Lagoon rally

'We want to save Mar Menor'

ACTIVISTS, locals, fishing organisations and trades people have gathered outside Murcia's regional government building to protest against what they claimed was environmental damage being done to the Mar Menor lagoon.

The Pact for the Mar Menor group, an umbrella organisation of campaigners with more than 1,000 members, organised the protest to coincide with World Environment Day last Tuesday.

Isabel Rubio, a co-ordinator from the group, spoke with Euro Weekly News ahead of the protest.

She said the group were calling on authorities to draw up measures to stop the pollution of the lagoon.

"If we want to save the Mar Menor an integral law has to be drawn up. A law which takes into account all the impacts, threats and pressures this coastal lagoon gets from intensive agriculture, construction, old unsealed mines and urban waste," she said.

Rubio added the salt water lagoon was the "most emblematic" natural site in Murcia.

"As well as its important ecological value, this salty lagoon has historical, cultural, geographic and economic value."

"Fishing and tourism are a source of wealth for the inhabitants of the area," she said.

SPAIN'S environmental health board has warned of the 'very high' risk of a cockroach plague after an unusually wet spring set up perfect conditions to trigger an insect breeding explosion in the summer heat.

US soft drinks giant Coca Cola has moved to quash claims that its most iconic fizzy pop brand was invented in a rural Valencian village, insisting in a statement 'this Spanish story comes up every few years.'

A LANDMARK Spanish unfair dismissal case has ruled that a driver for online food delivery company Deliveroo should not have been treated as a self-employed contractor, with a Valencia judge concluding 'there exists an employment relationship between the two parties.'

Crisis fear

THE European Commission has admitted fears over a 'humanitarian crisis' in Spain after the number of African immigrants entering the country illegally soared beyond 1,500 in the last week of May, topping Italy (1,443) and Greece (795).

'Step one, hire a plane'

Gangster posts guide on how to flee UK

By Matt Ford

A BRITISH gangster who went on the run through Spain has taunted investigators by shooting a video guide showing how to flee the country.

Convicted drug dealer Sam Walker, 35, who has racked up more than 100 crimes, is wanted after skipping a court appearance for driving without a licence.

His rap list includes jail terms for offences ranging from possession of counterfeit cash to threatening police officers, while he once hit the headlines over alleged threats to Chelsea footballer Ross Barkley.

He was previously a member of a mob selling heroin and crack cocaine in his native Liverpool.

And he has now reached Sierra Leone in West Africa after clocking up more than 7,000 kilometres on his epic escape from justice.

He posted a clip shortly after arriving to capital Freetown, where he claims to have met the country's Vice President Mohammed Juldeh Jalloh, in which he said: "Better luck trying to catch me when I go out of the country next time, Merseyside Police."

A police official later pointed out that he is in fact wanted

CON THE RUN: Sam Walker fled more than 7,000 kilometres to Sierra Leone.

by detectives in Cheshire. The footage is titled 'How to get out of UK when your [sic] wanted by police. Can't use an airport coz they will nick you.'

It shows Walker flying to Belgium in a private plane before taking a 'little 14-hour boat trip' to Morocco, between which he is believed to have flown to Portugal and hitch-hiked through southern Spain.

He then embarks on a three-day drive across the Sahara Desert, Mauritania and Senegal before taking another boat to Freetown from Guinea.

Walker claims to be in Sierra Leone, where his grandfather was born, to help distribute charity donations sent from the UK.

He insisted: "I was in a Catch-22. I had to fulfil my promise to the people in the slums, knowing full well that when am caught I will get the maximum sentence of four months in jail plus two months for missing my court date.

"But to me the people were more important. The court date could wait. Sometimes in life you have to do the wrong thing in the eyes of the law in order to do the right thing."

He also claims to have spent thousands on installing fresh water pipes in the city's slums after seeing "men, women and children dying."

He added: "I have not just woke up and changed overnight. I am still the same person and still do what I do.

"I know when I come back to the UK I will be arrested at the airport and put straight in jail.

"I can deal with that knowing that I have fulfilled my promise to the people in the slums by giving them a container full of toys, clothes and food and given them fresh, clean water so no man, woman or child ever has to risk their lives by drinking dirty sewage water again."

Damage from heavy rain

A TOTAL of 69 incidents were reported to the 112 Emergency Services line in the Murcia Region after it was struck by storms and floods. Several roads were reportedly filled with water in Caravaca de la Cruz and parades set to take place in Torre Pacheco had to be called off.

Drugs bust

GUARDIA CIVIL officers have arrested several people in connection with drugs offences in Jumilla, with four detainees from the town. Police said further arrests in the coming days were not ruled out, with three of those arrested in the town remanded in custody and one released on bail.

Crash arrest

LOCAL POLICE have arrested a 24-year-old man in connection with a 10-year-old boy who was injured in a car accident in Alicante City. The child was reportedly taken to the Intensive Care Unit of Alicante General Hospital after being hit by the car, with the driver having being released on bail.

Terror drill

STUDENTS at the San Antonio Catholic University of Murcia (UCAM) took part in a training exercise to simulate the effects of a terrorist attack on Monday. The drill was designed to recreate the results from last year's attack at La Rambla in Barcelona to give emergency services training on helping wounded people.

Fire fought

FOUR people were taken to hospital for treatment for smoke inhalation after a blaze broke out on Calle Abenarabi in the Los Dolores area of Cartagena. Emergency services including police were called to the fire at around 1.30pm on Friday, with an electric panel believed to be the cause of the fire.

Two injured

A MAN was taken to hospital and another treated by paramedics after a brawl broke out in La Alberca at around 7pm on Sunday. One of those injured was found unconscious and both had head injuries from being caught up in the fight which involved at least five people, according to witnesses.

THE BIG PICTURE Nº 17

OUSTED: Former Prime Minister Mariano Rajoy in Spanish parliament.

Adios, PM!

SOCIALIST leader Pedro Sanchez is Spain's new Prime Minister after Mariano Rajoy was kicked out of office. It comes in the wake of a landmark no-confidence vote after Rajoy's conservative People's Party was found guilty of accepting kickbacks in exchange for lucrative public contracts. Madrid's highest criminal court convicted 29 officials over their involvement in the scandal, with former treasurer Luis Barcenas jailed for 33 years and fined €44 million. And the fallout - which saw the credibility of Rajoy's own testimony in the enquiry disputed - proved one scandal too far for the leader once dubbed the great survivor of Spanish politics. He had been in office since 2011 and weathered a string of corruption probes, but was unable to withstand political anger after opposition parties united to seal his fate. After the vote, Rajoy, 63, approached 46-year-old Sanchez in the parliamentary chamber and shook the incoming leader's hand. "It has been an honour to be the prime minister of Spain," he earlier told MPs. "It has been an honour to leave a better Spain than the one I found. I hope that my successor will be able to say the same when his time comes." See page 32.

Elderly body found

POLICE have begun tracing a murder suspect after finding the body of a 69-year-old woman covered in blows and wounds in a house in Elche.

Officers were called to the home on the Calle Capitan Alfonso Vives last week after the woman's daughter told National Police she could not get in contact with her.

They found her lifeless body which they said bore stabbing wounds and other injuries inside one of the rooms.

Murder and forensic specialists have now taken over the probe, with officers combing the home for evidence and removing the corpse early last Thursday morning.

Police have reportedly conducted interviews with the woman's daughter and with neighbours as part of the investigation.

Another child of the deceased woman who is currently unaccounted for has become the prime suspect in the case.

NATIONAL POLICE have been tracing three youth suspects in connection with the shooting of a bus with ball bearing pellets in Murcia City.

The line 31 intercity bus was hit when it stopped at traffic lights at the junction of Calle Paul VI and Avenida Primera de Mayo at around 9.45pm on Thursday.

Reports state that at least three lead pellets then struck the vehicle's windows. It was carrying around 30 passengers including children at the time.

Footage shot from inside the vehicle that has since been posted by Spanish media appears to show glass shattered and marked with holes. No injuries were reported as a result of the alleged shooting but some passengers were left nervous.

Officers probing the incident were tracing youth suspects after witnesses reported seeing a teenager brandishing a weapon near the scene. Police have not ruled out making multiple arrests.

STONE IMMACULATE:
 Rob Macdonald at work in Barcelona and (inset) an impression of the final sculpture.

Carved in stone

A BRITISH expatriate artist has been commissioned to create a memorial to remember heroes of Spain's civil war.

At least 45 men from across the world were killed when their ship, the Ciudad de Barcelona, was torpedoed by a submarine off the Catalan coast.

They were among 300 International Brigadistas on their way to join the Republican fight against General Franco's fascist Nationalist army.

More than 120 of the soldiers were pulled from the sea by fishermen from the nearby town of Malgrat de Mar, but many sank with the vessel.

Witnesses said that they sang left-wing anthem The Internationale as they went down, while at least 23 others were later killed in the war.

"It was late afternoon," Welsh survivor Alun Menai Williams, who wrote the book 'From the Rhondda to the Ebro,' told UK media. "I was leaning on the ship's rail taking in my first view of Spain and its shoreline, some one and a half miles in the distance, when there came one hell of an almighty bang. "The ship shook, tried to get airborne, before settling down at a crazy angle."

American Jack Freeman added: "It was a pretty dirty business... some fellows were killed while they were asleep, some were trapped below decks."

General Franco banned talk of the attack in its aftermath, but Robert Macdonald, originally from Rugby, Warwickshire, has decided to sculpt a monument in their honour.

The Barcelona-based stonemason is carving Solidarity Park from locally-sourced limestone, which when complete will include 60 half-metre tall figures representing the brigadistas set atop an abstract ship and stone map of the world.

Macdonald says the figures symbolise "the unity of the struggle of the Brigadiers, but each will have individual carved features thus expressing the diversity of us all."

He hopes the project - a collaboration with students, historians, local people and the families and friends of the fallen - will encourage people to consider the treatment of foreigners, immigrants and refugees.

More than €13,500 of the €20,000 estimated cost has already been raised by crowdfunding, with the final work to be displayed in a Malgrat de Mar park.

Pollution fear

Rubio said that since the 1970's large amounts of water entering the Mar Menor from farming irrigation had upset the ecological balance of the lagoon.

"If people were aware of this ecosystem's value where threatened fish and bird species live and of its national and international protection status they would fight for the Mar Menor."

"Regional authorities should ensure they not only protect agricultural interests but also ecological interests and those of all the economic sectors connected with the lagoon," she said.

Rubio said the group had organised the protest to put pressure on authorities to take the necessary measures to improve water in the lagoon.

"The regional and national government should be vigilant in making sure current laws are followed while also working to draw up the integral law we have asked for," she said.

"We'll continue working in this way until the water recovers its past clarity and until agricultural waste stops reaching the lagoon," she said.

Angel Perez-Ruzafa, a professor at the University of Murcia and a member of the advisory committee for the Mar Menor, said the lagoon could self-recover due to its ecological make-up.

"If there is no dredging or indiscriminate dumping, it will recover. But if urgent measures are not taken we will lose it irredeemably," he said.

The Mar Menor has an area of 135 kilometres squared and it is home to a variety of fish and plant species.

What a cock-up

SHE'S among the most beautiful actresses in the world. But Spanish star Penelope Cruz, 44, set jaws dropping for a different reason after her smutty slip-up on Italian TV went viral on social media.

Chatting about her cooking skills and culinary speciality at a charity event, the actress mispronounced 'cacio,' the Italian for cheese as 'cazzo,' a slang word for penis.

HE'S been enjoying a luxurious break in Benahavis, near Marbella, after bagging his fourth Champions League.

And Real Madrid superstar Cristiano Ronaldo, 33, seemed relaxed as he boarded a private jet in Malaga with 23-year-old girlfriend Georgina Rodriguez ahead of his World Cup campaign with Portugal.

The pair had earlier been snapped aboard an €8.5 million Ascary yacht as they enjoyed some down-time together.

Strict tease

THEIR whirlwind romance was confirmed just four months ago.

But actress Gemma Atkinson, 33, has admitted that Spanish boyfriend Gorka Marquez, 27, is 'The One.'

The pair met on BBC show Strictly Come Dancing, and Gemma told UK media: "I hope he's the one, otherwise I wouldn't be with him."

SHE'S the ex-Emmerdale star who recently found herself at the centre of a love triangle.

But Gemma Oaten, 34, appeared carefree as she put on a racy display with her new squeeze, actor Stuart Earp, 30, on a beach in Salou, near Barcelona.

The pair met while starring together in a pantomime version of the Wizard of Oz, and got together while he was allegedly engaged to another woman.

Kerryann Clive, 23, said at the time that she only dumped him after pictures emerged of her boyfriend together with the soap star.

But after fiercely denying the claims, the

Jen set for baby break

HOLLYOAKS actress Jennifer Metcalfe has revealed that the return of her character Mercedes McQueen will be filmed in Spain.

The 35-year-old has been on maternity leave for a year, but said at the British Soap Awards: "We're going to Spain, so my first scenes back are in Spain and I'm so excited."

And the star added she's planning to get some sleep during her sunshine filming jaunt.

"Well, you say holiday but I'm just going to be catching up on my sleep because I have an 11-month [old] baby and he doesn't sleep too good," she said.

The stunner shares baby Daye with boyfriend and former Geordie Shore cast member Greg Lake.

But when asked if her son will be joining her, she smiled: "No, three nights off!"

OUR VIEW

Political crisis might not yet be over for Sanchez

SPAIN has a new Prime Minister, but for Pedro Sanchez the real battle might only just be underway.

The socialist is tasked with forming a government that represents the country he now leads rather than just the party he stands for. And with 84 seats in a 350-strong parliament, the task does not appear enviable.

He cannot possibly hope to satisfy all 180 lawmakers who lent him their support during last week's no-confidence motion in outgoing rival Mariano Rajoy, since many have openly admitted they sided with him only to see the Popular Party ousted.

What Spain needs right now is stability, and it will take all of Sanchez' political skills to achieve it

Not simply black and white

THE standoff between business owners and street prostitutes in Magaluf has no easy fix. The women are being blamed for robbing holidaymakers and somehow tainting the image of a resort that hardly has a positive reputation when it comes to Brits behaving badly. But reports suggest that many of the women are the victims of sex trafficking, kidnapped from their home countries amid promises of riches after being brainwashed with voodoo rituals.

And when they arrive, they are told to pay off debts they were previously unaware of and forced to prostitute themselves.

So who are the real victims?

Brit pensioner rescued after horror plunge

AIR RESCUE: The 69-year-old hurt his ribs and foot.

By Matt Ford

A BRITISH climber has been rescued after plummeting more than 10 metres down a Spanish mountain in pitch darkness.

The unnamed 69-year-old was found clinging to a tiny ledge with rib and foot injuries after using a mobile phone app to contact his family in the UK.

They immediately contacted the British Consulate who raised the alarm.

A Guardia Civil mountain rescue team located him in the Las Minas del Rabico area of the Picos de Europa mountain range in Castilla y Leon using the coordinates he provided.

Rescuers said he suffered the fall after getting lost during a solo trek when thick fog descended.

They used ropes and a ladder to pull him to safety before setting up a small rescue tent where he was able to recover strength and warmth with food and water.

At first light he was winched to a helicopter in a risky manoeuvre before being flown to the Panderrueda pass where an air ambulance was waiting to transfer him to hospital.

A Guardia Civil official said: "He was found at 2am, lying on a shelf in a very precarious position and with the real possibility of falling into the void below."

“Civilised people shouldn’t kill things for fun. It’s just cruel, the animal suffers. It should be banned.”

Shaun Cahill, 84, lives in Spain, returns to Dublin every six weeks to ‘cut the lawn’

“Yes, it needs to be banned. It is a blood-thirsty sport, the Spanish people have moved on. Let’s not forget the Spanish have the best football in the world to get their hit. In bull-fighting people take their anger out on nature, instead of on other humans in a competitive setting.

“People need aggression. That is why we have Gaelic football in Ireland. On the whole, the Spanish are huge animal lovers.

Everyone’s got a dog here!”

Domingo Ramirez Mora, 62, from Malaga

“It should not be banned! Bull-fighting is an art and a national celebration. To those who think it is cruel, I would say there is a lot of cruelty in the world which goes unspoken. So why focus it all on bull-fighting? And for me, it isn’t cruel anyway.”

Eric and Jenny Ankers, both 67, on holiday from Cornwall with grandchildren

“It is not something I can support. What gets me is that the bull-fighters play with the animal. It’s not nice. At least in the famous Pamplona bull-running festival the creatures get their own back! It is a rich man’s hobby anyway, it is not cheap to keep the bulls. They are brought up on big farms with dedicated cowboy-type trainers." Wife Jenny said: "It is their heritage - it is up to them! But I do think the Spanish are coming around to the modern way of thinking."

Jean Simpson, 74, on holiday from Edinburgh

It should be banned, 100 per cent! I went to a bull-fight in Torremolinos once, because of the tradition. The animal is kept in the dark before being released into the ring where it is blinded by the sunlight and stabbed to death by men who then call themselves brave! The bull has no chance. But how to stop it? Change takes so long to happen in this world! And don't get me started on the Pamplona bull runs. You wouldn't jump in the sea and play with the sharks, would you? So why do it with bulls? Just ridiculous."

John, 84, Jean's husband

"The women only go because they fancy the brave and handsome 'toreros.' They are quite brave though! Those bulls like killing humans, otherwise there would be no spectacle and it would be a total disaster! I prefer the way it's done in Portugal really. The bull's horns are wrapped up, a group of men jump on it, count to 10, jump off and run for their lives, much fairer!"

No-one hurt as awning falls

THE canopy over the entrance to Hotel Fontana crashed down to the street in the centre of Torrevieja. The falling canopy shattered the glass doors and blocked the entrance, but nobody was hurt although it was mid-day and despite the dozens of people who habitually come and go each day. The Emergency Services cordoned off the area and evacuated clients from the 10 rooms on the first and second floor that were in use at the time. Firemen inspected the building to assess the possibility of further collapse and found that the room closest to the canopy had suffered minor damage, but there was no further deterioration inside the building.

Plane ridiculous

A BRITISH couple were unable to fly to their Spanish holiday home using a €115 Ryanair voucher because it was in the name of 'Mum Dad.'

Kathryn and Richard Bolton, from Banbury, Oxfordshire, were told they could not use the voucher, bought for them by son Nick, 34, because the 'names did not match' those on their passports.

But when insurance worker Karen, 60, called the budget airline to resolve the problem, she was told that the correct names should be 'Dear Mum Dad.'

She told UK media: "The whole thing has been a ludicrous farce. It would be laughable if it wasn't so annoying."

The voucher was bought as a Christmas present from Nick, wife Amy and their two dogs Brian and Ernie.

He wrote 'Dear Mum Dad' in the space for the recipients' names, and Kathryn and Richard, 59, tried to redeem it in April for a planned trip to their Costa Brava holiday flat near Girona.

Karen continued: "When I

FLYIN' SHAME: The carrier has said it will reissue the voucher.

tried to buy them with the voucher it said 'passenger name doesn't match'. My husband thought I was being silly, so he tried it and it still wasn't working.

"So we rang Ryanair, at 13p per minute, and finally a man said, 'The name doesn't match.' I asked what the 'correct' name was, and he said, 'Dear Mum Dad.' I said that's a salutation, not a name."

The low-cost carrier eventually relented and said they will reissue the voucher.

Karen added: "To say it's taken the shine off things is an understatement. They had our voucher information online and would have known straight away we were genuine customers, but they put us through all this rigmarole."

A Ryanair official said: "The name on the voucher must match the name on the passport as per our terms and conditions.

"As a gesture of goodwill we have contacted the customer directly to resolve the issue."

It comes as the Irish operator sparked outrage at London's Stansted Airport this weekend, with hundreds of passengers up in arms over lengthy check-in queues.

Some feared missing their flights after branding the situation 'an utter shambles,' while the airport said cancellations due to bad weather earlier in the week had triggered a bottleneck.

Giant shark spotted

The three-metre long animal has been identified as a female bluntnose six-gill shark, or cow shark, a harmless species normally inhabiting deep water.

It can reach almost eight metres in length and was already dead when it appeared on the sandy strip at Cala Sant Vicent near Sant Joan de Labritja.

Many bathers took selfies

HUGE: The shark was reportedly dumped at a local tip.

with the predator before it was removed and dumped at a local tip, according to reports.

AN Irish tourist has died after reportedly falling from an apartment courtyard wall in Magaluf.

Thomas Owen Hughes, 20, was just one day into his Mallorca holiday when he was found by a local resident.

Police believe he fell whilst trying to gain access to the complex from the equivalent height of a seventh-floor apartment.

Death plunge

The Eden Roc resident raised the alarm after spotting his body at around 11am but paramedics were unable to revive him. Investigators believe he fell at night, but due to the secluded area he was in no-one noticed until hours later.

It is not yet clear why Thomas was at the apartment complex, as he was staying at a nearby hotel.

9 common mistakes when submitting your Spanish tax declaration

Two thirds of the Tax Office drafts of income tax (borrador) may contain errors or omissions, which could impair your right to receive a larger amount of tax deductions.

Check these nine points:

- Births of children and / or changes in marital status.
- Individual or Joint Declaration: individual or joint tax declarations, what is the most beneficial option for you.
- Deduction of the Autonomous Community.
- Deduction for Rent: This only applies in some regions and depends on the date of the contract.
- Tax Credit for the Purchase of a Home: This only applies to taxpayers who purchased their home before 1 January 2013.
- Income from work: check two things:
 - That ALL of your income is included in the tax declaration.
 - Check outgoings that should be included (union dues, legal expenses, if you are an active disabled worker, etc...)
- Empty Properties: Check if the 'imputation of real estate income' is correct.
- Tribute Capital Gains and Donations: include capital gains generated by sales of property and/or shares. Include government grants such as PIVE plan or a grant to buy a home. Remember to include donations.

- Pension Plans: Also take into account reductions for unemployment, serious and temporary illness, retirement, disability and dependence.

At Pellicer & Heredia we can answer your questions on this or any other matter. Our experts can help you to file your income tax returns efficiently, so you can get on with what really matters. For more information please contact us by phone 965 480 737 or email info@pellicerheredia.com We will be happy to assist you.

Joint swoop

€4.6m cannabis stash seized

SEVEN men have been held after a €4.6 million cannabis haul was unearthed in a container shipped to the UK from Spain.

Border Force officers discovered the 400kg stash in the wake of a joint probe with the National Crime Agency (NCA).

The drugs were hidden in crates of lettuces aboard the Wec Vermeer vessel, which had docked at the Port of Liverpool five days ahead of the raid.

A covert surveillance operation was launched, with investigators tracking the container after it was loaded onto an articulated lorry and driven to an industrial unit in Lytham St Annes, Lancashire.

Officers swooped to arrest the driver and two others who were unloading the vehicle, before three suspects were held in nearby Kirkham and a fourth individual was detained in the Trafford Park area of Greater Manchester.

Greg McKenna, Head of NCA Investigations for the north of England, said in a statement: "This is a significant disruption of an organised crime network that has stopped the proceeds of crime funding further criminality that would damage communities and exploit the vulnerable.

"We take importations such as this very seriously, and these arrests show that we will detect criminal activity and arrest those responsible."

All seven suspects have been released on bail after being quizzed by detectives on suspicion of conspiring to import class B drugs.

Man held over rape of Brit tourist

A ROMANIAN expatriate has been held in Mallorca on suspicion of sexually assaulting a British holidaymaker.

It comes after the unnamed man, who works in a Magaluf bar, was identified following DNA tests performed on the victim's clothing.

The woman, believed to be in her late 20s, filed a complaint with UK police after returning from a trip to the party resort last year.

She claimed she was partying with a friend on the Punta Ballena strip when the pair became separated, before she was approached by the accused, who invited her for a drink.

Later in the evening, he took her to a hotel room and allegedly raped her. The case was reported to Interpol, who informed local investigators in Calvia.

The suspect has been remanded in custody pending trial.

THE number of people out of work in Alicante Province and the Murcia Region fell last month, according to government data.

There were 3,801 fewer unemployed people in Murcia at the end of May, a 3.62 per cent fall on the previous month according to the statistics from the Employment Ministry.

The figures of those out of work for Alicante stood at some 3,795 less in comparison to April, a decline of 2.49 per cent.

The total number of people unemployed is now around 101,175 in Murcia and 148,535 in Alicante.

NEWS EXTRAPolice find elderly man

LOCAL POLICE have found a man with Alzheimer's in Santa Pola who was reported missing on Thursday and have reunited him with his family, with the 70-year-old reportedly disorientated, but in good health when he was located.

Quake study

SOME buildings on the coast of Alicante Province would not be able to withstand an earthquake, with those constructed in the 1960's and 1970's not designed to resist tremors according to a University of Alicante study.

Man held

GUARDIA CIVIL officers have arrested a man in connection with exam fraud in Murcia after suspecting him of sending someone in to impersonate him in a driving theory test.

Horror accident kills soldiers

MILITARY investigators are probing the deaths of two Spanish soldiers in the Canary Islands.

At least two other servicemen are believed to have been hurt after a BMR armoured personnel carrier overturned during an exercise at a firing range near the town of Pajara, Fuerteventura.

General Venancio Aguado of the Canarias XVI Brigade named the victims as corporal Jose Luis Leon Socorro and private Eynar Esau Mina Lozano in a statement issued by the Spanish Ministry of Defence.

The injured men were reportedly transferred to the island's Puerto de Rosario Hospital in the wake of the accident, which happened during a two-week field training exercise involving 600 troops and a hundred vehicles.

It comes after the brigade, which has extensive combat experience in Iraq and Afghanistan, returned from a six-month tour of Lebanon supporting United Nations forces.

TRAINING DEATHS The accident saw a BMR armoured personnel carrier overturn.

Cat causes chaos

THE Almoradi fire brigade recently had to deal with a highly complicated rescue that took six hours and required a JCB.

They were called out after several Guardamar residents contacted the Emergency Services after hearing anguished cries from a cat that was obviously trapped underground near a streetlamp.

The firemen located the cat in a conduit for the electricity cables feeding the streetlight but could not reach it with the equipment they had to hand and their colleagues in Torre Vieja were unable to supply with the specialised equipment they needed.

Meanwhile, Iberdrola cut off the supply to the streetlamp so that the cat was not electrocuted while Guardamar Town Hall located a Rojales firm that sent along an excavator.

The cat, young but unharmed, is now in the care of an animal shelter.

Rape sentence

A FORMER French Foreign Legionnaire found guilty of attempting to rape a woman and for assaulting her has been handed a two-year suspended prison sentence.

Murcia's Provincial Court heard the defendant met the woman when he was stationed in the region on manoeuvres with his unit.

Prosecutors told the court the 29-year-old went to a nightclub on the San Gines industrial estate on the outskirts of Murcia City where he met the woman. She was working as a prostitute at the time.

The defendant, from Mongolia, paid to have sex with her but is said to have grabbed the woman and held her on the bed after his agreed time had ended. He then attempted to penetrate her without wearing contraception.

The court heard the man covered the victim's mouth with one hand to stop her from screaming while placing his other arm across her neck, suffocating her. Workers at the club heard her cries from outside at which point in-house security entered the room.

The court suspended the sentence for a total of three years and also fined the defendant €180.

We talk the talk, but do we walk the walk?

By Sam Kelly, Managing Partner, Chorus Financial.

PortfolioName : Chorus Balanced
May 24, 2018

I'm sure you'll all be aware by now that I'm not exactly shy in my beliefs that Chorus offer the best investment management service here in Spain! Rather than me just saying it, I'm sure you'd all be interested to know how we do it?

A typical Spanish investment bond or pension here may contain a handful of funds that the financial advisor's firm have on a 'recommended fund list'. I can look at pretty much any portfolio here in Spain and have an idea of which firm put it together. The options are often limited, and the fees can be incredibly high.

Chorus take a very different approach. When we say we are independent, we genuinely mean it. We have access to the full fund market, and each and every Chorus portfolio is designed for the individual client.

So how does the process work? The blue line on the chart you can see is an actual portfolio I put together for a client with a Balanced attitude to risk. In simple terms, we'd expect a balanced portfolio to have no more than 40-60% exposed to equities, with the rest in cash, fixed interest, property, bonds and alternatives. The red line on the chart is the FTSE 100, an index of the UK's 100 biggest companies (which would class as a 100% equity, high risk investment). The chart covers May 2013 until May 2018.

The Chorus portfolio has achieved smoother returns vs the FTSE, whilst taking around 50% of the risk of investing in 100% equities.

We achieved this by creating the most optimal portfolio possible within the client's risk tolerance. This meant analysing thousands of funds, choosing only those with the strongest track records, and best performance within their sector and creating a risk-weighted portfolio. The portfolio covered different sectors, regions, and asset types for maximum diversification. Each fund is then closely monitored for the life of the plan, with changes and rebalancing made where necessary to optimise returns.

Many funds used here in Spain cost as much as 3-4% and those charges are rarely disclosed. The average fund cost on this portfolio was around 0.5% per annum (costs can vary, and advice on a specific portfolio can only be offered when we have assessed your circumstances).

As always, we encourage you to google investments and research them for yourselves. This specific portfolio contains funds from Rathbones, Royal London, Vanguard, Schroders, Fundsmith & others, with information on fees and past performance all available online.

As with any investment, I cannot and will not guarantee returns. Past performance does not guarantee future performance, and investment returns may be less than those illustrated. In order to achieve any kind of returns these days you must be willing to put your capital at some degree of risk. One thing I will promise, is that a Chorus advisor will always act truly independently and analyse the open market for the very best funds for your pension or investment. This ensures you are in the best possible place to meet your investment goals.

People are still signing up every day to over-priced, poorly managed pension & investment portfolios here in Spain. Before you sign that paperwork, get a second opinion! This is even more important if you are considering an investment with a tie-in, as you may find you are stuck with a bad advisor paying high fees for life or forced to pay a heavy exit penalty to move elsewhere.

If you want to discuss anything with me, simply call direct on 664 398 702 or email me on s.kelly@chorusfinancial.es. Initial advice is free and without pressure or obligation.

Brits charged over prostitution protests

FIVE British expatriates have been held on suspicion of hate crimes in the wake of vigilante protests against African prostitutes in Magaluf.

It comes after a group of around 20 Nigerian women filed official complaints with Local Police in Magaluf, claiming they had been physically assaulted and verbally abused while being filmed without their consent.

Those arrested, who have not been named but include a bar manager from Darlington, have reportedly been told they face a court hearing after being fingerprinted at a Guardia Civil station.

They are believed to be members of a social media group set up to curb the 'threat' of the sex workers, who they believe are responsible for muggings and violent attacks on drunk revellers in the party resort.

PROTESTS: The arrests come amid rising tensions.

One pal said: "The outcome with the police wasn't good. Our friends are being charged with hate crimes and are awaiting court. We have to rethink this again and change our tactics."

The prostitutes are thought to be brought to Spain from Africa by a sex trafficking ring, and local businesses, including many owned by Britons, blame them for a drop in trade.

The latest drama follows a string of incidents which have seen holidaymakers join protests against the women and clashes with Spanish taxi drivers chanting 'No prostitutes on the streets.'

Lay watch

AUTHORITIES in the Murcia have launched a volunteer force to help monitor loggerhead turtles on the region's beaches.

The Environment Ministry will run the network from this month until September in order to raise awareness among beachgoers as the animals begin breeding.

Consuelo Rosauero, the director of Murcia Region's environment agency, said training and awareness were a key part of helping to protect the area's natural heritage.

"That is why we are developing campaigns like this one, which help citizens become aware of the importance of being involved in conservation work and find solutions to environmental challenges," she said.

Officials said they would provide bathers with information on what to do if they find the nests of the endangered turtles. Loggerheads crawl onto beaches to lay their eggs as part of their breeding routine.

Volunteers are also set to make early morning trips to the coastline in places such as Calblanque Regional Park and La Manga del Mar Menor to find the creature's nests.

Posters are also set to be put up in beach bars, libraries, supermarkets, health centres and places visited by fisherman as part of the awareness drive.

They will reportedly tell the public to avoid touching the turtles, making loud noises around them or startling them.

The numbers of loggerheads making nests of Spanish coasts has reportedly risen in recent years. Their status as an endangered species means their breeding and nesting has to be closely monitored.

Rosauero said anyone who found a turtle nest should not disturb it. She added they should call the 112 emergency services line so wildlife protection officers could be informed.

LOSS: Ignacio Echeverria's father, Joaquin, after an Easter speech in Toledo.

Tribute to London Bridge 'Skateboard Hero'

By Gregory Kirby

THE father of Ignacio Echeverria, the 'skateboard hero' stabbed to death by terrorists during the London bridge attacks last year, has paid tribute to his son a year on.

"He did what he had to do. I wouldn't expect less from him," Joaquin Echeverria, Ignacio's father, said.

"I want it to be known that he always wanted to be good," he added.

The terrorists were stabbing a woman when Echeverria, from Madrid, intervened armed with just his skateboard.

"And the next thing Ignacio was then being struck by the three terrorists," Echeverria's father said.

The Spaniard - who was an anti-money laundering expert at HSBC bank - had said he would intervene in the event of a terrorist attack during a family conversation just a few months prior to the June 3 attacks, his father told.

The Spanish government posthumously awarded him the Great Cross of the order of Civil Merit for 'extraordinary services.'

Spain's king Felipe VI also honoured his bravery in a speech given in UK parliament during a state visit last year.

A commemoration to those who died during the attacks was held at Southward Needle on London Bridge last Sunday marking one year since the attack.

Prime Minister Teresa May attended alongside Labour party leader, Jeremy Corbyn, London Metropolitan police chief, Cressida Dick and mayor of London, Sadiq Khan.

"The many stories of courage demonstrated that night will always stay with me, such as Ignacio Echeverria, who died after confronting the terrorists with the only thing he had, his skateboard," the Prime Minister said.

Islamic State-inspired terrorists ploughed down pedestrians on London bridge in a van before crashing it on the south bank of the River Thames.

They ran to nearby Borough market storming pubs and restaurants and stabbing whoever they could find before Metropolitan police shot them dead.

A total of 48 people were injured in the attacks and eight people were killed which in addition to Echeverria include, Canadian Christine Archibald, 30, James McMullan, 32, from Hackney, Frenchmen Alexandre Pigeard, 26, Sebastien Belanger, 36 and Xavier Thomas, 45, Australians Kirsty Boden, 28 and Sara Zelenak 21.

By Gregory Kirby

RYANAIR has announced an increase in the fee for carrying two cabin bags on some flights just months after the airline introduced the charge.

The company's baggage policy allows everybody to travel with 'two-free carry-on bags.'

Baggage fee price hike Ryanair changes policy

But the heaviest of the two bags has to be checked into the hold, unless passengers pay a priority boarding fee.

A €5.70 charge for priority boarding was introduced in January, but it has now increased to €6.85 for selected trips, according to Which?

consumers' association.

And it rises again to €7.99 if passengers reserve the priority booking during online check-in instead of when booking.

A Ryanair spokesperson said: "Like all businesses, our optional fees can change unlike our fares, which keep coming down."

He did not say which transfers would be affected by increased luggage fees.

Airline CEO Michael O'Leary said checking in cabin bags at the gate is causing 'handling issues' on charters.

The problem is worst during bank holiday weekends and summer peak periods with up to 120 free-of-charge bags being handled at gates, he added.

Ryanair's new bag policy could reportedly be costing €50 million each year. And O'Leary said he may have to rethink it if the number of bags being checked-in at gates continues to rise.

The airline makes €5.7 million per day from additional charges and €2 billion each year from 'ancillary revenues' coming from additional extras like priority boarding and seat reservations.

SURPRISE: Ryanair chief Michael O'Leary in Ukraine earlier this year.

CAUSING A STINK: The 'unwashed' traveller is escorted to a bus.

Plane disgusting

Smelly passenger sparks diversion

by Staff Reporter

A FLIGHT packed with holidaymakers on their way to Spain was forced to make an emergency landing due to the 'unbearable' stench of an 'unwashed' man.

The passenger's body odour was so vile that the Transavia service from Amsterdam's Schipol Airport to Gran Canaria was diverted to Faro on Portugal's Algarve.

Cabin crew reportedly tried to make the traveller sit in the toilet before the captain decided to cut the journey short so that he could be taken off the Boeing 737 aircraft.

The foul smell caused some sun-seekers to vomit while others fainted, with Belgian traveller Piet van Haut describing the reek as "unbearable."

He added: "It was like he hadn't washed himself for several weeks."

"Several passengers got sick and had to puke."

A picture snapped by one of those aboard the plane shows ground staff escorting the stinking individual onto a waiting bus.

A Transavia official said: "The aeroplane diverted because of medical reasons, but it is indeed right that he smelled quite a bit."

It remains unclear why he stank, or what medical condition he was suffering from.

In February, a Transavia jet from Dubai to Amsterdam was re-routed because a passenger repeatedly broke wind, sparking a mid-air brawl.

Cat population needs controlling

THE Ciudadanos opposition party on Algorfa Council called for something to be done about - and for - the town's stray cats.

Mayor Manuel Ros should introduce a 'trap, neuter and return' programme, Ciudadanos said.

"Concern for the rights of these animals and their well-being is evident throughout the local population," a party communique maintained. "But this also involves safety, financial, environmental and hygiene issues," the statement continued.

The presence of felines living in colonies in different parts of the municipality was growing and they increasingly defecated in public places, exposing the population, particularly children, to serious diseases. "The cats can also cause problems for other animals," Ciudadanos said.

The party now wants a

'trap, neuter and return' scheme so that the cats can either be given up for adoption or live in colonies under veterinary care and their numbers controlled.

'Men in black' were a fabrication

THE partner of an Elda man whose eight-year-old foster son died during an apparent break-in was charged with his murder.

Nine months ago the 31-year-old woman named Alejandra, who was then four months pregnant, claimed that two men dressed in black and wearing motorcycle helmets pounced on her and her partner's foster son Dominique as they left their rented home in central Elda.

They forced her back inside the apartment where she was tied up and hooded before being beaten and sexually assaulted. She subsequently fainted but had been aware of flashes, as though her assailants were taking photographs, she told police afterwards.

On regaining consciousness and unseen by her captors, she made two video calls to her mother, because although she is deaf she can lipread.

Meanwhile, after the attackers had gone, leaving the apartment door open, an alarmed neighbour called the 112 Emergency Services.

Dominique's half-naked body was sprawled on the floor but despite traces of vomit and blood showed no external signs of violence. Pathologists later established the boy, who was autistic and had a heart condition, died of asphyxiation.

He visited his father frequently but normally lived with his permanent foster mother who was holidaying at the time. Police doubted Alejandra's story from the outset, sources revealed.

Dogs save owners from house fire

SAVED: The dogs alerted their owner to the fire

TWO dogs have been hailed after saving their owner's life in Alicante.

It comes after a second-hand furniture shop in Lliber, a small town in the Jalon Valley popular with expatriates, was gutted by fire.

Located in an industrial unit on the Jalon-Benissa road, the owner - named locally as Dominique - lives above the premises and was asleep when the blaze broke out at dawn.

But her Czechoslovakian Wolfdogs Lua and Llop alerted her to the danger.

"They saved my life without a doubt," the relieved woman said. "Lua started to bark but I told her to shut up and tried to go back to sleep.

"Then Llop grabbed my arm and tried to pull me out of bed," she continued. "I got out of bed and at that point saw that the flames were already inside the house." But when she grabbed a fire extinguisher a window exploded, forcing her to flee.

Neighbours called emergency services, with firefighters from Denia attending the scene and extinguishing the fire, which caused serious damage to her home, but did not affect the shop.

Police are now probing the cause of the incident.

Older buildings' earthquake risk

AN Alicante University (UA) research team warned that dozens of high-rise Costa Blanca buildings might not withstand an earthquake.

Reinforced concrete tower blocks of 15 or more storeys constructed in the 60's and early 70's were built prior to earthquake regulations, explained Professor Salvador Ivorra.

The professor, who heads the university's department of Simulation, Modelling and Structure Testing (GRESMES) explained that many early buildings were constructed with bad materials and have been subjected to wind and the sea air for the last 40 or 50 years.

"These buildings are not going to collapse, but they need technical inspections," Professor Chorro said.

The GRESMES team recently published the results of their findings in the Engineering

WARNING: Oldest seafront buildings susceptible to seismic activity.

Failure Analysis magazine, concluding that the deterioration of older high-rise buildings is generalised on the Mediterranean coast but particularly in Alicante Province.

The earliest buildings made less provision for wind erosion, the GRESMES investigators found, and without taking possible seismic activity into account.

This changed in the 70's when by law all Alicante

Province buildings had to be earthquake-proof.

In line with current regulations, reinforced concrete buildings are designed to have a useful life of 50 years, after which problems are likely to occur, Ivorra said.

They would not collapse, he added, but how long they lasted would depend on the aggressive elements to which they were exposed and all should be inspected, he added.

Prime Minister Pedro

PEDRO SANCHEZ, the leader of the left-leaning Partido Socialista (PSOE), succeeded in unseating Prime Minister Mariano Rajoy to take the top job in Spanish politics for himself last week. The 46-year-old former economics professor faced a number of issues from day one, including his party not having a parliamentary majority and the ongoing situation in Cataluña.

By Joe Gerrard

Path to power

THE PSOE's no confidence motion came in the wake of the Gurtel kickback-for-contracts scandal.

Spanish lawmakers debated the motion last Thursday and Friday, with the vote taken at 11am on the latter day.

Rajoy said Sanchez's motion was an attempt to get into power without having to contest an election.

"Mr Sanchez is concerned because he is not doing any better in the polls, and he has realised that he will never reach government through elections," he said.

Sanchez came next and called on Rajoy to leave office voluntarily rather than face the no confidence vote.

"The time has come, there is no middle-of-the-road way to raise the quality of our democracy, which is now being questioned," he said

The speeches were followed by efforts from the PSOE to win over smaller, regionalist parties to support the motion, accomplished by Thursday evening.

The motion passed on Friday morning with 180 votes in favour, 169 against and one abstention. That left Rajoy ousted and Sanchez installed as Prime Minister.

Pedro's progress

SPAIN'S new prime minister was born in Madrid in 1972. He played in an under-21's basketball team before going on to get several degrees. CREDIT: Congreso de los Diputados, via Twitter Sanchez speaks fluent English and French as well as Spanish. He served as the chief of staff to the UN high representative in Bosnia during the war in the former Yugoslavia.

His political career began on Madrid City Council before being elected to Parliament in 2009.

He lost his seat in 2011 but returned in 2013 and was elected the leader of the PSOE the following year.

He was ousted from the leadership in October 2016 after Spanish voters returned a hung parliament in 2015 before returning to the post just over a year ago.

He does not currently have a seat in the Congress of Deputies but that will not prevent him from becoming Prime Minister. Candidates for the job need only be Spanish and over 18.

On the agenda

THE head of Spain's government faces a number of challenges as he gets his feet under the table in the prime minister's residence of La Moncloa.

The first is the PSOE's position in the Cortes Generales, Spain's Parliament. The party has 84 seats in the 350-seat lower house and 62 senators in the 266-strong upper chamber.

Sanchez said last week he would go to the polls to get a mandate from Spanish voters. He will have to rely on support from the far left Podemos party and small regionalist parties in the meantime to get legislation passed.

Cataluña's push for greater powers looks set to continue which could pose further issues for the prime minister.

Sanchez was a vocal opponent of Cataluña's push for independence and recently branded Torra the 'Le Pen of Spanish politics' in a reference to the nationalist French politician.

He will now have to sit across the table from Torra who may well take advantage of the PSOE's fragile position in parliament to extract pledges for greater Catalan self-rule.

Next week Euro Weekly News will feature a beginner's guide to Spanish politics which will tell you all you need to know about the state of play following Sanchez's appointment.

Gunfire heard

SHOTS HEARD: Gunfire was heard in Granada three times.

GUNSHOTS have been heard in Granada City up to three times and in three separate places over the weekend, according to media reports of local witnesses.

The first shot was reportedly fired in the Caseria del Cerro area of the city late on Friday and in the early hours of Saturday.

A gun was fired in the air in the Almanjayar area while police were deployed to Calle Juan de Salcedo after further reports of gunfire on Sunday.

The first of the three incidents is believed to have begun late on Friday evening in what was reportedly a shootout between rival gangs.

Police seized a total of five weapons after arriving in the Caseria del Cerro area on Saturday, with two of those reportedly replicas. Five people were arrested in connection with the gunfire.

The second shot was heard in the Almanjayar area of the city at around 5.15pm on Sunday. Emergency services said police went to Calle Molino Nuevo where someone had fired a shot at a gate but found no damage or injuries had been caused.

At least seven police vehicles were despatched to Calle Juan de Salcedo at around 6.00pm, with the street cordoned off according to witnesses.

Bullet holes were reportedly found in a house in the area, with the number of arrested made not specified by emergency services.

It is unclear if the three events are connected.

Motorhome parking to be regulated

ALL political parties on Torrevieja Council agreed recently that motorhome parking inside the municipality needs regulating.

Much of the town's undeveloped coastal land is occupied by motorhomes but despite overall agreement amongst councillors, there was less unity regarding what form regulations should take.

The motion presented by Ciudadanos (Cs) councillor Pilar Gomez called for an analysis of measures in other parts of the country combined with assessment from Spain's federation of motorhome owners' associations.

Opinions diverged over making land available for motorhomes, a suggestion backed by Cs, Sueña Torrevieja and the Partido Popular, although the latter conditioned its approval with a technical report and creating a cross-party committee.

MOTOR HOME-LESS: The council has agreed that motorhome parking needs regulating.

The local government's four-party coalition was split down the middle, with Los Verdes and IU abstaining and PSOE and APTC voting against it.

Sueña spokesman Pablo Samper reminded fellow councillors that his party has been asking for solutions for motorhome tourism for some time, owing to the parking problems involved and the impact of its activities.

These vehicles have taken over the coves, which are public property with protected right-of-way access under the Costas laws, Samper said.

They also congregated in the car parks adjoining the Molino del Agua municipal park, which include public rights-of-way, as well as some Cala Dorada zones and even car parks in the town centre, Samper pointed out.

Estranged mother died alone

A WOMAN of 86 was found dead in her Elche home seven months after her death.

Alarmed neighbours had called the Local Police as they had not seen her for so long, but remembered she had needed rescuing by the fire brigade following a fall last October.

She had been taken to hospital but they had seen nothing of her after that, they told the Local Police officers who answered the call.

They suspected that possibly she was still inside the apartment as occasionally they noticed a strong smell, they said.

“We lost sight of her after the fall in October and thought that perhaps she had gone to live in a residence, but never imagined anything like this,” a neighbour said.

They began to worry some days back when the lift had to be repaired and they found she had failed to pay her community dues. The water meter had also been cut off owing to non-payment.

“It was very odd. We knocked and nobody answered the door and that was when we became suspicious.”

The Local Police officers found nothing unusual from the exterior and without an official complaint from a relative or someone close, they could not enter the apartment, they explained.

FOUND DEAD: It was several months before the woman was discovered.

The concerned neighbour then got in touch with the dead woman’s children, with whom she seldom had contact, and her daughter lodged a formal complaint with the National Police, authorising them to enter the apartment.

PORT PLAN: Carlos Domingo, Yolanda Seva, Roger Llanes and local councillors.

Plans for the port

THE Generalitat's Director General of Public Works, Carlos Domingo recently visited Santa Pola to discuss the port.

This was also the first meeting of the Espais Port Ciutat programme, a Generalitat initiative that sets out to find solutions for the problems arising in the ports that it controls.

This also provides an opportunity to discuss the department's plans for these installations and as well as Santa Pola, Torreveija and Denia Espais each have an Espais Port Ciutat plan.

According to Domingo, the Public Works department hopes to include not only users and operators who are linked to a port, but also the local authorities in each of the towns involved.

The meeting was also attended by the local mayor, Yolanda Seva, the director general for Agriculture, Roger Llanes, and several Santa Pola councillors, including those responsible for Tourism and Sport.

It was very positive to involve all administrations in a port's activities and boosting its potential, because this helps to create wealth for the town, Domingo said.

It will also be possible to arrange meetings with representatives from different sectors in order to deal with issues affecting the port.

FLAT BATTERY: No need to get your hands dirty.

Discovering you have a flat car battery

DISCOVERING you have a flat battery in the morning can be a very frustrating experience especially if you need to be somewhere quickly. Cold weather, frequent short trips, excessive strain, battery age or simply forgetting to turn the lights off, there are many reasons for getting a flat battery. The solution however is not that simple.

Línea Directa knows the inconvenience a flat battery can cause and how difficult it can be to get it charged or exchanged for a new one. Now they are offering customers their Roadside Assistance service that will charge a battery and jump-start their car.

One call and a trained technician will be on hand to help, wherever the breakdown occurs. Sometimes the battery may have completely run out and jump-starting won't work, then they can be towed to the nearest approved garage.

The Roadside Assistance service is an emergency breakdown service and is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

No need to get your hands dirty. No need to connect the jump leads to a neighbour's car. With Línea Directa, one of Spain's leading insurance providers, their Roadside Assistance service will have you back on the road in no time.

Línea Directa is definitely an intelligent decision when it comes to making your motoring life easier.

Best price. Better cover.

We hope the information provided in this article is of interest.

STANDING OVATION: The entire company take to the stage at the grand finale.

All that jazz!

STUDIO32's production of Chicago played to sell-out audiences last week.

From the moment the lights went up until the final curtain the audience was treated to a truly professional show. Director/choreographer Susan Zillah Wilson has yet again delivered another STUDIO32 hit, surely their best show ever.

Throughout the show company numbers were very well staged with fine singing and dancing.

The level of energy from the performers was matched by an equally impressive technical performance from lighting, sound and stage crew, producing a show of near West End quality. Audiences gave the performers a well-deserved standing ovation at the end of the finale.

Chairman Philip Wilson commented: "It's wonderful to be able to deliver this high level of entertainment to audiences, it's a great feeling knowing that you've given them a show to remember.

And in the process we've raised nearly €4,000 for local charities which is fantastic. I'm very proud of everyone who has worked so hard to make this show such a success."

With this show over, Studio32 have already announced plans for their winter show. The Wiz is a modern musical interpretation of the Wizard of Oz.

Tickets are already on pre-order and early booking is strongly recommended. For more information about Studio32 and their shows, please visit their website www.studiothirtytwo.org.

MAGNIFICENT: Neil Pavitt at the auction with Carol, one of the helpers.

Magnificent Auctions

THE HONDON VALLEY branch of The Royal British Legion recently held their monthly meeting.

Due to popular demand, they once again hosted Neil's Magnificent Auctions. Neil said he was amazed at the number of good quality items donated by members and friends.

At the end of the evening, Neil and his helpers, had raised over €350 with half of this going to the Poppy Appeal and the remainder going towards the cost for two Branch members to attend the re-enactment of the Great Pilgrimage (90 years on) in August. With new members joining on the evening plus a full house of regulars, it was once again a fun evening.

Chairman of the branch, Ian McNeil, said "It was a lot of hard work by Neil and his 'helpers' and I would like to thank them and I really appreciate the support of our members and friends in raising such a large amount in a couple of hours.

For more information about the Branch, please visit www.britishlegion.org.uk/branches/hondonvalley or send an email to hondonvalley.secretary@rbl.community. More information can also be found on their Facebook page (@hondonvalleyrbl). For Community Support, please call 676 451 780.

NOW TAKING BOOKINGS FOR CHRISTMAS & NEW YEAR AND DECEMBER CHRISTMAS PARTY BOOKINGS

STAT OF WEEK€15.5 billion The amount lost by Spanish banks on the international stock market in the immediate aftermath of the no-confidence vote and axing of former Prime Minister Mariano Rajoy, according to reports.

UK firm's €1.9bn package deal set

BRITAIN'S biggest cardboard box maker has swooped on a Spanish rival.

It comes after DS Smith revealed it plans to fork out €1.9 billion to snap up fast-growing Europac.

The takeover will see the London-based firm - which each year produces millions of tonnes of packaging for clients including Amazon, Asos and Next - expand into Spain, Portugal and France.

Its business has boomed with the rise in online shopping and it was promoted to the FTSE 100 last December.

PP threatens budget chaos

SPAIN'S ousted People's Party (PP) has threatened to use its Senate majority to disrupt the new government's budget.

PP parliamentary spokesperson Rafael Hernando said his party now wishes to "improve" its own long-delayed budget that was only passed a few weeks ago following months of negotiations.

He suggested this could include reigning in some of the promised €500 million infrastructure investment for the Basque region that enabled his party to pass the budget with support from the

by Matt Ford

Basque PNV party.

The PP has an absolute majority in the Senate and although it cannot nullify the budget, it can send revisions back to the lower house for revoting.

And the move threatens to destabilise the new Socialist PSOE-led government, which currently has just 84 politicians in the 350-seat parliament.

Socialist lawmaker Jose Luis Abalos said any move to renegotiate the budget would be an "unifying [act of] vengeance" by the PP following last week's no-confidence vote which saw former Prime Minister Mariano Rajoy kicked out of office.

But Hernando said his party's relationship with one-time ally the Basque PNV has changed after its MPs voted with the Socialists to remove the PP from power.

"At this moment, we do not have a link with the PNV because it has broken the trust," he confirmed.

PNV official Aitor Esteban added that the move could offer the PP "satisfaction for five minutes," but would "be very bad political business that would mean punishing the Basque society."

Usual suspects not so budget

THERE is no British or Irish representative in this year's top 10 cheapest budget airlines.

The most cost-effective operator was Malaysia's Air Asia, with a rate of €0.06 per kilometre travelled, with the top five completed by, in order, Air India Express, Indonesia AirAsia, Iceland's Primera Air and India's Indigo.

Irish low-cost specialist Ryanair placed seventh most affordable on the list, which was compiled from economy-class flight prices returned in search results from transport search engine Rome2rio.

Budget brand sorry after fans get shirty

SPAINFUL: A Primark store and (inset) the shirt in question.

WALLET-FRIENDLY Irish clothing chain Primark is again selling t-shirts emblazoned with the Spanish flag in Cataluña.

It comes after a recorded telephone call between an irate customer and an employee went viral on social media.

The shopper rang to complain that the firm was selling themed World Cup shirts for all competing nations except Spain in the troubled northern region.

And in the audio clip, the shop worker is heard to respond that no Spanish version would be sold locally "to avoid a fracas," sparking outrage online with calls to boycott the brand.

Hours later, an official said in a statement that the decision, made due to "the political situation" had been reversed, and that Spain shirts would be available "as soon as our logistic services permit."

He added: "We recognise that the idea was wrong and has been interpreted as a lack of respect for the Spanish national team, for which we apologise."

Summer is just the job

MORE than 1.5 million people in Spain are expected to find work on temporary contracts this summer, according to the world's largest staffing agency Adecco, with seven out of 10 employed in Andalusia, the Valencian Community, Murcia, Cataluña and Madrid.

Brakes off

SPAIN'S automotive industry generated 5,300 new jobs and raked in more than €28.1 million for the Spanish tax agency last year - a year-on-year increase of 5.7 per cent - according to the latest government statistics.

Blast compo

ENERGY firm Gas Natural must pay €2.1 million compensation to victims of a gas explosion which killed five people in Tarragona, Cataluña, a court ruling said, with more than half paid to a man who lost his wife and three children.

€21.3m tourist bonanza

MORE than 20.5 million tourists visited Spain during the first four months of 2018, as the country raked in more than €21.3 million.

The figures represent year-on-year increases of 2.3 and 4.6 per cent, respectively, according to data from the National Statistics Institute.

And while British holidaymakers retained top spot in the ranking, with 4.3 million sun-seekers flocking to tourist hot spots from January to April, the total dropped by 1.6 per cent compared with 2017.

The most popular destination for foreigners was the Canary Islands, with 4.8 million visitors, followed by Cataluña with 4.7 million and Andalusia with 2.9 million, while the average break lasted 6.8 days.

Euro and pound flounder, US dollar rises

Euro

EUR/GBP: Fluctuating, but unmoved at £0.87
EUR/USD: Down from $1.20 to $1.15

The euro (EUR) posted a mixed performance in May, encumbered by ongoing political uncertainty in Italy and Spain, and enduring concerns that the European Central Bank (ECB) will extend their bond-buying programme beyond September this year.

As May draws to a close, however, there has been some good news in the form of a Q2 recovery in German data.

This includes the unemployment rate falling from 5.3% to 5.2% in May and retail sales rising from the -0.4% contraction in March, to grow by 2.3% in April (month-on-month).

Looking ahead, investors will be keeping a close eye on Eurozone data - particularly the looming inflation print - but given the current dovish outlook of the ECB it seems unlikely that the euro will find much purchase.

LOOKING AHEAD: Investors will be keeping a close eye on Eurozone data.

Pound

GBP/EUR: Up from € 1.13 to € 1.14
GBP/USD: Down from $1.37 to $1.32

The pound struggled to make much headway in May, limited in the early weeks by easing consumer price inflation and the ongoing burden of Brexit negotiation stagnation.

On a brighter note, the UK's labour market continued to jump from strength to strength, with unemployment sliding to a surprising 4.2% low in the three months to March, whilst retail sales also recovered from 1.3% to 1.5%.

Whether this will be enough to push the Bank of England (BoE) towards acting in a more hawkish fashion with regards to policy remains to be seen, but many analysts are hopeful that the Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) will raise interest rates by 25bp in August.

As we move through June investors will be desperately looking for any signs of progress in Brexit negotiations, particularly with the EU summit scheduled for the end of the month.

If progress is made then we could see the pound make a comeback.

US Dollar

USD/GBP: Up from £0.72 to £0.75
USD/EUR: Up from €0.82 to €0.86

The US dollar stormed ahead in May, driven by ongoing expectations for monetary tightening by the US Federal Reserve, as well as the robust performance of the US labour market and improving trade relations with China.

A marked rise in US inflation towards the start of the month was good news for USD bulls, with the Fed expected to continue on their gradual path of monetary tightening this year and next.

Beyond this, China has agreed to compromise on various aspects of trade, including agreeing to buy more US goods and services and even plans to address the questionable usage of foreign intellectual property rights.

The outlook remains positive, though any signs of cooling relations between China and the US could send investors to safer shores.

Media blackout is what's most worrying

LEAPY LEE SAYS IT

OTHERS THINK IT

I DON'T think the position of British politicians could have been demonstrated more clearly than their actions concerning two situations that arose in London recently.

On one side of the city a man was being arrested outside the law courts (under some weak excuse of a past contempt charge), for talking on his telephone about a paedophile grooming case being heard inside; while in another part of the city, hooded Islamists, marching with megaphones and spouting anti British propaganda, were being given a police escort!

The one glaringly obvious fact that emerges from these two occurrences is that something is clearly not right. The arrest of Tommy Robinson was a disgraceful act of politically motivated injustice. A decision that should send shivers up the spines of all decent people who believe in the free speech and the democratic society our forefathers fought and died for.

TOMMY ROBINSON

JAILING: 'A disgraceful act of politically motivated injustice.'

When this man Tommy Robinson first appeared on the scene, I didn't particularly like him, or the far-right policies he appeared to stand for. In those days it was relatively easy for the government and law enforcers to write him off as a fascist yobbo.

But over the years things have changed. The man has now earned a far more acceptable cloak of respectability. He has appeared on a number of serious political discussions in the media. His views on rape gangs, sharia courts, no go areas and Islamic appeasement, that were at one time dismissed as 'racist propaganda,' are now coming to pass and a large and rapidly growing section of the British public are finally beginning to sit up and listen.

In their usual 'out of touch' manner the authorities thought that it would all blow over if they simply locked him up and put him out of sight and out of mind. Well this time they have made what could turn out to be an extremely serious mistake. They reckoned without the social media. The gagging orders they arrogantly put on all events that could 'cause embarrassment,' (or worse), simply don't work any more, and this latest was no exception.

Despite their efforts to suppress information thousands of people turned out, not only in London, but in many major cities across the world; they actually stormed Downing Street!

All of them calling for the release of this man and the injustice of his arrest. At the time of writing half a million people have signed a petition with the same message. It would take a brave or extremely stupid politician to label all these people knuckle dragging right wing bigots. The most worrying, and indeed insulting aspect of all, is the media blackout.

This is a blatant dictatorial attempt to suppress our most precious freedom of all. Our right to free speech. Millions of decent people are, at the moment, either worried or utterly peeved off with it all. Heaven help our leaders if this worry turns to serious anger. Let us hope no harm comes to Tommy Robinson in prison, particularly from an Islamic extremist. In this event, he could turn into the catalyst which triggers off the scenario this ol' boy has also been warning of for the last 25 years.

Keep the faith. Love Leapy.

Long established travel agency appreciated by Europe's largest cruise company

TRAVEL AGENCY, Falken Tours was delighted to be recognised by Italian company Costa Cruises at the 25th annual Protagonistas del Mar event which celebrates travel agents involved in promoting cruises.

In this, its 70th anniversary year, Costa Cruises particularly singled out Falken Tours and two other agencies for being amongst the three most regular participants in the event over the years.

More than 1,800 professionals from the travel business coming from 32 different countries were present at this star-studded event which was held in the Costa Favolosa to enjoy a short cruise around the Mediterranean and to learn more about the future plans of the market sector and Costa Cruises.

To commemorate the 70th anniversary of the cruise company, there was a special gala dinner and subsequent party.

Costa Cruises also took the opportunity to show its vision of the future with the announcement of the fact that the latest edition to its fleet, the Costa Smeralda, is the first large cruise ship powered by liquefied natural gas, the cleanest fossil fuel in the world.

The Costa Smeralda will become the new flagship of the company and is being built with the inclusion of first class Italian design and fittings, as well as with the latest technology to ensure the most exciting entertainment.

Thanks to virtual reality technology, those present were able to discover all of the different areas of the ship such as the swimming pools, Il Colosseo (the great central plaza that will delight the most technological), the cabins with double balconies towards the sea, the Arlecchino restaurant as well as the teraza and Superba bar.

The first of these special new, state of the art cruise ships will be delivered in 2019 with more in 2021 (along with others for the AIDA Cruises brand); they will have a revolutionary 'green' design and will also be powered by liquefied natural gas, which will represent a huge environmental advance.

Costa Cruises embodies Italian excellence thanks to its 19,000 Costa partners around the world, who work every day with passion to offer the best Italian cruise holidays with 137 different itineraries, 261 destinations and 60 ports of embarkation.

Costa Cruises have been awarded in the exclusive excellence awards of Turku (Finland) and at this event, the 1,800 agents were able to attend different moments within the construction process, thus learning all about this amazing new addition to the Costa Cruises' family.

Currently, the Costa Cruises' fleet, the largest in Europe, has a total of 15 ships in service, all under the Italian flag. In addition, two of its ships from the new generation Cruises 2018 have been granted three quality seals: 'Best Quality Shipping Marketeter,' 'Best Brand Image among Consumers' and 'Major Brand recognised among Travel Agents.'

A Bishop, a curry and a huge amount of talent

TV COUCH CRITIC

by Adam Whalley-Lewis

BRITAIN'S GOT TALENT finally reached its conclusion for season 12 over the weekend (ITV) with Lee 'Lost Voice Guy' crowned the winner.

Now it probably says a lot about me, but be honest, like me, were you initially unsure how to react to someone so confident, whose act is so different and who is so brilliantly funny? And Bishop Curry doing the intro as though God Himself would be watching, that was a Marmite moment.

Lee is a star.

I'm a Geordie, so Lee gets an automatic tick in the votes box and my brother is called Lee, so another tick, but the guy is also terrific and that's surely what everyone saw and why he won. I love that Lee wants to develop a Geordie accent for his voice, although the pronunciation of 'Newcassel' he currently has is probably good enough for most stottie eaters I know. Finally on BGT, I really wanted to like Robert White, but couldn't.

He had some funny one liners - 'I have Asperger's, what does that say about me, compared to you, I'm more intelligent' - brilliantly intelligent humour, but the digs at Amanda and to some degree David, just didn't do it for me.

A Very English Scandal (BBC1) concluded on Sunday evening. You know I'm a fan of the show and the final episode didn't disappoint. As this all too short series has moved along, I've become an even bigger fan of Monica Dolan who plays Thorpe's devoted wife, Marion.

She has had some cracking one liners and the boil in the bag, cod in parsley sauce scene, is the stuff of TV legend. If you missed the series, you can catch up on BBC iPlayer.

One of Channel 5's better Sunday offerings was The Unstoppable Flying Scotsman, which must have had stream and train addicts (I'm told they are not necessarily one and the same) on the edge of their seats. Of course there were lots of shots of the magnificent locomotive and Rob Bell (he's an engineer and obvious Scotsman fan) did a smashing job guiding us through the sometimes turbulent story of perhaps the most famous train in the world. There are only two 60-minute episodes, so my advice is set a reminder and watch them both together, with a massive glass of your favourite tippie and an even bigger dose of nostalgia.

We are still with Sunday TV, but this will be brief. Where is the story going on The Handmaid's Tale, Channel 4? We know that season two doesn't follow the book, because there is no season two storyline in the book, but I'm going off the dark rooms (someone just switch on a light, please) and the seemingly never-ending attempt to get to the Promised Land, in this case that would be Canada and I don't mean the lovely shopping centre just off the A-7 on the Costa del Sol.

I have previously said I find this hard to watch, but it's getting harder for all the wrong reasons.

Looking forward, BBC1 has the annual coverage of Trooping the Colour on Saturday morning if you need a top up of pageantry following the Royal Wedding; Channel 4 is in Spain looking for A Place in the Sun on Saturday afternoon and Versailles continues on BBC2 on Monday night - I will let you know what I make of the new series next week.

Happy viewing.

ALL TOO SHORT: A Very English Scandal.

STAR: Lee bagged the Britain's Got Talent crown.

KEEP the children entertained with last minute child-friendly breaks.

Still looking for a last minute break away this summer with the family? Sometimes keeping the little ones entertained makes for a much more relaxing holiday for the adults, so why not try these hotels which are renowned for being family-friendly and child orientated. From children's clubs and themed rooms, they are sure to please the youngest members of the family and the best thing? All are in Spain so whether you want to drive just a few hours up or down the coast, or take a short flight to either the Canary Islands or Balears, here are some of the best to look out for:

■ Fuerteventura

TOP PICK: The Occidental Jandia Mar, Fuerteventura.

According to a report last year on Trivago, the Occidental Jandia Mar Hotel on the island of Fuerteventura came up tops in their picks for family-friendly resorts. They noted its wealth of children's entertainers and different children's clubs to keep young guests happy for hours. There is even a children's buffet. Trivago.es currently state room rates during the last week of August are available from €136 a night.

Fun for all the family

■ Alicante

CHILD'S DREAM: The Hotel del Juguete.

The Hotel del Juguete in Ibi is aptly named as it is a child's dream with the hotel focusing on children. Rooms come in a range of themes including Playmobil, Lego, Pinypon and Invizimals and if these mean little to you, just ask the little ones! Naturally there are games rooms in the hotel and everything is centred around children. It is also the perfect base to explore the neighbouring toy museums as the area is known for its history of producing toys. Trivago.es currently has room rates during the last week of August from €150 per night.

■ Mallorca

FAMILY FAVOURITE: The Pirates' Village.

The Pirates Village in Santa Ponsa is a firm family favourite for pirate lovers young and old. The hotel even has a pirate-themed facade of shops and cafes and takes you into a world of fortresses, caverns and pirate ships with a weekly pirate show and pirate themed entertainment and events.

There are children's clubs for those aged from three to 12 and offers squash-buckling fun for all. Contact the hotel for prices, minimum night stays are required.

■ Costa del Sol

WATER PARK: Hotel Los Patos Park, Benalmadena.

With the opening of its very own water park offering 3,000 square metres of outdoor water fun complete with water games, slides, tubes and pirate ship, the Hotel Los Patos Park in Benalmadena has now upped its game in catering for families wanting a great location to entertain both younger and older children.

With all-inclusive options available, they can eat and drink as much as they like and the pirate-themed mini club will allow parents to be able to relax for a few hours. The Hotel Los Patos Park is currently advertising rates on the web for the end of August for €259 a night for a family of two adults and two children. A minimum three night break is required.

■ Navarra

TREE HOUSE: Mari Cruz Agroturismo, Navarra.

For those looking for something different to just a hotel break by the coast, why not truly delight the children with a stay in a tree house. The Mari Cruz Agroturismo, in the municipality of Villanueva de Arce, is a true adventure for those who are looking for a trip away and to introduce the little ones to nature. There are rural houses and even a tree house to stay in and you can spend the days feeding the farm animals and attending workshops such as making pizzas and jams from the produce grown on the farm. There is also a playroom and library with books and games for children. Prices for a stay in the tree house start from €80 per couple and €15 per child.

How to make a successful insurance claim

MOST people will have to make an insurance claim at some point in their lives and here at Insure in Spain we have put together a few pointers which will help to ensure that the loss assessors agree to pay out.

Motor insurance claims:

Always complete the accident report form and email it to your insurance agent/broker as soon as possible. The insurance companies have just seven days from the date of the accident to apportion blame so you need to get your version of events in quickly. Photos will help, not only of the damage but of the accident itself, again email them to your agent.

Home insurance claims:

Keep your receipts for everything. If you are burgled this will be the only proof that you actually owned the items that were stolen.

If your possessions are damaged by lightning, fire, flood, etc it is essential that you keep them for the assessors to inspect so that they can determine that the damage you are claiming was as a result of the specified incident. In this case photos can help but are no substitute.

GOOD ADVICE: Keep all your receipts and take photos.

Unfortunately, in a dishonest world where there are so many fraudulent claims, the assessors can't simply accept your word, if the items aren't available to be inspected your claim will likely be rejected.

In the event that they were stolen, if you cannot prove that you owned them in the first instance again the claim may be denied.

Insure In Spain was established in 2006, and has built up a reputation for great customer service and value for money policies in the expat insurance market. If you would like a quotation for home, motor, life or funeral insurance please call us on 966 482 667 or email info@insureinspain.com.

Problems with your tenant?

By Juan Angel Alvarez-Gómez
(Solicitor)

YOU own a property in Spain and have rented it out. If your tenant is not paying the rent and utility bills on time or he is reluctant to pay them at any time, you have three options:

OPTION A: Raise an action for eviction and claim the unpaid rents and utility bills.

In this particular case, you want your tenant to be evicted as he does not pay the rent and bills or he is just late in doing it. There is a swift way to sue your tenant.

First of all, you have to send him a burofax asking him to leave your property and/or pay you the outstanding rent and bills. It is advisable to send such a burofax with a proof of receipt. The post office should also certify its contents. If the tenant does not pay you after 30 days from when he receives the burofax, then you can sue him.

The judge will give the tenant 10 days to leave the property. If he does not do it, he will be forced to leave the house by means of a warrant. A court officer will fulfil the warrant. If your tenant does not leave the house, then the police can evict him.

PROBLEM TENANTS: Ensure you know your rights and the correct procedures.

If you opt for this kind of legal action, you have to be sure you will be able to get the money the tenant is owing you. Legal fees to be paid for this type of legal action are higher than the ones you would pay for a plain action for eviction.

OPTION B: Raise an action for eviction.

The way it works is very similar to option A, except you only want the tenant to be evicted. In this particular case, you are not claiming for the unpaid rent and utility bills. Legal fees to be paid are lower than the ones for option A.

OPTION C: Claim the unpaid rent and utility bills only.

In this option, you are only claiming for the unpaid rent and bills, although you would still be entitled to evict the tenant. In this case, legal fees would be lower than in option A but could be higher than in option B. The fees for option C would depend on the amount you were claiming.

Once you have decided to claim against the tenant, the following documentation would be very useful for you as evidence in a lawsuit:

-The title deeds for the property or a search note from the Land Registry office in order to prove you are the property owner.

-The rental contract signed with the tenant.

- Receipts and invoices for the unpaid rent and utility bills. If you have paid some of the utility bills during the rental contract, a bank statement from your account showing those payments would also be advisable.

- The burofax sent to the tenant.

TECH FOR THE TIMID

Smartphone stupidity

Terence Kennedy suffers a holiday property redistribution

CAN it be true that the jostling passenger who stole my phone on the packed 916 bus in Rome last month really was a Catholic priest?

Of course I ignored all the warnings about pick-pocketing in Rome. Couldn't happen to me.

Though it's unlikely to have been my priestly neighbour, I would have felt less humiliated if my phone had indeed transitioned that smoothly from my zipped pocket into the folds of a cassock as we both headed for the Vatican and redemption.

Almost half of all thefts reported now are smartphones, routed virtually anywhere in the world within days by well-oiled syndicates.

If you're insured you're in for a challenging round of musical chairs at a Local Police station to file the required report. Harbour no illusions: they almost certainly won't look for it.

But replacing the actual device is not the main issue.

Indeed it's an opportunity to buy a shiny new gadget even if it does mean living on bread and water for the next month.

PHONE FILCHING: Fifty per cent of all thefts.

Nor is it mainly about one thing many people forget: that if you don't block a lost phone immediately, the bad guys have a nasty little wheeze of using it to call premium numbers back in Desolatistan at €20+ a minute on your account, ka-ching.

Nope, it's all the confidential stuff we keep on our phones these days which hurts. Banking apps, online shopping apps, vulnerable information of every hue and cry and all those access codes.

Tackle the damage limitation and you quickly learn just how many websites simply aren't geared up for your scenario. 'Register a new phone to your account? No problem, for security reasons first send us confirmation from your old one.' Ummm....

And of course there are lessons to be learned. If only I had set up the wonderful 'find my phone' facility which both Apple and Android devices offer - before it got stolen. If only I had kept a separate note of all my online banking and other confidential information so that I would know who to call and what to say in the event of.

If only...

But look on the bright side. A third of the users in a recent US study said they would pay a thousand dollars to get their phone back. I'm not one of those people.

I would have loved to see the look of disgust when my thief realised he'd stolen a six-year old dinosaur of a phone. Heck, given time to first extract my information, I'd actually have paid him to take it.

Steal away

AS the FBI keeps discovering, current phone security erects a daunting fortress wall around your device. If you enable it.

Short of the rather uncomfortable option of cutting off your finger, thieves find a fingerprint-protected phone a nightmare to crack. Ditto a good password, and that doesn't mean 123456.

At the very least, when you get a new phone install a security app or suite which lets you wipe your phone remotely in a worst-case scenario.

Phone-tracking apps can certainly work. But if your phone is stolen, not just lost, consider very carefully what you would do if a tracker does indeed find it - in the middle of a mafia stronghold or a neighbourhood where even the shadows won't go. Good luck finding a SWAT team.

Border disorder: The Irish border

THE Bank of England's chief economist says it's possible to detect the mood of a country from the music it's listening to on Spotify. What should we be listening to at the moment, then? Billie Holiday singing Gloomy Sunday, aka the Hungarian Suicide song?

The ongoing Irish border problem, that I wrote about here recently, doesn't help. Long story short, the UK doesn't want a trade deal that aligns the UK and the EU both for customs and single market rules, but neither does it want any infrastructure along the Irish border. This is a contradictory position which the UK still hasn't been able to resolve. Basically, there are only three possible solutions. 1) The UK remains in the single market and enters into a customs union with the EU. 2) The transition period is extended indefinitely. 3) There's no withdrawal agreement, no transition period and no trade deal.

The City seems to be betting on BINO (Brexit In Name Only). Only problem is, there's no 'half-in, half-out' option. As long as the UK doesn't fully accept free movement we're no longer eligible for membership of the single market.

The same goes for the customs union: there's no half-way house. We're fully in or fully out. Since the government wants the freedom not to apply the common external tariff, we'd be fully out.

WHAT BORDER?: There is presently no infrastructure between the two jurisdictions on the island.

At the moment I'd put my money on a fudge around option 2. However, things still remain uncertain - many feel the EU's acting like a playground bully and it's time we stood up to it. And the trouble with fudge is that it's only sweet on first tasting. What lasts is the stickiness on the fingers and the cloying heaviness in the digestion. Incidentally, I have a recurrent childlike nightmare about missing my bus home from school. In psychobabble terms, I know what this relates to: fear of missing my imminent crime novel publishing deadline. I wonder if Theresa May also suffers from nightmares about missing a deadline (or two)?

Oh, and what are you listening to on Spotify?

LEGALLY SPEAKING

Do they pay wealth tax?

Q. My wife and I reside in the UK and have had a holiday home in Spain for 14 years. Our income is taxed in the UK. We pay the Suma Property Tax, the supposed Property Rental Tax, and the Waste Collection Tax. Our friends say we should also pay Wealth Tax on the property, as they all do. We have never received a request to pay the tax. Should we pay Wealth Tax or not?

TJC (Costa Blanca)

A. You are liable for Spanish Wealth Tax on any capital assets, such as a home, which you own in

David Searl

You and the Law in Spain

Spain. If you pay your Spanish taxes through Suma, you live in the Valencian Autonomous Region. Suma is their tax collection agency. In Valencia, the first €600,000 of value is exempt from Wealth Tax.

Until 2015 this exemption did not apply to non-residents and that is why your friends had to pay it from the first euro of valuation.

Now the exemption applies to non-residents.

If you and your wife are co-owners of a house valued at less than 1.2 million euros, you have no tax to pay.

I tell them what I think

Mike Senker
In my opinion

Views of a Grumpy Old Man

I BELONG to a few loyalty programmes for hotels I stay at, airlines I use, car hire I also use - eBay and Pay Pal. You get the idea. Now I've told them all that although I live in Spain I do not read Spanish, so could they please send all information to me in English. Not one of them is able to do it.

You would think, in this day and age, it would be the simplest thing to do. Vodafone is one of the biggest communication companies in the world yet they are not capable of sending me anything in English. I wonder how many English customers they have in Spain?

It's ok if I call them as I always manage to get an English-speaking operator but once you need to maybe speak to someone past them you hit a brick wall. You then have to have an operator translating for you.

What's wrong with people? Old, young, all ages but I have to admit mostly 30-40ish. It's called 'door etiquette.' Here are the rules - when a door opens you let the people out first before you go in.

It can be particularly difficult if you are in a crowded lift and you are not by the doors. The doors open - you utter a couple of excuse me's and off you go - but no, someone always tries to get in.

And another thing, when the lift is full, it's full. Wait for the next one. Don't try and squash yourself in. This also applies to trains. I had the misfortune to use one in the UK for the first time in probably 30 years. It's a joke. The doors open and it's bedlam and people just keep getting on and I was trying to get off.

I try not to take my wheelchair with me on these outings because technically I get to sit in one of the allotted seats for disabled but it is just all too difficult so next time I'll take it but, to be honest, that can be a nightmare on its own.

I take my wheelchair to the UK when I go and I have the same problem getting the courtesy bus to the car hire centre. Every time I'm struggling to get off with my wheelchair and case and people are pushing past me to get on and they do not bat an eyelid except of course until I tell them what I think of them!

So now you know!

Code Breaker

Each number in the Code Breaker grid represents a different letter of the alphabet. In this week's puzzle, 10 represents R and 23 represents V, so fill in R every time the figure 10 appears and V every time the figure 23 appears. Now, using your knowledge of the English language, work out which letters should go in the missing squares. As you discover the letters, fill in other squares with the same number in the main grid and the control grid.

YOUR STARS FOR NEXT 7 DAYS

AQUARIUS
(January 21 - February 19)

A meeting involving business with a senior person brings great benefits. You are wrong to be afraid of asking for what you want because it is necessary. Do not bottle things up. Consider that you have little to lose. When dealing with legal matters, you are well advised to read the small print and look at the timescales

LEO
(July 24 - August 23)

Being at odds with someone close has given you pause for thought. This would be a good time to change the situation for the better. Offering the olive branch is your best approach, but be sure that you are sincere. Sometimes, you are a book easily read.

PISCES
(February 20 - March 20)

A recent journey has revealed possibilities. It is in this week that you will realise their potential. Nowhere is this truer than your romantic life, which is on the up. Someone who would not normally attract you comes into your sphere or may have done so last week.

VIRGO
(August 24 - September 23)

Such a time of expansion comes rarely, but now you are being handed opportunities. Be sure to make the most of them by being organised enough to take full advantage. With your energy high, you are in a position to steam ahead with plans. Should others feel left out you can find a place for them.

ARIES
(March 21 - April 20)

A strong romantic flow to your week could be interrupted. This is because there are some business matters that really do need your attention. Although it is not a particularly good time to make firm financial commitments, there are areas to work on. These are mainly associated with saving money and reorganising.

LIBRA
(September 24 - October 23)

Having had such a busy time recently you may be craving a quiet period. I am afraid this will have to wait at the moment. Small snatches at tranquillity are possible but the pressure is still on.

TAURUS
(April 21 - May 21)

This really is a week to get to grips with any healthy eating or exercise regimes. Owing to the influence of Mars, you are in a vigorous and determined mood. You find that your added confidence and healthy glow are attractive to the opposite sex.

SCORPIO
(October 24 - November 22)

Have you been too busy to spend time on yourself? Get your looks and health back on track by using this week to good effect. Revamp your diet and exercise as required. Spend time with people who are supportive and share the same interests.

GEMINI
(May 22 - June 21)

This is a spiritual week and you will be likely to want comfort. Give yourself time alone to look at the world around you and enjoy what it has to offer. As the weekend approaches, you will be able to get more into the mainstream and enjoy the company of others.

SAGITTARIUS
(November 23 - December 21)

Some difficulty in your love life will need to be handled carefully. Unforeseen developments could take you by surprise (especially if you haven't read this in time). Your need is to avoid telling white lies to get out of a situation. Given time, most situations in this category will ease.

CANCER
(June 22 - July 23)

All may not be what it seems this week and you need to be a little more realistic. This is particularly true when it comes to romance and close ties. Having the wool pulled over your eyes is not desirable and could even see you trip up. A different kind of trip, possibly over a long distance, may bring you face to face with an old friend or relative.

CAPRICORN
(December 22 - January 20)

Meetings and travel dominate this week. Being with those who stimulate and inform will be even more worthwhile than usual. A trip that you are not looking forward to can bring added bonuses. Looking to further education at this time, could see you starting a course.

Kakuro

Fill all the empty squares using the numbers 1 to 9, so that the sum of each horizontal block equals the 'clue' on its left, and the sum of each vertical block equals the clue on its top. No number may be used in the same block more than once.

Nonagram

How many English words of four letters or more can you make from the nine letters in our Nonagram puzzle? Each letter may be used only once (unless the letter appears twice). Each word MUST CONTAIN THE CENTRE LETTER (in this case R) and there must be AT LEAST ONE NINE LETTER WORD. Plurals, vulgarities or proper nouns are not allowed.

Impressed by the kindness of Mojacar

I WOULD like to say how impressed I was with the kindness of two Spanish people and the Local Police who helped an elderly Scottish couple.

They had left the lady's bag containing their documents, passports, money etc on a bus from Las Roquetas, which they got off in Mojacar

The bus had continued its journey stopping at Vera en route to its final destination in Murcia. The two Spanish people, a lady and gentleman who were not connected to each other helped to reassure and calm the elderly lady who was quite distraught. They tried to contact the bus company and when this was not successful they then contacted the Local Police, who came and spoke to the elderly couple taking details of the bus and where they were seated.

Officers then arranged with their colleagues in Vera to collect the bag off the bus when it stopped there.

The happy ending was the very relieved Scottish couple were united with their bag and its contents at the Local Police Station in Vera. They then returned to Mojacar to enjoy the rest of their day.

Very well done all concerned.

Barry Tynan, Mojacar

Phone company neglect seems to be constant

I THOUGHT that you might like to see a picture of a phone junction box that has been open to the elements for at least the last three years we have been going to the Jalon Valley.

It appears from older photographs that it was 2015 when it had a cover fitted.

It's a wonder that the phones work in Spain as this is typical of telecommunication company standards.

We have a junction box on a pole by us that has been open for the 18 years we have lived here.

Tony, Jalon Valley

JUNCTION BOX: Open to the elements for three years.

Pussy plea

IT has been both frustrating and heart-breaking dealing with nasty people.

We have cried so many tears and felt so much anger.

I would like to know what so many people in Salou have against defenceless cats. We have never witnessed such hostility and cruelty in one place.

My husband and I feed stray homeless cats every day. These cats are innocent and beautiful. They ask for so little. A bit of food, a little affection.

What does it cost to be kind?

There have been kittens that were poisoned and left to suffer and die and there have been teenagers who go and terrify cats just for fun.

What has become of a society that brings up children with no conscience?

Thank God there are people out there that care. SOS Gatos is one such organisation. We strongly encourage you to support them.

It takes so little to make such a big difference in these little angels' lives.

When we lose our ability for compassion we lose our humanity.

Paul & Lorna DeCouto, Salou

Brexit Bible

I READ with interest Colin MacGregor's letter where he states that his reason for moving from the UK to Spain was because the former follows EU rules whereas the latter ignores them.

It reminded me of a conversation with an elderly English visitor to the Costa del Sol who was amazed to see orange trees full of fruit growing in the streets.

He wondered how the Spanish got away with it, because in England the EU had made a village cut down all its apple trees as they deemed falling fruit to be a danger to life.

He knew this was true because he had read it in his Brexit Bible... the Daily Mail. This one is so ridiculous it doesn't even make the Euro-myths Debunked list (mostly quotes by the Sun, Mail and Boris Johnson).

The aforementioned tabloids are virtually the only ones on sale here and so are the daily diet of 'expats,' a large proportion of whom soak up their propaganda agenda and would have voted 'Leave.'

However, in contrast to Colin, I would prefer to believe the Euro Weekly News statistics that the majority voted 'Remain,' as surely they would have been aware of the staggering irony/hypocrisy of voting for the UK to leave the EU when they themselves are reaping the benefit of freedom of movement.

Brit expats charged with hate crimes

Shame on the Mallorca officials for even giving these thieves the time of day. This is in no way a race crime, just concerned residents wanting to keep us all safe as the police seem unable to do this.

Mary Willoughby

Yup the race card again, but police should fingerprint them, are they legally in the country paying taxes etc? Spain needs to be like America or Australia only in to work via a visa if they have money to support themselves and medical insurance.

Marie Ross Main

So it's not OK to protest against those who rob and attack people? I wonder how many of the sex workers have been arrested or is prostitution legal in Spain?

Comments from EWN online

Most appalling service from this mob, I agree some will moan but continue to use, I just don't use them. They specialise in taking more off you when you can't do much about it.

"The whole thing has been a ludicrous farce." Yep, that sums up Ryanair precisely. Also O'Leary in particular.

I had a similar problem, flown out with the name showing Bill on ticket, back from Spain said it showed William, they wanted €200 to change it had Mexican stand off before common sense prevailed.

Health board warns of cockroach plague

I use bay leaves in my cupboards and around my home. They hate bay leaf!

Also last year in the corners of my garden I placed tall jars lined with olive oil quarter filled with red wine and brown sugar... They love it... They crawl in and because of the oil can't get out!!! Not usually so cruel but I can't deal with cockroaches.

Kim Foster

Yuk, my pet hate. I had them in a rental in Mojacar in winter!!! Had to buy all sorts of stuff to get rid of them, they came up the old drains and lived in the downstairs loo.

Quite right! I would have got off as well. Good on him to pursue them - they are idiots as paying up would have put them in a really positive light and now they have managed to damage their reputation. Not sure who does their PR but they want retraining!

When a health scan discovers and predicts diseases

MEDICAL diagnostics has advanced tremendously in the past decades. It may not be obvious judging from what orthodox medicine has to offer.

The reality is that conventional medical tests and scans such as blood tests, X-rays, CT-scans etc are more or less outdated. They are invasive, risky, inaccurate and limited in the level of detail they can reveal.

Another shortcoming of conventional medical diagnosis is that they only examine areas of the body related to the presenting symptom, rather than the whole body. The reality is that the entire body requires a thorough examination to determine the exact cause of an illness.

The advanced diagnostic technology of today examines the whole body in accurate detail to determine a person's state of health. In one go, it is possible to examine all organs and systems in the body, check for the presence of viruses, bacteria and fungus, perform food allergy tests, as well as many other checks to determine the likely diseases occurring and their causes.

Such comprehensive analysis of the body is carried out by reading and analysing electromagnetic frequencies that emanate from the human body.

As far back as the 1920's, the prominent scientist Niels Bohr (regarded as the father of quantum physics), discovered that every cell or tissue in the body generates unique and measurable frequencies.

He determined that these frequencies or vibrations will change depending on the state of health of the cells and organs. Healthy cells and organs have a different frequency or vibration from diseased organs. Even more importantly, he postulated that these vibrations would change long before symptoms of diseases start to occur in the body. Since then many studies have confirmed his theory.

The leading technology in this field of advanced medical diagnostics is called Sensitiv Imago. Sensitiv Imago was first used in the 1980's for Russian astronauts.

Since then it has transformed into the most advanced medical diagnostic technology of our time. Unlike other scans such as CT-scans that emit deadly X-rays, Sensitiv Imago is completely safe, non-invasive and has an accuracy of 96 per cent.

The computerised scan is performed in a comfortable reclining chair while information from the body is recorded with the help of a headset, an optical scanner and handheld electrodes. The scan takes 45 minutes to analyse over 180 different areas of the body and generate a detailed medical report.

The report from the scan not only shows the actual diseases present but most importantly the cause of the disease.

When the cause of a disease is determined, it becomes possible to heal the body, rather than treating symptoms which provide short term relief while the condition worsens.

MedB, a registered health clinic in Costa Blanca has used Sensitiv Imago since 2012 for advanced medical diagnostics and has provided excellent healthcare to thousands of satisfied patients from all over the world.

To book an advanced whole-body scan with Sensitiv Imago call MedB clinic on 965 071 745 or 966 189 074. Or visit the website www.medb.es.

Be treated as part of the family by Carredent

ESTABLISHED in Torrevieja for more than a decade, Carredent Dental Practice is owned and run by husband and wife team, Ian and Alison Smith.

Ian studied dentistry at Liverpool University for five years while Alison is a qualified oral health educator, radiographer and dental nurse.

The couple owned a large family practice in Manchester for 10 years before moving to Spain in 2004 where they set up Carredent which is opposite Carrefour in Torrevieja.

Since then they have dedicated themselves to serving an international client base offering the latest equipment and services in the dental world at affordable prices with a fully qualified professional and friendly team.

Their family-run dental clinic focuses on being just that; a family practice where you are treated as a member of the family and where focus is given on creating a welcoming atmosphere and professional, gentle, one-to-one care.

The practice is fully legal and registered with the Valencian health authority and Sanidad and their prices follow the guidelines set out in the association of Alicante dentists so patients can rest assured they are not being overcharged.

The practice specialises in cosmetic dentistry such as crowns, dentures, white fillings, bridges, porcelain veneers and bleaching.

People seek cosmetic dentistry for a variety of reasons. The truth is most people would like their teeth to be straighter, whiter, and pleasing to the eye when they smile and by fixing and repairing what they dislike can boost their self-esteem, positively impacting both personal and professional relationships.

Recognising that not everyone is comfortable with a trip to the dentist, Ian is renowned for his careful and gentle treatment of nervous patients.

Contrary to popular belief root canals and most procedures are painless and there is nothing to fear as you are in the hands of caring and certified professionals, but recognising not everyone is comfortable with a trip to the dentist, the team put every patient at ease from the moment they walk through the door.

Practice manager, Alison said: "We pride ourselves on our excellent standards of pain-free work and we have glasses where patients can watch a DVD during longer treatment sessions so they can feel more comfortable."

They use a state of the art dental chair fully equipped with a digital X-ray monitor and only the most modern and effective techniques and procedures.

Same day emergency appointments are available and a same day service is offered for denture repairs.

To book an appointment call 965 711 797 or 638 608 532. Carredent is open Monday, Tuesday and Thursday from 8.30am to 12.45pm and 1.30pm to 5pm and Wednesday and Friday from 8.30am to 12.30pm.

DODGY STOMACH: Take a few precautions to stay healthy.

Keeping healthy

IF you're in Spain on holiday, or perhaps heading away, then you might be wondering what precautions you can take to avoid an upset stomach.

The nasties that can cause such trouble are hiding in contaminated food such as raw or undercooked meat, eggs, fresh produce, dairy products, and water.

Because of this, it's generally advised not to drink tap water. Remember too that the sauces available with your food in certain restaurants may have been watered down using tap water.

Ensure everything you eat is hot and has been cooked at the right temperature. This will ensure that there is no bacteria present. Try to avoid salads or food that has been sitting outside and also try to avoid uncooked seafood as this is a common culprit in many developed countries, including Spain.

Look around and take note of where the locals eat. You can rest assured that a business that constantly attracts the locals has food which is worth returning for.

And before you eat, always wash your hands with hot water and soap. This is another effective way of preventing sickness on holiday.

If you eat fruit, avoid eating the skin of the fruit. It's best to eat fruit which has a peelable skin, such as bananas.

If you do get food poisoning, you will know. The main symptoms of food poisoning are diarrhoea and vomiting, which may be accompanied by fevers and shivers. In addition to this, food poisoning can cause you to have stomach ache, fatigue, headaches and muscle aches.

If you experience any of these, drink as much (non-alcoholic!) fluid as possible.

SUCH news might not even bat an eyelid in Asia, but news has emerged that you might actually have been eating insects your whole life.

It appears that one of the most widely used food colourings used to create pink, orange, purple and red is actually made from squashed bugs.

The insects are called cochineal, are native to Latin America, and they live on cacti.

They are mostly farmed in Peru where millions are pro-cessed every year to produce the colouring. According to the Peruvian Embassy to the UK, the country has a 95 per cent share of the international market.

These days, carmine is added to an endless number of food items including juices, ice creams, yoghurts and sweets. In fact, many UK products such as Mr Kipling cakes and Bachelor soups use carmine.

However, given the increasing number of people who are choosing to go vegan or be ethical consumers, companies are having to respond and adapt to evolving consumer habits. One such company is Starbucks which has stopped using carmine.

Yet, if you want to make the choice to avoid these insects in your diet, it might prove more difficult than you imagine. The word 'carmine' isn't listed on food products, instead you'll have to search for 'natural red four,' 'crimson lake' or just E120.

And if you really want to save this little critters, you'll also have to be more selective on what eye shadow and lipstick you chose, as many cosmetic products also use these squashed bugs for colouring.

PERHAPS a great surprise and disappointment to many, but tight swimming trunks have just been voted as the UK's 'most hated clothing.'

Often simply referred to as Speedos or budgie smugglers, these wardrobe must-haves are essentially a pair of tightly-fitted swimming trunks.

They were originally de-

Something for the imagination?

signed in the 1960s to reduce drag and give extra support and comfort to competitive swimmers. And they have continued to be proudly worn by strapping athletes around the world for decades.

However, it seems the average Brit is not quite so ready to fit the mould and would rather prefer to leave a little something to the imagination.

In the recent YouGov survey, almost seven out of 10 Brits said they disliked the trunks, with more women than men against them, at 74 per cent.

Yet, these opinions aren't held across the whole of Europe. In Spain, Speedos continue to be hugely popular and in France it's even obligatory for men to wear the tight trunks in most public pools.

TIGHT FIT: Some men love the extra support that budgie smugglers provide.

Staying safe in the sun

WITH temperatures really beginning to rise now is the time to take some advice about how to protect yourself from unwanted sunburn and decrease your chances of developing skin cancer in the future.

When you're out and about wear protective clothing. It may be hot, but there's no reason not to don a pair of linen pants, a long sleeved silk shirt or a straw hat. The great thing about hats, apart from being a fabulous fashion accessory, is that their wide brims will cover your face as well as your ears and scalp.

And don't leave home without your sunglasses. These will protect your eyes from the UV rays which can cause eye problems. Always buy sunglasses that blocks as close to 100 per cent as possible of UVB and UVA rays. If you can, restrict your time outside in the sun, particular around the hours of midday.

If you are out during these hours make use of any shade offered. Don't forget to put sunscreen on before you leave the house and reapply it as necessary during the day. Cover every part of your body which will be exposed to the sun. Taking these few steps can help to reduce your chances of developing skin cancer and lessen premature signs of ageing.

HOT IN THE SUN: Wearing a hat and shades will offer you extra protection.

FILL UP: A full English breakfast is just what the doctor ordered after all.

Out of sync

YOUR body clock may have synchronised with the eating habits in Spain, but scientists are now questioning if late evening meals are actually stopping us from shedding those extra pounds.

Instead, recommendations might be made that we should be shifting our mealtimes to earlier in the day.

Scientists researching this connection between eating and our body clocks are trying to establish the eating times which are more beneficial for us and our health. The connection between the two has become known as 'chrono-nutrition.' This research will also look at how our internal rhythms are affected by our eating habits.

It is understood that in each 24-hour cycle our body has optimum times when we should be doing things, including eating. And so far the research suggests that the late meal enjoyed by virtually everyone in Spain is, metabolically speaking, not the right thing to do.

Although it isn't entirely understood why, results indicate that our bodies don't process food in the evening as well as they do in the morning. Fully understanding this link could have big implications in allowing us to tackle the obesity problem in both the UK and Spain, among many other countries. In fact, perhaps the full English breakfast first thing in the morning is actually much better for you than a platter of Spanish tapas followed by paella last thing at night!

London Fashion Week

IF you have your finger on the pulse of men's fashion then you won't need to be reminded that London Fashion Week Men's will step out onto the catwalk this weekend (Friday to Monday).

This is the mid-year fashion show which has become one of the highest profile fashion events in the world and one of the big four international catwalk influencers.

The event will showcase the best of British mens-wear design and visitors will be able to enjoy catwalk shows, presentations, multi-brand and individual showrooms and other supporting activities.

In addition to the official and off-schedule events, LFW has become a focus for a broader base of fashion linked activities with international designers, media and other high profile brands choosing to host their own events.

One of the up and coming names to look out for this year is Astrid Andersen.

This London-based brand creates premium casual-wear with a sports inspired aesthetic that intends to create a new generation in menswear.

If you don't want to miss it, the event takes place in the BFC Show-space, 180 The Strand, London and tickets can be purchased at www.londonfashionweekfestival.com

If you can't make it, book your tickets now for the London fashion festival to be held from September 20 to 23.

CATWALK COOL: The Astrid Andersen collection will certainly draw your attention.

ORPHEUS MUSIC CHOIR: Don't miss this opportunity to see them perform.

Choral collections

THE Orpheus music choir will perform choral versions of popular music at the Victor Villegas Auditorium in Murcia on Sunday June 17.

The evening's collection is entitled 'En Clave de Soul' and will include a selection of well-known spiritual, jazz and pop songs.

Directed by Javier Mondejar and accompanied by Carlos Vivanco on piano, the choir will begin by performing spiritual songs such as My soul's been anchored in the Lord, Give me Jesus, Hear my prayer and Were you there. This will be followed by jazz classics such as I love Paris, Autumn leaves, Goodnight my angel and In my life.

In the third and final part of the concert, the choir will perform songs from the shows, including the most well-known songs from The Phantom of the Opera, West Side Story, Breakfast at Tiffany's, Les Miserables and The Wizard of Oz.

Tickets are on sale now and cost €6. For more information, please visit www.murciaauditorium.com.

Asian Tapas Route

A NEW culinary route is currently running until June 17 in Los Alzacaes. Instead of the usual tapas offered as part of the annual spring tapas route, the bars and restaurants taking part will be offering an Asiatico coffee (€2) or a sweet dessert style dish (€3.50). Some of the bars will also have special offers under the heading of 'tardeo,' or going out late.

Even though the style of food is different this year, the tapas route itself takes the standard format. Simply collect a route map from participating eateries, from the town hall or from the tourist information office. Once you are equipped with this information you can then seek out the location of the tapas that you would like to try.

Make sure you ask for your route card to be stamped once you have purchased your tapas. You can visit as few or as many of the establishments as you like, and return time and time again!

Once you have visited at least 10 establishments and received your stamp as proof of purchase, you have the chance to win prizes in a draw and vote for the best place.

All bars and restaurants taking place in the tapas route will be serving these tapas from 4pm to 8pm every day during the event, unless specified otherwise on the card.

Argentine rock group

BERSUIT VERGARABAT will be performing this Saturday at Las Cigarreras Cultural centre, Alicante, Spain.

Bersuit Vergarabat is an Argentine rock group from Buenos Aires, formed in 1988.

They combine Latin American rhythms, such as tango and reggae, and couple these with anti-establishment lyrics.

Because of the nature of their lyrics, their work has been censored in the past.

Despite of, or because of, this censorship, their popularity grew and they became one of the most important groups of Argentine rock and one of the most important in Latin America.

The band is known for the very unique way it dresses at its concerts, wearing such things as pajamas to represent inmates in a psychiatric hospital.

Eat Well to Live Well

by Andrew Harding

Ideal for a dinner party

FIDDLY BUT WORTH IT: Chicken Milanese.

6 whole garlic cloves, skinned & chopped
1 large red pepper seeded and chopped
1 bunch of fresh basil
1 teaspoon of celery salt
2 chicken stock cubes crumbled

To finish

Juice from two whole lemons
200g buffalo mozzarella cheese
Salt and pepper, to taste

1) Cut the gristly bits off the chicken and flatten. Pre-heat fan oven to 200°C, or in a conventional oven at 220°C.

2) Take three shallow bowls, put the flour

THIS week my recipe is Chicken Milanese. It is a little fiddly to make but well worth the effort and is ideal for a dinner party as all the preparation can be carried out beforehand, leaving time to entertain your guests. Personally, I like this dish served with broccoli steamed in the microwave and pasta spirals, but roasted gnocchi will also work well.

Chicken Milanese

Serves 6

6 whole chicken breasts, no skin, no bone flattened

3 tablespoons plain white flour,

3 whole eggs, beaten

3 teaspoons garlic puree

300g bread crumbs

6 tablespoons olive oil

For the sauce

3 cans tomatoes, coarsely chopped

2 tablespoons olive oil

Tip: Use kitchen scissors for trimming chicken, it is a lot easier than using a knife and less hazardous.

Tip: Flatten the chicken breasts with an empty or unopened bottle of wine to avoid the risk of contaminating a wooden rolling pin with salmonella bacteria. Likewise use polythene chopping boards.

in the first, the beaten egg in the second add the garlic puree and stir until completely mixed, add the breadcrumbs to the third bowl.

3) Dredge the chicken breasts in the flour until they are fully coated, then likewise in the egg and finally in the breadcrumbs.

4) Put the olive oil into a baking tin or dish and make sure the chicken breasts are completely coated in the olive oil.

5) Bake for 20-30 minutes until they are completely cooked.

6) Make the sauce, by frying the garlic in olive oil until it is transparent on a medium heat.

7) Add the chopped tomatoes, red pepper, basil, celery salt, and chicken stock.

8) Blend and heat through in a saucepan, add the lemon juice and put to one side.

9) Slice the buffalo mozzarella and place on top of the cooked chicken breasts, put back in the oven and allow the cheese to melt.

10) Place the chicken breasts on plates with the sauce to one side and serve.

Tip: To make sure chicken (or pork) is properly cooked, tap it with the back of a metal spoon, if the resulting sound is soft, the meat will be, if it sounds like tapping wood it is cooked through.

Hint: Place as many of the breasts as possible in each bowl to coat them rather than multi-coating each breast one at a time.

A €4.5 million mill mansion

A WINEMAKER husband and his actress wife have turned a centuries-old water mill into a luxury five-bedroom mansion.

Max Hernandez, a former entrepreneur, and his wife, retired screen star Silvia Hernandez, were motivated by a desire to be near Madrid but not part of the bustle.

The couple have turned the mill, which used to grind grain, into a 6,200 square foot mansion with nearly seven lush acres, with a pool, custom greenhouse, garden and a private forest.

An additional guesthouse, fashioned out of a wood shed, has a bedroom, bathroom and even a gym.

Now that Max and Silvia's son, Oliver is 18 and going to university in the UK, the estate is now on the market for a cool €4.5 million.

Clearly such high-end suburban living is hard to come by in Madrid, and affluent homeowners generally choose between old-fashioned apartment living in the heart of the city, and new villas on the outskirts in gated communities.

When the couple bought the former mill in 1999 for €400,000, the previous owner had already converted it into a single family home, but it looked nothing like its current grandiose splendour.

They purchased more land surrounding the property and spent a further €1.3 million on gutting the house, adding new heating, windows, floors and an outdoor pool. "We only kept the walls and the roof," said Max, who completed the home in spring 2001.

They also have an eclectic taste in vintage furniture, ranging from Belgian art deco to South African art deco to Spanish mid-century modern.

In keeping with their successful exploits so far, the couple plan to construct a 12,000 square foot mansion in the foothills of Valencia, out of a derelict multi-family farmhouse.

Investors turn to student digs

REAL ESTATE investors are turning to Spain's burgeoning student accommodation sector in these demand-heavy times.

Spain has seen a dramatic increase in the number of people going to university, and given a marked rise in the population of the demographic, the development of purpose-built accommodation is booming.

So far however, the number of developments has not been enough to cover the shortfall, with students (as many as 380,000) unable to secure a place at a student residence.

Nick Wride, Head of Living and Alternatives at Jones Lang

La Salle, said: "In mature student housing markets like the UK and Germany, returns are being squeezed, whereas Spain offers very good student-to-bed ratios and attractive yields."

Up until 18 months ago the focus was on Madrid and Barcelona, but investors are now looking towards undersupplied regional cities such as Valencia, Granada, Malaga, Pamplona and Salamanca.

HOMES & GARDENSGRAEME TYRRELL

MIMICKING nature's valuable lessons to protect the garden ecology.

If you look at the way nature grows her gardens, you will see that all good soil zones have a complete coverage of the soil with plants. Any area of good soil that has sunlight and some moisture will have plants growing with a complete ground cover. It is natural that the soil is completely covered with plants, plant debris or stones.

In ornamental and vegetable gardens we often design the garden to have big gaps between the plants we are trying to grow that has just bare soil in between. This is quite contrary to nature's way.

Bare spaces give a satisfaction of us being in control of the garden to do just what we want but it also means that we have a lot of weeding or cultivating to do to keep the soil bare as nature struggles to protect the soil with new plant cover or weeds, which is what we usually call unwanted plants.

With the long, hot Mediterranean summer, the consequence of the unnaturally bare soil exposed directly to the sun is overheating of

Ground covers

Credit: Tomandy Shutterstock

NATURE'S WAY: Ground cover plants and mulch will protect your soil.

the soil that destroys, at the surface, the living organisms that maintain a living soil.

This overheating in summer and extreme cold exposure in winter on bare soil results in depletion of nutrients. Nitrogen evaporates in high temperatures and the lack of microbial activity to decompose any organic material in the soil will mean little nutrient renewal through natural processes.

The short term result can be improved nutrient release as the organic microorganisms die, but long term the soil will become just a mineral soil with little organic content. The soil will become less fertile and unable to grow most plants that need high organic content. Mediterranean soils are normally low in organic content because of the hot summers.

This can be overcome with the addition of organic fertiliser, but if you want to reduce your workload in the garden you can adopt ground covers to make gardening easier. Ground cover can be a mulch of organic materials such as compost, straw, leaves, chipped wood or even inorganic stones laid on the surface of the soil to protect it.

An even better way however is to design the garden to incorporate ground cover plants that will grow and spread out over the soil to protect it and naturally supply additional plant debris to the soil.

A well chosen ground cover will spread out over the soil to insulate, suppress many weeds, preserve moisture and add more life and colour to a garden. In small gardens that will fill up every inch or centimetre of the garden around their taller companions.

A tree can be highlighted by being surrounded by a flowering or lush green ground cover. Shrub bed bushes can be tied in wonderfully with a well selected ground cover planting.

There are so many different plants that can be used as ground cover. Any trailing or spreading plant that does not grow upright but tends to grow horizontally can be used. Creeping or spreading succulents make excellent ground covers where watering is kept to a minimum.

It is best to use ground covers with similar watering and soil needs to their companions in the garden. This is how nature makes her gardens.

Buckingham Palace

TODAY, war pensioners and service personnel will have the privileged opportunity to enjoy the gardens at Buckingham Palace as they celebrate their 'Not Forgotten Association Garden Party.'

This annual event brings together more than 2,000 beneficiaries who will be able to take some inspiration, and perhaps even a naughty cutting, from the flowers and plants that fill the royal gardens.

The royal garden itself is a 40-acre walled oasis and the largest private garden in the city of London. The central feature is a three-acre lake, but attendees will also be able to marvel at the 156-metre long herbaceous border, the wisteria-clad summerhouse, the rose garden, and a 4.5-metre high Waterloo vase carved from a single piece of marble weighing an estimated 20 tons.

Although the queen has admitted that she's not an expert gardener, she has said that plants, trees and flowers have been a source of pleasure for her throughout her life. Some of her favourite flowers can be found throughout the gardens.

In particular, the queen has revealed that her favourite flower is the primrose, and she is also partially fond of wildflowers.

If you'd like to enjoy the royal gardens then you can do so. Access to the gardens is included in the Buckingham Palace tours.

YOUR relationship with your dog is special. You are responsible for its care and welfare. Eventually there comes a most difficult life or death decision for the welfare of the animal and for you and your family.

The decision is a personal

port you. Consider not only what is best for your dog, but also what is best for you and your family. Quality of life is important for pets and people alike.

If your dog can no longer enjoy the things which once gave it pleasure, or if there is more pain than quality in its life, if your dog is terminally ill or critically injured, or if the financial or emotional cost of treatment is beyond your means, euthanasia may be the only option.

It also might be necessary if a dog has become vicious, dangerous, or unmanageable, but remember some undesirable and abnormal behaviour can be changed with a qualified behaviourist.

Economic and emotional problems together with changes in lifestyle may also force an owner to consider euthanasia of a dog. Obviously it is better to find another solution or an alternative home for these pets.

Your vet understands attachment to pets and can examine and evaluate your dog's condition, estimate your dog's chances for recovery, discuss potential disabilities and long-term problems, explain the medical options and possible outcomes. But he cannot make the euthanasia decision for you.

It is very important that you fully understand your dog's condition. If there is any part of the diagnosis or the implications for your dog's future that you don't understand, ask to have it explained again. Rarely will the situation require an immediate decision. Usually, there will be time to review the facts.

Eventually you may wish to discuss the disposal of your dog's body with your family and vet. You have several options and your vet can provide information about burial, cremation or other alternatives.

Discuss with the family what the vet has said. Long-term medical care could be a burden, either emotionally or financially. Encourage family members to express their thoughts and feelings. Even if you have reached a decision, family members, especially children, should have their feelings considered.

Children have special relationships with their pets. Excluding or protecting children from this decision-making process, because they are thought to be too young to understand, may only complicate their grieving. Children respect straightforward, truthful, and simple answers. If they are prepared adequately, they are usually able to accept a dog's death.

Euthanasia is almost always accomplished by injection of a death-inducing drug. Your vet may administer a tranquilliser first to relax your dog. Following the death-inducing injection, your dog will immediately go into a quiet and irreversible deep unconsciousness. Death will be quick and painless.

The act of saying goodbye is an important step in managing the natural and healthy feelings of grief, sorrow, and sense of loss. Your dog is an important part of your life and it is natural to feel you are losing a friend.

Once the decision for euthanasia has been made, you and other family members may want to say goodbye to your dog.

MOTORING FACT

Most new cars that are produced would not usually make any real noise, so the sound they make is artificially generated through speakers.

A 1965 JAGUAR E-type raced by Sir Stirling Moss is shortly to be auctioned, and is expected to sell for between €125,000 and €150,000.

Although Moss started his career as a Jaguar works driver, with successes in XK120s and C-types, he never competed in an E-type during its heyday.

The car being auctioned started life as a standard E-type Roadster and was converted to a road-legal racer by marque specialist Jeremy Broad in the 1980's.

It was loaned to Sir Stirling Moss in 1991 to compete in the Manx Mountain Challenge, in the process becoming the first E-type that Moss drove competitively.

car at RAC Woodcote Park near Epsom, Surrey, says the car features many original components, including an aluminium bonnet fabricated by Abbey Panels.

It also has a 4.2 litre version of the classic Jaguar XK straight-six engine, which powered the Coventry cars from 1949 to 1992, driving through a five-speed Getrag gearbox.

The car was later raced by Le Mans and touring car legend Win Percy, who qualified third in the special 40th anniversary race for E-types at Donington Park in 2001.

Among the 54 other lots in the H&H sale is a modern recreation of the famed 1973 BMW CSL touring car racer, nicknamed the Batmobile due to its outrageous wings and bulbous bodywork.

ROAD TEST

by Nick Fletcher

THE Mazda MX-5 RF is a head-turning version of its soft-top stable-mate, offering a powered hardtop instead of the usual fabric roof and providing better security and more refinement.

The RF certainly attracts attention with its supercar-style buttress rear fins and most people who asked me about it thought it cost far more than it actually does!

Mazda designers deserve much praise for such arresting styling - and unusually, the folding roof doesn't reduce the available boot space which at 130 litres was small anyway.

Other than the hardtop feature, the RF is essentially the same as the standard MX-5, which in almost 30 years of production has become the two-seater sports car icon.

The RF is priced from €25,643 (£22,496) in 131 hp 1.5 litre form though the version I tested had the 2.0 litre 158 hp engine and in entry-level SEL Nav trim is priced at €27,126 (£23,795). Top speed is 215 kph (134 mph), the 0-100 kph time a crisp 7.4 seconds. Fuel consumption is 14.4 kpl (40.9 mpg) and emissions 161 g/km.

SE L Nav models come with climate and cruise control, power windows, remote central locking, alloys wheels, LED headlamps, an 18cm (seven-inch) screen and connected infotainment system and sat-nav.

The wrap-around cabin is a cosy fit, with minimal stowage space - no door pockets, no glove-box, just a small lockable compartment behind the seats. But none of this matters much as the car attracts carefree buyers who will fling a small hold-all into the boot and zoom off for a fun weekend in the countryside or on the coast.

Mazda has upgraded the cabin materials and together with the new styling, the RF has more kudos and a more up-market appearance.

Underway, it is quick and nimble and with the roof closed, more quiet and refined. Handling is assured, ride quality decent by sports car standards. Overall the RF provides fun driving with an engaging panache which some of its more expensive rivals may find hard to match.

Driverless cars will kill says official

A FORMER highways agency chief who served under Barack Obama has said it is inevitable that driverless cars will kill people on the road.

Dr Mark Rosekind, the former US highway traffic safety administrator warned 'there will be some lives lost' as tech companies and car manufacturers experiment with autonomous vehicles.

However, he insisted that their introduction will eventually lead to much safer streets in the future.

Discussing the future of transport on BBC Radio 4, he said: "Unfortunately there will be crashes. People are going to get hurt and there will be some lives lost." Despite this, he added that businesses and regulators, "should really be focused on the potential for zero deaths on our roadways."

The technology industry is locked in a debate surrounding the ethics of releasing autonomous systems 'into the wild.'

Hamilton could quit F1 in 2020

LEWIS HAMILTON could sensationally quit Formula 1 in 2020, according to commentator and former F1 driver, David Coulthard.

Hamilton's current contract expires at the end of the year but soon he is expected to pen a lucrative two-year extension.

That would take him to the end of the 2020 season, which will align with when Liberty Media are planning to make vast changes to the sport in a bid to make it more competitive.

Coulthard thinks Hamilton, who would be 35 years old then, could call time on his racing career to focus on releasing his first music album.

"I think it's got to be on his mind," Coulthard said on BBC Radio 2's Graham Norton Show on Saturday.

"I think he'll go to 2020 which is the end of the current Concorde agreement, but beyond that there is every likelihood he will be releasing his first album."

Hamilton is currently leading the Driver's Championship this season as he searches for his fifth world title.

Asked who he felt may be in line to take Hamilton's place at Mercedes, Coulthard suggested reigning GP3 champion George Russell.

"He's with Mercedes as a reserve driver, so he wouldn't be known internationally," Coulthard said.

"But he's certainly someone that has got skills, talent and potential."

MUSICAL MOTORIST: Hamilton is said to be working on an album.

Lorenzo rides high in Italy

SPAIN'S Jorge Lorenzo claimed his first win for Ducati at the Italian Grand Prix as championship leader Marc Marquez crashed out at the Mugello circuit.

Three-time champion Lorenzo has struggled since leaving Yamaha in 2016 but beat teammate Andrea Dovizioso into second.

Seven-time world champion Valentino Rossi became the first rider to reach 5,000 points in MotoGP with third.

"I said that winning at Mugello with Ducati was a dream for me," said Lorenzo, who has retired from two races this season.

"It's one of the most special wins of my entire career."

Moments later though, he signalled what many had suspected: that he would be leaving the Ducati team at the end of the season.

Marc Marquez crashed before finishing 16th in Tuscany, though he remains comfortably clear of the standings after five races.

The Spaniard had been bidding for his fourth straight win this season but fell off his Honda on the fifth lap.

Rossi moves up into second in the standings, 23 points behind Marquez, with Yamaha team-mate Maverick Vinales in third.

Fury to go on Seferi

FORMER world heavyweight boxing champion Tyson Fury will return to the ring for the first time in nearly 1,000 days when he faces Albania's Sefer Seferi in Manchester on Saturday.

The 29-year-old has not fought since reaching his 'Everest' by claiming the IBF, WBA, and WBO titles from Wladimir Klitschko in November 2015.

Since that triumph Fury has admitted to taking drugs, binge drinking and going to sleep hoping he wouldn't wake up.

He relinquished his titles and tested positive for a banned steroid, something he blamed on eating uncastrated wild boar.

"I am living proof that anyone can come back from the brink," said Fury.

"There are a lot of people out there suffering with mental health problems who think all their days will be grey, but life can improve and you will start to enjoy the little things again."

Fury explained that while the first part of his career was about becoming heavyweight champion of the world, his comeback is about 'inspiring others who are suffering' with mental health issues.

He compared boxing with marriage, in that you fall in and out of love and have to work at it.

"But I have spiced it back up again, bought her some sexy lingerie and we are back at it, better than ever."

DENMARK'S Thorbjorn Olesen won a fifth European Tour title with a one-shot victory at the Italian Open in Brescia.

The 28-year-old world number 129 began the final day one shot off the lead but carded seven birdies in a bogey-free 64 to finish on 22 under.

Italian Francesco Molinari, winner last week at the PGA at Wentworth, started the round level with Olesen and birdied the last for a 65 to finish second.

Overnight leader Lee Slattery was third after a closing 67, and his caddie had to retire on the back nine through injury.

Molinari, twice an Italian Open champion, made four successive birdies from the 13th hole and was tied for the lead before hitting a bunker on the 17th and dropping a shot.

However, he holed a huge 30-foot putt up the hill on the final green for birdie to huge cheers from the gallery, setting a target of 21 under.

put his second shot on the 18th in a greenside bunker, but calmly holed from seven feet for par to take the title.

"I've never had that final putt to win," said Olesen. "That's why this one feels so amazing."

Former world number one Lee Westwood produced the joint lowest round of the day with six birdies and an eagle in a 63 to take a share of fifth with Graeme McDowell and Andy Sullivan.

Veteran Miguel Angel Jimenez, the colourful 54-year-old Spaniard, also carded a 63, compiling nine birdies to earn a share of 14th.
