Body found

THE crew of a British boat have found the body of a 23-year-old from Velez-Malaga who disappeared while fishing with friends off the coast of Cadiz Province last month.

A Guardia Civil and coastguard patrol was despatched to the area about 10 kilometres off the town of Barbate when the remains of Fidel Jimenez Marin were found.

The 23-year-old was living in the town at the time of his disappearance on Sunday July 22.

Juan Toro, a friend of the 23-year-old who was fishing with him on July 22, said the body was identified by its diving suit.

Fidel Jimenez and Montse Marin, the 23-yearold's parents, said the discovery had put an end to more than two weeks of "nightmare and uncertainty."

They travelled to the town last Monday where they began making arrangements to transfer their son's body back to Velez-Malaga. Pathologists are now due to conduct a post-mortem examination on Jimenez Marin's remains.

Fidel Jimenez Marin was fishing with two friends around eight kilometres off the shoreline in roughly 16metre-deep waters when he fell in the water.

Toro said he saw Jimenez floating face down and unconscious in the water. He had tried to pull him out, but currents swept him away.

Locked and loaded? Fury over Saudi arms claim

Bv Joe Gerrard

PROSECUTORS in Granada have been urged to probe claims that arms and explosives have been illegally shipped from Motril to Saudi Arabia three times this year.

The leftist Motril En Comun group and the regionalist Nacion Andaluza party have both called on authorities to investigate the shipments and halt them if the allegations prove true.

The groups claimed the shipping of military weapons from the port broke several Spanish and European regulations. They have requested further shipments be stopped if an investigation is opened.

The first of this year's ships, the Bahri Hofuf, left Motril's port in February laden with explosives and ammunition made at a Granada arms factory.

The Bahri Jazan left two months later and a third ship set out on June 26. All were

A HOMELESS man allegedly paid € 100 by a British stag party to have the groom's name and address tattooed on his forehead has called for them to be jailed.

Polish-born Tomek Matuszewski, 34, says he has reported the offenders to the police after returning to Benidorm from Granada in Andalucia, where he spent a few days with friends.

And he marched to the Foreign Tourists' Office to file a complaint about the incident before being taken for a medical check-up.

He said being handed the money while drunk was "like winning the lottery," but was horrified when he woke up the next day.

"My reaction was: 'what the  $f^{}$  have I done?" he added.

The inking was supposed to read 'Jamie Blake, North Shields NE28,' but only the first two letters of the post code were completed because Tomek was in too much pain, and now he wants those responsible to face justice.

Speaking to UK media, he said: "I'd like to see the culprit go to jail as well as the tattooist. I want justice and I hope karma will come back to them."

Mr Blake, 36, earlier denied his involvement in the stunt having recently moved to Benidorm and deciding to go ahead with his stag party despite separating from his fiancée.

He told the Newcastle Evening Chronicle: "I was not there at the time. There was a big group of around 30 of us drinking in the bar.

"There was a group of Irish lads there as well and Tomek. He isn't homeless, he lives with my friend and works on the strip.

"I got drunk and was asked to leave the bar. I was never in the tattoo parlour and as far as I know he was not paid money." The incident has sparked outrage among expatriates in the holiday hotspot, and Karen Maling Cowles, president of the Benidorm British Business Association, has been leading a fundraising campaign to get the tattoo removed.

She said: "Tomek has contacted us. He was emotional and overwhelmed by the publicity given by the media and acts of kindness by the public.

"We are looking for help with various things for Tomek including somewhere not expensive for him to stay while we get things organised with doctors and so on."

Maureen Daniels added: "Well done for standing up to help this poor man. He has gone from an encounter with the worst of British in Benidorm to the very best. I hope his problems will soon be on the way to being solved."

Holidaymaker Paul, a 35year-old lorry driver, told The Sun: "Today I've seen in the papers that Jamie has said it was nothing to do with him and Tommy wasn't homeless. That's a joke - it was his idea."

Police have confirmed they are probing the incident.

Jail time upheld

ANDALUCIA'S high court has upheld a 15-year prison sentence for a Danish tourist found guilty of strangling his partner with a phone charging cable in Torre del Mar.

The Andalucia Superior Court of Justice heard the case after the 54-yearold defendant filed an appeal against his murder conviction. A jury found the defendant guilty at the original trial in Malaga. The courts heard the 54year-old was holidaying with his partner in June 2015. Both were staying in Velez-Malaga and visited friends in Torre del Mar when they began arguing at a chiringuito. The victim, 40 and also Danish, decided to go back to their room at Torre del Mar's Hotel BQ. The defendant followed her there and they began arguing again and objects began to be thrown.

The 40-year-old went into the bathroom and the defendant strangled her with the cable while in there.

Cove rescue

EMERGENCY SERVICES personnel have rescued an 18-year-old tourist and taken him to hospital after he was found trapped on rocks in a Maro cove for several hours.

Guardia Civil and Local Police officers, as well as firefighters, were despatched to the La Caleta stretch of coastline after friends of the man contacted emergency services last Monday.

The group of friends had reportedly been drinking and before the 18-year-old attempted to swim erfrom La Caleta to the nearby beach of Burriana. He reached a rocky area where he became stuck before climbing on an outcrop near the > Barranco cove. Emergency services found the 18year-old there after a search which lasted around four hours. Personnel said he showed signs of hypothermia, sunburn and dehydration. Paramedics treated the man when he was taken to shore by Guardia Civil underwater specialists. He did not need to go to hospital.

Orwell went to Spain to write about and fight in the war, during which Franco's fascist regime battled the Republican government for control of the country, eventually becoming a lieutenant in the militia of the communist, anti-Stalinist Workers' Party of Marxist Unification. He was shot in May 1937

Jellyfish menace

SWIMMERS off Axarquia beaches have been warned about a new wave of jellvfish which has affected 85 per cent of Malaga's coastline.

Many of the region's beaches have been forced to fly yellow flags to alert bathers to the dangers of the creatures that have been washed in from the Alboran Sea thanks to strong Levante winds

While the plague has affected just about all the coast - only Marbella and Estepona seem to have escaped - the beaches west of Malaga have borne the brunt.

The menace of the sea creatures has spread along the Granada coastline too. Of the 566 health-related incidents reported by lifeguards in Almuñecar, the vast majority were for jellyfish stings.

Council chiefs at Salobreña have decided to go on the offensive against the sea creatures by setting up a four strong unit of jellyfish hunters. Their task is to wade through the shallow waters netting any they spot.

At the same time they scoop up any rubbish they see, meaning the waters of the resort are not only safer, but cleaner too.

If stung, people are advised to wash the affected area with sea water, and ice or anti inflammatories can help ease itching.

PLAGUE: Swimmers warned of jellyfish danger.

OUR VIEW

Heatwave or climate change?

THERE seems to be almost inevitability at the way in which the temperature across Europe is increasing so dramatically.

There have been heatwaves in the past, the most memorable perhaps in the UK the summer of 1976 but that was something of a freak, although 1977 also had hot periods.

This however is different as the temperatures are rising to unprecedented levels and although there is a forecast by the University of Alicante that this latest bout of hot weather has officially finished, they also believe that it will return again in September with a vengeance.

The mainstream media doesn't seem to find this particularly bothersome, although it does allow for some useful 'scorchio' headlines, but the reality seems to be that climate change is becoming more likely than ever to be the reason for this increased heat.

Many of us moved to Spain in order to enjoy the warm weather but when it becomes so hot, both day and night, that it is difficult to breathe let alone take walks; we have to sit up and take note!

For older people, the heat can be dangerous and there is also the likelihood of increased outbreaks of wildfire due to the parched undergrowth, although it appears there haven't been as many disastrous outbreaks as last year (although there is still time).

At the end of the day, please be careful during the very hot weather, keep hydrated, use sun block and if you have animals make sure that they aren't exposed to danger.

VELEZ-MALAGA mayor Antonio Moreno Ferrer has nine months left to make good on his pledge to reopen the town's tram 'before the next municipal elections.'

So far he has had three years to get the service up and running again ' but he still insists he will hit his self-imposed deadline.

The tram service was shut down in 2012 by former mayor Francisco Delgado Bonilla due to ongoing losses that were building up a mountain of debt.

Now the Junta de Andalucia regional government has pledged to meet 40 per cent of the deficit, which the mayor says makes the tram feasible.

Out of danger Poisoned Brit teen discharged

By Dilip Kuner

A BRITISH teenager who was left fighting for his life in a Spanish hospital after being poisoned with pesticide has left hospital.

Callum Forster, aged 17, and his stepdad Jamie Hadland, 24, were rushed to Torrevieja hospital after they both started feeling unwell after a family night out.

Callum had suffered 10 seizures, and the duo were both put into intensive care. They were heavily sedated to avoid seizures, but within a few days Jamie was well enough to be discharged.

However Callum remained seriously ill for a further 10 days, with tests showing both men had strong pesticide in their blood streams

It is not known how they came to swallow the poison.

They arrived in Spain for a family holiday alongside Callum's mum, Helen Forster, 36, and younger brother Brandon, 12.

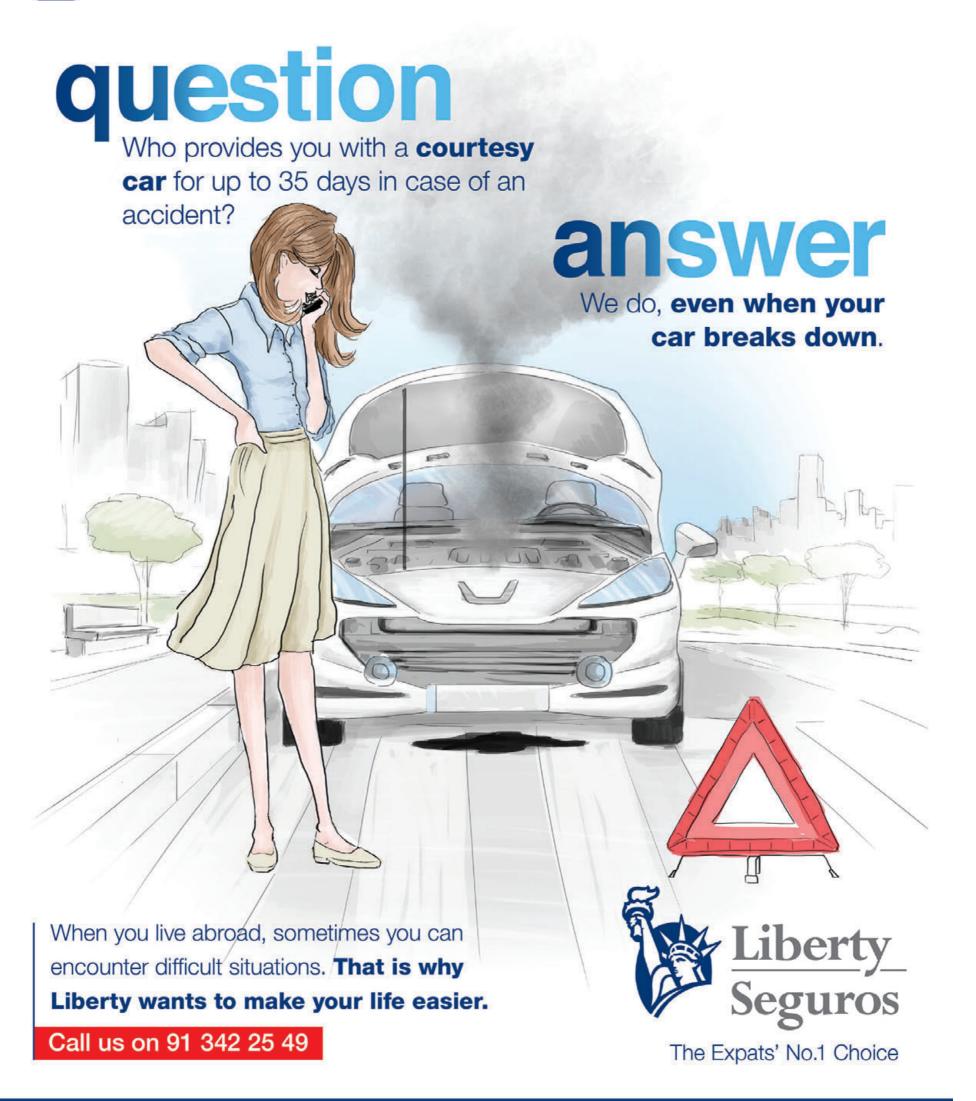

Now the entire family is staying in Villamartin on the Costa Blanca until Callum is well enough to return home to Leeds.

POISONED: Callum was kept in intensive care.

Family friend Jane Rapier set up a crowdfunding page to help them pay the costs of their extended stay. So far it has raised more than  $\in$  3,000, with Helen thanking everyone who helped.

Mob boss held

by Matt Ford

THREE high-ranking members of the Russian mafia allegedly plotting a hit have been held on the Costa del Sol.

The arrests come after armed police swooped on a Marbella eatery where the gangsters were holding a meeting as shocked diners looked on.

They have been remanded in custody on charges of planning a murder, forgery and membership of a criminal network after fake Polish and Ukrainian passports were later found during searches of three properties.

One of the trio is believed to be a notorious crime boss known as The Worm, who investigators say is the mob's third-in-command at the global scale.

He recently fled Italy, where he is wanted on suspicion of assassinating a rival gang leader, and arrived in Spain just a few days before the dramatic restaurant raid.

A police statement said he was accompanied by a sizeable entourage 'from bodyguards to errand boys,' adding the group rented 'dozens' of apartments and hotel rooms under the names of third parties.

The men were due to hold a meeting with other mafia chiefs during which the execution of an enemy kingpin who planned to settle in Spain was to be organised.

But the murder plot was revealed over the course of a covert surveillance operation, with detectives also learning of the ring's plans to restructure after 129 suspects, including seven top dogs, were rounded up by the Spanish National Police and Interpol in June.

It is thought the planned killing was intended as a show of strength in the wake of the giant offensive.

The probe was launched last month, when several known associates of The Worm, believed to be holed up in Lithuania at the time, appeared in Marbella.

The 10 elite criminals held during the recent swoops are known as vor v zakone - thieves in law - in the Russian underworld.

Tot mauled

A GIRL aged two is in hospital after being mauled by an American Staffordshire terrier.

She was visiting the dog's owner with her family when the animal turned on her and bit her on the cheek. The girl was treated locally in Massamagrel before being transferred to the Hospital Clinico de Valencia. According to hospital sources she had been kept in but her condition is 'evolving favourably.'

The owner of the dog, a man aged 27, is being investigated for a crime of injury, while the dog has been taken to an animal shelter in El Puig. There it remains in quarantine until a judge determines its fate.

Congratulations and Good Luck Matt

MATT FORD, the long-serving editor of the Euro Weekly News, is set to leave the company to join a European-wide nature conservation project.

Matt, a biologist by trade, first joined EWN in April 2016 as a translator.

He soon climbed the ranks of the editorial team before being chosen to sit in the editor's chair in March last year.

Matt said he had thoroughly enjoyed working at the paper but added he could not pass up on the opportunity to return to his field and passion.

"It's been great working at EWN. I never would have imagined I would end up editing a newspaper," he said.

Matt said he first moved to Spain in 2008 and later undertook a Biology masters at the University of Barcelona. He later moved to Andalucia with his partner after she found out she was going to have a baby.

Matt soon found himself working as a reporter for EWN and following his appointment as editor he received extensive training from a former journalist.

"I was very lucky to have that. I'd written before for magazines and conservation science websites but that training turned me into a journalist.

"Once I had that grounding I enjoyed it. It gave me an insight into the journalism profession, into newspapers and into the expatriate community," he added.

Matt said highlights for him included working on a campaign for the family of a child who passed away in Almeria and following the ongoing Kirsty Maxwell case. "I got the most of out of working on stories like that," he said.

Matt has now hung up his reporter's notepad and pen and is preparing to relocate to the German capital Berlin where he will join a PhD conservation research programme.

He will be working at the Liebniz Institute of Freshwater Ecology with leading scientists in the field of conservation biology while partially based at Cambridge University's David Attenborough building for stints with the International Union for Conservation of Nature, the global authority on the status of the natural world. "The reason this project was created was to assess the European Union's ability to meet conservation targets set by the United Nations.

Matt said he would take the skills he had picked up as a journalist with him into his Biology work.

"I'll never forget the people I've worked with. EWN has prepared me to take on any challenge and I want to thank everyone for the opportunity.

"Spain is a wonderful place to live but I will be back and be sure to pick up the EWN for a read.

bet365 swoop on footy clubs

BRITISH gambling firm bet365 has been accused of 'colonising' Spain's La Liga in the wake of a dramatic sponsorship swoop.

It comes as the Stoke-on-Trent based conpany announced new sponsorship deals with half of the country's top flight football clubs.

The agreements run until 2020, and will see the betting brand's logo appear on the websites, coaches, facilities including stadiums, at press conferences, and social networks of Athletic de Bilbao, Betis, Celta, Eibar, Español, Getafe, Huesca, Rayo Vallecano, Valladolid and Villarreal

Miguel Bernad, founder of Manos Limpias (Clean Hands), and Luis Pineda, who set up Ausbanc, a legal support service for bank clients, are also accused of fraud and membership of a criminal organisation, according to a National Court statement.

They are suspected of demanding large sums of money from companies, institutions and individuals in exchange for withdrawing criminal cases they had lodged against them.

suits after being created by Bernad, a prominent figure within the Spanish far right.

They include the indictment of judge Baltasar Garzon, who investigated crimes against humanity by the Franco regime, and accusing Spanish King Felipe VI's younger sister Princess Cristina of tax evasion in a corruption scandal surrounding her husband's business practices.

During the high-profile trial, the defence team claimed Manos Limpias had requested a bribe be paid to drop the allegations, but her lawyers refused.

She was in 2016 cleared of all charges, but partner Inaki Urdangarin was convicted of diverting public funds for his own gain via the non-profit Noos Institute and was sentenced to five years and 10 months behind bars

Virgina Lopez, the lawyer representing Manos Limpias in the trial, and seven other people connected to the case have also been accused of extortion in the alleged plot.

Prosecutors have reportedly requested a 118-year jail sentence for Pineda, seen as the ringleader, more than 24 years for Bernad and 12 years for Lopez.

diesel decline

The plunge followed Prime Minister Pedro Sanchez's government pledging to slash the exisiting 30 per cent gap between diesel and petrol taxes. And Energy and Environment Minister Teresa Ribera recently told parliament: "Diesel's days are numbered." While new car sales saw a 19 per cent year-on-year rise over the course of the month, diesel sales dropped by 31 per cent, according to trade association ANFAC.

A scandal over emission-test cheating is thought to have triggered the backlash.

'No blank cheque' in F1 renewal deal

SPANISH HAM: Brit hero Lewis has won in Barcelona for the past two years.

LAWMAKERS in Cataluña regional say they will not be held to ransom by Formula 1 over the Spanish Grand Prix.

The current contract for the annual race at the Circuit de Barcelona-Cataluña expires next year, but renewal talks have been delayed due to political instability in the northern region. "The regional government is of course looking to extend the contract, but obviously not at just any price," said Enterprise Minister Angels Chacon during an interview. "F1 cannot be a blank cheque."

And she added the new deal must be strongly linked to the circuit's new 'viability plan,' after the track last year suffered losses of €7.4 million, much of which was linked to the Grand Prix weekend.

Spanish pilots to sue

SPANISH pilots' union SEPLA has revealed it is suing Irish budget airline Ryanair in a dispute over contracts.

The organisation said in a statement it has filed a lawsuit with the country's High Court, adding: "After a year of negotiations, the failure of Ryanair to recognise Sepla and apply Spanish labour legislation for the pilots who operate in Spain forces the union to take a legal path to attain this objective." SEPLA represents around 500 of 800 Ryanair pilots in Spain, and although the carrier agreed to recognise unions for the first time last December it has struggled to strike deals, leading to strikes across Europe.

Why plan for your funeral?

- It allows you to consider alternatives and make decisions concerning your funeral in your own time.
- You will feel better knowing your affairs are in order and your wishes will be carried out as planned.
- You will have peace of mind knowing your final wishes will be lifted from the shoulders of your family and friends.
- You relieve your family from the financial burden of your funeral.

Is my money safe?

Yes. When you pre-plan with Golden Leaves, the funds are placed in the Golden Leaves Trust. The trust is managed by an independent board of trustees. Their role is to ensure that funds are available to cover the cost of every pre-paid funeral whenever it occurs.

What happens if the cost of a funeral increases?

However much the actual costs of your funeral rise, you will still get exactly what you've planned and paid for.

Is there an age limit or health restrictions?

Whatever your age, there's no medical or health restrictions with a Golden Leaves Funeral Plan.

I would recommend contacting Golden Leaves and taking out a funeral plan to anyone.

If you would like more detailed information about all your options, please call 8000 98309 or alternatively, email info@goldenleavesinternational.com

Did you know?

Our prepaid funeral plans:

- Offer flexible payment options
- Do not require a health check or questionnaire
- Include conveyance of the deceased in mainland Spain

Call Ruth and her team for advice or a chat on 966 493 082

What our customers say...

Both Golden Leaves and the funeral director... were amazing throughout the process, guiding me through everything.

Is ruling a threat to democracy?

LEAPY LEE SAYS IT OTHERS THINK IT

LAST week's decision to accept a sharia law ruling into a British court, is yet another highly predictable nail in the crumbling coffin of both Christianity and western culture.

The fact that it seemed quite a fair and reasonable sharia rule simply has nothing to do with it.

The high court decided that a wife, married 20 years ago in an Islamic ceremony at a Southall restaurant, should be valid and recognised because 'their vows had similar expectations of a British marriage contract.'

This highly irresponsible and frighteningly naive decision, particularly when these wholly illegal courts are springing up all over the UK, is setting such a dangerous precedent as to be almost suicidal for British democracy and laws of the land.

You can't pick and choose which laws of an alien culture you agree with and disregard those you don't find so acceptable (ala stoning to death and limb amputation!).

The point is the British high court has recognised and condoned the existence of sharia law in the United Kingdom. Mark my words, it is now only a matter of time before muslim sharia lawyers are challenging all manner of British court rulings, citing this case as an example.

Whether they are successful in their efforts is beside the point. This ruling has opened a back door to the almost laughable scenario of the laws of the UK actually being put on trial in its own courts! Once again appeasement to large numbers of people, who simply have no intention of integrating into western culture and will buck against its values and traditions at any given opportunity, has been allowed to move even further into the realms of legal acceptance. Of course, no prizes for guessing who will be paying for all the time - wasting and highly expensive court cases which will almost certainly be rearing their ugly heads in the not too distant future? Yep, you've guessed it!

Well, all I can say is on your own heads be it. Let's hope that at the next UK elections a new party emerges which has a degree of common sense and is not petrified of 'upsetting' or 'offending' someone or another. But don't hold yer breath.

I don't know about you, but I am heartily sick of all this 'touchy-feely' syndrome that seems to have crept into British sport of late. Even cricket, which used to be such a wonderful 'stiff upper lip' non-demonstrative occasion, now sees batsmen scurrying up to each other and 'fisting' after a particularly good shot.

Doubles at tennis is another example of this ridiculous habit. In fact, along with beach volleyball and badmington players, these partners still fist each other when they actually lose a point! All this, along with those utterly unacceptable orgasmic grunts of the tennis brigade and tangled pyramids of primped-up highly coffered hysterical soccer players, is turning this ol' boy back to the sport he was utterly in love with as a boy. Have a good week everyone.

Advertising Feature An exciting new chapter for the St George School Malaga

STAFF, parents and children at St George, Malaga had some exciting news just before their summer holidays began with the announcement of new owners for their school.

The International Schools Partnership (ISP), who recently included St George Malaga into its expanding portfolio, is a focused, growing and financially secure education investment group who are leaders in educational provision.

The company profile currently includes 32 schools located in Spain, Malaysia, Mexico, Costa Rica, the United States, the United Kingdom, the United Arab Emirates and Qatar.

In Spain, one of the biggest regions, the Colegios Laude Group of seven schools, purchased in 2014, has already seen major development and growth with some € 30 million of investment already made. St George Malaga is delighted to be joining this prestigious regional group and to be refocusing the educational message to one of amazing learning - something that is at the heart of every ISP school.

When asked of her feeling about the new owners, head of school, Fiona Lee-Allan said, "The International Schools Partnership has been attracted by our philosophy and priorities and is committed to fostering them. As a school we are going to benefit enormously from their wealth of experience in running schools around the world and it allows our students, teachers and families more opportunities to learn from and connect with people around the globe.

"The central theme International Schools Partnership focuses on is all about creating 'amazing learning,' and this for me is the most important factor in creating an outstanding school.

"Each region has a director for learning and we will be working closely with him to see how we can become even better at ensuring our students have the best possible learning experiences whilst at school. The support we have already received in the last month has been exceptional. "The experience of their team in running prestigious schools around the world ensures that our school will benefit from inclusion in their existing and developing programmes. We are extremely excited by this news and are looking forward to a new chapter in the life of the school."

Regional Director, Nick Rugg commented, "St George Malaga is a strong fit for ISP's vision and philosophy of focusing on quality and excellence, all within a culture where learning takes centre stage.

"There is already a synergy with the school where learning is exciting and fun and we look forward to collaborating with them on ISP's approach to effective learning in the classroom. Equally, we will begin to share other benefits of being part of the ISP family of schools."

Once the new term begins, there will be an opportunity for current and prospective parents to learn more about the way in which the school will be moving forward.

For appointments to come and meet the head of school or to find out more, please contact Monica Gata: admissions malaga@stgeorge.es.

Each number in the Code Breaker grid represents a different letter of the alphabet. In this week's puzzle, 6 represents W and 10 represents L, so fill in W every time the figure 6 appears and L every time the figure 10 appears. Now, using your knowledge of the English language, work out which letters should go in the missing squares. As you discover the letters, fill in other squares with the same number in the main grid and the control grid.

KAKURO

OUR STARS FOR NEXT 7 DAYS

Are you still in a very positive frame of mind? Okay, then. It is time to decide what is to be done about that problem. If you really can't see a way round this then seek help Even if you don't agree with the reply, you will feel that you have made a step in the right direction

Don't ask a question unless you want to be told the truth this weekend. Go on, you're a big person and you can take it.

Sometimes you wonder why people make promises when they find them so hard to keep However, losing your temper with someone midweek will not help at all because the person you are dealing with is not very sensitive. Patience will pay off and, by the weekend, a weight will have been lifted from your mind.

Somehow you seem to be going every which way round a situation but getting nowhere. Rather than burn yourself out and fray your nerves, just stay still. At the end of the day, someone else wants to solve this dilemma as much as vou do.

It's not so difficult this week to get exactly what you want. Being sure is another matter, however, there are plenty of people who will cast doubts on where you are going and what you are aiming for. What do they know?

As you are in the middle of a plan. it would be a shame to stop now. Yes. I realise that you have given it lots of time and thought. Even so, the events midweek bring a new perspective.

Something has come to your attention and, quite frankly, you don't understand what is going on. It is possible that, if you don't react, the situation will just go away. Equally, you may want to influence the outcome and fear that it will not be to your advantage.

(August 24 - September 23)

You seem to be in a 'plodding' situation that is starting to cause you some irritation. That is all that it is though, irritation. See it as a big dilemma and it throws up all sorts of anxieties.

You are being shown a great deal of affection which may be taken for granted. Even you are capable of putting people's backs up. As you dislike making enemies, I suggest that you take a little more time with family and loved ones.

By deciding now that you will not rise to the bait on a certain matter you are taking the best option. Much as you would like to confront someone head on, it is possible that this is just what they want you to do.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 - December 21)

Are you being asked to open your heart? What are you most afraid of about that? On the other hand, what would the rewards be if you did? Sometimes, we have to take a chance that others will not let us down or. at least that if they do, they will let us down gently.

As you try to control someone else's life, it could be that your own is slipping past you. Have you recently given up on a relationship or job that you dearly would have loved?

OPEN the garden shed, swat the cobwebs from the deckchairs and prepare the knotted handkerchiefs: phew, it's summer - and sizzling! (However, I'm never quite sure if the knotted handkerchief should be flat on my head or placed at a natty, happy-go-lucky angle. Anyone happen to know?)

Seriously, though, the rules for keeping cool are simple enough: 1. Wear a hat; 2. Apply sunscreen; 3. Drink plenty of water (you know, the stuff from the tap) throughout the day; 4. Consider wearing loose, long-sleeved cotton clothes.

When I did a straw poll among my girlfriends (only the finest of scientific and journalistic methods for this column, folks) about summer etiquette, the thing that really irritates them is men coming into supermarkets shirtless - but marginally better than those who walk around scoffing the food whilst shopping before they've paid for it, or those who carry folded bikes inside the supermarket with them.

And what irritates my male friends?

The heat is on: how to avoid havoc on the hottest days

Wear a hat to cool down in summer.

'Traditionally-built' (read: overweight) women in 'absurd, flimsy sunsuits' designed for three-year-olds.

But let's return to those guys walking around topless, showing what they've got (or not). What they do/don't have is usually a six-pack, multiple tattoos and/or a fat belly. What a sight! But not as startling as those doing their shopping sporting 'budgie smugglers' - the butt of jokes everywhere (pun intended)!

Which reminds me of the story of ### one poor guy who years ago was strong-armed into playing the organ in a nearby church - the Episcopalian Church of Scotland.

At the start of the service there was a procession of office-holders all carrying banners who were played into the church with the minister at their head. As one of the office-holders parked his banner and took his official seat in front of the organ he glanced over at the newly-deputising organ-player and yelled out: "They tell me you have the biggest organ in the church."

Oddly this had such a paralysing effect on the poor guy that, if said anywhere else, would have had him rolling in the, err, aisles ...

LEGALLY SPEAKING Can they use spreadsheets?

I was treasurer of a registered society for 0. many years, during which time I followed the instructions of a Spanish lawyer for the presentation of the accounts. Our president has now urged a more modern approach and the new treasurer proposes to use spreadsheets instead of the established style which I used, along with explanatory notes.

Also, the minutes of the recent AGM have been sent to committee members for approval in a September meeting. The minutes, however, give no financial information. Surely the minutes have to include financial information at the end of the year? Are spreadsheets recognised by Spanish society laws?

that give a faithful picture of the association's economic activities. The spreadsheet containing all details with double entries is considered the most complete form to present this.

Standardly, the minutes and the financial report are two separate documents. They both need the approval of the AGM, especially regarding next year's budget.

ANYONE who has Love Island withdrawal syndrome, yes, it is a thing apparently, might want to give Our Shirley Valentine Summer, ITV, Thursday & ITV Hub, a look.

For the rest of us, it is worth a look anyway. It is billed as a reality show where a bunch of women celebrities (a gaggle, maybe?) are transported to a remote foreign villa in search of fun, sun and maybe romance. I mean Wall, possible romance, whatever next?

Now, unlike some of the reality shows we chomp through together each week, you will actually recognise most of the celebrities. Among others, Melinda Messenger is there, Sian Lloyd (helping with the weather) and Ingrid Tarrant.

The ladies are all looking to make a fresh start or to change something. There is a marriage breakdown, a need to find love, low selfconfidence and a longing to find a new hobby thankfully these don't all relate to the same person and while I'm not entirely sure longing to take up Scottish Country Dancing quite falls into the same category as trying to get over a marriage break up, the show does seem to work.

I'm not sure what's in the Naxos water, but they seem to breed the locals handsome on the Island. A girlfriend of mine needed a lie down in a dark room after last week's Greek language

Shirley Valentine chasing The Governess anyone?

A GAGGLE OF CELEBS? Our Shirley Valentine Summer

trainer and fitness guru made an appearance. Sian did a bit of reflecting, my friend was hitting rewind! This is probably one for the ladies to be honest, with some friends and a massive jug of sangria. Enjoy, just don't go planning a move to Greece.

If you are in a more musical mood over the next few weeks, BBC4 is leading the Proms coverage from The Royal Albert Hall. Monday saw Ben Gernon conduct the BBC Philharmonic in a concert of Beethoven and Brahms, the composer, not of Grace Brothers fame - although Wendy Richard with a French horn might get the folk standing in the audience going. It was lovely. The second half was a world premiere. Great I thought. The music was by Tansy Davies. Don't know Tansy, stick with it.

Tansy is a contemporary composer. You just lost me. Now don't get all 'give new stuff a chance, bringing music to a new audience' on me. Tansy's work just doesn't sit well with Beethoven. Plan ahead via the BBC website for me with this please. Regardless of what The Chaser or Brad might say, can it ever be right to take the lower offer? Shelve Brexit, the PM needs a Chequers conference to give us a way forward on this one.

weekdays, and ITV Hub, help

And sticking with The Governess (love her) next time The Chaser is really up against the clock in the final chase, watch how Brad noticeably speeds up asking the questions in the last 45 seconds.

My movie choice this week is Kings of Curry, BBC2, Sunday, late. Worth staying up for if you are a bit of a foodie. The plot isn't taxing. Two chefs, who are brothers, fall out, open competing restaurants on the same street, daughter of one of them attempts a reconciliation for a wedding. Simples.

> Happy Viewing. HappyViewing1@outlook.com

a blast of sounds from London. Fans of The Chase, ITV,

Clean up your act

Terence Kennedy gets out the broom for a digital sweep

A COLLEAGUE says he has to buy a new tablet because the old one's full.

Really? Let's see: with a memory card it can hold 144 GB of data. At a rough calculation that would hold every word of, say, the Bible (4.13 MB in its free download from Project Gutenberg), more than 35,000 times with room left over for a few cat videos.

And it's full?

Call me old-fashioned but doesn't it make more sense to empty a bucket when it's brimming instead of buying a new bucket?

Unlike breaking-up in the 1975 pop song, cleaning up is not so hard to do. Or as the Everly Brothers might have put it: 'All I have to do is cle-ee-eeee-ean, clean clean clee-ean.'

The principle's roughly the same for a tablet or a smartphone. First, zap all the obvious junk you've acquired (here's looking at your animal clips and other YouTube funnies).

CLEAN SWEEP: Out with the digital dross.

Don't know how to find them? If your device hasn't got a File Manager just download one, some are even called that. Then trawl the folders it reveals and merrily delete where needed. Or to be pedantic: not needed.

Purge unwanted attachments from your emails, then exorcise all the excess pix from WhatsApp and the downloaded music and videos you once thought you couldn't live without but have done ever since.

You can even zap your photos because if your device has behaved as originally configured they'll all be backed up in the cloud anyhow.

Uninstall apps you absolutely don't use and most likely never will - though quite a few will dig their heels in because Mr Google or Mr Apple decided you may not do without them.

Then it's time to get down and dirty. To terminate the stragglers with extreme prejudice as the CIA might say, download a cleaner-upper like the free 'Files Go' for Android, launch it and let it lead you by the hand.

Bingo: space available for several thousand more Bibles or one Spanish Labour Law. Works every time, though in rare cases it can go wrong and this column takes no responsibility blah blah blah ...

And if it does, or you'd simply prefer to have your device back the way it was when you took it out of the box? Easypeasy.

Somewhere in the Settings you'll find 'backup and reset' or similar. Its scorched-earth option is called 'factory reset.'

Deep breath, click, wait, breathe. Then welcome to your shiny 'new' toy, and happy reinstalling and fiddling.

Oh, what, you forgot to write down all your passwords and save your vital documents before you wiped it clean? Oops.

Factory reset

FACTORY resets are a failsafe option on plenty of gadgets these days and all you may need is a pin.

Look hard at simpler devices to find a pinhole. Poke your pin in there as instructed in the manual or online, and the device will reset.

A factory reset is absolutely the way to go if passing on a device which contains any personal data; it's almost the only surefire way to remove your traces.

Alas, you can't poke a pin at a computer to work that magic. Do your research, choose the reinstall option, enjoy a new and unsullied version of your operating system - and then schedule lots (and lots) (and lots) of midnight oil to get it all back the way you want it.

Greed and power

Mike Senker In my opinion Views of a Grumpy Old Man

READ an interesting item this week that there is just one Blockbuster video store left in the world. In their prime they had 9,000 stores worldwide and employed over 84,000 employees. The amazing thing is that it took about 25 years from start to finish and what is even more amazing is that most 20 year olds don't even know what a video is.

They have never had the fun of going into a video store and renting a great movie. Or of making sure you booked it for whatever night you wanted to see it or going round the shop picking up the boxes and finding a night's entertainment. Video was a revolution.

Everything since is evolution and it was the pure greed of the Hollywood Studios that killed video. They hated the fact that individuals were, in their opinion, earning too much money out of their product. So they put obstacle after obstacle in the way to try and control the business. They used copywrite laws in the end to stop the renting out of VHS and then DVD. They wanted all the control.

The dream was that people would be able to download their movies directly from the studio and cut out the middle man. Well, they finally won, or thought they had. All the video stores went out of business and everybody started downloading movies. But instead of the studios getting paid for every movie watched, the punters found a way of by passing the system and are downloading them for free. Is it legal? No, it isn't. Can they stop it?

No, but it was their greed that caused it. I sold my video stores in 2001 as I just couldn't fight with the film companies any more. It was unbelievable how much the studios hated video and DVD even though, in its heyday, it represented 57 per cent of all returns of a movie. Greed and power - that's the problem.

I think the same will happen with Facebook. I reckon in a few years that will disappear too. Kids are already using other forms of social media. They don't want to be bombarded with adverts and stuff. Google, Amazon, Facebook, Apple, Microsoft and a few others want to control our lives. What we watch, what news we are fed and what we buy.

I think people will get wise eventually and do something about it. The biggest taxi company in the world doesn't own one taxi. The biggest food takeaway company doesn't own a burger van never mind a restaurant. I'm getting fed up with it all. I don't know about you but in my own grumpy way I'll try and fight it.

Why taxi drivers are shooting themselves in the foot

I DO understand that taxi drivers have to pay a very large amount of money in order to obtain their licences and that they see the possibility of selling them on at a profit as a retirement plan.

They obviously believe the existence of Spanish private hire company Cabify and American-owned Uber to be damaging to their livelihoods but have chosen to hurt tourists and residents by striking and blocking access to airports.

In the long run, if they offer a worse service which costs more, the cab drivers are going to lose out and will only get a percentage of the existing business from people who can't be bothered to make an advance booking.

Drivers, if you have a problem with the law, don't penalise your customers! George Brown, Benidorm

Guardia Civil officers save the day

BREAKING down on the N332 in 30 degree heat is never going to be fun.

Having a five-week-old baby and a two-year-old toddler in the car as well quickly turns it into a nightmare.

This is what happened this week to my daughterin-law, who was travelling from Finestrat to Villajoyosa with my wife.

There was nowhere shaded to take the children, so the only option was to wait in the hot car, with the traffic passing at 100 km/h just inches away. The insurance company was called, and a grua and taxi promised as soon as possible, but it was still a scarv situation.

Enter the heroes of the day - two Guardia Civil officers - who pulled over and took control. The blue lights on their van obviously slowed down the passing traffic and the officers took the four hot and flustered occupants into the air conditioned van

As one officer chased up the grua and taxi on the phone, the other entertained the two-year-old (and the adults) by blowing up a latex glove and generally making him laugh. Apart from potentially preventing a crash, they made everyone feel at ease.

They did a brilliant job, so thank you to those two unnamed officers. You went beyond and above the call of duty, and we are very grateful.

Keith Baker, Villajovosa.

Bad planning

I HAVE photos of the unacceptable horror and unhygienic reality of the new 'basura' recycling situation on the El Aspre/Orbeta urbanisation.

More than 18 large bins were removed, which have always been adequate even in the summer months when the urbanisation has a lot of holiday lets and summer visitors in situ. Then, with no other bins available. they began to build a small shed to house the much smaller, and fewer bins. For a few days, there were no bins on the urbanisation or in Orba at all.

Everyone in Orba had to queue (sometimes up to 90 minutes) to get a personal access code and/or the recycling bins.

The access code keyboard didn't work for a while and now the handle on the door has broken, although the lock works with the code entered. Many houses are currently empty, so they have not registered to get their access code, nor will they know the new system when they return to Spain.

The biodegradable bags split easily, and the collection for food waste is once a week. Food waste sits there rotting, and the bin lids are often left open and overflowing.

This is going to be a massive health and hygiene issue. People without access will simply dump their rubbish anywhere. There is very little parking now, whereas the bin areas before had plenty of parking, never overflowed and were completely safe from vermin and insects.

It is not acceptable given the Suma rates we all pay. Complain, and conplain loudly people!

Outraged of Orbeta, Costa Blanca North.

HAVE A TEA: Most effective cooling down method.

Cup winner

SCIENTISTS say a hot drink will you cool you down more than an ice-cold beverage.

According to Professor Peter McNaughton, a neuroscientist at the University of Cambridge, drinking hot tea or hot water will raise core body temperature. This makes people sweat more.

Nerves in our mouths and upper digestive tract react to the heat of the drink, making the brain produce more sweat. As it evaporates, the sweat effectively cools you down.

McNaughton suggests that instead of grabbing an ice-cold drink on a hot day, he recommends 'a good cup of hot tea,' because it doesn't have other effects - like huge levels of caffeine.

Perk up in the morning

EARLY BIRD: Build your stamina.

EXCERCISING in the morning on an empty stomach burns more fat than exercising at other times of the day.

Exercise increases how awake we feel and raises our core temperature. Burning calories is not the only benefit of an 'early bird work out.

Working out in the morning is great for the mind and body.

It is advisable to take supplements before exercising on an empty stomach. Iron deficiency is one of the leading causes of tiredness in women, with 27 per cent not getting enough.

Eat a lunch rich with animal produce, otherwise known as carnitine. Products like meat, fish, poultry, and milk are the best sources.

In general, the redder the meat, the higher its carnitine content. Carnitine converts fat to your cells so it can be used as energy, while not having enough can cause dizziness and muscle weakness.

Snacks in between meals should involve three key components: protein, fibre and complex carbohydrates.

Apple with some oatcakes and peanut butter keeps blood sugar levels constant until dinner.

Dinner should be eaten at least three hours before sleeping.

Eating, sleeping and exercising at regular times will build stamina and form an easy to follow routine.

Truth or myth?

SOME say eating late leads to weight gain, some say it has no effect. Which is true?

Weight gains only happen when there is a change in calories consumed or calories burned.

If you feel full, you are less likely to snack. High protein meals for breakfast have been shown to reduce food cravings and help reduce snacking later in the day.

A high protein meal triggers a release of dopamine, a neurotransmitter which stimulates feelings of reward. The reward response is an important part of eating because it helps to regulate how much food you eat.

What you eat also controls your drive to be physically active. Eating a big dinner makes you feel heavy and less motivated so there is less chance of burning calories. Eating late at night is linked to weight gain and obesity.

Different cultures have different approaches to eating patterns. In Spain, a large midday meal followed by an afternoon siesta and evening tapas is very common.

According to the research by University of Murcia, overweight women who ate a larger lunch and smaller dinner lost more weight than those who had a larger evening meal.

GUITAR legend, Robin George, has worked with a host of world class musicians including Thin Lizzy, Robert Plant and David Byron and, this August, he returns to 'rock the socks off the Axarquia!'

This time it's a little different. Robin and The Love-Power Band will be joining forces with rock goddess. Jenny Darren, who recently wowed audiences with her electrifying appearance on Britain's Got Talent.

Audiences in Axarquia will be the first to hear electrifying performances of Robin and Jenny's new album, Savage Songs, as well as being treated to power rock nights.

Top flamenco in Almuñecar

A SHORT festival of flamenco which has visited Motril and Salobreña comes to a triumphant end at the El Majuelo Park in Almuñecar on Saturday.

The headliners will be singer Marina Heredia and pianist Dorantes who will be playing numbers from their highly acclaimed production Esencias without Walls, which has had critics comparing the pianist and his work to that of guitar maestro Paco de Lucia.

Also on the bill will be dancer Farruquito - who after being sent to jail. convicted of manslaughter - returned to the stage and regained his crown as one of flamenco's greatest dancers in 2010.

Tickets for the event cost  $\in$  18 and  $\in$  20 and can be purchased at https://www.re dentradas.com.

Eat Well to Live Well by Andrew Harding

THIS week I will discuss vitamin B complex. It is complex because there are more than one, but less than 12, which is the largest numeral ascribed to a B vitamin.

The first B vitamin to be discovered was called 'water-soluble B.' That meant that it was only the second vitamin ever identified (the first was fat-soluble A). Riboflavin was discovered next, so water-soluble B became B1, and riboflavin became B2. The system began to get confusing in 1926, when researchers realised that vitamin B1, was actually two vitamins, thiamine and niacin. Thiamine kept the B1 name. B2 was already taken, so Niacin became B3.

As vitamin research continued, scientists found a number of substances they thought at first were new B vitamins. Some, however, turned out to be the same B's that had already been discovered, while others turned out not to be vitamins at all. These phantom B's are the missing numbers. To avoid confusion, scientists now prefer to use the B vitamin names instead of the numbers. There are no vitamins 4, 8, 10 and 11. I will split the B vitamins into fourparts; one this week and the rest over the

- cracking, dermatitis and anaemia. • This week's recipe: Italian Stewed Beef
- Serves 4
- 1 kg stewing beef, cubed 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 large onion, skinned and chopped
- 6 whole garlic cloves, skinned and
- chopped
  - 1 stick celery, sliced
  - 500 ml red wine
- 1 tin chopped tomatoes
- 4 whole bay leaves
- 1 tablespoon Italian dried herbs
- 2 whole beef stock cubes, crumbled
- 1. Place beef with the oil in a frying pan and fry to seal.

2. Add the onion, garlic and celery and contnue to fry for another two or three minutes

3. Add the red wine and simmer until the smell of alcohol has disappeared.

4. Pour into a slow cooker set on high and add the remaining ingredients.

5. Allow to cook for a minimum of three hours, ideally four to five.

6. Serve with ribbon pasta (tagliatelle, pappardelle, fettuccine, etc).

Hint: If you don't have a slow cooker, place in a lidded-casserole dish in the oven at 170 Celsius (Conventional)/ 160 Celsius (Fan).

That is just a brain dump of things that come to mind first. This list is increased and expanded on to severalhundred in the booklet How to Use Less Water in your Garden - a practical guide to water-wise Mediterraneanstyle gardening worldwide. This is available inexpensively from Amazon in English and Spanish.

Luckily many plants have a defence mechanism when the weather is very hot and slow down their activity with growth and flowering being reduced, except for true tropical and semi-tropical flowering plants and trees.

But even then most plants welcome shelter from the hottest suns in semi- or full shade for at least part of the day. Likewise so do humans, pets, insects and garden wildlife such as geckoes and frogs.

When we purchased our house we kept old trees and planted more, we maximised the use of the natural shade for part of the day on the north side and for much of the day on the western side. Likewise we now take maximum advantage of large trees on the eastern southern and western boundaries trailing climbers over pergolas or wires from trees to the house wall. With very few spots in the garden that are not in at least dappled shade for at least part of the day

Thinking about plantingup some areas of the garden, especially those which you see when resting or taking a siesta, with cooling plantings that are predominantly white, grey, blue and mauve as suggested in chapter 2.6 in 'Your Garden in Spain from planning to planting and maintenance.' This was chapter 4.17 in the earlier version of the book.

Possible plants include white and blue agapanthus, mauve tulbaghias, white flowering petunias, begonias, solanum, jasmine and roses, the grey foliage of echiums, lavenders, some gazanias and sages.

Likewise white walls, white plant pots, rocks in rockeries, areas of white stone chippings, light versus dark coloured paths and terraces and whitewashed trunks of citrus trees - which also helps to prevent them from splitting in the sun can help cool down the garden.

Lastly but not least, the sight and sound of water can be stimulating, soothing and cooling. A fountain can be purchased and immediately installed, but a pond with a fountain or cascading waterfall is a project for the winter - to be ready for next year.

Also a shower alongside a main pathway through the garden can provide a welcome cooling off and the draining water can keep a bed of canna lilies or comfrey happy all summer and autumn until autumn rains arrive

Space has run out but we hope some of the above tips help you enjoy your Spanish abode to the full and in the summer just rely on air conditioning and television.

Volkswagen Touareg has star power

WITH its starship looks and when fully kitted out with Volkswagen's Innovision Cockpit, the new Touareg is unlike anything else currently on sale.

It was always going to need to make a statement to grab the attention of buyers, its predecessor has been under siege from rivals for 15 years.

This new model shares its underpinnings with the Audi Q7, Bentley Bentayga and Lamborghini Urus, among others.

Longer and wider than before, albeit a fraction lower, this new Touareg looks like a beast on the road, with a grille that appears to stretch across its entire front.

Despite its size, the Touareg remains a fiveseater, meaning it lacks the versatility of a Q7 or Volvo XC90.

However, the five seats you do get are generously proportioned, with easily enough room for three adults to sit across the back, and ample headroom even with the enormous panoramic sunroof installed.

BEAST MODE: The Touareg combines power with style.

As with the smaller Tiguan, these rear seats slide fore and aft, and have adjustable backrests, all allowing you to trade some rear legroom for additional boot space.

The quality of the interior surpasses any other VW to date - with soft, smooth leather

At night the ambient lighting emits a gentle glow, and that the Touareg does all of this without any of the bling so often associated with these enormous SUVs is to VW's credit.

The 12-inch digital dials can display a full satnav map as well as the usual trip computer and audio controls, leading to an almost endless range of possible configurations.

Despite all the usual range of driving modes, the Touareg is at its best if you just leave everything in the default, normal setting.

It may be a two-ton SUV but if you put your foot down the 282bhp Touareg really goes, and the engine is well matched to the gearbox.

Volkswagen thinks it's got a class leader in its hands and if you value comfort and technology over a sporty drive or a posh logo, you may well agree.

A licence to sell

THE '2 GTO' licence plate could potentially be the most expensive ever to be sold in the UK. The registration plate could end up on a Ferrari 250 GTO, the most expensive car ever sold.

Once licensed to an Austin Healey 'Frogeye' Sprite, the '2 GTO' plate has belonged to the same owner since 1970. The iconic number plate has now been put up for auction with an official estimate of  $\notin$  225,000 to  $\notin$  337,000, however it may fetch much more.

Now retired, the owner prefers to remain anonymous but admits that the coveted plate has previously been used on ordinary, run of the mill cars.

At the moment the most expensive plate ever sold in the UK is '25 O,' registered to a  $\in$  11.25 million Ferrari 250 GT SWB in 2014, costing  $\in$  656,000.

The world's most expensive classic car to date is a 1963 model sold for €58 million last month.

Currently on sale for an asking price of  $\in$  16million is the 'F1' registration plate, licensed to a 2013 Bugatti Veyron, having been bought for  $\in$  422,000 from Essex Council in 2008.

Harley reinvents itself

MOTORBIKE makers Harley Davidson are reportedly hoping to broaden their appeal with a series of new models including a new electric bike.

The models, which include the LiveWire bike, are set for release in 2019. They come as the company has faced declining US sales in recent years.

Matt Levatich, the company's CEO, said Harley Davidson wanted to inspire future riders with the new models.

"We want to inspire those who haven't yet even thought about

www.abbeygateinsure.com

the thrill of riding, alongside our existing loyal riders, with the next revolution of two-wheeled freedom," he said.

Harley Davidson, whose motorbikes are known for their roaring, rumbling engines, said it plans to introduce the electric LiveWire bike to make riding easier. It will feature no clutch and no gears, the company added.

The firm said it planned to release 100 new motorcycles over the next 10 years and that it wanted to win over two million new riders to combat falling sales.

The LiveWire will be followed by more 'twist and go' electric two-wheelers over the next few years which will be lighter and smaller.

The company is set to continue making big bikes and its new models will include a more technology-advanced touring and cruiser motorcycle.

Harley-Davidson is developing smaller bikes with 250-500cc engines to make them more accessible to customers in Asia and India, where sales are rising.

A very well organised super cars event

S a general rule, the CCC of A tends to avoid static displays, preferring to get out on to the open road and enjoy the cars for the driving and the countryside. However, it's the exception that sometimes proves the rule, and the exception just recently was the Concours D'Elegance held at the Magna Cafe, near Marbella, and organised by Magna Supercars SL.

> The venue proved to be quite beautiful, using some of the golf course there behind the Cafe and proving perfect for a real Concours. The turnout on the day was extremely impressive with well over 100 cars of all types and sizes entering for the prestigious awards.

A panel of five judges presided over it all and these learned few included top motoring journalist Dr Ian Kuah and the CCCA's own former McLaren team manager, Jo Ramirez.

The event was really well organised and with more super-cars parked in one place than one could imagine. It was quite a feast for enthusiastic eyes! Ferraris by the score, Porsches, Maseratis, Mercedes and much more. Every marque provided something very rare, often exquisite and always hugely valuable. Sadly too many fabulous vehicles were present to list here, but we will try to show some photos on this page.

Participants were treated to some marvellous tapas, Champagnes, beers and wines and then, once judging was complete, a magnificent dinner was served 'al fresco' under the stars whilst the prizes were distributed. I am delighted to report that my lovely 1963 Jaguar Mk.2 was among the prize winners making the evening even sweeter than was expected!

THE CCCA had its 'Audience with' F1 night on Tuesday at Treetops restaurante in El Chaparral Golf which was a great success and, later this month, on the 24th, will be organising a Hog Roast near Entrerrios for members and their guests which should be fun.

However, this week 'Drive Andalucia' the Tours side of the CCC of A has announced its next big event, a seven-day Tour of some of the best mediaeval cities in Spain. The route will take in Cordoba, Caceres, Salamanca, Avila, Plasencia, Aracena and Ronda. Magnificent castles, palaces and five-star hotels will make up the night stops and the roads and scenery will be quite magnificent. Perfect for drivers and passengers alike! There will be a two-night stop in Salamanca to allow everyone a full day to see the sites of this magnificent city of educational and historic interest. There will be black tie dinners, cocktail parties and a great crowd of people. This event is open to others outside the CCCA bringing either a Classic, Sports or Prestige car.

The next CCCA Classic car run will be on Saturday and will start from Venta Peligrino, just above La Cañada, near Marbella. Cars to depart at11.00am. The finish will be in Mijas Costa.

That's it for this week,

Further information on Classic Car Club of Andalucia events can be found on the Club's website www.cccandalucia.com. Membership of this vibrant club is open to anyone owning a genuine classic car here in Spain. Saca tu coche clásico del garaje y diviértete con el.

Aguero gives Chelsea the Blues

SERGIO AGUERO scored both Manchester City's goals as the Premier League champions beat Chelsea to win the Community Shield on a sweltering day at Wembley.

Aguero's first - his 200th goal for the club - came after 13 minutes, when he collected the ball on the edge of the area after Phil Foden surged forward, and fired into the bottom corner.

His second came after the break, when he latched on to Bernardo Silva's pass and beat Willy Caballero with another precise low finish.

Chelsea lacked a presence in attack and managed only one shot on target, a long range strike by 17-year-old Callum Hudson-Odoi.

Some of their lethargy going forward could be put down to the heat, which made it difficult for both sides to sustain any sort of tempo.

Players were allowed water breaks during the game and some substitutes had wet towels over their heads.

The Blues missed the creativity of Eden Hazard, but City were also without Kevin de Bruyne, Raheem Sterling and David Silva.

City's controlled performance secured their third piece of silverware in the past six months, and manager Pep Guardiola has emphasised that they are hungry for more.

Chelsea will face Huddersfield on Saturday, while City begin the defence of their Premier League crown at Arsenal on Sunday.

Peaty's record

GREAT BRITAIN'S Adam Peaty broke his own 100m breaststroke World record to retain his European title in Glasgow.

The 23-year-old Olympic and World Champion finished in 57 seconds - 0.13 seconds quicker than his previous best time - as teammate James Wilby grabbed silver following a late surge.

Peaty took a huge lead on the first 50m before pulling away further to win by 1.54secs from fellow Englishman Wilby.

"I can't believe I beat what I did at the Olympics," said Peaty.

"I was in perfect shape then, I'm not even in that good shape now. I didn't try to be in that good shape."

Britain also won gold in the mixed 4x100m medley relay, breaking the European record in the process.
