Landfill charges dropped

PROSECUTORS have requested that a Torrox Court drop criminal proceedings against several businessmen and politicians charged in connection with an illegal rubbish tip in Nerja.

Malaga's Provincial Prosecutors Office wrote to judges at the court to request that charges against around 20 out of the 40 originally placed under investigation be dropped. The probe into the River La Miel site has been ongoing since it was shut in 2016.

These include Jonathan Mendez, Jose Alberto Tome and Antonio Garcia of the conservative Partido Popular (PP) and Nerja Council's infrastructure spokesperson Jose Maria Rivas, of the left-leaning Partido Socialista (PSOE).

Charges against the Junta de Andalucia's Environmental representive in Malaga Province, Adolfo Moreno, have also been dropped.

The current and former mayors of Nerja, Rosa Arrabal (PSOE) and Jose Alberto Armijo (PP) respectively, are still under investigation.

A number of councillors and workers for businesses connected with the site also still have charges against them.

The allegedly illegal dump operated at the River La Miel between June 1998 and September 2016.

AN investigator who recreated the death of tragic Scottish holidaymaker Kirsty Maxwell for a television documentary says she "climbed out on a balcony in Benidorm before losing her grip and falling."

Specialist Michael Brown performed a series of tests where he asked three women of a similar height and weight to the victim to climb a replica of the hotel railing she fell from.

And his probe found that the 27-year-old from Livingston did not jump from the 10th floor balcony, but climbed over it and tried to cling on before plummeting to her death.

Mr Brown said: "All we can say is I believe she was facing into the room at the point she lost her balance or lost her grip and fell, vertically initially, before she interacted with features on the building.

"How that loss of balance or loss of grip occurred is not something I can hypothesise on. But the biggest thing that would help is if people spoke up."

In the dramatic reconstruction, the woman wore similar clothes to those Kirsty had on when she died, and each took

Tears on her denim skirt were also analysed,

Private detective David Swindle, an ex-police officer who has been leading an enquiry on behalf of her family, said in the BBC show Killed Abroad: "Kirsty could not have jumped directly over that balcony.

"It seems far more likely that she clambered over.

"But what happened next? It makes me wonder - has Kirsty

Three fires tackled

FIREFIGHTERS in Axarquia were called out three times in 24 hours to blazes in Velez-Malaga after Spain's Met Office said it was at 'extreme risk' of fires. The first took place on a farm at around 5pm on Sunday, with personnel called out to the Arenas area twice afterwards.

Boat rescues

A TOTAL of 110 people have arrived at Motril's port after being picked up by coastguards in the Alboran Sea. The migrants, including two children and a pregnant woman, were reportedly in good health when they arrived at the harbour where they were met by Red Cross volunteers.

Man held

NATIONAL POLICE have arrested a 23-year-old man in Motril in connection with up to 11 robberies committed in the area between January and May this year. Officers working alongside the Local Police said the man was also suspected of forging vehicle registration plates and have accused him of road safety crimes.

Two hurt

TWO people were taken to hospital with several fractures and required surgery after they were allegedly assaulted in Malaga City's Plaza San Francisco. National Police officers have arrested three men aged 27, 28 and 30 in connection with the claims which are said to date back to last May.

Gun haul

GUARDIA CIVIL officers have seized a 38-caliber revolver, two pistols, six carbines, ammunition and a bayonet which they claimed were not documented as part of an operation in Almuñecar. Police have also arrested a 70-year-old man in connection with the haul and officers suspect him of making death threats to his ex-partner.

One detained

A 25-YEAR-OLD man has been arrested in Malaga City in connection with sexual assault allegations following a complaint from a woman to the Guardia Civil in Torrox. National Police have sent proceedings for the defendant to Malaga City's Court of Instruction Number 13 for further processing in the coming days.

HACK TO NATURE: The process is sustainable since the trees are not cut down. Popping the cork

SPAIN is the second-largest producer of cork in the world after Portugal, with 27 per cent of the world's 2.2 million hectares of cork forest, and the annual harvest is now in full swing

Taking place from June 15 to August 15 each year, it is the ultimate example of an environmentally-friendly industry which still employs ancient methods.

The process is considered sustainable because the trees are not cut down to obtain the product, rather the bark is stripped from the trunk by highly-skilled workers known as corcheros who wield specialised tools and must train for around eight years.

Normally working in teams of five, they each have a specific role, from using an axe to strip the cork to stacking the planks in piles or loading it onto mules once it is cut.

The trees cannot be harvested until they are 30 to 40years-old, and after being cut they are left alone for nine to 12 years to allow the cork to grow back, the harvest taking place in a different area each year following a cyclical pattern.

Dolphin rescue

SEA RESCUE workers have been called out to Chilches beach after bathers found a baby dolphin washed up on the shoreline.

Biologists from the Centre for the Recovery of Marine Species (CREMA) arrived at the beach early last Sunday. Several locals reportedly alerted them to the animal, believed to be about onevear-old.

Local Police officers joined the rescue workers at the beach who were photographed by local media dousing the dolphin with water to keep it hydrated before carrying it off in a stretcher.

The animal was later taken to the CREMA centre in the port of Malaga City, with rescue workers stating it bore no injuries.

Vets later inspected it and were attempting to get it acclimatised to the centre's swimming pool and they said they hoped to return it to the sea in the coming days.

'LONG LIVE SPAIN': Protesters give fascist salutes at the Valley of the Fallen and (inset) Pedro Sanchez addresses Congress.

lutes for ]

SPAIN'S new Prime Minister has vowed to exhume the remains of former military dictator Francisco Franco.

"I want to announce to you that the political decision of this government is taken," said Pedro Sanchez during an extraordinary session of Congress. "We are going to exhume the remains of the dictator Franco from the Valley of the Fallen, and this - barring last-minute changes to the means that will make this possible - will take place in a very brief period of time.

"The wounds have been open for many years, too many, and the time has come to close them. Our democracy will have symbols that unite citizens."

It comes days after hundreds of protesters gathered at the controversial Valley of the Fallen monument north of Madrid, giving fascist salutes and chanting: 'Long live Spain;' 'Don't touch the Vallev:' and 'Franco, Franco, Franco!'

Many also sang 'Cara al Sol,' the anthem of the general's fascist Phalange party, while some unfurled the pre-constitutional Spanish flag emblazoned with an eagle.

Opposition parties last year voted to move Franco's remains from the state-funded mausoleum and turn the site into a memorial for 'the victims of fascism' who died during Spain's Civil War from 1936-1939.

The end of the bloody struggle saw the dictator assume control of the country until his death in 1975 and he is the only person buried at the site who was not killed during the conflict.

In addition to Franco, Phalange party founder Jose Antonio Primo de Rivera is also buried at the site alongside 27,000 fascist soldiers and 10,000 pro-Republicans fighters whose bodies were taken from mass graves and entombed there without their families' consent.

But the protestors fiercely oppose the move. Francisco Javier Feria, dressed in the blue uniform of the Phalange, told Spanish media: "There is a lot of resentment, this is vengeance against a political ideology. This is not a Franco cult. The bodies here have to give an example so that [the Civil War] does not happen again.'

Since taking office via a no-confidence motion in the former conservative administration of ousted leader Mariano Rajoy, Spain's socialist government has announced plans to establish a truth commission to investigate alleged crimes against humanity committed by the Franco regime.

THE Irish teenager whose body was recovered from a lake in a Spanish natural park has been named as Joshua Osahon.

The 19-year-old was reportedly born in Nigeria but emigrated to Portlaoise, Leinster with his parents, who have flown to Spain to see his body.

Joshua died on a trip to Las Lagunas de Ruidera in Castilla-La Mancha, between Albacete and Ciudad Real.

He vanished during a postdinner swim with classmates at La Salvadora lake - one of the 15 lakes that make up the park with the group failing to notice he was missing because it was dark when they left the water.

But after several minutes they realised he had failed to collect his clothes, sparking a search, with emergency services alerted when he could not be found.

Investigators probing the incident said in a statement they believe he died from natural causes after suffering a cramp or cardiac arrest since the lake is a popular, safe bathing spot and the victim is believed to have been a strong swimmer.

His body was found by a team including Guardia Civil and Civil Protection officers, firefighters and country rangers watched by a crowd of onlookers.

The fire brigade tweeted the search had ended 'with an undesirable ending for everyone.'

A post mortem examination at an Albacete hospital is expected to reveal the cause of death.

Sources confirmed he was participating in the Spanish Ministry of Education's Interway language programme, during which Spanish students are taught by Irish volunteers while participating in leisure activities.

The group had been staying at the Retiro de Don Quijote holiday camp in nearby Villanueva de los Infantes.

STREET TALK Is it opening time for seven-day retail?

Supermarkets in holiday hotspots now often throw open their doors on Sundays for peak tourist season, which would have been unheard of a few years ago. But should shops in Spain open on the Sabbath year-round?

JESS, 22, and Charlie, 26, from close to London but living on the Costa del Sol

"Yes! We live here and although it's only been five months, it's long enough to get annoyed about Sundays! But it's not that common in countries to have them open, is it? It only seems to be England from what we have seen. The supermarkets are a big one too, you realhave to plan ahead because none of them are open. Actually Mercadona has recently opened on Sundays, but that's only for the summer. We live in Los Boliches and there are a good variety of shops there, and the Miramar shopping centre is good too. It's just nice to have escaped the rat race of London and to have a more relaxed lifestyle!"

Brit teen murder suspect arrested

By Matt Ford

A BRITISH fugitive, 19, has been held on the Costa del Sol in connection with the fatal stabbing of a young actor in the London district of Islington.

Jack Stevens, from the Euston neighbourhood in the English capital, is one of five young men suspected of the murder, and was traced to an Estepona housing estate after a European Arrest Warrant was issued in his name.

It comes after Nashon Esbrand, 27, was last August stabbed after receiving death threats from Islington gang the Cally Boyz.

According to a police statement, the quartet chased the victim down on pushbikes before one produced a machete and stabbed him three times.

The father-of-one died of his injuries a few hours later.

Two of the suspects, Dillon Zambon, 19, Jhon Berhane, 18, and a 16-year-old who cannot be named for legal reasons were last month sentenced to a combined 54 years after being convicted of the murder.

And Stevens is one of two others investigators said were on the run at the time of the rulings.

Mr Esbrand was reportedly branded a 'grass' and asked police for help after he began to receive warnings that his life was in danger.

He told his doctor he was afraid to walk in the street because men had been after him since he gave detectives a witness statement following a violent incident in March 2017.

And on August 24 Stevens and Zambon spotted him as he walked home after visiting his week-old daughter.

They chased him on their bicycles while calling in 'reinforcements,' including Berhane, before cornering him on a doorstep.

He suffered one stab wound to the side and two to the back of his legs as he tried to escape, one of which - delivered by the 16-year-old - punctured an <image>

A neighbour recorded the incident on his mobile phone, with the attackers heard to shout: "What are you saying now bruv."

During the trial, jurors heard phone to his father Desmond, who launched a desperate bid to find him, as the attack took place. In a distressing victim impact statement he said: "The duty of a parent is to protect their child.

"From the day that I received that call I have felt a sense of guilt because I was the last person he talked to."

Stevens now faces extradition to the UK after an international manhunt led to him being tracked down.

AN 18-year-old student from South Wales has fallen to his death from a walkway at an apartment complex in Mallorca while celebrating completing his A-levels.

Thomas Channon plunged 70-feet to his death at the Eden Roc apartment complex in Magaluf where Natalie Cormack and Tom Hughes also died earlier this year

Thomas is believed to have become separated from his friends during a night out and got lost as he made his way home at about 4am to the Hotel Florida, which is next door to the Eden Roc apartments.

In April Natalie Cormack from Scotland died after falling the equivalent of seven floors from the same apartment block.

And last month Tom Hughes, aged 20, from North Wales also died at the Eden Roc complex. British diplomats have recently had an emergency meeting with Spanish officials to try and cut the number of balcony falls in the resort popular with young holidaymakers.

PM vows to up defence spend

STAT OF WEEK

SPANISH Prime Minister Pedro Sanchez has pledged to raise defence spending to 2 per cent of gross domestic product by the year 2024.

The move will see the country's outlay brought into line with its NATO-agreed goal, the leader said during a press conference at a Brussels summit.

It comes after US President Donald Trump's latest call for NATO member states to meet their targets, with only the United States, Britain, Poland, Greece and Estonia currently hitting the mark.

Ryanair staff confirm strikes

BUDGET airline Ryanair is facing more disruption after staff announced a new round of industrial action.

It comes after a trade union announced that Ireland-based pilots will strike for 24 hours tomorrow (Friday) and next Tuesday.

Cabin crew are also set to strike for 48 hours in Spain, Portugal and Belgium and 24 hours in Italy next Wednesday.

The news follows a one-day strike by pilots in protest at their pay and conditions last week after the carrier bowed to pressure from staff to

It was forced to cancel 30 flights between Ireland and the UK as a result.

Complaints include a seniority row, plus allocation of base transfers, the structure of promotions and annual leave. Ryanair apologised in a statement for the 'regrettable disruptions' and pledged to minimise impact on holidaymakers flying to Spain, Portugal, France, Italy and Greece.

But the Irish Pilot's Association announced the two additional days of action in the midst of the strike.

It added that while some agreement had been reached in talks a day earlier, there remained a difference of opinion over the terms of reference for a working group to study the pilots' concerns.

Ryanair's chief people officer Eddie Wilson described the meeting as constructive but very frustrating, according to Irish media, adding that the company was available for further discussion.

Last autumn the carrier cancelled hundreds of flights after a rostering blunder saw it left with a lack of crew.

> ALMOST half of Spain's electricity was generated from renewable energy sources over the first six months of 2018.

> Wind, hydro and solar power together accounted for 45.8 per cent of the country's demand, according to a report by national grid operator Red Electric de España.

> It comes after hydropower soared by 74 per cent compared to 2017 in the wake of a wet spring, with the storms also driving a 10.4 per cent surge in wind power, the summary said.

Bank bags top Euro award

BUSINESS and finance magazine Euromoney has named Spain's Santander as the best bank in Western Europe in its prestigious annual awards.

Editor Clive Horwood said: "[Santander] is already one of the few big banks to prove that internationally diversified retail banks can be more profitable, and more stable, than domesticfocused peers. Now it is in its rightful place, not just Spain's biggest bank, but also the one with the biggest domestic share, too."

Santander Group CEO Jose Antonio Alvarez said, "Our goal is to help the people and businesses we serve to prosper, and I am proud of the work our people do every day to support that goal and earn the loyalty of our customers."

Fine mess for mobile users DRIVERS CAUGHT ON PHONE TO PAY MORE

DRIVERS caught using their mobile phones in Spain are set to face heavier fines.

It comes after Pere Navarro, the new head of the national traffic authority (DGT), announced plans to reduce the number of fatal accidents on the country's roads.

The DGT is hoping to change existing laws so that offending motorists also receive more than the current three penalty points on their licence if caught chatting or texting.

Financial penalties for recurring or infractions considered dangerous will also be stiffened, but are set to be reduced for less dangerous offences.

Drivers told to take refresher courses will also be handed eight penalty points rather than the current four.

Distractions at the wheel are the leading cause of fatalities on Spanish roads ahead of drink driving and speeding, the official said.

"We're going to update the pointbased licence. After 12 years, my own roadmap says we need to stop, take stock and use our accumulated experience to update and review the system,"

GOOD CALL: New DGT chief Pere Navarro has big plans.

he added at a press conference discussing fatal traffic accidents in 2017.

Navarro was previously in charge of the DGT under former socialist leader Jose Luis Rodriguez Zapatero, between 2004 and 2012, when the points-based penalty system was first introduced in Spain.

He last week accepted an offer from Pedro Sanchez' new government to reassume the post in the wake of Mariano Rajoy's conservative People's Party being ousted from office.

"When it comes to road safety, our indicator is very visible: the death toll. The figures set our path for us," he said. "We need to do something about secondary roads, we need to do something about motorcycles, we need to do something about cities, about distractions, about pedestrians."

The official pointed out that 46 per cent of those who died on Spanish roads last year were pedestrians, cyclists or motorcycle riders.

He added: "This trend is on the rise, which means that in two to three years there are going to be more deaths among these vulnerable groups than among drivers of four-wheel vehicles."

The points-based system came into effect on July 1, 2006, with 75 per cent of Spanish drivers failing to pick up a single point over its first decade.

Spain currently ranks eighth in the European Union for road safety, three places lower than last year, although the death rate of 39 per million inhabitants is beneath the bloc's average of 50.

"It's true that we're on the good side of the European average," said Navarro. "We're very good at road safety."

Airlines' merger unveiled

IRISH carrier Cityjet and Spain's Air Nostrum have announced a deal to create the largest pan-European regional airline group.

The two airlines will cooperate closely under a new umbrella holding company, according to a Cityjet statement.

Between them, the pair will have a combined fleet of almost 100 aircraft and annual revenues of around €700 million.

Cityjet employs 1,250 people across nine European countries and its regional network includes provision of services via wet lease contracts with Air France, Brussels Airlines and SAS.

Its fleet includes more than 40 aircraft including 22 new Bombardier CRJ900 regional jets.

Air Nostrum has more than 1,250 employees, is the regional operator for Iberia and flys to more than 60 destinations in Europe and Africa.

It only took one phone call. All I had to do was go with my son to see the funeral director to discuss which flowers we would like and finalise the details of the service.

If only snowflakes would melt away ...

LEAPY LEE SAYS IT OTHERS THINK IT

ONE of the real problems with the social media is that it allows the snowflakes and bordering nutters to seek each other out.

Whereas, at one time someone with totally offthe-wall ideas would hardly come across any likeminded individuals, they can now contact them at the touch of a button.

It stands to reason, if you can air your views to everyone in and around your vicinity, or indeed the whole country, you are going to find more supporters than standing on a street corner banging a drum and handing out leaflets.

Although there seems to be a positive glut of gaggle heads these days, there are in fact no more than there ever were, they are just a bit more linked up that's all. Solo individuals have now turned into 'minority groups' and we all know they are a part of the 'flavour' who seem to get all the preferential treatment these days!

This latest bunch are a glaring example. Drunk with the power of getting national media coverage to get wolf whistles classed as a criminal offence, they are now advocating that ANY praise by male of the species, including reference to articles of dress or attire, be classed as a misogynistic 'hate crime.' I say Miss, 'What a lovely pair of shoes your wearing. Where did you get them?' ...... 'Help. Police. Hate Crime. Hate crime in progress.' Doo da, doo da ..... give us a break.

I suppose praise from a female is ok? Well be a bit careful lady, the woman admiring your hat at Ascot could be a gender bender; another load of codswallop dreamed up by these people. To be honest I'm surprised most of 'em even have the courage to walk out of their own front doors. Some of their projects can be very dangerous indeed.

They all seem to have completely one-track minds and, because they all appear to suffer complexes of inferiority and inadequacy, are completely unable to accept, or even listen to any other points of view.

One example is their ongoing insistence that babies, and young children, who show a tendency to play with toys or enjoy dressing up and indulging in the games of their opposite sex, should be immediately and relentlessly encouraged to grow up in that sexual gender.

This was recently shot down by one eminent psychiatrist who, on examining a young boy who showed a great deal of interest in feminine toys, etc, had in fact a younger sister who suffered from a debilitating illness. This led to the parents showing her more attention than they had the older lad.

In the little boy's mind he interpreted this as a favouritism towards girls. He thought that if he acted more like a girl, he would attract the same attention as his sister. It had nothing to do with his gender whatsoever!

Oh yes, these sorry snowflakes are dangerous alright. And terrible wasters of our most precious possession: Time. Why don't they all stick on a burka and move into areas where they will not be noticed by anyone? And certainly not listened to!

Nora is the author of popular psychological suspense and crim thrillers and a freelance journalist. To comment on any of the issues raised in her column, go to www.euroweeklynews.com/3.0.15/nora-johnson

A TREND unforeseen, even by hard-bitten crime fiction detectives, crime novels have beaten general fiction for the first time since book charts were compiled. Anxious about volatility in the real world, readers now seek reassurance in stories where baddies get their just desserts.

Thriller writer David Baldacci said readers turned to his crime novels to see the good guys win: "When times are stressful and it looks like the bad is winning out over the good, along comes the genre of crime novels to put the balance back in life. People inherently don't like folks who do bad to get away with it. In real life they do all the time, because of a variety of factors. But in novels, evil's punished, and the good guys mostly win, after solving the puzzle."

The Girl in the Woods, the latest in my own psychological crime thriller series featuring investigative journalist Alice Myers, traces the increasing trauma of the Walker family who fall apart when their 17-year-old daughter, Kezia, fails to return home from a night out. As the hours pass and the police investigation builds, this just-published novel puts every parent's worst nightmare scenario under the microscope.

Readers turning to crime vestigative journalist Alice Myers, The Girl in the Woods depicts the unimaginable pressures faced by the Walker family when their 17-year-old daughter goes missing after a night out. As the hours pass and the police inquiry builds, it explores every parent's worst nightmare. A teenager vanishes in woodland. Parents torn apart by secrets, guilt and jealousy. Barbara Forster, the complex DI heading the enquiry, faces a race against time, following a treacherous path that leads all the way to a dark and explosive climax.

An action-packed thriller on several levels, the stories unfold, adding an unexpected triple twist at the end. Tense and gripping throughout, The Girl in the Woods is highly recommended.

Focusing on the disappearance of an apparently captivating teenager, what follows is part whodunit, part police-procedural and part examination of the effects of the pressures on her parents, friends and acquaintances. When the police are called in, it soon becomes apparent she had secrets of her own and, as the investigation continues, suspicion shifts from one parent, friend and acquaintance to another.

Inevitably tension rises and tempers fray as Kezia's parents have different ideas how to proceed. Her father becomes obsessed with pursuing his own investigation while her mother bottles up her emotions, trying to keep her family together and marriage intact.

The very real anguish of a family torn apart by secrets, guilt and jealousy, as the gradually building nightmare gathers steam, keeps you guessing right up to the explosive triple-twist climax.

Yet still more on wealth tax

I read your comments on wealth tax with interest as I have an apartment in Los Boliches and have been paying wealth tax on this for the last 35 years. I am non-resident as I live in England. I would appreciate your thoughts.

CG (Costa del Sol)

Spain's tax on capital assets, the so-called 'wealth tax' (Impuesto sobre el David Searl You and the Law in Spain Patrimonio) was passed into law in 1977 by the new government of Spain after Franco died. Spaniards and residents had exemptions on the value of their principal residence and on the first portion of any other assets. Non-residents however had no exemptions and had to pay from the first peseta of valuation.

The tax is quite low, starting at .002, or two-10ths of 1 per cent. If your flat was worth  $\in$  100,000, your annual wealth tax would be  $\in$  200. From 2008 to 2010, the government passed tax relief of 100 per cent, so no one had to pay.

In 2011 the tax relief was cancelled. Since 2016, non-resident property owners share in the resident exemption on the first  $\in$  700,000 of value, so you should not be paying it any more.

SOTHEBY'S the auction house has just sold my childhood memory. Actually they have not, they have however auctioned a series of inspired drawings by the illustrator EH Shepard at their recent sale, the 'English Literature, History, Science, Children's books and illustrations.'

Sketches drawn for AA Milne's story of the Hundred Acre Wood 'The House at Pooh Corner.' The history of Winnie the Pooh and his friends, Eeyore, Piglet, Roo and Tigger.

My imagination was fired at once by the Map of the Hundred Acre Wood, happy memories of childhood spent in imagination walking through the wood. Then in the late 1960's the Disney movie arrived 'Winnie the Pooh and the Honey Tree.' The map was animated and brought to life by Disney's artists so as to magically transport us to the wood itself. I was much older by then but affection is difficult to leave behind.

Someone out there agrees with me! He or she has bought arguably the most famous map in English literature for the princely sum of £430,000. Unseen by the public in the original for at least 50 years this 1926 sketch was expected to fetch £100,000 to £150,000, however the buyer was clearly determined. A further four sketches by EH Shepard were also auctioned, among them the illustration showing Christopher Robin and Pooh walking hand in hand 'to an en-

Two of the sketches illustrated that most famous of games, Poohsticks at Poohsticks Bridge, one comic image that of Eeyore floating lugubriously by from beneath the Bridge. The final sketch of the five auctioned may be a description of friendships; it depicts Christopher Robin, Piglet and Pooh leaning over Poohsticks bridge. The five original illustrations were sold for £917,500 (€1.038.260).

WELL, we did it. Whether you watched the World Cup and/or Wimbledon, or if you did your best to avoid them, Sunday saw them both conclude - unfortunately at about the same time. I think a lot of us were flicking between Moscow and SW19 last Sunday trying to keep up.

Now, you know I can't explain the off-side rule and I can't play tennis for toffee, but I did get caught up in the football and in the latter stages, the tennis too. I might have missed the Men's final if lovely friends from London, Ray and Louise, hadn't sent me a copy of a well-known newspaper and jogged my memory via its sports section!

I enjoyed the tennis. I liked the genuine affection the Ladies' finalists showed for each other and for once, Djokovic dropped the arrogant act and was nice about his opponent too. It is a shame that British competitors who made it through to the finals in the wheelchair doubles, mixed doubles and in the Boys competition were difficult to follow, just because there was no BBC visibility of when these matches were being played or if, or when, the BBC were showing them. The British pair won the wheelchair match and got hardly a mention anywhere.

Oh and France won the World Cup. Felicitations La France.

It broadly follows the format of the adult show, with three music industry heavyweights and of course, Emma Wills hosting.

Will.i.am is the only judge to make it over from the adult show. He is supported by Pixie Lott, you might remember her from Strictly and Danny Jones. I had to Google Danny. He was in a Boy Band, McFly, apparently.

You have to admire the courage the kids have to be able to sing on national TV. The Voice Kids, ITV, continues Thursday-Saturday this week.

ITV treated us to the opening episode of series three of Unforgotten on Sunday night. Now, I've friends who are ex-police officers, hola Jimmy and Keith, but brilliant as they are, I'm not sure even they could pull together a six-part mystery, of a Sunday night, with only a piece of hip bone to start their investigations.

Sanjeev Bhaskar and Nicola Sanjeev Bhaskar and Nicola Walker star as detectives Sunny and Cassie who test the friendship of, to be honest, a random group of people who seem to be in the frame for the crime. This is solid Sunday night viewing though and you can keep up with what is happening on ITV, Sunday at 10pm. Happy Viewing.

A weekly look - and not entirely impartial reaction to the Spanish political scene

ALBERT RIVERA, the pro-Constitution leader of Ciudadanos and one of the 50 per cent of Catalans who do not want independence slated Prime Minister Pedro Sanchez for receiving Quim Torra in the Moncloa.

Rivera dismissed Sanchez as a populist and condemned him for receiving someone who was not a democrat.

Better look for another stick to beat Sanchez with. Successive Spanish presidents have received dodgy visitors without a murmur, the last of whom was the Crown Prince of Saudi Arabia. Less of a tyrant than his grandfather, admittedly, but no shining example of democracy.

Poor Albert! He's still smarting because Pedro Sanchez stole his presidential thunder, wrong-footing and outsmarting him to get into the Moncloa with that amazingly successful vote of no confidence.

Lie of the land

WITHIN a day or so, either Soraya Saenz de Santamaria or Pablo Casado will be chosen to lead the Partido Popular now that Mariano Rajoy is tending his garden in Santa Pola.

To Casado's irritation, people keep harping on about the master's degree he picked up so effortlessly in 2008 without attending one lecture.

"It's rather a coincidence that just as I presented my candidature something that happened 10 years ago should acquire so much media, academic and legal importance," he said with hurt surprise.

Not very perceptive of him. Nobody gives two hoots about Casada's academic record. What they care about is the fact that he could be lying about it and if he can't see what's wrong in that, he's even worse than the usual run of politicians.

BITTER?: Albert Sanchez.

Ain't we got fun

SPAIN'S economy looks good on paper but seems not to have reached everyone's pockets.

The country's statistics office INE found that the 20 per cent who are Spain's lowest earners are 15 per cent worse off than they were before the crisis.

The 20 per cent who earn most are only 1 per cent worse off, INE said, while the top layer of affluent households earned 6.6 times more than the lowest-income families.

Victory of the German doctor

PASCUAL MARAGALL was the socialist mayor of Barcelona between 1982 and 1997. In the 1999 regional elections, he was the most-voted presidential candidate but owing to the way the electoral system distributes seats, Jordi Pujol was again invested as Cataluña's president.

Maragall finally made it, with the help of Esquerra Republicana and the largely forgotten ICV-EUIA in 2003 and remained president until he resigned in 2006.

In 2007, Maragall admitted that he had Alzheimer's. Echoing Cervantes, he joked: "The German doctor whose name I do not care to remember will win the are lies, damn lies and statistics' but the 20's song that maintained, 'There's nothing surer, the rich get richer and the poor get poorer' was nearer the mark, then and now.

The big difference is that in 2018

game in the end."

Not long ago Maragall's daughter Cristina told an El Mundo interviewer: "If my father were well, perhaps we wouldn't have arrived at this in Cataluña."

Maragall himself, like many Catalan socialists, possibly had a yen for independence but it remained latent and rational.

Eleven years later Maragall no longer knows who he is or was and the 'German doctor' is winning.

Like Maragall, many Catalan politicians are unsure of their identity, the least rational of whom is the self-exiled Carles Puigdemont, but unlike him there is no excuse for them.

no-one would willingly agree that 'In the meantime, in between time, ain't we got fun.' Frankly, we ain't.

OUR STA FOR NEXT 7 DAYS

You are in a romantic mood but something is missing from the picture. Its not that you're feeling the need to have more than one string to your bow, it is more that you are tired of using the same old arrows. So, what is out there to fire your imagination? Something really new will not miss the mark with you.

PISCES (February 20 - March 20)

This is a brilliant week for money and business. Mars is influencing you to be more up-front and practical in your approach. You may feel changes coming on that you would rather deny. Burying your head in the sand is not an option. Take the bull by the horns and you could be surprised at your success.

ARIES (P) (March 21 - April 20)

You will see the lighter side of life this week when you discover that someone is holding a torch for you. You are flattered and vaguely interested Your combination of intelligence and humour make you a delightful companion. Venus smiles on all your close relationships and you seem to be able to do no wrong.

There is much to be tackled this week, but you are wary of making full-on decisions. Taking things one step at a time is the best policy because it gives you space to consider the options. There is a restlessness about you that is hard to pinpoint. Perhaps you are feeling positive but have to hold fire because of others. This is frustrating, but try to relax.

Energy levels go up and down and you seek to ration yours by not going all-out physically. It is still possible to be quite dynamic while planning. Indeed, your clear vision impresses a colleague. If you are due for promotion then some good news is likely. Blow your own trumpet rather than wait for others to do it for you.

The changes affecting you for the past few weeks continue but you are now getting better at managing their direction. Someone wanting vou to take a logical action should not be allowed to push you forward. When to act will be clear to you.

(July 24 - August 23)

Someone who has been unhelpful in the past suddenly steps forward. Could you have been wrong about them? Probably not. Keep a clear mind when with them. Saturn influences you to be more organised before a bout of indecision strikes.

(August 24 - September 23) The influence of Venus and Jupiter brings you the influence and status that you deserve. It's not that you haven't worked towards it but now you start to see the benefits. There is an urge to improve your appearance and surroundings to fit in with the 'new you'.

(September 24 - October 23) During the past few weeks you may have gained a different perspective on life. Your need for a close attachment and harmony in your life should not be underestimated or denied in the name of practicality.

(October 24 - November 22) To be truly happy you need to build on your partnerships. Keep these in balance and everything else will fall into place. Life has taught you some rather harsh lessons recently. The upshot of that is you now feel more in control and more secure.

(November 23 - December 21)

There is an all-consuming need to see some reward for all your efforts. There will be those who will tell you that you need to push harder success. Perhaps you need to be with more like-minded people. Certainly being with the wrong colleagues can bring your spirits down.

When needed you are sure to be positive this week. On a project, 'striking while the iron is hot' springs to mind. There is much fun to hand but it must be 'work first' at the moment. Some opportunities do not come twice and you need to be aware of them when they present themselves.

QUALITY SERVICE: Enjoy the sun and sea on Optimist of London II.

AFTER nine successful seasons here on the Costa Tropical, Optimist of London II, an ocean-going Lagoon 380 Catamaran, is busy taking guests out on the waves again this summer from the trendy and newly revamped port, Marina del Este, situated between La Herradura and Almuñecar.

Prices for a half-day (four hour) cruise are from just  $\in$  80 per person, inclusive of complimentary chilled cava, fresh fruit and nibbles on departure, beers, wines and soft drinks throughout the trip and a plentiful and varied gourmet buffet meal served at anchor.

You can take the opportunity to swim and snorkel in the crystal clear waters, look out for dolphins, relax and take in the stunning scenery, whilst the more adventurous can take a ride in the yacht's high speed zodiac with the fun inflatable toys when the yacht drops anchor for lunch/dinner.

Or try kayaking, or even learn to use an SUP (stand-uppaddleboard), the latest rage on the water.

Mike and his crew have built up an enviable reputation for a professional, quality service and these sailing trips have consistently been voted the Number 1 Local Day Trip Attraction on TripAdvisor.

Buy your glasses with us now and only pay for the frames and one lens

We will give you the second one FREE, this offer is valid for all makes, progressive, monofocal, reading, solar lens or transparent lens...)

The yacht is ideally suited for celebrations of all kinds, and can accommodate up to 12 guests. It can be booked exclusively for family reunions, birthdays, anniversaries, stag or hen parties. For larger groups, Mike can organise additional yachts that sail together in a flotilla.

A word of advice though ... Mike and his crew are already very busy this summer, and many of the cruises are sold out, so please book early to avoid disappointment ... to make a reservation, go to the website www.sailandstay.eu.

SCIENTISTS confirm the benefits of eating raspberries to help avoid the risk of heart disease.

HEALTH

Research carried out by Kings College London and funded by the National Processed Raspberry Council have confirmed that eating raspberries can lessen the risk of heart disease and aid circulation by keeping blood vessels healthy.

Experiments were carried out where identical looking drinks were given to a group of participants, only some containing fresh raspberry juice. Beforehand the group underwent both blood and urine tests. Within two hours of taking the drinks they were tested again.

The people who had the drink containing raspberry juice showed a significant increase in FMD (flow mediated dilation) aiding the flow of blood through the widening of the arteries. Author of the report Dr Ana Rodriguez Mateos said this effect was still present 24 hours later.

Tom Krugman Executive Director of the Council that funded the research said, "we are excited about these findings."

Red raspberries are known to contain strong anti-oxidants such as vitamin C, quercetina and Gallic acid that fight against cancer, heart and circulatory disease and age-related decline. They have also been shown to have anti-inflammatory properties.

The oil from raspberries is creating interest in the cosmeceutical market due to the richness of vitamin E and Omega-3 fatty acids. These are a sun protection factor.

SUPERFOODS and the vegan trend are dominating the latest food fads in magazines and trendy new restaurants, but are we willing to sustain such a limited diet in the future without the need for bacon butties or cheeseburgers?

The fashionable plantbased diet, proven to result in younger looking skin,

A previous study by the US Department of Energy Lawrence Berkeley National Laboratory found that men over the age of 44 with the largest intake of Vitamin C had 20 per cent less damage to their sperm DNA than men who did not eat foods containing the vitamin.

Mum slams suncream

A MOTHER is said to be furious that her son got so badly burned after using Asda's factor 50 sun cream.

Nicola Hadley, 47, from West Bromwich bought Asda's factor 50 sunscreen to use during the heatwave in England. However, even after applying the cream regularly, her 10year-old son Aaron Boyes was left 'in tears.'

Nicola said: "My son is not the first child this has happened to, but he should be the last. I put the sun cream on him before school and topped it up when he came home." She continued, "I do not expect my son to be crying in pain because of a product I should be able to trust."

The company has received numerous complaints about the sun lotion, with Karen Trett from Milton Keynes, claiming her daughters were burnt on holiday in Mallorca having used the same factor 50 sunscreen.

A spokesman from Asda has said its product complies with all the industry standards.

The bottom line, say experts is to avoid fad diets that are promoted on the internet, try to balance out the pros and cons of becoming a vegan, but most importantly stick to a healthy regime that gives your body good healthy food.

Tourist tax will alienate many visitors

MY wife and I have just returned from a holiday in Mallorca (first went to Mallorca in 1999 and every year since apart from a three-year gap).

Before anything else at the hotel we were asked to pay the tourist tax which had doubled from last year, so having paid nearly €80 without any benefit to us at all and without any previous information as to what the Tourist Tax was likely to be, it set us thinking.

Where are the monies?

How much has accumulated since the tourist tax was instigated?

What are the monies being used for?

The pavements in Palma Nova are in a terrible state, you cannot walk for more than 25 metres and I am being generous here, before you meet cracked paving, misaligned paving, crumbling concrete, raised iron rings around the trees, depressed areas of pavement.

We do not own any property in Mallorca, but I am quite sure that the rental ban on apartments will be a devastating blow to the economy, several friends of ours have sold up and come back to England.

Why can't councils control noise?

WHEN is Calpe Council going to protect the residents of the town from the noise of private building work at all hours of the day?

We have endured three months of non-stop extremely high pitched continual noise from angle grinders and electric drills. This is on top of constant banging from hammers and bolsters and the grinding of a cement mixer all day.

This starts from the bawling of work men at each other when they first arrive at eight o'clock in the morning and commence work with the tools and continue until they depart at 6.30pm in the evening.

This goes on five days a week, week after week. There is totally no consideration from this non-resident in what is a normally peaceful residential area. Appeals to moderate the inconvenience are met with a refusal to comply. The noise is such during this time that you cannot hear the radio, TV, or concentrate to use a computer.

Surely Calpe Council can provide regulation of the hours in which this type of activity can be conducted and offer its residents some relief from this unacceptable behaviour.

Outrage over 'looky looky' men in southern Spain

If the police were empowered to confiscate the items they were selling that would soon stop them. Authorities are so often scared to act though for fear of being accused of being racist.

Confiscate all illegal pirate versions, and the problems will fade away very quickly. Joona

If people didn't buy off the looky looky men then they would have to pack up and leave. Julie

Claims that Amazon may serve as a platform for racist products

Censorship, plain and simple. Those who accuse the 'Nazis' of book burning do so in far greater numbers. Thousands of book titles openly sold in the latter decades of the 20th century have been quietly moved.

Comments from EWN online

When they say 'racism' what they really mean is the ethnic-European's right to promote his ethnicity and to secure it. Every race prefers its own kind but only the whites are condemned for doing so.

Building consents

SEVERAL months ago a friend in the UK wrote to ask me if it was true that the chiringuitos at Punta Prima beach had been closed down, apparently over licensing problems.

I replied that it did appear to be the case, according to press reports. However, at the time I thought it was rather strange and was possibly just an excuse for something else.

I recalled that a builder had fairly recently tried for planning permission along that stretch of coastline and the request had been turned down partly due to the fact that there are Civil War bunkers there and also that the land was not considered suitable for building on.

The next thing that we hear is that the chiringuitos are illegal, etc, etc and have got to close whilst the matter is resolved.

Many people thought I was being cynical and that the chiringuitos would soon reopen. Well we all know how that situation has been handled!

Now I have seen an article in the press saying that a builder has offered to refurbish the bunkers and maintain them which is all very nice of them. Oh, and he is also seemingly going to be allowed to now build two skyscrapers along that bit of coast. No mention of course about the reopening of the chiringuitos.

Paloma Park

IN response to Joe and Janet Calton, I live near Paloma Park and during and after the San Juan Feria held close by, plus the recent strong westerly winds has created this unfortunate situation with plastic bags being blown into the lake.

I can assure them that Benalmadena Council gardeners keep the park welltended and a pleasure to visit.

THOSE who enjoy wine know that some of the finest Spanish wines come from the Rioja region.

History tells us that in the Middle Ages, Mediterranean wine culture was closely linked to the monastic life and their major promoters were the monks.

The Rioja area is no exception and there is a great deal of local pride in the fact that Gonzalo de Berceo, the first poet who wrote in the Romance language, mentioned wine in the verses he wrote from his retreat in the Suso Monasterv in San Millán de la Cogolla.

The first document to make reference to protecting and ensuring the quality of Rioja wines dates from 1650, but even earlier, in 1102, King Sancho of Navarra legally recognised the quality and importance of these prestigious wines.

The Royal Economic Society Rioja Grower was created in 1787 with the aim of promoting the cultivation of vines, wine production and trade development.

By the early 20th century, in 1902, a Royal Decree was issued which defined the 'origin' for application to the wines of Rioja. Then 1926 saw the creation of the Control Board whose mission was to identify the area of Rioja, control the issuance of the 'seal of guarantee' and recommend when appropriate, legal action be taken against infringers and counterfeiters of the name 'Rioja.

It wasn't however until 1945 that the agency was given a legal status.

Finally, the Control Board was constituted in 1953, and thus began to lay the foundations for a modern and efficient performance by the growers.

Highly important in the evolution which led to the present Rioja wine is the approval in 1970 of the Rules of the Appellation of Origin and its Regulatory Board. In the same year the agency acquired a well-defined structure and clear functions described as 'The defence of the Denomination of Origin, implementation, monitoring and promoting the quality of the wines covered were mandated, first, the Control Board.'

After several amendments to the Regulation Governing the Control Board, which have been adapted to the needs raised in recent years, quality control systems have been perfected and there has been an enhancement of the promotion of the brand.

Following a long process in which the Denomination of Origin 'Rioja' always concentrated on the quality and control at source, this effort received recognition as on April 3, 1991 a Ministerial Order granted the status of Qualified Denomination of Origin to 'Rioja' which was the first and only in Spain to receive this recognition.

Eat Well to Live Well

by Andrew Harding

I THOUGHT I would talk about vitamins and minerals over the next few weeks, why we need them and what they actually do. There are 13 vitamins that are essential to maintain health in humans: Vitamins A, C, D, E, K and the B vitamins: Thiamine (B1), riboflavin (B2), niacin (B3), pantothenic acid (B5), pyroxidine (B6), biotin (B7), folate (B9) and cobalamin (B12). The four fat-soluble vitamins-A, D, E, and K-are stored in the body's fatty tissues, which is why some fat in the diet is necessary.

Vitamin A, also known as retinol, has several important functions. These include ensuring the immune system works properly, helping vision in dim light and keeping skin and the lining of some parts of the body, such as the nose, healthy. Foods that contain vitamin A include dairy products, eggs, oily fish, liver and liver pate.

The body can synthesise Vitamin A from a compound called beta-carotene which is found in non-fatty foods such as yellow, red and green (leafy) vegetables, such as spinach, carrots, sweet potatoes and red peppers and yellow fruit, such as mango, papaya and apricots.

garlic and herb crust.

Vitamin A is toxic in large quantities and pregnant women should avoid pate due to possible harm to the unborn baby. Here is a recipe that will provide plenty of vitamin A and flavour:

Roasted Vegetables

Serves 4

- 4 whole carrots, sliced
- 6 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 large red onion, quartered
- 6 whole garlic cloves, peeled
- 2 whole green peppers
- 2 small cauliflower florets
- 2 whole leeks sliced - 7 large mushroom caps, sliced
- 2 small broccoli florets

Put carrots and olive oil into an oven proof dish, coat carrots with oil and cover with foil or lid.

Place in oven pre-heated to 180 Celsius (fan) 200 Celsius (conventional) for #### 10 minutes.

Add cauliflower, onions and stir to coat with oil. Cover again and put back in oven for 5 minutes.

Add leeks, garlic, green pepper, mushrooms and broccoli stir again to coat with oil and cover bake for 20 more minutes. Serve

Rack of Lamb with a Garlic and Herb Crust

- Serves 4
- 4 racks of lamb

- 2 tablespoons Dijon mustard - 6 whole garlic cloves, skinned and chopped

- 2 cups bread crumbs
- 2 teaspoons dried parsley
- 2 teaspoons dried tarragon
- 2 teaspoons dried sage
- salt and pepper, to taste

Make sure the lamb has all the fat removed. Coat in a mixture of garlic and dijon mustard.

Mix the herbs and salt and pepper with the breadcrumbs and sprinkle over the mustard coating on the lamb, where they should stick

Place in a preheated oven at 200 Celsius (fan) 220 Celsius (conventional) for 1/2 hour (very rare) 3/4 hour (medium) 1 hour (well done). Serve.

Gorilla in our pockets

Screen test

I'M showing my age, but a catchphrase in the classic Goon Show was often: 'Have a gorilla,' and its stock response, 'No thanks, I've just put one out.'

These days we carry a gorilla in our pockets - at least if we have a reasonably new smartphone. Gorilla Glass is what's often on the front, supposedly tougher than the bourgeois stuff and designed to resist anything from the average drop (yeah, dream on) to the steady build-up of fingerprint residue or coin and key scratches. Sadly, as we spot that first heart-wrenching gouge, it doesn't.

A gung-ho friend insists he buys gadgets to use them. Given that he makes a more honest living than I do, producing physical stuff where I just describe it, after a month of unforgiving use his new phones look like they came straight off a Bangalore ewaste dump.

Like choosing to coddle or not coddle your phone with a fancy genuine imitation leather case, cosseting your Gorilla Glass with a screen protector is a personal preference. That gives rise to one of the great existenA touch of glass or plastic fantastic, asks Terence Kennedy Tempered-glass protectors are (much) more expensive than those cheap-as-chips plastic films, they look great, they're slightly thicker, they're unlikely to affect the screen's clarity and your finger gets a smoother ride. They are also slower to accumulate fingerprints.

Most boast so-called 9H hardness, with their adspeak claiming only a diamond will scratch them. Believe that and I have a bridge to sell you.

scratching, but on the downside if you drop the phone they are prone to cracking. As on a car's windscreen, a crack will often spread inexorably. And once a glass protector is on your phone you're unlikely to get it off without snapping it.

The bottom line: plastic lasts longer, glass looks better.

Or you could just adopt my manual-labouring friend's cavalier attitude summed up in that Cat Stevens song from the 60's: The First Cut is the Deepest. After that, who cares?

SADLY, if you have one of the growing number of curved-edge smartphone screens, few screen protectors can cope with the curvature. You're generally left with bare edges which may lift slightly or collect fluff over time.

Like the screens themselves, glass protectors come as either tempered, or Gorilla which is also tempered but has been chemically treated to make it stronger.

Every decent screen protector has an 'oleophobic coating' for fingerprint resistance, sprayed on (for the cheapies), or applied statically. But here's the kicker: neither coating lasts more than a few months at best.

Then again, if you believe some pundits, neither will the coating on your actual smartphone screen. If that bothers you, buy a touchscreen stylus and never put digit to screen again.

OOPS: 'Scream' protector needed!

tial questions of our time: glass or plastic?

Plastic screen-protector films are refreshingly cheap, last longer than their glass equivalents, and will actually give the device a tiny bit extra impact resistance. And they're reusable

On the downside they may give your finger a slightly rougher 'slide' on the screen because they're not as smooth. You need to clean them more often and longer than their glass counterparts.

The deal-breaker for me: if anyone insists they have a foolproof way of

Hammering it home

DO any of you watch a BBC programme called Homes Under the Hammer? I do, and it amazes me how they buy a property for usually silly money and most people have never bought an investment property before.

How it works is the presenters show the viewers some dump that needs a total refurb then they show you the punter buying it at an auction. They go to the house together and you get told that they are going to put in a new bathroom, new kitchen, rewire, put in new heating, rip a lean-to out and replaster basically everything. 'What's your budget and time frame?' they are asked and this is what flabbergasts me. 'Yeah, I've got a six grand budget and I'll do it in a month.' WHAT? HOW? I don't understand how they do it.

They buy the house for say 50 grand. They go back a month later and BOOM the place now looks like a palace. Then they're asked, 'Did you stick to your budget?' ... 'Well no, I spent an extra three quid because we needed a new roof.' I'm being sarcastic now! Then they get the estate agent back and get a new valuation. Now the house is worth 90 grand and the rental income will give them 8 per cent. Simple isn't it? Well let me tell you it isn't that simple. I wish they would show you the horror stories too. The ones where the punters get it all wrong like what happens in real life. Because I know that it isn't that easy.

Sure if you are a builder and you can do stuff yourself it's OK but once you get tradesmen in it can be a nightmare. I'm going to suggest to the Beeb a show called 'Horror Houses Under The Hammer (The Nightmare Continues)' where they buy the gaff, get ripped off by the builder and can't sell it. They do their brains and have it repossessed by the building society. You know, just like real life.

There's always one isn't there? You know the one that tells you, 'tomatoes are actually a fruit not a vegetable.' Err yeah, I know that! smart a**e 'And so are cucumbers, bell peppers and avocados plus a few others. Did you know strawberries and raspberries aren't berries?' OK stop now mate, you are getting on my nerves.

But still they carry on. 'Mountain goats aren't really goats and killer whales never kill much at all and definitely not humans. White rhinos aren't white at all, not even remotely white.' I walk away when he gets on to Sperm whales!

They will indeed resist minor simple meals but having fresh herbs is always a challenge unless you have space and time for a herb garden.

902 123 309

It is a bother to have to find time to go to markets and find out that the not so fresh herbs wilt even more by the time they are taken home and added to the meal. The easier thing is to add dried herbs, but these are never as good as freshly picked herbs.

The easiest way to have fresh herbs is to have a window or planter box as near to the kitchen as possible and grow the herbs there. A simple trav with the herbs in pots in a place with plenty of light can allow you have fresh herbs right in your kitchen.

Even if you do not have green fingers you can have the advantages of fresh herbs by buying ready-grown plants and just pick the leaves you need as they keep growing. When the plant cannot produce sufficient for your needs, or has passed its time, just buy another.

The herbs in pots are generally not expensive in comparison to buying bunches of fresh picked leaves that deteriorate so quickly after you buy them.

It is better in general to buy the growing plant and use it fresh to add vitality to the meal. If you have used fresh herbs direct from plants you will know the difference

I prefer to harvest herbs just when they are to be added to a meal so having them growing nearby is important.

If you have time, space and interest you can grow many from seed in a very small area and save yourself the need to buy the plants. There is a a lot of satisfaction in growing your own if you can.

The best herbs to grow are of course the ones that you would use the most and that will grow verbena and marioram.

large containers.

If you buy the plants, the pot they come in is often sufficient to last a couple of months. If they are still growing strong after this time, it is a good idea to repot them into a larger container to allow them space to continue to grow.

If you select plants of a good size you can harvest fresh herbs at home with a minimum of fuss for weeks at a time.

Shot at a secret location with World Rally Championship driver Elfyn Evans at the wheel, the Fiesta ST is seen slipping, sliding and jumping in the dirt. The sound of the 200PS 1.5-litre Eco-Boost engine is amplified by its surroundings as it tackles a highspeed drop through the narrow, entrance tunnel.

"The salt is actually like fine gravel to drive on, quite slippery to be honest, especially on road tyres," said Evans. "You expect it to be claustrophobic but actually it's quite the opposite, a great place to really enjoy the new Fiesta ST."

Meanwhile, England's campaign in Russia ended with a 2-0 defeat by Belgium that meant the Three Lions finished in fourth place.

Thomas Meunier put Belgium ahead after just four minutes when he slid in ahead of Danny Rose to divert Nacer Chadli's cross past goalkeeper Jordan Pickford.

England had chances to level in the second half as Toby Alderweireld cleared off the line from Eric Dier, while Harry Maguire also headed wide from a good position.

Eden Hazard wrapped it up for Belgium with eight minutes left when he got the better of Phil Jones to drive past Pickford, who had just saved smartly from Meunier.

In some ways it was a game neither side really wanted, but to finish the tournament in fourth place is a proud achievement for Gareth Southgate's young side.
