fake in its entirety, having a photograph affixed by the owner or a third person.'

Based on those findings, they requested that the alleged offender is sentenced to a minimum prison term of 19 months for forging a public document and plus an additional criminal fine of 12 euros/day for a period of 18 months if the offender is unable to show evidence that he did have a valid driver's licence from another country (it now appears that only US officially-approved 'AAA' and 'AATA' associations can issue such international licences).

The are tens of online 'businesses' selling fake driving licences, along with passports and IDs. One advertises its business offer as having several years of experience producing original quality real/false passports, IDs, drivers' licences.

Alongside these obvious clandestine operators, there is a second tier of businesses that - purporting to have a specific government official approval - state they can issue valid international driving licences pursuant to Annex 9 of the Geneva Convention and Annex 6 of the Vienna Convention.

To sum up: a) international drivers' licences are generally only issued by officially recognised agencies to drivers who already have a valid licence from the country and b) the agencies issuing them must be approved by the specific government.

Fixed rate or variable rate mortgage?

Mortgage Expert

by Sara

DIFFERENT from the UK, changing your mortgage in Spain after you have signed the deeds, can both be expensive and difficult.

This makes it important to choose your mortgage wisely from the very start.

In Spain, you have two main types of mortgages. The most common is variable rate mortgages, known as tracker mortgages, where the interest changes once a year, always at the same date.

When fixing the interest rate for the following year, they use the Euribor 12 months rate - that is the same all across Europe.

The other option is a fixed rate mortgage. Different from the UK, the rate is fixed for the full term and for the full mortgage amount. You can fix the interest rate for up to 30 years.

"Do you recommend a fixed or variable rate mortgage, is a normal question we get from the clients," Sara Stannard says.

She works as a British client advisor at Bank in Spain and specialises in expatriate and international clients buying their holiday home in Spain.

"We never recommend any of the two options," she continues "since there is not any one correct answer."

Sara mentions two important factors that will help the client decide on what is best for them. "If the client plans to pay the mortgage off quicker than the agreed term, a variable rate is normally the best. Due to the higher early repayment charges on fixed rate mortgages, the client is better off choosing a variable rate."

The other factor is how they can handle a future increase in the interest rate and how they value the certainty of knowing exactly what to pay every month for the next 15-30 years.

With record low rates in the Euro and negative Euribor rates for more than two years, it has never been cheaper to opt for a fixed rate mortgage. This is also reflected in the number of fixed rate mortgages that were arranged in Spain last year.

"What used to be a niche product five years ago when only one out of 16 new mortgages had a fixed rate, last year we saw that more than one out of three mortgages were fixed rate mortgages," Sara explains.

Russia and Germany commit to Iran deal

RUSSIA and Germany's Foreign Ministers have both said they will work to uphold the Iran nuclear deal following the United States' withdrawal from the agreement. Sergei Lavrov and Heiko Maas added Tehran should continue to uphold its side of the deal by dismantling its nuclear weapons programme in exchange for lifting sanctions.

visited Putin in Moscow, with the Kremlin previously hinting it would ship the weapons.

Stabber sectioned

A RUSSIAN-ISRAELI man who stands accused of stabbing a Moscow radio journalist has been committed to a psychiatric hospital for treatment after it was ruled he could not stand trial. Boris Grits allegedly broke into the offices of Ekho Moskvyy and knifed Tatyana Felgenhauer in October last year. He was later diagnosed with paranoid schizophrenia.

No third term for Putin

A KREMLIN spokesperson said President Vladimir Putin would not change rules stopping him serving for a third consecutive term. Dmitry Peskov added the change, floated by politicians in Chechnya, was not on the President's agenda. Putin's current term is set to end in 2024.

Payouts ruled out

THE Justice Ministry has said it will not obey a ruling from a court in The Hague requiring Russia to compensate Ukrainian firms following the annexation of Crimea. A ministry spokesperson said they did not accept the permanent court of arbitration's jurisdiction after it ruled 18 companies were entitled to payouts for profits lost during the 2014 invasion.

Syria missile supply

AN aide to President Vladimir Putin said Moscow is not in talks with Syria over supplying them with S-300 missiles. Vladimir Kozhin's comments come as Israeli's prime minister and opponent of the transfer, Benjamin Netanyahu

Bowing out

RUSSIA did not make it to the final of the Eurovision song contest for the first time in 14 years after their entry failed to gain enough votes.

Yulia Samoylova performed I Won't Break at the semi-final, with the song unable to secure enough online votes. Samoylova was barred from the competition last year after performing in Crimea, prompting Russia's withdrawal from the final.

FRENCH investment firm Antin Infrastructure Partners has revealed it is to fork out €2 billion for Spanish fibre optic wholesale operator Ufinet.

Formerly owned by natural gas and electricity supplier Gas Natural Fenosa, the telecommunications company was in 2014 bought by London-based global private equity firm Cinven Partners for €510 million.

Operating mostly in Spain and Latin America, Ufinet posted sales of €81 million in 2017, with the deal reportedly set to be wrapped up by July.

Party over for Club 18-30?

CLUB 18-30 - the brand notorious for cheap holidays packed with sun, sex and alcohol - could soon be heading for the departure lounge.

The news comes amid fears that millennials increasingly opt for 'ego travel,' after a report revealed that half of 18 to 25-year-old sunseekers now take posting selfies on social media in to account when booking trips.

And high street tour operator Thomas Cook, which has owned the brand since 1998, says it is "exploring options," including a possible sale.

It wants to concentrate on its new

by Matt Ford

Cook's Club offering, which launched last month.

Featuring its own-brand hotels with big-name poolside DJs and upmarket cocktails, creative director Remo Masala believes the offering will serve up "urban cool" for "the Instagram generation."

At its peak, Club 18-30 jetted around 100,000 people per year to party resorts including Magaluf, Kavos and Ayia Napa.

Founded in the 1960s, its first destination was Lloret de Mar on the Costa Brava, and its racy image saw it become a tabloid staple during the 1990s and 2000s, when one advertising slogan read: 'It's not all sex, sex, sex. There's a bit of sun and sea as well.'

The young sunseekers' drunken antics even spawned the infamous ITV series Club Reps.

Thomas Cook said in a statement: "We remain committed to Club 18-30 for summer 2018.

"However, we are exploring options for the future of the brand, which could include the possibility of a sale."

Golden opening sparks new rush

A CANADIAN gold and copper-producing firm is to reopen a Spanish mine.

Nuria Menendez, managing director of Orovalle, Toronto-based Orvana Minerals' Spanish subsidiary said that the company is planning to start work at the Carles gold mine in Salas, Asturias, after a favourable exploratory survey.

The site is situated in the Rio Narcea gold belt, a historic deposit first discovered by the Romans 2,000 years ago, previously mined between 1997 and 2006 with over 1,000,000 ounces of the precious mineral extracted.

Tax breaks capture Spain's leading role

MADE IN THE CANARIES: Solo: A Star Wars Story.

FILMMAKERS are flocking to take advantage of tax breaks in Spain.

Rebates of up to 20 per cent, or 40 per cent in the Canary Islands, have been offered to international productions since 2015.

And the scheme has worked a treat, according to industry professionals.

"Undoubtedly [tax rebates] have had a positive impact," said Peter Welter, line producer for hit HBO series Game of Thrones, which has filmed across the country since 2014.

Spinoff TV series Snatch and upcoming Hollywood films including Solo: A Star Wars Story, The Rhythm Section, Wonder Woman 2 and the upcoming Terminator reboot have all been shot entirely or partially in Spain.

"There's a constant flow of international shoots, and it's increasingly difficult to find experienced Spanish crew for foreign productions," added Barcelona-based Nostromo Pictures founder Adrian Guerra.

» BUSINESS EXTRAMinistry of truth

SOCIAL media giant Facebook is rumoured to have rented a 9,000 square-metre office space in Catalan capital Barcelona's iconic Glories Tower, from where it plans to employ 500 people in an 'internet content control centre' to combat fake news.

Bank on it

SANTANDER GROUP is gearing up to launch a digital business banking platform offering 'a range of products that go beyond traditional lending' for small and medium-sized businesses in the UK, the Spanish financial services firm said in a statement.

Close call

SPANISH multinational banking group BBVA will have less than 3,000 branches across the country for the first time since 2002 after revealing plans to shut down 179 local offices this year, bringing the total closed to 1,047 since 2016.

Catalans top of the class

A SPANISH school has topped a Financial Times' 2018 executive education ranking.

The Barcelona-based IESE Business School is number one for customised courses, those tailor-made for corporate students, ahead of Switzerland's IMD and France's INSEAD.

It is the fourth consecutive year that the Catalan institution - renowned for its strong international outlook - has topped the table based on clients' votes. It achieved a top five finish in nine out of 10 criteria, including number one for international clients and faculty diversity and second for overseas programmes and partner schools. The London Business School in fourth was the UK's best-placed contender in the 20th annual edition of the ranking.

Q: Is it necessary to pre-plan my funeral in Spain?

A: Yes

The combination of strict regulations, red tape and the language barrier means that pre-planning is the only way to ensure your family is spared the considerable distress of organizing everything. The speed of the process in Spain is a lot quicker than the UK and full payment has to be taken before the funeral service can be conducted.

Q: Will there be any additional costs at the time of the funeral?

A: Golden Leaves guarantees 100% of the costs of the arrangements specified in your Spanish Funeral. There are no hidden extras or administration charges for your family to deal with when the time comes.

Q: What if I want my body to be brought back to the UK?

A: If you'd prefer your body to be repatriated and have a funeral on home soil, we have a plan specially designed to facilitate this.

Q: Will I be dual-country covered?

Update on kangaroo spotting!

LEAPY LEE SAYS IT
OTHERS THINK IT

TO all of you waiting with bated breath for the conclusion of my kangaroo spotting adventure... I've decided not to tell you! I jest, I jest!

Assuming there are still some of you interested in the outcome of my Australian saga, I promise to polish it off in this edition. Last week found me and my guitarist, heavily hung-over, waiting to club poor innocent rabbits over the head, as they emerged from their burrows which abounded on a hillock set in the wilds of the Australian outback.

'Rick the Roo boy', our guide for the day, had decided to catch a few rabbits before we actually set out on our kangaroo spotting expedition. He was now standing around a hundred yards away, removing his pet ferret, Freddy, from the sack it had travelled in. At this point I must reiterate the fact that there was no chance that either Mike, or myself, had any intention whatsoever of bashing some poor unsuspecting bunny's head in, whatever 'Rick the Roo boy' instructed.

"Roight," shouted Rick, "when I put Freddy into the burrow over here, be ready."

"They should start running out after a few minutes. You gotta be quick, awright?"

ROO MUST BE KIDDING: Leapy only spotted the hopping creatures from a distance.

I turned to Mike. "What we need to do," I whispered, "is to just rush about as though we were trying our best, and just miss 'em all."

Mike nodded his assent. We took our positions.

"Roight," yelled Rick, "I'm putting him in now, be ready," he added, somewhat assertively.

Clubs poised and trying to look as though we actually cared, we stood astride our respective burrows and waited for the first little twitching nose to emerge (and be well and truly allowed to escape I may add!).

After three or four minutes Rick called out again. "Any sign yet?" he asked. "No nothing," we replied with much (relieved) shaking of heads. After a few more minutes there was still no movement.

"Can't understand it," shouted Rick. "He should have chased a few out by now."

Just then I saw it. The first movement at one of the burrows. I watched fascinated as a little whiskered nose slowly hove into view. It was no rabbit.

Slowly emerging from the hole came the unmistakable head, followed by the long furry body of Freddie the ferret. Slowly he staggered out. A couple of feet from the hole he dropped down, stone dead! Well that was it wasn't it? Rick rushed over and gathered up the little body. Crying and distraught, muttering that it 'must have been a snake,' Rick cuddled up what was apparently a family pet.

This tough denizen of the Australian outback was utterly inconsolable. From then on, the day was ruined. We only saw kangaroos from a distance of about a mile. Rick totally misjudged the time and subsequently we found ourselves stumbling through the snake and spider infested Australian outback by torch and starlight, in search of the car.

We drove back in complete silence and were dropped off at the hotel some 30 minutes before we were due on stage. The show did in fact go on. Lord knows how. But one thing was for sure. Kangaroos were off my bucket list, forever!

Blue Flag awarded to 25 beaches on the Costa del Sol

BY NICOLA ERLICH

LAST week, it was announced that five new beaches on the Costa del Sol have been awarded the prestigious Blue Flag status. This brings the total of Blue Flag beaches to 25, up from 24 in the previous year.

One in every four beaches awarded the Blue Flag in Andalusia is on the Costa del Sol.

Blue Flag beaches are recognised for their excellence in water quality, safety features and amenities, sustainability and accessibility.

Spain now boasts a total of 591 Blue Flag beaches and 101 marina resorts distinguished with the prestigious Blue Flag award.

One in every six beaches in Spain is a Blue Flag beach and on a global scale, Spain tops the list of countries with the most number of Blue Flag beaches in the world for the 31st consecutive year.

Beaches on the Costa del Sol to be newly awarded Blue Flag status are Playa Casablanca in Marbella, Arroyo Vaquero in Estepona, Los Alamos in Torremolinos, La Caleta Paseo in Velez-Malaga and, the municipality of Casares makes a first-time appearance on the list, with Playa Ancha.

David Kennedy, Head of Marketing at Spain-Holiday.com thinks the news is positive for international tourism:

"Last year was a record-breaking year for tourism in Spain with over 80 million international visitors and beach holidays are in more demand than ever.

"The Costa del Sol continues to be one of the most sought-after destinations for summer holidays, particularly with families who are attracted to the great weather, quality beaches and amenities on offer in the area," adds David.

Last year, Spain-Holiday.com reached 63 million web visitors looking for a beach holiday rental [<https://www.spain-holiday.com/Spain/holiday-rentals/beach>], up 29 per cent on the previous year.

Exciting times for Laude San Pedro International College and a warm welcome to their new head

EXCLUSIVE INTERVIEW

by John Smith

A HIGHLY skilled new head teacher has been recruited to Laude San Pedro International College effective from the new September term.

With decades of experience of teaching in both the UK and Spain, Amanda Hughes has been the head teacher of a progressive school in Barcelona for the past 10 years.

Amanda made a short visit recently to San Pedro to meet with as many children, parents and staff as possible in order to familiarise herself with the school, its facilities and its philosophy and she revealed to Euro Weekly News that she was delighted with all that she had seen.

Married with one son - who is about to start university later in the year - Amanda confessed to two real passions; the first being her love for teaching and the second, immersing herself in the Spanish culture.

She first moved to Granada with her husband and fell in love with all things Spanish and then had the opportunity to relocate as head teacher to a private school in a town near to Barcelona which she believes is very similar to San Pedro de Alcantara, being situated in a small but bustling community near to the sea and having a wide catchment area.

One thing that has already impressed Amanda is the obvious strength of character and friendliness of all of the 850 plus students at the school who range in age from nursery to sixth form and the fact that there are more than 50 different nationalities who all get on together so well.

When asked what she expects to see from children in her care, the new head explained, "In my experience, children are aspirational and mentally agile which means if they are properly mentored, they will be able to develop a whole set of important skills."

She continued "One of the first things that I have noticed is that the youngsters I have spoken to are so comfortable in talking not just in English and Spanish, but also many are able to converse with each other in three or more languages."

Laude San Pedro International College has recently been voted high in the top 100 international schools in Spain and is proud to be part of the International Schools Partnership, a growing educational group which now operates across Europe as well as North and South America, the Middle East and south-east Asia.

Although qualifications are very important, Amanda is determined to see all her pupils not only achieve academic success, but also take advantage of every opportunity to develop life skills which will allow them to become contented and meaningful members of the community.

The school offers a choice of education in either the English or Spanish curriculum and employs a number of exceptional teachers who are not only skilled educationalists, but also experts in knowing pupils well. This is as a result of such a low turnover of staff which then provides continuity of care and knowledge of each individual child as they grow through the various stages of their educational journey.

With an 'open door policy,' Amanda Hughes is looking forward to taking up the challenge of helping what is already a very advanced and successful educational establishment, to reach the highest possible level.

To find out more about the school, visit <http://www.laudesanpedro.com>.

In my experience children are aspirational and mentally agile.

TECH FOR THE TIMID

The share pleasure of it

Terence Kennedy peer-to-peers into the future of piracy

EAT your heart out Somalia: Spain has more pirates than you've had hot ransom demands.

We learned courtesy of this fine newspaper a few weeks back that piracy (of the digital variety) dropped by a worthy 6 per cent in Spain last year - but that some €22 billion worth of content still managed to, um, fall off the back of the internet, through four billion illegal downloads. Ouch.

Perish the thought that this column should ever encourage law-breaking, but it seems clear to pretty much everyone except those actually in the 'content' industries, that illegal downloading is a war which may never be won.

It might if there was at least a price incentive to buy the real thing. Many find it hard to be persuaded that piracy is a crime when, say, publishers insist on charging exactly the same for a physical book or magazine containing lots of (expensive) raw materials, as for its associated e-book, only made of (free) digital bits and bytes.

Music and movie streaming services are at least starting to make inroads into piracy. Like the movie industry, music companies took the serious mis-step of encumbering their digital versions with all sorts of complicated and irritating copyright protection which consumers absolutely hated, and by-passed, almost inevitably driving many into the hands of file-sharers.

Neither did prosecuting random teenagers in their bedrooms sharing modern versions of the old mix-tapes do much to generate sympathy for the industry - own goals of the highest idiocy.

Is 'peer-to-peer filesharing,' or 'torrenting,' actually legal? Surprisingly, it is. Use it for legitimate purposes like public domain downloads, internet archive material, music or games shared freely by their producers, and the boys in blue will not come a-knocking. Only copyrighted material crosses the line.

The technical wizardry behind torrents is digi-magic which passeth human understanding:

A dozen or a thousand people have the file you want on their own computers and agree to share it.

Your torrent software takes a tiny bit of the file from one, a tiny bit from another ad infinitum all at the same time, and at the end cleverly reassembles the jigsaw puzzle back into the complete file on your computer. Halfway across the world, others then take tiny bits of it from your computer.

Just be sure to stay within the law.

Even if, as Shakespeare said, the law can sometimes be an ass, as in the Boston student fined a breathtaking $675,000 a while back for illegally downloading 30 songs. By Aerosmith for heaven's sake. I would have paid him to take my copy.

Do the right thing

SEARCH for 'legal torrents' or similar if you'd like to give peer-to-peer filesharing a whirl.

Then all you need is the software, mostly free. Popular torrent 'clients' include BitTorrent, Vuze, uTorrent, my own favourite Deluge for its simplicity, Transmission (for Macs), BitComet or BitLord.

You also need reasonable broadband. No one wants your bit of the shared file if it takes next week to get it.

It's also bad form to grab and go; once your file is in, leave your computer online to share the love.

And remember the legal fine print: if you would normally have to pay for it, if it's copyrighted, if it has monetary value to anyone out there - Go directly to Jail, do not pass 'Go' and do not collect 200.

'It's a song contest Jim, but not as we know it'

TV COUCH CRITIC
by Adam Whalley-Lewis

SING WHEN YOU'RE WINNING: Israel's entrant Netta triumphed in this year's pop extravaganza after a tight finish.

NIFTY AT FIFTY: Davina McCall just doesn't seem to age.

SATURDAY saw about 300 million people tune in to the Eurovision Song Contest, including 3.1 million of us in Spain.

The show was hosted by our neighbours in Portugal, with Saturday's final rounding off a seemingly never ending cycle of heats and semi-finals. Lisboetas must have been pleased when the final vote was cast and they got their city back.

Hardcore Eurovision fans are a dizzy mix of people who take the whole thing far too seriously and usually have a large collection of flags. You will have no doubt guessed that I accepted an invitation to a flag waving pool party and then thought better of it, only to find that my local abrevadero was showing the final live and yes, I came home with both a UK and a Spanish flag!

Portugal gave Spain 14 points, Ireland gave the UK 10 (the best SuRie managed all night) and there was THAT stage invasion which in reality was a non-event. I thought the UK song was good and don't think 24th place is a fair reflection of the song or the performance.

Mind you, the bottom four, Spain, the UK, Finland and hosts Portugal, in that order, didn't deserve to be so low down the placings. Well OK, the Finnish song was terrible and deserved 25th place. Sorry Finland.

This Time Next Year (ITV) ended its second series on Tuesday with host Davina McCall being her usual fantastic self. Let's just take a moment to mention that red dress and how fantastic Davina is as a host. One year on and I would look just that, at least one year older, but Davina just looks the same.

Homage over. There have been some inspirational stories, the couple who eventually had twins, the 11-year-old meningitis survivor and the chap who lost half his body weight to name but three. There will be a third series, assuming that the red dress can agree terms.

TV news this week is dominated by the BBC announcing that McMafia will return for a second series. McMafia tells the story of Alex Godman, a Russian exile and his journey into a multinational underworld. The show is the fourth most watched on BBC iPlayer and I can't wait for it to return. Sticking with news from the BBC, Matt LeBlanc has been grizzling about what a hard time he had joining Top Gear. Really Matt, you get to do big-boy stuff with cars, you are paid really well, viewing numbers are up and the show goes from strength to strength. It must be really difficult for you.

First Dates (Channel 4) has moved from Wednesday evenings to a prime slot on Thursday. This week a descendant of Henry VIII and a butler who is mad about the Royals are looking for love. There is even a Kate Middleton look alike. Will she find her Prince - well there aren't too many left.

Looking ahead, the BBC and ITV are showing the Royal Wedding on Saturday and the FA Cup Final is on BBC 1 later in the day. If that doesn't appeal, FILM4 are showing the classic Carry on Spying on Saturday afternoon. This was Barbara Windsor's first Carry On and it's a gem.

I'm off to dust off those flags, ready for Saturday's wedding.

Happy viewing.

Experienced carers needed to assist those in need

THE Good Care Group (TGCG) are expanding their team of Live-in Carers who are based in Spain.

TGCG had a vision to become the leading provider of high quality home care to their UK clients. Their motivation came from a mix of personal experience in searching for care for relatives and the realisation that there were very few home care providers delivering a truly high quality service.

Since 2009 they have driven up standards, worked to professionalise home care and are leading the way in the UK care sector.

The staff at TGCG have many things in common: passion, energy, commitment and the desire to make a real difference.

Their care team is expanding and they have many carers from Spain who split their time between working in the UK and spending time at home.

Their professional live-in carers provide care and companionship to clients - providing assistance with daily activities, personal care, or support in managing specialist conditions such as dementia - all in the comfort of the client's own home.

A SMILE: Can make all the difference.

TGCG are leading the way in Live-in Care and are looking for people to join them; someone who truly cares and wants to make a difference to somebody's life. Their Live-in Carers are people who have experience of supporting the elderly, either professionally or personally through caring for a family member or friend.

They work on a set rota pattern, giving continuity of work with regular ongoing clients.

They offer ongoing training for all of their carers as well as other benefits such as holiday pay and travel expenses.

The group is hosting an open day at the Salles Hotel Málaga Centro, Calle Mármoles, 6, Malaga on Wednesday May 23 and you are welcome to attend at either 10.30am or 2pm.

If interested, please email or contact Tracy Jackson - Tracy.Jackson@thegoodcaregroup.com Mobile: 0034 622 047 351.

Lost in translation: A language in a world of its own

Nora Johnson
Breaking Views

DURING his recent visit to Australia, French President Emmanuel Macron was ridiculed on social media for calling PM Malcolm Turnbull's wife Lucy 'delicious.'

Some think Mr Macron's words simply got lost in translation. The French for delicious - délicieux - also translates as 'delightful,' even if it's slightly sexist. But a linguistic slip-up to avoid above all else is the French word 'excité' to describe yourself as excited. Why? It means you're sexually aroused. Oops!

Mr Macron isn't the first leader to hit translation problems. Probably the best-remembered gaffe is John F Kennedy's legendary claim: 'Ich bin ein Berliner' which translates as 'I'm a Berliner' or 'I'm a doughnut.' Take your pick.

In 2009, France's Europe minister sparked a diplomatic incident by labelling then PM David Cameron's pledge to reclaim EU powers as 'pathetic.' In French, it simply means 'moving,' 'touching,' 'poignant.' Oops again.

DELICIOUS OR DELIGHTFUL: Lucy Turnbull with her husband Australian Prime Minister Malcolm Turnbull.

But then, English has become a bit of a foreign language to me. I mean, just look at Urban Dictionary, online birthplace of words like 'nutzoid' (crazy, mad, insane) slang. The Alan Turing Institute in London recently conducted the first comprehensive scientific study of its contents - revealing (drum roll, please) the death of the word 'selfie'!

But are you aware of the 'key' words and phrases of 2018? Apparently these are: Beauty sus (When a person's attractiveness makes you suspicious of them);

Generationalis (Generalising about a generation); Momarazzi (Mums taking smartphone pics of their children's sports team); Babybottling (Guzzling a drink without stopping to breathe); LOP (Laughing off the pounds); and Boonk (Nicking someone's stuff).

Poor old Alan Turing. Brilliant mathematician, one of the key workers in the defeat of Fascism and Nazism and contributing to ending a world war for the preservation of democracy, and thereby recognised as the father of the computer, you end up with the institute named after you having to sink to the level of clearing up language and words regarded as 'ephemeral detritus' only used by the likes of Kim Kardashian!

Maybe if we use the word 'Kardashian' often enough, will it disappear too, please?

LEGALLY SPEAKING

Is he exempt from CGT?

Q. You wrote: 'If you are Tax Resident for three years and over 65 years of age, you can be free of Capital Gains when you sell your principal residence in Spain.'

I am 72 years old and I sold my house 18 months ago, after owning it for 16 years. When I put my tax returns in to my solicitor, I was told that, unless I bought another property, I would have to pay Capital Gains on the profit.

My Capital Gains tax came to more than €5,000, which I paid. I showed your article to my solicitors and they said that I couldn't get my money back because this was only applicable now, and not on old sales. Is this true? Surely there must be some way of getting my money back.

DM (Costa Blanca)

A. First let us be sure that you are 'tax resident' in Spain. Can you show your Spanish income tax declarations for the past three years? If so, you can claim back your Capital Gains tax paid by mistake for up to four years.

This exemption has been in place for a number of years.

Don't force it upon me

Mike Senker
In my opinion

Views of a Grumpy Old Man

I'M GETTING on a bit and I know a lot of my readers seem to be in my age group too. So I'm guessing there are a few who might relate to my dilemma.

When I was young we were all boys or girls. As we got older we became men and women. Now I have never worried about men who want to go out with men or women who prefer women partners. I honestly think that whatever makes you happy is absolutely fine and you should be able to get married and raise families.

But there is now a new thing I have to learn to live with. The thing that is confusing me is a gender-fluid person, which means that one day you're a man and the next day you're a woman. I even understand transgender folks who have decided, for whatever reason, they are now not happy with their original gender.

My understanding of gender-fluidity is when people sometimes feel as if they're male and sometimes as if they're female. This does not have to be related to sexuality or physical gender in any way, and is not a result of indecision.

My point is that in my nearly 70 years of my very colourful life I've never heard of this until pretty recently. I have to smile about these things sometimes - I mean you can now be parents and get a Mother's and Father's Day card. I actually have no problem with this either.

My problem is all the new words that are being introduced. You don't have a boyfriend or girlfriend - now you have a date mate and after you have passed that stage you become each other's love person. Grandy is now a term for grandma or grandpa. Nieces and nephews are nibblings. And so it goes on. Words and phrases that some want changed are things like 'right-hand man,' 'gentleman's agreement,' 'forefathers,' 'mankind' and 'sportsmanship.'

So here's the deal folks, you all do as you wish - be whatever gender you want to be at any time you want and I will never be offended or make any kind of judgement about you. I just want you to be happy with your life.

The other side of the deal is don't mess about with my everyday words because they offend you. Because I must be allowed all the same freedoms as you and not be scared that minorities' feelings are more important than mine because they aren't. They are exactly the same.

You have your rights and I have mine and in some cases I may not agree with something you want and you may not agree with something I want. But you can't force your wishes on me and I won't do the same to you.

Only give beach flags to those who deserve them

REGARDING your article 'Just Beachy' in this week's issue (EWN CBS 1714), I would like to inform you that the 11 beaches in Orihuela Costa have no services at all at the moment, no beach huts, no toilet facilities, not even for the disabled, no first aid, a total disgrace!

I hope that Consumer ADEAC are aware of this and do not award any flags to any of these beaches. I would suggest they award Black Flags to these beaches and insist that the councillors concerned fly them at half-mast - what a dreadful way to treat your residents and the visiting tourists, unbelievable in this day and age.

Wrong call could easily lead to danger

WE all know the danger in Spain of drivers using their mobiles while at the wheel, not only in busy city and town centres, but also when on motorways.

Well now welcome to an added twist of mobile madness.

This morning, while taking an early walk along the coastal boardwalk near my home in Riviera del Sol a cyclist nearly collided with me due in the main to the fact he was concentrating more about talking on his mobile than where he was pedalling!

What more can I say except obviously a man unconcerned about his own safety... or of others!

Deadly mistake

I WAS in a waiting room the other week when I picked up a local free paper.

One of the articles concerned the introduction of new speeding devices that had been accepted into use.

One's first thoughts is always that with the introduction of these covert devices it's just another way for the authorities to collect easy money off soft targets.

However, earlier that day I heard the latest RoSPA report on the radio; shortly the report concluded that 25 per cent of road accidents are as a result of distraction and lack of concentration by the driver; quoting mobiles and GPS as the largest cause.

That made me think, the picture of the new devices (there must be more than one type as the one shown in the EWN is different to the one I saw in the other paper) is a large camera-shaped unit with an even larger lens, the unit is fixed on the top of the armco crash barrier.

Human nature will mean you will try to spot these devices; you might not be speeding or know you are doing it; however, to some extent you will, and that will add to the overall distraction and thus the number of accidents caused.

Does anyone believe this has been considered?

Ray Wenham, Ciudad Quesada

Third World?

IT was Easter week and my daughter with three teenagers came to visit me from the UK.

She parked her car late Saturday night but Sunday morning it's towed away due to a procession.

There were no signs, no info, although the police say there were signs and there was a charge of €162. Private grua was €100 and €62 for a parking fine to be paid at a local bank but in cash as they won't accept credit cards as we weren't clients.

In the end, we had to go to my bank who would not accept my daughter's cash and the fine had to be paid from my account. This is really Third World practice and I live in a small village!

Warning as thieves target rental cars in Spain

They are now approaching cars at the last petrol station before Malaga airport! I was coming from Mijas, pulled in and out of nowhere two guys were at either side of the car. Luckily I had locked car the minute I got out. Everything was in the boot out of sight, and I told them in no uncertain terms where to go. This has happened twice in this petrol station, it's large, so just be aware... don't mess with this Irish Mom!

Kate Farrell

They will insist on putting those bloody company stickers in the back window of rental cars, that's like jumping up and down and shouting... look, look, this car is full of goodies... first thing I do is scratch the thing off.

Rob Waugh

If they stopped putting them stupid yellow stickers on the rear window it would be a very good idea. Instead it just says 'Hi, I'm a hire car full of goodies. ROB ME.' Ahhhhhh!

Hazel White

Hire cars are like taking candy off a baby... people will just ignore the warnings and leave the stickers on the rear window including the one that tells you what fuel to put in.

a chance! If local residents do not like the tourist trade that has effectively brought this country from effectively a third world nation to what it is today, then maybe they should move to an area where tourists do not flock to in peak season. Typical Spain looking at the small picture once again!

James

I think Spain will lose out in the end. I get the idea - hoteliers are losing out but tourism is tourism and for so many places in Spain tourism is the highest income. What worries me is the people that have invested in these properties with the only intention to rent it. There will now be thousands of property owners that will have to sell as they can't afford to keep them, but can't afford to sell them at lower prices so it still won't help the locals. I think the regulations should be tighter to make sure there are no 'underground' rentals etc but I worry about the effect on Spain.

Jennifer Knowles

I cannot really see what the authorities are doing, apart from losing many tourists that want to visit. A dangerous game to play.

Richard Taylor

I agree... I have friends trying to find long term rentals and they are being quoted holiday rates... makes it difficult for locals and new people wishing to make their home in this beautiful country.

Sandra Shortland

Imagine if everyone was to put all the paperwork in. They could not keep up. The town halls all close in August. Really stupid. To a point it is truly pathetic.

Watch: Plane drunk - Passenger's legs give way as he steps off Mallorca flight

Mike Jones

This is appalling. It's time alcohol was banned on all aircraft. Why should fellow travellers have to put up with this kind of behaviour. It could be very intimidating or scary to be 30,000 ft up in the air with a drunk person in the plane. In an emergency, anyone this inebriated would be a danger to himself and, more importantly, others.

' NOT AN EARTHQUAKE OR VOLCANIC LAVA - IT'S PLASTIC RUBBISH ON THE MOVE! '

YOUR STARS FOR NEXT 7 DAYS

AQUARIUS (January 21 - February 19)

Putting all of your eggs in one basket is rarely to be advised. It should particularly be avoided this week. For the sake of speed and ease it will be tempting to take short cuts and make decisions that are bland. These will, of their nature, not be of the 'good' or 'great' categories. You are capable of better.

PISCES (February 20 - March 20)

How you feel about someone will change dramatically during the week. This will surprise you. Thinking about it logically, though, you have been missing the point for some time. Someone who you always thought of as a friend turns out to be much more. How you deal with this is very much an individual thing.

ARIES (March 21 - April 20)

With your engine revving and the road ahead clear, a sense of great freedom is with you. There are those for whom this week is a chance to really make headway. For some, though, it is an irksome task. The difference is that some of you are taking a negative attitude. Make sure that yours is positive and you will have a chance to make real progress.

TAURUS (April 21 - May 21)

Wanting to put things right with someone close is a good instinct to have. It would certainly give you peace of mind. Indeed, this should be a quiet and peaceful week and one that is long overdue. Being successful in business is only one part of success. The light is dawning that what you have always wanted has changed.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)

Someone very special could come into your life. You must, however, be at the ball to meet the prince. This opportunity for happiness is not going to jump up and bite you. A phone call could be the start of it all. Accept invitations and get out and about. Be aware of what is going on so that you can be in the right place at the right time.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)

What is the reason that you are being held back? Are you sure that you are, in reality, being held back at all? These are not trick questions. Being honest with your answers this week will lift a cloud from your horizon.

LEO (July 24 - August 23)

With high energy you are seeking to get as much done as possible in a small amount of time. Rather than go at it 'hammer and tongs', it could be easier. Let someone help you out.

VIRGO (August 24 - September 23)

You are freer than you imagine. Your imagination is letting you down a bit at the moment. Not for some time have opportunities been throwing themselves at you like this.

LIBRA (September 24 - October 23)

Give others the benefit of the doubt and your infinite patience this week.

Situations will change from minute to minute. It would be a waste of energy to take anything at face value.

SCORPIO (October 24 - November 22)

Although you are only too aware that you are capable of great good when you put your mind to it, it would be wise to bide your time this week. You may not realise that you are expending too much energy until your weary head hits the pillow. Be kind to your body. Some things that are taken for granted should not be so. This can lead to neglect. In neither home nor business is this recommended.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 - December 21)

It may seem that everyone wants your attention at the moment. There are times when you would like nothing more than to go away and clear your mind. This is not only possible but essential. You need some quiet moments. Even a day away can renew your spirits and energy.

CAPRICORN (December 22 - January 20)

So strong have been the practical considerations of late that you have been in a bad position. You need to live more for the 'now' and less for the 'tomorrow'. Of course, life should be a mixture of both but sometimes it all gets a bit jumbled.

Getting a few hours peace and quiet on your own may be all that you need. Getting enough sleep is also important in this situation.

Trivia from around the world

 Sweden's Uppsala University is home to what some say is the world's most valuable book, a fourth century Bible written in silver and gold ink.

 The Ganges, the Meghna and the Brahmaputra, three of Asia's largest rivers, flow through Bangladesh.

 Panama Canal tolls make up a significant part of the country's earnings. Activity in the waterway's area accounts for around 6 per cent of GDP.

 Mauritania is home to the Eye of the Sahara, or Guelb er Richat. The circular geological feature is around 30 kilometres in diameter and is believed to be an asteroid crater.

 Pakistan's national airline set the world record for the fastest flight between London and the city of Karachi in 1962, taking six hours, 43 minutes and 55 seconds.
 Around 20 per cent of the world's poker machines are in Australia.

CELLING OUT: Cells are descended from those first nucleated 1.5 billion years ago.

DID YOU KNOW?

Twenty-five million of your cells died while you read this sentence. Around 10 billion new cells can form in the human body in one day and roughly the same number die during that time. Cell death is part of the body's process of regenerating itself, with death occurring when they are no longer needed.

Keeping stress at bay

THE focus of this year's Mental Health Awareness Week (May 14 to 20) is stress. Perhaps no surprise, given that research shows that stress is a key factor in why two thirds of Brits experience a mental health problem in their lifetime. By tackling stress, you can go a long way to tackle anxiety and depression, and reduce self-harm and suicide.

Stress can be a natural reaction to increased pressures caused by work, money issues and relationships. It can have a cumulative effect, with each issue building on top of the other.

It can create feelings of being overwhelmed and of constant worry or anxiety. Making it difficult to relax and causing mood swings and short temper. It can also affect your sex drive.

To tackle stress, try to identify its causes and sort these into three categories. Those with a practical solution, those that will get better over time, and those you can't do anything about. Try to let go of the worry of those in the second and third groups.

Then review, reorganise and prioritise your life, changing the practical things you can. During this process don't be too hard on yourself and try to keep things in perspective. Remember, we all have bad days.

Over the long-term, stress can put you at risk from heart attacks and strokes, so it's important that you deal with it. Seek professional medical help if you are experiencing prolonged periods of stress. For more information visit www.mentalhealth.org.uk.

UNDER PRESSURE: Work, money matters, relationships and family life can cause stress.

The right combination to unlock your pain

By Estelle Mitchell

www.thebodyworkscclinic.com

THE TEAM: Rebecca, myself and Geoffrey.

I TRAINED in the military, then I worked in the NHS.

Both are all about being part of a team.

Not just a team of physios, but a multidisciplinary team with doctors, surgeons and a whole host of other health professionals working together to support a patient's recovery.

Team work

Which is why I am so excited about the team we are building at Bodyworks.

I believe part of what makes a good health professional is NOT thinking you have all the answers, but knowing your area of expertise really well and knowing when to recommend a patient sees someone else to get the best results.

Because you, the patient, are the most important person.

Welcome, welcome!

So it is with great excitement that we now welcome Rebecca Richards, our acupuncturist, to our growing musculoskeletal treatment team. With 15 years clinical experience Rebecca has a whole host of skills and knowledge to support a wide range of issues including considerable time working in a specialist chronic pain clinic.

Like Geoffrey Wattine (our Craniosacral Osteopath) and myself, Rebecca's approach is holistic in the original sense of the word - the whole body, the big picture.

The right path for you

Everyone at Bodyworks is focused on helping you achieve your goal - life without pain.

Clearing the air

ALTHOUGH sneezing and wheezing is something we often associate with the outdoors, research shows that indoor allergens also increase as the weather warms up.

These allergens can be found in dust, pollen, mould spores and pet hair and can cause us to experience 'hay fever' within the home. Letting them linger in the air means that you may develop an allergic reaction, an asthma attack or another allergy such as rhinitis.

The good news is that there are products designed for the home that can get rid of up to 99.97 per cent of unwanted allergens and keep your family in good health.

One option is to use a vacuum cleaner. Ideally a cordless one as this allows you to move around your home with ease. A pricey, but effective option is Dyson's new cordless Cyclone V10 Absolute.

This has a special sealed unit for improved filtration that captures allergens as tiny as 0.3 microns.

For a more thorough clean, you could try the Vax Platinum PowerMax Carpet Washer. This removes 93 per cent of dust mite faeces, dust, pollen, spores and general bacteria from rugs and floors.

Of course, there are other less hands-on options. Stand-alone air purifiers can sit in the corner quietly and do their job. The bonus is that they can also clear the air of certain bacteria.

An effective solution is the Philips Series 2000i Air Purifier which can even be connected to an app to show you the level of pollution in your home.

PRICEY BUT EFFECTIVE: The Vax Platinum PowerMax Carpet Washer costs £249.

Choose to go smooth

WHETHER for aesthetics, comfort or hygiene, it is increasingly common for men to shave off more than just their beard.

And whether you chose to go smooth from top-to-toe or just in more select areas, such as your chest, back or legs, it would be wise to take note of these words of wisdom so you don't look like you've just been chased by Jack the Ripper.

The easiest, fastest and cheapest way to shave is to use a razor blade. However, this instrument can damage delicate skin in certain parts of the body so be sure to buy one of good quality.

Before you shave, jump in the shower to moisten your skin beforehand. Use warm water and lather up with shaving foam, bath soap or even body cream. Never shave your body dry.

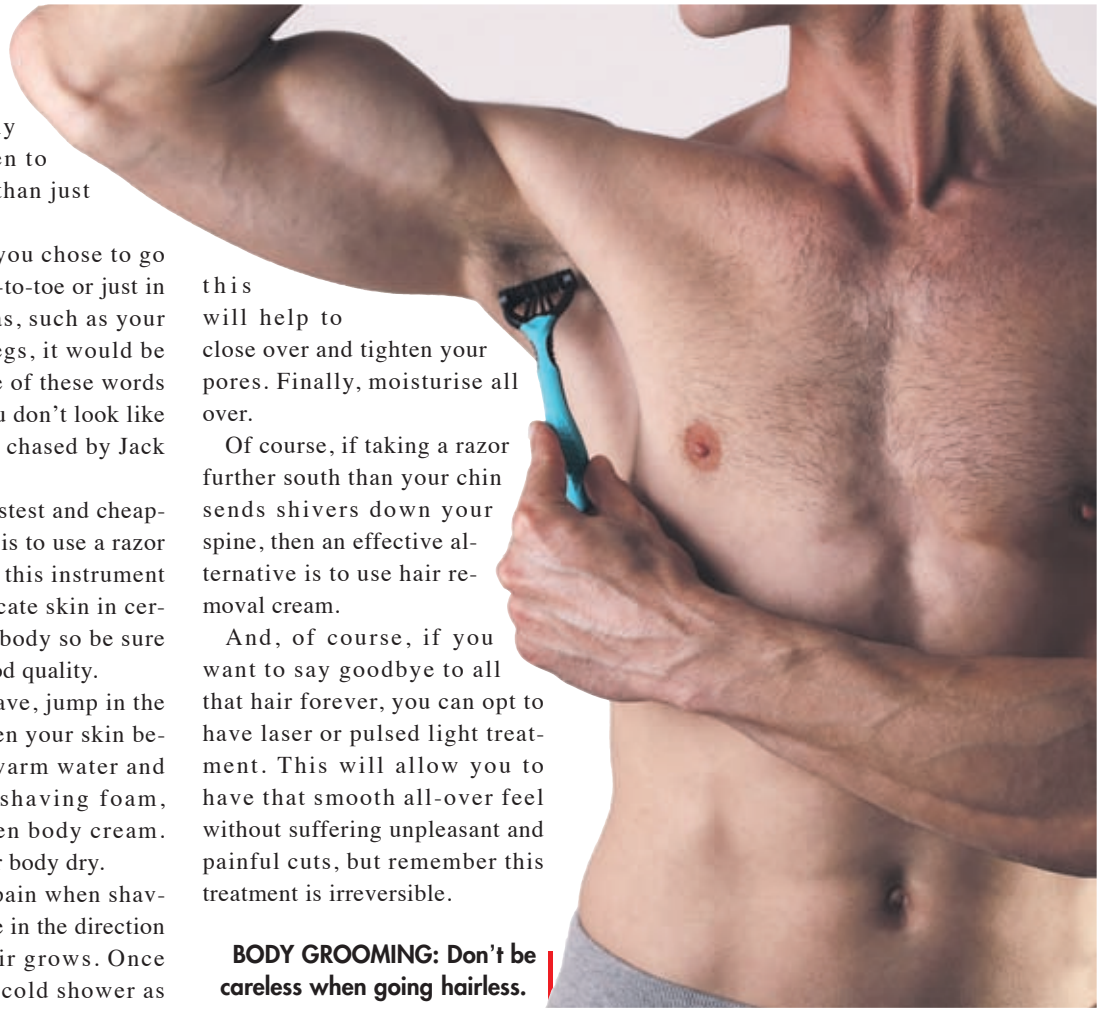

To avoid any pain when shaving, always shave in the direction in which the hair grows. Once finished, take a cold shower as this will help to close over and tighten your pores. Finally, moisturise all over.

Of course, if taking a razor further south than your chin sends shivers down your spine, then an effective alternative is to use hair removal cream.

And, of course, if you want to say goodbye to all that hair forever, you can opt to have laser or pulsed light treatment. This will allow you to have that smooth all-over feel without suffering unpleasant and painful cuts, but remember this treatment is irreversible.

BODY GROOMING: Don't be careless when going hairless.

A MEDLEY: A Mediterranean diet is varied and flavoursome.

Munching in the Med

LOVED the world over, the Mediterranean diet isn't just delicious. It is a diet which has been proven to be beneficial for the heart, lowering cholesterol and even helping to reduce the risk of heart disease, type 2 diabetes and high blood pressure.

Although the diet varies from region to region and country to country, it does share things in common.

In general, it contains a lot of fruits, vegetables, seeds, cereals and fish. And excludes a lot of meat and dairy foods.

Don't fret, however, if you don't live along the Med.

There are aspects of the Mediterranean diet you can incorporate into your cooking regardless of where you are.

Replace butter with healthy fats such as olive oil, and instead of salt flavour your food with herbs and spices. And reduce your intake of red meat, replacing it with lots of poultry and fish.

One of the wonderful surprises about the Mediterranean diet is that you can continue to enjoy your starchy foods, such as bread and pasta.

Nor do you have to decrease your intake of red wine, be it splashed in the pan for flavour or in the glass to accompany your favourite dish.

People who regularly enjoy a Mediterranean diet are said to have a longer life expectancy and stay in better shape. So, make that extra effort in the kitchen, then sit back and reap the rewards under the sun.

Number one for Brits

RECENT figures from the UK's Office of National Statistics confirm that Spain is the top choice for British pensioners looking for a new life in Europe.

There were no surprises among the main reasons given, which included some Spanish delights such as the sun, sea, sand and... healthy Mediterranean diet.

Other reasons included the outdoor lifestyle and access to leisure facilities, including the many golf courses and swimming pools.

There are just under 300,000 British citizens registered as living in Spain, a staggering 37 per cent of the total three-quarters of a million Brits who live in EU member countries. And of this figure living in Spain, 41 per cent are over the age of 65. Of course, the true figure could actually be much higher as not all Brits who live here go to the trouble of registering with their local authority. If you're lucky enough to live in Spain, but unlucky enough to need the support of Spain's healthcare services, then never fear. Spain has a high-quality health service which, for Brits, is free at the point of delivery.

And with the availability of reasonably cheap accommodation which is suitable for British pensioners, there's really nothing to stop you from saying 'Hasta Luego' to Blighty.

THE GOLDEN YEARS: Most Brits abroad in Europe choose to live in Spain.

Taking care of your loved one's last journey

ARRANGING for a funeral of a loved one is both stressful and requires a very quick and steep learning curve as this is something that hopefully doesn't happen too often.

It is one thing to try to cope in the UK with customs and a language that you understand but is much more complicated here in Spain especially for an expatriate attempting to deal with the rules and regulations for the first time.

Costa Funeral Services is a well-established, English-speaking company based on the Costa del Sol which is expert in that difficult problem that you have been left to face.

As established funeral directors they aim to provide a service which will help guide you through, what is always a painful process, in a manner which is both respectful and compassionate.

They are not bound by any geographical limitations and can help with funeral services in many of the main expatriate areas of southern Spain including: Marbella, Estepona, Torremolinos, Benalmadena, Fuen-girola, Mijas, Coin, Alhaurin, Ronda and throughout the province of Malaga.

FUNERAL DIRECTORS: A respectful, English-speaking team is ready to help at a difficult time.

The company offers a funeral plan which can be purchased in advance so that even if you and your loved ones are healthy now, you can set the cost of a funeral at today's price in order to ensure that rising inflation does not hit you at a time when you may be most vulnerable.

When the worst does come to pass, then the company will be there to help you through the difficult time and to arrange for a traditional or non-religious ceremony to take place, in accordance with your wishes and with the minimum of unwanted bureaucracy so that you may devote your time to remembering your loved one.

So committed are the owners of Costa Funeral Services that they also run a school of undertaking to ensure that the next generation of funeral directors may be trained to carry on this special tradition.

For more details go to www.costafuneralservices.com email info@costafuneralservices.com, visit their office Calle Guadalhorce n° 9, Coin and remember that they

EXCLUSIVE

By Joe Gerrard

THE childhood best friend of Beatles guitarist, George Harrison who became a leading member of the band's team has spoken to Euro Weekly News about his time in music.

Tony Bramwell, 72, was speaking ahead of planned appearances in Estepona and Benalmadena for the Festival of Legends tomorrow and on Saturday respectively.

He said in an exclusive interview ahead of the shows he was looking forward to a few days in Spain. "I do these Beatles tribute shows all over the world. I was in Spain at the end of last year for Chris King's (of the Festival of Legends) concerts in December," he said.

He added he had been in the country several times before, including with George Harrison in 1963. "Me and George went to the Canary Islands on holiday together in 1963. The Beatles did a few small tours in Spain around 1965 and I went to Sevilla in 1967 to make a film about the city's feria for their film company."

Bramwell was with The Beatles from their early days gigging in Liverpool. He bumped into school friend, George, while the band was going to one of their first gigs and offered to carry his guitar, according to his official website.

When The Beatles achieved success with songs such as Please Please Me, Love Me Do and All My Loving, Bramwell found himself along for the ride. He began by working on the promotional videos for I Feel Fine, Help!, Day Tripper and others before heading up the band's Apple Films company in 1968.

"I have been very lucky," he said.

His association with The Beatles' members dated back further than their days as stars and that he still sees Paul McCartney and Ringo Starr to this day. "George was my best friend when we were kids. I still go on the road with Paul occasionally and I spoke to him last week, he's doing well," he said. Bramwell went on to work with a number of other artists after The Beatles split up in 1970. These included James Taylor, Nine Cassidy and Bruce Springsteen, as well as Roxy Music who he joined on a tour to Barcelona.

"I did some tours with Roxy Music in Barcelona. Bryan Ferry got taken seriously ill. He was stuck in an ambulance on the way back to England so we had five days in Barcelona just enjoying ourselves," he said.

Tony Bramwell will be at the Estepona Auditorium Felipe VI from 9pm Friday and the Benalmadena Municipal Auditorium from 8pm. Tickets are €15 from the box office available at 609 488 572.

THE Kingsmen, an all-male a Capella group consisting of students from Columbia University, New York are performing on the Costa del Sol shortly.

To give them their original name, the Columbia University Kingsmen were founded in 1948 at the request of Dwight Eisenhower, then University President, for that year's Homecoming Ceremony at Baker Field.

Since then the Kingsmen have performed around the United States for almost 70 years and have become one of the most famous a Capella groups in the USA.

They have appeared in venues such as Carnegie Hall, The Lincoln Centre, sung for presidents and appeared on TV shows. Today the Kingsmen spirit that Eisenhower praised at the start remains a strong part of their musical culture: their sound is deeply rooted in doo-wop, university songs and witty songs of their own composition.

The combination of good company, drinks, canapés and the all-male a Capella group makes the evening unlike other parties which would be unlikely to be half as good.

They will appear on Thursday May 24 at Velvet Marbella, Avenida del Prado, Local 2, Nueva Andalucía with doors opening at 8pm and tickets costing €30 to include welcome drink and canapés, drinks and tapas at the interval.

Reservations are advised and can be made by calling 604 192 491. They then move along the coast to appear at the Avanto Theatre, Calle Rota 4, La Cala de Mijas the following day, Fri-

SINCE we are in Spain I thought it was time I shared some Spanish tapas recipes with you.

The definition of tapas is: 'small Spanish savoury dishes, typically served with drinks at a bar.' Cooking tapas is very labour intensive and is more suited to places where food can be cooked in bulk and served in a large number of small portions. This would normally preclude tapas at home for a dinner party or a family meal, but it can be done, here's how: Delicatessen bought alioli, gazpacho, bread, chorizo, Iberian ham, canned anchovies, olives and Manchego cheese can be served with wine while the following are cooking:

• Spanish omelette (tortilla Española)

Serves 8

500 grams potatoes, peeled and cubed
1 whole onion, peeled and sliced
6 eggs, beaten
2 tablespoons olive oil
salt and black pepper, ground

1. Microwave potatoes for 12 minutes until soft. Roast at 200 Celsius fan oven (220 Celsius non-fan oven) for 30 minutes with 1/2 the olive oil until golden. Allow to cool.

Spanish tapas

2. Fry onions in pan with rest of oil until golden, then add eggs and seasoning.

3. Keep flipping omelette until cooked through, then serve in slices.

4. Serve.

This next recipe also needs potatoes, so they can be cooked at the same time.

• Spicy potatoes (patatas bravas)

Serves 8

1 kg of potatoes, peeled and cubed
4 tablespoons olive oil
1 small onion, grated
3 whole garlic clove, peeled and crushed
2 tablespoons sherry
1 can tomatoes
2 teaspoons dried chilli flakes
1 teaspoon grated orange zest
1 teaspoon sugar
1 tablespoon fresh parsley chopped
1 whole bay leaf

1. Peel and microwave potatoes for 12 minutes.

2. Then roast in the oven using same settings as for the tortilla, with 1/2 the olive oil. Place to one side.

SPICY:
Patatas bravas.

3. Use the rest of the oil to gently fry the onion and garlic until transparent.

4. Add the remaining ingredients and bring to simmer.

5. Remove bay leaf and blend.

6. Pour over potatoes and serve.

• Garlic Chicken (pollo al ajillo)

Serves 8

sea salt to taste
black peppercorns ground, to taste
2 tablespoons paprika
2 tablespoons flour
1.5 Kg chicken breast, no skin, no bone and cubed
100 ml olive oil
10 garlic cloves, peeled and sliced
2 bay leaves
2 cups sherry

1. Put salt, pepper, paprika and flour in a large plastic bag, add chicken and shake until coated, place in fridge for 30 minutes.

2. Add oil to pan, fry chicken until browned, add garlic, fry for 2 minutes, add bay leaves and sherry, put in oven proof lidded dish and place in 200 Celsius fan-oven (220 Celsius non-fan oven) and cook for 20 minutes, then serve.

ALL MY DREAMS: By Sandra Ackermann.

Respected German artist's first Spanish exhibition

THE Marbella Club Hotel starts the summer season with a fascinating first exhibition in Spain by artist Sandra Ackermann which is open to all.

The Art Wanson gallery, located at the Marbella Club Hotel, brings together the work of Sandra Ackermann under the title Women between the natural and stylism in an exhibition that is now open and will remain open to the public until June 30.

The German artist presents a particular universe of delicate feminine figures and suggestive, symbolic landscapes, with which she criticises the canons of beauty imposed by today's society. Her works represent an X-ray of the consumer society with numerous socio-political references and act therefore as a subtle critique of the ideal of feminine beauty.

Come together in the Costa del Sol

STARTING a string of summer concerts in 2018 there will be two amazing tribute evenings dedicated to The Beatles.

There will be two events, the first in Estepona at the Auditorium Felipe VI, tomorrow (Friday) and then the following day, Saturday at the Benalmadena Auditorium.

The line-up features The Silver Beats, the Malaga-based Spanish Beatles tribute band, plus solo tributes to George Harrison, John Lennon and Paul McCartney (Paul will only appear in Benalmadena).

To add excitement to the bill there will be tribute performances to some of the legends who inspired The Beatles, with Buddy Walker as Buddy Holly in Estepona and an additional performer,

THE SILVER BEATS: Will feature in the line-up of the summer concerts.

Mark Connors as Elvis in Benalmadena.

There is also a special guest celebrity from the UK as Tony Bramwell who was the CEO of Apple Records will spend some time talking about his experiences with The Beatles.

Doors will open at 7pm and the concert starts at 8pm in Benalmadena whilst doors will open at 8pm and the concert starts at 9pm in Estepona.

One restaurant stands out

THERE is a restaurant in Fuengirola which has a long tradition of serving great food at accessible prices and it recently reopened under a new name.

The new Don Alfonso restaurant in Calle Poeta Salvador Rueda in Los Boliches situated near to the beach front in Fuengirola is in the premises formerly occupied by the Don Jesús restaurant and offers a friendly service with traditional high quality Spanish food.

Although there are large numbers of different styles of restaurants all over the coast with a selection of every type of food from around the world, a traditional Spanish restaurant has a charm and ambience that really should be enjoyed by visitors to the country.

Some visitors are put off by the thought of what they see as 'foreign food' but in reality Spain has a very healthy diet using so much fresh, locally produced food that life expectancy is on the rise and much is down to the food.

As the British in particular have proven, there are more good restaurants of all types in the UK and as people continue to travel then they are much more adventurous than their parents and grandparents.

Being so close to the sea means that Don Alfonso has an exceptional array of fresh fish and shellfish as well as a selection of quality meat which can be cooked in a number of ways to suit customer tastes.

The restaurant offers a Menu del Dia with either two or three courses which includes some drinks and there is a good number of dishes to choose from including a daily chef's special.

Don Alfonso is large enough to host special events such as communion and anniversary celebrations, but small enough to allow couples and small parties to enjoy quiet and inti-

FLASHBACK: A scene from last year's packed concert.

ON Sunday May 27 and Tuesday May 29 the Choir and Orchestra of Collegium Musicum Costa del Sol together with Camerata Singers of Sotogrande will be performing two concerts.

They will be directed by Anemarie Philipps and the programme includes a Requiem by Salieri, a Te Deum by Michael Haydn, a work for Oboe and Orchestra by Hummel and works by Leopold Mozart and his more famous son, Wolfgang.

The concert on Sunday, May 27 starts at 8pm in the Divine Mercy Church in Pueblo Nuevo de Guadiaro with tickets costing €10.

The concert on Tuesday, May 29 starts at 9.15pm in the Church of the Encarnación in Marbella Old Town.

Entrance is free but as it the annual Benefit Concert for Concordia the main AIDS Charity on the Costa del Sol which is based in San Pedro Alcantara, it is hoped that the audience will make a generous donation for the charity on the night.

So well respected is this group that they have attracted six exceptional soloists from Britain, Portugal, Spain and the USA to take part in the concerts.

Caring for the lemon tree for its fragrant scent

A fruit with so many uses and benefits

GRAEME TYRRELL

ONE of the greatest assets to any garden in the Mediterranean is the lemon tree.

The climate allows them to flourish with little care. They are emblematic of the Mediterranean garden, as traditionally, most gardens would have a lemon tree. The secret to their success is: if you care for the soil around them they will thrive with minimal watering.

I love to walk around the garden just to smell the lemon and other citrus blossoms of mid-spring. My two lemon trees still have an abundance of lemons in spring, even though we pick them regularly and have given so many away to visitors, but they are also in full flower making it a pleasure to spend time seeking out the best lemons still on the tree.

One lemon tree is next to a window of the house so opening the windows allows the natural perfume to permeate the house. The other larger one is by the vegetable garden as a feature with the fruit ripening on the tree for more than six months, making them easy to pick when needed in the kitchen along with the rest of the harvest.

The strong evergreen leaves add an intensity of lush greenery to a garden area that contrasts wonderfully with the yellow fruits.

Left unattended the trees can grow very large but with careful pruning they can be kept to the size that fits the place where they are planted.

They can even be grown in pots and containers on balconies and terraces with a good potting mix, frequent pruning and regular watering. Dwarf varieties are available that help to grow them when space is limited. The lemon tree needs regular soil moisture to thrive so to minimise the need for watering, good soil preparation is necessary.

Existing trees which need a lot of watering can have the amount required greatly reduced by applying a generous layer of mulch on the soil under the tree from the trunk to the outer extremes of the leaf canopy. A good compost and straw mixture works wonders as it provides nutrients and bulk.

Some compost which provides nitrogen will greatly assist to keep the tree bright green and flourishing, although in containers it should be used sparingly but regularly to not gain too much growth.

If planting a new tree in a garden make sure that a lot of compost is added to the soil and mixed into the existing soil before planting. The area prepared with compost can be as large as two metres in diameter to allow for the tree's future growth.

A large prepared area will allow the roots to spread out faster into the soil.

The roots of a new tree that has been grown in a pot should be spread out so they are not tangled before planting.

Give them a good watering after planting and apply an organic mulch to at least a metre out from the new tree to conserve water and maintain soil temperatures cooler in summer and warmer in winter.

A right royal princess

WITH the royal wedding this weekend and a garden party at Buckingham Palace on Tuesday to celebrate Prince Charles' 70th birthday, let's take some inspiration from blue blood and see what flowers to choose to create a royal sensation in your home and garden.

Word has it that Harry and Meghan will have white garden roses, foxgloves and peonies inside St George's Chapel and at the reception in St George's Hall afterwards. Generously, the couple have committed to distribute the flowers to charitable organisations following the event.

It's no surprise, perhaps, that Meghan revealed that peonies will be included as she has previously revealed on Instagram that these are among her favourite flowers.

The royal couple have also revealed that their lemon elderflower wedding cake will be covered with buttercream and decorated with fresh flowers.

Horticulture might be new territory for the new royal couple but the Prince of Wales, on the other hand, is known for his love of nature and the countryside and few doubt his skill as a gardener and garden designer.

Charles' favourite flowers are known to be delphiniums. These fill his 15-acre Highgrove garden. Of the garden, three acres are wild flower meadows, in which he has almost 200 orchids. He has also planted thousands of thyme plants and flowers including lilies, roses and hydrangeas.

And simply because it's royal, doesn't mean it has to be serious. Apparently, Prince Charles planted wild thyme along his footpaths so that he could joke with visitors about walking through time!

So, even though you may not have a palace to entertain your friends and family, there's no reason why you can't create a palatial look to give your visitors the wow factor.

Life of a tree: going back to our roots

Marbella Moments

by Nicole King

FEMI ASERU had all those off set crying during his television interview for Marbella Now; no one expected to hear such a story from such a young man.

Femi is one of nine brothers and sisters who grew up as best they could in the worst part of Brixton in London. It was only when he got into trouble as a teen and his mother refused to go and speak on his behalf did one of his older sisters tell him that his real mother lived in Nigeria.

As he found out only then, he was the youngest of six children born in Nigeria to a different mother and taken from her by their father when he was but three. His father had moved to the UK, remarried, added new siblings to the family and the past was to be forgotten.

Femi always felt like he didn't belong, particularly at home. His sister's revelation was a desperate attempt to give him hope. She promised him that if he finished his GCSEs she would make sure he would go to Nigeria and meet his real mum.

He studied hard and his sister kept her promise and, in the middle of an ever-hectic Lagos airport, mother and son were reunited and Femi was finally home. Inner city kids he explained grow up being told they don't own anything and aren't part of anything; they feel excluded, are treated like outcasts; so they behave as expected. Femi however did the unexpected: he not only passed his GCSEs but went on to university and obtained an Agricultural Business Management degree. He had a plan.

Whilst retracing his heritage he had learnt about a native Nigerian tree that is a natural remedy for everything. A pest resistant, drought resistant, hardy tree that can grow in good or bad soil and provides all the multivitamins and natural cures Nigerians need: the Moringa tree. He was so fascinated by its resilience and overwhelming curative properties that the idea for 'Life of a Tree' was born, took root and is growing fast.

Life of a Tree is not only a full natural range of vegan, raw and ethical tea bags, powders, oils and capsules made from the Moringa trees he has planted in Nigeria, all available worldwide online, it's Femi's way of empowering women.

A hard working team of organic agronomists ensure the products are of the highest quality, natural and sustainable, but it's the women empowerment at the forefront of his business goals.

Life of a Tree is already training women in the villages of rural Africa and encouraging them to grow their own food and medicine and I anticipate this is just the beginning.

One day I also foresee a Hollywood movie about the life of Farmer Femi, as he's now fondly known.

In the meanwhile I invite you to check out his TV interview with me on Marbella Now from our website www.marbellanowtv.com (Latest show w/c 23.04.18) and Mi Marbella Fm (18.04.18); his example can help us all grow!

If paint is not enough, diamonds are the answer

Nick Horne The Rich Pick

Freelance correspondent, London, England

YOU have the yacht in the harbour, the supercar at the kerb and a personal jet waiting on the apron for you at the airport, but you feel something is lacking.

That's when the paint job begins to occupy your mind. Of course you have the choice of many colours and you could try a few variations. Though of course most yachts come in white and to go too far overboard would open you up to a certain amount of banter.

The same more or less applies to the plane. What's the point of jetting about luxuriously and discreetly if your paint job is 'screaming pink'? Even a lime green Lamborghini is passé now, everyone's got one!

That's when Jean Boulle Luxury may just have the product for you. The Sun King™ Diamond Coating was presented at last year's Monaco Yacht Show. A proprietary technique, it involves transforming ethically-sourced natural diamonds into a finish that guarantees the 'highest quality and brilliance within precisely defined tolerances.'

The coating has also been applied to supercars produced by some of the world's foremost luxury car brands with the result of dramatically altering the vehicle's visual appearance.

The Keizer 42 'Sun King' is the result of a cooperation between Jean Boulle Luxury, AkzoNobel and Bonsink Yacht Painters. Jean Boulle Luxury recently patented a pricey technique which makes it possible to transform natural diamonds into a coating.

PRICEY PLEASURE: A Rolls Royce after the Sun King Diamond Coating treatment.

For the first time, it has been applied to a yacht, the Keizer 42. AkzoNobel is going to produce it, and prices are available on request only.

For the Keizer 42 'Sun King' the partners asked the renowned Dutch yacht painter Bonsink Yacht Painters to apply the coating. With the world premiere of the Keizer 42 'Sun King', Keizer Yachts will also be introducing its Custom Editions.

The yacht debuted at Monaco shows the possibilities available to customise the Keizer 42 entirely to meet a customer's wishes. The hull is painted in diamond blue, the roof arches in diamond silver and it also features wooden details which are also painted on.

As well as an extensive list of options and diamond coating, Keizer Yachts offers the option for you to choose your favourite upholstery, colour scheme and equipment in its extensive customisation programme.

With the price for a 'standard' Keizer starting at €325, the glittering options are unlikely to be cheap but diamonds are the answer, as ever. What's not to like?

THE Dogman

columnists@ewnmediagroup.com

Collaring your dog

THERE are a whole variety of collars available, from the conventional plain leather or nylon ones to the controversial choke chain, banned by several organisations of trainers, and the often frowned-upon pinch collar.

There are also head collars which give a greater degree of control. The four basic head collars available in the UK are the Halti, the Gentle Leader, the Dogalter and the Kombi.

The Halti is a UK registered design made in five sizes of very fine nylon and is loose fitting.

The Gentle Leader is a design first patented in the United States and then Europe. It is made in three, snug-fitting sizes of 19mm nylon.

The Dogalter is also in three snug-fitting sizes and is made from 15mm and 19mm polypropylene but with a padded nose band. It can be left on the dog and used for behavioural problems where it is necessary to correct the dog, ie when it whines, chews, or gets excited etc. The calming effect on some excitable dogs can be remarkable.

Personally, I use the half-check Kombi designed by the highly respected George Grayson, though the Halti is also very good. The Halti was designed by the famous Dr Roger Mugford, Britain's first animal behaviourist. He based it on a halter used 100 years ago in America to control weaning calves.

The advantage of head collars is that they control the dog by the head, like a horse, and using one increases the handler's control. They also have a calming effect on some dogs, putting pressure on the shoulder and neck, however, not all dogs like them.

They are a training aid, assisting control in many cases. If the dog is anti-social or too strong for the handler, they are vital as long as the owner is taught how to use them properly.

Many people do not like them because they look like muzzles, but most find that their use has enabled them to walk happily with their dog when before it was a struggle.

Pinch collars are not to be confused with the generally frowned upon choke collar with prongs turned inwards. Initially these were used the other way round with the prongs pointing outwards as a neck protection for the dog.

When people are in a formal training situation at a class, the dog tends to behave quite well. As long as a trainer is there telling them what to do, and when, they gain control.

But when some slow learners are away from the class, they do not have the same control at all. It must be admitted that some trainers believe the use of a pinch collar in these circumstances can be most effective, but I do not recommend it.

The respected dog trainer, Lou Castle of the Los Angeles Police Department believes that they are a far better tool for aversive work than a choke chain. He says: "No damage to the neck is possible with that tool. A top trainer I know goes so far as to say that it is the only completely humane training collar that exists."

Do you have a playful pup who likes company?

NEED someone to care for your playful pets?

Most young animals can be very playful and enjoy company, and especially if they are adopted when they are young and single pets it can be hard when you have to go away for a holiday.

They need companionship and care, so having a house-sitter in your home can be one affordable solution. House-sitters will not charge you for the care of your pet. They exchange the pet care they offer for free accommodation. They are often pet and homeowners themselves looking for a change of scene or a way to travel on a budget.

Is it safe?

At HouseSitMatch we ID check every new member on joining to ensure we know who we are letting into the network, and in addition house-sitters and pet-sitters are police checked by us. We charge for membership to ensure that there is a commitment from both parties and that we can afford to manage our network online.

At HousesitMatch.com we use Trustpilot to manage and authenticate our customer reviews. Here is a recent review from a homeowner in Almeria, Spain:

This is a really good website. The owner and founder, Lamia Walker provides a really personal service to match house-sitters with homeowners and she seems to work 24/7. I genuinely feel that I made the right choice going with HouseSitMatch instead of their competitors.

Avoiding cat fights

IF you have a cat you will know that they simply hate to be bathed. Any attempt to do so might lead to a real cat fight at home. This leads any cat owner to the question of how to clean your dirty muggins after a night out on the prowl.

Cats are actually very clean animals. With their rough tongue, they can spend up to more than four hours a day licking and preening every corner of their fur to remove dirt and entangled hair.

In addition to their personal grooming, a good option is to use dry shampoo. You simply brush the foam into the cat's fur to give it a good clean.

Household baby wipes are another alternative. Simply rub them over your cat as though you were stroking it. This way, your cat can actually come to enjoy this interaction.

Don't forget to pay attention to your cat's eyes, ears and mouth.

CHARITIES

ACE CHARITY "El Refugio" in La Cala de Mijas is a registered charity. We have on average 275 dogs in our care and we receive no help from the Town Hall or the Andalusian government. We desperately need foster homes and adoptants for our many dogs, especially the small ones and puppies who do not do well in a big shelter. We are grateful for any help offered, including donations of food and blankets. Visiting times are from 13.00 to 15.00 and you can always turn up or make an appointment by calling Denise on 669 018 736. Our website is www.ace-charity.org where you can view all the dogs in our care. (93320)

ADANA THE ANIMAL SHELTER IN ESTEPONA. We always need volunteers to walk and socialise with our dogs and help with cleaning. We also need good homes for our animals that you can see on www.adana.es. Kennels open every day 10-1.30. Camino de Casares, near Parque de los Pedregales, Estepona. (5 minutes from the Poligono) For more information call 952 113 467, available from 10.00am until 14.00pm. SEPE the horse and donkey charity is open to the public week-ends from 10.00 to 5.00. Volunteers are much needed in all departments and are welcome at anytime. For our riding for the disabled classes, we are also in need of extra helpers. We are nationally registered by the Spanish Ministry of the Interior (164640) but only with your support can we give the equine a voice. If you can just commit to 2 or 3 euros a month it will really help make a difference. You can find us at Lauro Golf Equestrian Centre, Alqueria, Alhaurin de la Torre. Tel. 608 258 950 in fo@sepeonline.net www.sepeonline.net (93321)

AT SOS ANIMAL REFUGE we have dogs, young and old looking for homes. Some of our dogs have been with us for some time and would love to find a cosy spot to curl up in and a knee on which to rest their heads. If you have room in your heart and home we would love to hear from you. We do not put our dogs to sleep - no matter how old, they are safe with us. For day to day needs and to pay for veterinary care, we much appreciate the support we receive. We desperately need items to sell on our market stall to help raise funds and are happy to come and collect. So if you are having a clear-out, please contact us on 605 227 155. If you would like to know more about re-homing, please call 653 257 875. Visit our website www.sos-animals.org or please phone Sandy on 952 385 923 or 666 814 056 if you would like to make a donation or help in any way. (93317)

Rough diamond

LUXURY carmaker Rolls-Royce has unveiled its first off-road vehicle.

Named the Cullinan - after the largest diamond ever found - the €270,000 SUV will go on sale later this year.

Based on the brand's new lightweight aluminium production platform used in the latest generation Rolls-Royce Phantom, the car retains the company's iconic grille and Spirit of Ecstasy bonnet ornament.

from the Phantom and Ghost saloons, took five years to develop.

"We didn't want to be shy, we wanted a functional aesthetic look with no apology," he added.

Much of the opulent interior is also plundered from the new Phantom, including the digital instrument panel and sloping centre console.

The steering wheel and all seats are heated, with the rear pair separated by a unit housing whisky glasses, a decanter, Champagne flutes, and a fridge.

vision cameras and active cruise control, while customers can choose extras from a glass partition sealing off the boot to customisable 'recreation modules' that plug into the back of the vehicle, one of which consists of two rear-facing leather chairs and a cocktail table which glide electrically out of the tailgate at the touch of a button.

Other options include modules for 'fly fishing, photography, rock climbing, snowboarding, parasailing, kite boarding, BASE jumping and drone racing.'

And Rolls-Royce says the 22-cubic feet of storage space is enough to stow a 'Mark Rothko from the art gallery or a newly discovered artefact from the latest archaeological dig.'

The all-wheel drive system is powered by a 6.75-litre twin-turbo V12 engine that delivers 563bhp and 850Nm of torque serving up a brisk top speed of 250kph.

A self-levelling air suspension system is designed to offer the smoothest possible ride, while the 'Flagbearer' stereo camera system in the windscreen 'sees' the road or terrain ahead and makes proactive adjustments.

Pre-orders for the Cullinan are open now.

HIGH ROLLER: The Cullinan stands six feet off the ground.

Top cats set pace

A FLEET of luxury Jaguars are set to chauffeur passengers to and from London's Heathrow airport.

The deal will see up to 200 electric I-Pace SUVs used for the service, which the hub says will reduce its output of toxic gasses by as much as eight tonnes per year.

It will be the first fleet of its kind in the UK, and will see the scheme's partner-travel services company We Know Group - install the country's biggest electric car charging port ahead of its roll out this summer.

And according to Heathrow bosses, it will cost travellers around the same as using a regular taxi.

Emma Gilthorpe, Executive Director at the airport, said: "We are thrilled to be working with two British companies on this landmark initiative to support more sustainable transportation choices for our passengers."

Classic Car Club of Andalucía

Motoring to Monaco

THE first ever Tour Monaco Historique rumbled into the principality last week after an epic run from Brooklands in Surrey.

Timed to coincide with the famous bi-annual Monaco F1 Historic GP the event ran over a week and visited some of the best hotels and restaurants that France has to offer.

Restricted to invited guests only, and only for those using classic cars, a very interesting group arrived at Brooklands for a welcome dinner with canapés and plenty of French Champagne as something of a scene-setter for the coming week.

Most participants were members of The Classic Car Club of Andalucía and the whole escapade was organised by CCCA President Ian Giles and his wife, Carol. One of these members, Kerry Michael MBE, was to compete in his first F1 race using a rare and beautiful Emeryson from 1961.

Another CCCA member, former McLaren F1 driver Mark Blundell, was along for the fun and to drive a McLaren M19 F1 car from 1970 in a special demonstration around the tight and twisting GP circuit.

Another CCCA member, David Price, a current World Sports Car series team manager was around and a number of other members were there spectating and supporting the CCCA competitors.

Back to the run itself, some beautiful cars arrived at the Brooklands start including Dragons Den and TV personality, Theo Paphitis with wife Debbie in a stunning Mercedes 190SL. F1 ace, Mark Blundell, had wife Deborah along to navigate in a totally original 1980's Porsche 911 Turbo. Kerry Michael had his good lady Lynda reading the maps in a fabulous Prince Charles spec Aston Martin convertible. Also starting was an immaculate and original Porsche 928 S, a brace of V12 E-types, a Ferrari Spyder, red of course, a rare Sunbeam Tiger V8 and others.

Also arranged for participants was a team of three mechanics with Mercedes vans and trailers. These carried two spare cars 'just in case' which were a very low mileage Ferrari 550 and a Mercedes SL63. The only casualty was the lovely white 1960 Mercedes 190SL which had a brake cylinder problem and so was quickly swapped in Busnes for the SL63. Quite a contrast!

The crews set off from Brooklands, flagged off by another CCCA member, Tony Young, and headed for Folkestone and the Channel Tunnel.

Once in France a short country route was enjoyed by all with a night stop at the famous Chateau Beaulieu in Busnes.

Day two saw crews heading for the Champagne region and a stop at Chateau de Fere where a cocktail party and black-tie dinner was put on to celebrate the 60th birthday of Debbie Paphitis. Eight of her friends were flown in especially for the evening as a surprise for her and, needless to say, something of a party ensued...!

Day three and the spectacular town of Beaune was next. Another dinner and a party here too before day four, a run over the Alps, through Switzerland and on to the Royal Palace in Evian, reputed to be one of the seven best hotels in France. Fabulous views over the lake and lake-view rooms for everyone was a real treat, as was the amazing dinner that was organised.

days on-board two luxury yachts in the harbour to enjoy the Grand Prix but more of that next time.

And talking of next time? Maybe next year will see a run from the UK to Spain to enjoy the Picos de Europa, Asturias and the Pyrenees before landing in Barcelona for the Grand Prix. Maybe...

The penultimate day saw the group arrive at the equally famous 'La Bonne Etape' near Sisteron after enjoying a super drive over the Route of Napoleon. Dinner was again just fabulous and copious quantities of Chateau Margaux was a fitting reward for the days efforts.

This amazing event was a huge success and organiser, Ian Giles, was delighted. On arrival in Monaco, the crews all 'rested' for five

La Liga Preview

Barca lose unbeaten streak

BARCELONA'S dream of lasting the whole La Liga season unbeaten ended in their penultimate game, as they were beaten 5-4 by lowly Levante in a high octane match.

Amazingly, their hosts stormed into a 5-1 lead with Emmanuel Boateng scoring a hat-trick, along with two Enis Bardhi strikes.

Barca's Philippe Coutinho scored a hat-trick of his own and Luis Suarez netted a penalty to set up a tense finale.

But having rested Lionel Messi, manager Ernesto Valverde suffered his first league loss with the team, which fell to its first defeat in 44 games.

The result makes next Sunday's final game against Real Sociedad something of an anti-climax for Barca, except to make sure captain, Andres Iniesta gets a fitting send off.

BARCA BUTCHERED: The nine goal thriller ended Barca's incredible unbeaten run.

Gareth Bale scored twice to boost his chances of starting in the Champions League final as Real Madrid thrashed Celta Vigo 6-0 at the Bernabeu.

The rout, in Real's last home game of the season, means they can still overtake Atletico Madrid into second place.

Atletico Madrid warmed up for the Europa League final on Wednesday with a 1-0 win at Getafe.

Diego Simeone's men took the three points thanks to Koke's eighth minute strike, and means they only need a draw at home to Eibar this weekend to finish as runners up.

Elsewhere, Villarreal cemented their Europa League position of fifth with a 4-2 win over relegated Deportivo La Coruna, and can look forward to hosting Real Madrid on Saturday without pressure.

Real Betis earned a hard fought 2-2 draw at home against Sevilla, which was also enough to keep them at bay for sixth position and Europa League football next season.

Premier League preview

Liverpool secure fourth place in style

MOHAMED SALAH broke the Premier League scoring record for a 38 game season as Liverpool qualified for the Champions League in an eventful final day of the campaign.

Salah's 32nd goal took him past Alan Shearer, Cristiano Ronaldo and Luis Suarez in the history books, as Liverpool steamrollered Brighton 4-0 at Anfield.

A thumping Dejan Lovren header was followed by a first goal for the Reds for both Dominic Solanke and Andrew Robertson.

The result sealed fourth position in the league for Liverpool, and a crucial place in Europe's showpiece club competition next season.

Third-placed Tottenham stayed above the Reds with an incredible 5-4 victory over Leicester in what could be their final game at Wembley before moving back to the revamped White Hart Lane.

Mauricio Pochettino's side fell behind three times, but a brace each for Erik Lamela and Harry Kane - the latter of whom reached 30 goals for the season - inspired them to a dramatic win.

Kane's England team-mate Jamie Vardy scored two of Leicester's four goals, but it was the Spurs target man who had the final say with a curling effort from the edge of the box.

Ayoze Perez scored twice after Dwight Gayle's opener to ensure Rafael Benitez's side finished a respectable 10th in the table.

Needing Southampton to lose to Manchester City and an improbable 10-goal swing to avoid relegation, Swansea slipped to a 2-1 defeat against Stoke and will play Championship football next season.

GOLDEN BOY: Mohamed Salah won the golden boot in a record-breaking season.

A sublime injury-time lob from Gabriel Jesus secured Man City's 32nd win of the campaign against Southampton, and the club reached the incredible and unprecedented 100 point mark in the process.

Arsene Wenger ended his 22-year Arsenal reign with a 1-0 win at Huddersfield, courtesy of Pierre-Emerick Aubameyang's first-half strike.

The Frenchman was given a rousing reception by both sets of fans in a carnival atmosphere, and Huddersfield boss, David Wagner made a special presentation to him before kick-off.

Another to say his goodbyes was Michael Carrick, who bade farewell to Manchester United by helping set up the goal that delivered a 1-0 win for Manchester United over Watford.

The veteran midfielder, who is retiring this summer, sent a superb long pass to Juan Mata behind the defence, who squared to Marcus Rashford for a tap in.

Zverev beats Thiem to win Madrid title

WORLD number three Alexander Zverev won his third Masters title by beating Dominic Thiem in the final of the Madrid Open.

The 21-year-old German, who did not drop a set in the tournament, broke early in both sets to win 6-4 6-4.

Austrian world number seven Thiem, who reached the final last year, had defeated Rafael Nadal on his way to the decider.

However, Zverev

was in control of the match from the start with a classy display of shotmaking, as Thiem struggled to make his mark.

The German, who did not face a break point all tournament, confidently saw out the victory in what he will see as perfect preparation for the French Open, which starts on May 27.

HOT PROSPECT: Zverev is coming into his own on the world stage.

Simpson tames Tiger to win Players Championship

PLAYERS CHAMPION: Simpson's win comes six months after the death of his father.

TIGER WOODS' final-round charge fell short as fellow American Webb Simpson held his nerve to win the Players Championship by four shots at TPC Sawgrass in Florida.

Simpson, who was seven clear overnight, shot a one-over 73 to triumph on 18 under and claim a first win since 2013.

Woods (69) birdied the 12th to close to within four of the lead, but double bogged the par 3 17th to end on 11 under.

Charl Schwartzel, Jimmy Walker and Xander Schauffele all carded 67 to finish tied for second on 14 under.

Dustin Johnson's run of 64 weeks as World Number 1 comes to an end after he could only manage a level-par 72 to finish tied for 17th place.

Fellow American Justin Thomas takes over after his six-under par closing round moved him into a tie for 11th with the likes of Woods, Ian Poulter (69) and Brooks Koepka, who had an albatross two in a course record equalling 63.

Poulter finished one behind fellow Englishman Tommy Fleetwood (68), while Justin Rose reeled off six birdies in seven holes at the start of the back nine and finished nine under.

"It feels great," said Simpson. "I am exhausted, it was a long day. It's probably harder work to be ahead by five or six. I learned from it, I battled through."

Pain for Spain as Russia qualify

RUSSIA have qualified for next year's Rugby World Cup after Spain, Belgium and Romania were sanctioned for fielding ineligible players.

Spain had hoped for a reprieve after an investigation into their defeat by Belgium, which had meant Romania qualified.

But the panel ruled that all three countries broke eligibility rules, and they have been deducted points as a result.

Russia therefore join Ireland, Scotland and hosts Japan in Pool A, while Germany meet Portugal in a play-off.

The winners of that go into a Europe/Oceania play-off against Samoa for the chance to complete Pool A at next year's global showpiece.

The rugby unions of Spain, Romania and Belgium have a 14-day window in which to appeal against the ruling.

Romania have already lodged theirs, claiming they took all appropriate steps to determine the availability of Sione Faka'osilea, who has been judged ineligible after previously representing the Tongan seven's team.

"The Romanian Rugby Federation cannot accept a decision in which teams that knowingly violate regulations are treated identically to those who comply with all procedural steps required," a statement read.

Southgate wields axe and trusts in youth

YOUNGSTERS Trent Alexander-Arnold and Ruben Loftus-Cheek have been selected in Gareth Southgate's 23-man England squad for the 2018 World Cup.

Goalkeeper Joe Hart and midfielder

Liverpool midfielder Adam Lallana is one of five players on standby for the tournament, and England start their campaign against Tunisia on June 18.

DEMANDING BUT REWARDING: El Chaparral golf course.

WITH an original design by Pepe Gancedo and managed by Director Domingo and Commercial Director Cecilia Löwenhielm at El Chaparral you will find 18 holes - six par 3's, six par 4's and six par 5's.

Nestled between two valleys, surrounded by native pines and overlooking the blue Mediterranean Sea, with a length of 6,000 metres long, it has a great variety of holes and can be demanding and require great precision and skill.

It is easily accessible, only a couple of minutes away from the coastal highway N-340 and located in the Golf Valley of Mijas Costa.

The clubhouse has an Andalusian architectural style with luxurious amenities and an elegant decor which offers you different environments and a large terrace with superb views to the golf course and the sea.

After playing El Chaparral golf earlier this week I can report this golf course is currently in excellent condition, with lush fairways and greens and the course is immaculate. Thanks to the high standard of maintenance this golf course is now back to where it should be and is a must to play.

El Chaparral has a well prepared golf academy with highly qualified professionals who can introduce you to the exciting world of golf.

The practice area includes swing analysis, an extensive 18-hole putting green, bunker area and a wide driving range with natural grass, lighting and 40 tees, half of them covered and distributed on two floors.

Formula 1: Lewis Hamilton "rejuvenated" by victory

LEWIS HAMILTON said his dominant Spanish Grand Prix victory had revitalised him after a difficult start to the season.

The reigning world champion extended his lead in the Formula One championship, securing his second successive race win and leading a Mercedes one-two for the first time this season.

"Not every win feels as great as this one. It's my 64th but feels special and unique," he said.

Hamilton blasted out of the blocks from pole position at Barcelona's Circuit de Catalunya, and from there his win was never in doubt with a faultless performance.

The result gives Hamilton a 17-point lead over rival, Sebastian Vettel, who could only finish fourth as they both fight for their fifth world title.

Vettel dropped to fourth from second when Ferrari decided to pit him for a second time, when none of the other front runners did the same.

Valtteri Bottas came home in second to make it a perfect day for Mercedes, while Red Bull's Max Verstappen completed the podium despite damaging his front wing.

CHAMPAGNE RECEPTION: Hamilton's win in Spain put him 17 points clear of Vettel.

However, both Hamilton and Wolff have expressed concerns about the next race in Monaco on May 24-27, where Mercedes struggled last year.

"Monaco is going to be a serious challenge and the others are going to be hard to beat," said Hamilton.

"Daniel Ricciardo was much quicker in the final sector.

That is all downforce. They are going to be rapid in Monaco."

Champions League preview

SHOOTING STARS: Ronaldo and Salah are key men for their teams.

European gladiators prepare for battle

EUROPEAN titans, Liverpool and Real Madrid are gearing up for combat in the grand finale of the UEFA Champions League in Kiev on May 26.

The Merseyside club, who have won the European Cup five times, beat AS Roma in the semi-finals to advance to a showpiece clash against holders, Real Madrid.

Real edged past Bayern Munich in the semis and are hunting a hat-trick of Champions League triumphs, after winning the competition in both 2016 and 2017.

Although Alex Oxlade-Chamberlain is out injured,

Real Madrid have won the Champions League a record 12 times, five more than their nearest challengers AC Milan.

Should he come through a foot scan, Cristiano Ronaldo will of course be their spearhead, but he will be supported by a stellar cast that includes Kroos, Bale, Benzema and Isco.

A mention should also be made of goalkeeper, Keylor Navas who has had an outstanding season, including an eye-catching performance against Barcelona in the recent El Clasico.

After losing Philippe Coutinho during the January transfer window, many thought Liverpool's campaign would fizzle out.

However, Mohamed Salah has gone from strength to strength in a stunning debut season for the Reds.

Liverpool fans will be looking to the Egyptian to inspire the team to victory in the final, but fellow strikers, Roberto Firmino and Sadio Mane will have their part to play.
